MISS MAUDE C. MAHL

Miss Maude C. Mahl of Round Pond, Me., sister of Mrs. Louis K. Snyder of 7 Manchester road and one of the first women to serve on the jury in Connecticut, died suddenly in her sleep at her sister's home on Tuesday, July 1. Though not robust in recent years, Miss Mahl had been in her usual health the day before her death and her sudden passing came as a shock to all who knew her.

Miss Mahl was the daughter of Charles and Anna M. (Ernestine) Mahl. She was born July 22, 1880, in St. Paul, Minn., but spent her early life in New York and Brooklyn, later living with her parents in Wethersfield, Conn. It was while there that Miss Mahl became one of the two first women to serve on a Connecticut jury. She was also while in Wethersfield a member of the County Y.W.C.A. and president of the Wethersfield League of Women Voters.

Miss Mahl made her home with her sister in Winchester for the past 18 years, though her summers were spent at Round Pond, Me. She was a member of the First Congregational Church, the Women's Association of that church and active in the church nursery for children of members of the choir. Her sister, Mrs. Snyder, is her only survivor.

Prayers were read Wednesday morning at Ripley Chapel of the First Congregational Church by the pastor, Dr. Dwight L. Cart, Dr. Cart also officiated at the funeral services Thursday afternoon at the Pratt Funeral Home in Hartford, Conn., and read the committal prayers in Spring Grove Cemetery, Hartford.

MAYNARD NAMED AREA CHAIRMAN FOR U. F.

John A. Maynard of Winchester has been appointed an area chairman for the 1958 United Fund Campaign. He will serve in the North Division of the Metropolitan Department.

He says, "I believe that most of our present day charities are desirable and many of them necessary. Since it is not only very expensive but also completely impossible for each to individually raise its own funds, there are only two alternative solutions to the problem of sustaining these charities. One is to allow government to assume all obligations. The other is to concentrate on a united, one-year, all out charitable giving effort. I prefer to work towards and assist in the latter method."

Senior staff engineer of the Boston Division of Minneapolis Honeywell Reg. Co. of Boston, he was graduated from M.I.T. He is a member of Delta Chi and Sigma Xi fraternities and served two tours of duty in the U. S. Navy.

Mr. Maynard has served for many years in former Red Feather Drives before the formation of the United Fund last year.

He and his wife reside with their two daughters at 15 Cabot street.

The United Fund Campaign gets underway this fall. Participating agencies include Red Feather, USO, Salvation Army, Red Cross, Greater Boston Diabetes Society, Myasthenia Gravis, Cerebral Palsy of South Shore, Arthritis and Rheumatism, Mental Health, and the Medical Foundation, Inc.

IMPROVEMENTS AT WINNING FARM

Friends of the Winning Farm Home at the Winchester, Lexington and Woburn line have effected some much-needed improvements there in recent weeks.

The exterior of the farm house has been painted and a partition has been removed so as to make the former living room-dining room area into one large room.

There has been a need in the past for a large room for indoor assemblies and other activities and the new room fills this need very nicely. "Al" Elliott, the "Homespun Boy," bossed the job.

WINCHESTER ATHLETE ENTERS WEST POINT

VINCENT E. MURPHY

Winchester athlete Vincent E. Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter A. Murphy of 28 Lloyd street, a former two-sport athlete at Winchester High School, left Tuesday for West Point where he will be a member of the United States Military Academy.

"Vinnie," as he is best known in Winchester, graduated from Winchester High School in the class of 1957, playing end on the football team and being a winning hurdler on the track team.

During his schoolboy days he had a Sunday paper route in the Wedgmore section and also was known to many as a clerk at McCormack's Apothecary. For two summers he was a lifeguard at the Winchester Boat Club, and last year was awarded a Red Cross scholarship to attend Aquatic School at Haverhill, returning to teach swimming at the club.

Last year "Vinnie" spent at Columbian Prep in Washington, following Joe Bellino, Frank Dattilo and Jim Cullen to the Navy preparatory school. For a time he planned to enter Annapolis, but more recently inclined toward West Point, taking the college board examinations which under a new West Point arrangement would qualify him for admission to the Academy.

"Vinnie" passed the college boards, and about three weeks ago passed the physical examinations necessary to become a cadet.

While at Columbian Prep "Vinnie" played on the varsity football team and in the basketball team, and was a member of the varsity tennis team.

With Joe Bellino given a great chance for a regular spot in the Annapolis line-up, Cullen and Murphy, in a West Point-Annapolis game, what a day that will be for Winchester. The line forms to the right.

Big Jim Cullen, who preceded Murphy to West Point, played regularly in the Plebe line last fall and has what it takes for varsity play.

Should he and Murphy live up to their football potential, we may yet see Bellino and Dattilo facing their former schoolmates, Cullen and Murphy, in a West Point-Annapolis game. What a day that will be for Winchester. The line forms to the right.

DR. DONALD HORLEY ON DRIVER PANEL

A plea for more rigid requirements for the vision of both the pleasure car operator and the commercial driver was voiced at the annual Commercial Vehicle Safety Seminar at the Commonwealth building recently.

Dr. Donald W. Horley, optometrist of Arlington, said that since vision plays such an important role in either causing or preventing motor car accidents, every effort to eliminate the visual causes of accidents should be made. "The present requirements for driver's vision in the Commonwealth are among the lowest in the United States and below minimum requirements for safe driving," said Dr. Horley. "Drivers are happy to cooperate when they know they have a deficiency, so there is no reason for concern that many would be eliminated from the highway. They would seek help, solve the problem, and get considerably more enjoyment from their driving." These persons depend on the public agencies to give sound guidance on what minimum standards should be.

Joined with Dr. Horley in the panel on Health Education for Driving Safety were Dr. Murray Rosenberg of M.I.T. and Dr. Ellen Roseley of Harvard. Their discussions considered physical and emotional factors in accidents.

Dr. Horley lives at 3 Webster street.

PLANNING BOARD SEEKS INFORMATION

The Planning Board has sent notices to all the town departments seeking information about their long-range requirements requiring capital expenditures.

In the past two often this information has been received by the Board during the last hectic days preceding the printing of the town report and preparation of the warrant.

It is the Planning Board's hope that earlier reports of the department's wishes will make it possible to study the requests more carefully in the light of doing first things first and thereby preventing undue rise in what is becoming an ever-increasing rate.

"MOTHERS OF THE YEAR"

Mothers' squad for the Mothers-Little League baseball game at Ginn Field last Sunday. The game ended in a 10-10 tie "of sorts."

On Sunday afternoon, June 29, the annual Little League Mothers and Sons baseball game was played before a large and enthusiastic crowd on Ginn Field. The game ended in a questionable 10-10 tie, with both sides disputing the final figures. Baseball ethics and the rules of the game sat lightly on the management of both the moms and small fry.

The weather was hot and so were the bats. The "Sad Sacks" piled up a very impressive lead in the first two innings under the expert coaching of Betty Choate, but just as it looked like a walk-away for the mothers the small fry came to life under the roving of their coach, "Hustlin' Hal" Lewis.

Before the moms could realize what was happening their commanding lead had dwindled to a mere 9-6, hardly a sufficient backlog in Little League ball.

The "Sacks" co-managers, Alice Doherty and Connie Snelling, had a trick or two left up their little sleeves, however, and at this point called upon their secret weapon, ace pinch hitter, "Bess Truman" Pywell.

"Bess" strode to the plate looking a positive dream in a balloon sack, and was followed by a second pinch hitter, "Trader" Horn, also charmingly attired in a sack.

Seeing the way things were going, and appreciating the subtlety of the moms' strategy, the Machiavellian Mr. Lewis decided to fight fire with fire!

Calling time, he executed an effective, if somewhat illegal maneuver, placing his entire squad upon the diamond benchwarmers and all the players being equally divided between the infield and outfield. Never were so many little people seen in one place since the Pygmies tied up Gulliver.

The grandstand erupted into confusion, and after six hectic innings the game was called before actual mayhem was committed with the count knotted at 10 runs apiece.

The moms are most indebted to all the dads who coached and risked their lives as umpires, who did the announcing and kept the score. The gals who worked on the refreshment stand, and did the collecting in the bleachers rate another big "thanks-a-million."

All in all the affair was most successful and both sides are looking ahead to next year's game.

BATES CITATION TO N.E.C.

The New England Council has been awarded a Bates College Citation for Distinguished Citizenship for its "outstanding" achievements and distinguished service to the community and our way of life.

BURDETT HONOR GRADUATE

Graduated with Honors at the 79th Annual Graduation Exercises of Burdett College held recently at John Hancock Hall, Boston, was Robert C. Deroo, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Deroo of 2 Dana avenue. Mr. Deroo majored in Accounting at the Burdett College School of Business Administration.

POSTAL CHANGES AND RATES

Effective July 1, 1958, unpaid and insufficiently prepaid mail will be rated the amount necessary for mailing plus a short paid charge of 5c. This will mean that no longer will a letter be held at the mailing office until postage is furnished. Also, should a person fail to put a stamp on a letter, he need no longer worry about it as it will reach its destination anyway (but of course, will have the 5c penalty charge.)

This pertains to Special Delivery or any other special services which the post office department furnishes. So if you should write "Special Delivery" on an envelope and put 2c in stamps, as the rate for Special Delivery is 3c, it would be rated as due 10c plus the penalty charge of 5c or a total of 15c due upon delivery.

First class mail which can not be delivered, will be returned to the sender with a charge of 5c. Therefore if a party has moved and left no address, the addressee will get the letter back, but will have to pay the penalty charge of 5c.

On August 1, 1958 (please note date), postage rates will increase. Letters will be 4c. Post cards and postal cards will be 3c. The rates on third-class mail is to be increased to 3c for the first two ounces and this rate will continue up to 16 oz. instead of present 8 oz.

NEW WING TO BE DEDICATED

His Excellency, Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, will come to Winchester on Saturday, July 12, for the dedication of the new wing of the Medical Missionaries of Mary at 1 Arlington street. The Archbishop will bless the building, and present also at the dedication will be the Mother Foundress of the order, Mother Mary Martin, who has come from Ireland especially for the occasion.

The Medical Missionaries of Mary came to Boston in 1930 and were first stationed on Commonwealth avenue in that city. In 1952 they moved to the former Jere Downs home on Arlington street, and since their occupancy of the beautiful estate, the number of American girls who wish to enter the community has grown so that it became necessary to enlarge the former building to accommodate them. This new wing will be dedicated next Saturday.

Since the Medical Missionaries of Mary were founded in 1937 their numbers have grown amazingly. These Sisters are trained as doctors, nurses, pharmacists, and in all branches of medical work for the foreign mission field.

Their 15 Mission Stations in East and West Africa where the Sisters carry out a complete medical program for the peoples of that country.

Since the Community was founded over a million sick people have been cared for, and among them thousands of leprosy patients have been nursed and cured.

In Winchester growing young Sisters are trained to be Sisters and later take up their professional training according to their individual aptitudes.

NEAR FATALITY AS CHILD SWALLOWS JOKE PILLS

Police learned Sunday of a near fatality resulting from the swallowing of joke pills by a 22-month-old Winchester child.

Robert G. Dunn of 6 Fernway reported to the police that his young son, Brian, became ill after swallowing three pills from a package of six bought by his brother, Kevin, 8, at a local store Wednesday, June 25. The pills were sold as the joke producer of a "snowstorm" when placed in the end of a cigar or cigarette. A white smoke and foamy substance resembling snow is given off when the cigar or cigarette is lighted.

The Dunn child was rushed to the Symmes Arlington Hospital when he was discovered in distress after swallowing the pills, and his stomach was pumped out. The family physician, Dr. David T. Casey of Arlington, had the pills analyzed at the Children's Hospital Medical Center, where the physician was told the pills are "deadly poison," as they contained methaldehyde.

The matter was brought to the attention of Middlesex County District Attorney James L. O'Dea, who issued a warning to local communities. He said that some of the packages containing the pills are marked, "Apt to be Poison," and notified the Food and Drug Division of the State Department of Public Health of the findings that the pills are poison.

Meanwhile, at the request of Police Chief Charles J. Harrold, the store where the pills were bought in Winchester took them from its shelves. Police in Arlington, Stoneham, Woburn and Medford, commenced making checks of stores after notification from District Attorney O'Dea.

ASKS WATER CURTAILMENT

Because of the excessive use of water stored in the Turkey Hill standpipe the MDC yesterday morning issued a request to residents of Lexington, Arlington and the West Side of Winchester to curtail the use of water.

As of Tuesday the level of water in the standpipe was at 47 feet, or about two-thirds the capacity of the standpipe. The water level dropped to 22 feet, with the water being used faster than the supply could be replenished.

If the voluntary curtailment of water by the residents of the Turkey Hill area is not effective, more drastic action will have to be taken.

EXHIBITING AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

Marion Pizzo, Paul O'Neil, James Barrow and Ellen Williams, all of the Lincoln School, are among the 31 Boston area youngsters exhibiting paintings at a special show in the Amory Coolidge Gallery of the Museum of Science through August 3.

The pictures were all inspired by visits to the Museum and are the best of some 500 submitted by fourth-through-ninth graders between January and June of this year.

WOBURN ASKS WINCHESTER FOR WATER

Mayor William G. Shaughnessy of Woburn has written the Board of Water Commissioners asking Winchester to make town water available to Woburn, and bring a severe water-pressure shortage existing in the Shaker Glen section of the Tanning City. Homes in this area have increased from 180 in 1952 to more than 1000 today.

In his letter the Mayor states that a Winchester hydrant on Ridge street and a Woburn hydrant on Waltham street are near enough together to make a possible transfer of water from the Winchester to the Woburn system at that point.

Mayor Shaughnessy in his letter proposed that Winchester determine if it could, and would deliver water to Woburn at the Ridge street location by means of a carefully controlled, visible, above-ground connection. He estimated the maximum amount of water to be so delivered as 150,000 gallons a day.

In reply to the Mayor's request the Water Commissioners point out that while supplying Woburn with the water requested would not at this time pose a supply problem for the town, there are other factors involved.

First of all, the water which it is proposed to deliver to Woburn is MDC water from the Turkey Hill standpipe, which Winchester Commissioners feel they have no right to deliver without the sanction of the MDC.

The Commissioners are also concerned with the possibility of a Winchester shortage in the west side district served by the Turkey Hill standpipe because the town is supplying water to Woburn.

As of Tuesday of this week both Winchester and the MDC were willing to grant Woburn's request for water. Since then the excessive use of water by Winchester residents served by the Turkey Hill standpipe had so reduced the supply that a further drain could be a serious problem.

Final decision in the matter of water for Woburn will have to await further developments in the Turkey Hill district.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of nylon organdy in a blue varying from the shade of the honor attendant's gown. They too, wore matching pearl-trimmed hats, and their colonial bouquets were of shell-pink roses and blue delphinium.

Mrs. Blanchard, mother of the bride, was gowned in powder blue lace and wore a matching hat and a matching hat with the crown encrusted with pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white delphinium and tiny shell-pink roses.

Chris Stamos of Endwell, N. Y., was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Charles Ingles of Peabody, Richard Ryan of Waltham and Russell Campbell and Michael Buras, both of Brighton.

After a wedding journey to Cape Cod and New Jersey, Mr. and Mrs. Stamos will make their home in Brighton.

The bride is a graduate of Marycliff Academy in the class of 1951, and of Regis College, class of 1955. Mr. Stamos, who is an accountant, graduated from Boston College with the class of 1954.

DRAPER, SEARS SEVEN YEARS IN WINCHESTER

Tuesday marked the beginning of the seventh year of Draper, Sears and Company's experiment of opening a branch office in Winchester to supply investment service to residents of Winchester and adjacent towns.

Except for the first year the offices have always been at the present address in the Winchester Star Building.

The firm itself is in its 61st year. It is a member of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges and an associate member of the American Exchange. It deals, as well, in mutual funds, municipal bonds, bank and insurance stocks and the multitude of unlisted securities which comprise the important over-the-counter market.

The local office is managed by John I. Donovan, a resident of Winchester for 18 years, who has been in the business for 32 years, all but 10 of them with Draper, Sears.

Associated with him are four salesmen. Three are local residents: Royce Handlett, Wade Grindle, and Ray Brown. The fourth is John J. Desmond, Jr., of Milton, former state commissioner of education who retired last year on reaching the statutory age limit.

The firm has always maintained a direct wire to its Boston office which enables it to provide prompt quotations on prices to its clients and the general public. Secretary at the local branch is Mrs. Eileen Callahan, who is about to begin her fourth year of efficiently and courteously serving the public.

WINCHESTER ARTIST TO EXHIBIT

Artist Marietta Barnes Cornwall of 57 Grove street will exhibit two paintings in the show that will take place August 18 to 23 in Salem in conjunction with the unique North Shore Arts Concert starring Elizabeth Jane Wheeler.

Following the week of painting, sculpture and poetry exhibitions the evening of the 23rd, Saturday, will climax the seven days of arts with the rarest and most beautiful concert possible, the Arts Concert. The North Shore Arts Concert will contain the entire opera by Bizet, "Carmen," with Elizabeth Jane Wheeler in the leading role. The company of singers will perform without costume. In place of the operatic backdrop, three artists on stage will create paintings from the inspiration of the music. Lastly, Robert L. Peters, a poet, will create verse from the emotional power of the song and the images of the spontaneous paintings. Neither painters nor poet will have rehearsed in any manner.

Mrs. Cornwall's portraits show the methods of the old masters. Her paintings were selected for the showing because of her gift of giving life to paint and character to the faces she captures in oil. Her portraits hang in many homes in Winchester.

O'HANLEY'S GRANDPARENTS OF TWINS

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. O'Hanley of 142 Arlington street became grandparents twice over Wednesday night when their daughter-in-law gave birth to twin girls at St. Mary's Hospital, Waterbury, Conn.

Mrs. O'Hanley is assistant manager of the Mystic Valley Gas Co., at the Malden office, and long prominent in local civic affairs.

The young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald P. O'Hanley, Jr., of Chelsea, Conn., also are the parents of a son, Ronald 3rd.

Mr. O'Hanley Jr., is advertising manager with the Scovill Manufacturing Co., Waterbury, Conn.

JOHN H. BENNETT

John H. (Harry) Bennett of 32 Forest street, a long time widely known resident of Winchester, died suddenly Friday morning, June 27, at the Winchester Hospital at the age of 73.

Mr. Bennett was the son of John W. and Margaret (Harrington) Bennett. He was born March 3, 1885, in Hartford, Conn., but had made Winchester his home for the past 55 years, taking an active part in the civic, fraternal and religious life of the community and enjoying a wide circle of friends.

As a young man Mr. Bennett worked for a time at Seller's Market, then located on Washington street near St. Mary's Church. Later for 25 years he was in the employ of the Sexton Can Company in Everett, retiring ten years ago. He continued active after his retirement, working for a time at the Hillside Paint & Wallpaper Company in the square and the Winchester Paint and Hardware Company on Washington street.

Mr. Bennett was actively identified with the Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus and was a member of St. Pius X. General Assembly Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus. He was also active in St. Mary's Holy Name Society and participated regularly in the activities of the Nocturnal Adoration Society at St. Clement's Shrine in Boston. For some years he attended the retreats held at Campion Hall, the Jesuit Retreat House in Andover, and he was active in promoting these retreats to other laymen.

Mr. Bennett's wife, the former Mary A. Novell, died December 25, 1957. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Alice G. Butler and Mrs. Margaret L. Stevens, both of Winchester, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren; also two brothers, William, of Holyoke, and Anthony Bennett of Clearwater, Fla.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church. The pastor, Rev. John M. Manion, was celebrant, Rev. Herbert K. A. Driscoll, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, was deacon, and Rev. Charles E. Anadore, subdeacon. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Leo O'Keefe, S.J., and Rev. Felix Talbot, S.J., representing Campion Hall.

Honorary bearers included a delegation of members from St. Pius X General Assembly, Fourth Degree, K. of C. and the following members of Winchester Council, 210, Walter True, Walter True, Jr., Vincent Erhard, James Costello, Henry Murray and William McGargle.

Interment was in Calvary Cemetery where Father Driscoll was assisted in reading the communal prayers by the other members of the clergy.

EDITORIAL

It is good to see the Board of Selectmen taking such a firm stand against the proposed erection of a large advertising billboard on upper Main street near the First National Store and reassuring to learn that there was only opposition to the sign at the hearing held by the Selectmen Monday evening. The Park Commissioners and Planning Board are backing the Selectmen's position and the community as a whole will be solidly behind its officials.

The Selectmen have covered the opposition to the erection of the billboard very completely in a letter addressed to the State Division of Outdoor Advertising. A copy of the letter was printed in last week's Star.

Basically, however, the opposition goes beyond the proposed erection of the billboard on Main street to billboards in general. Winchester does not want them, has never wanted them and has enacted by-laws against their erection insofar as it lies within the power of the town to prevent them.

Opposition for the moment centers on the proposed erection near Skillings road and the First National Store. A few years ago the town was equally opposed to some billboards it was proposed to erect further north on Main street near the Beggs and Cobb tannery. There have been other instances of concerted objection to billboards elsewhere in the community.

In the present instance that part of town in which it is proposed to erect a billboard is in a state of change. The town-naturally wants this change to be for the better, a development that will enhance the section in the vicinity of Skillings road. Adjacent park installations, the new First National and the new by-pass road have all been steps in the right direction. The erection of a billboard, especially one of the size proposed, would be a distinct step out of line.

FORESIGHT BETTER THAN HINDSIGHT

Editor of the Star:

I am enclosing a letter cut out of the Boston Herald of July 2, that your Winchester readers, as well as our Town officials, might find interesting.

It is very possible to foresee that in a few years from now, those towns north of Boston, not served by the M.T.A., may find themselves in the same predicament as the commuters of the old colony R.R. The old adage of foresight being better than hindsight, would certainly apply in this problem.

Daniel F. Barnard
6 Indian Hill road

To the Editor of the Herald:

The recent federal court action authorizing the closing of the Old Colony railroad line should bring home forcefully to officials in every non-M.T.A. city and town within the Boston 30-mile radius that further delay in the finding of a comprehensive solution to the metropolitan transportation problem is no longer possible.

It might be well for the citizens of the non-M.T.A. metropolitan cities and towns to inquire:

1—Is any review now being made by Town authorities of the past and pending proposals relative to M.T.A. extensions to the Town, or other public operations or subsidy of transit between the Town and Boston?

2—Does anyone in the Town Hall know which of these proposals would be best suited to the interests and needs of the Town financially, politically and economically?

3—If none of these proposals is advantageous, has anyone in the Town undertaken a study of possible alternatives which might be presented to the Legislature when the need arises?

4—What consultation, if any, is there between the Board of Selectmen, the Planning Board, the Finance Committee and civic and business groups of the Town on this score?

5—Is the town Government prepared to discuss the problem constructively with the Legislature's Metropolitan Transit Commission, the Special Commission on Railroads, and other State agencies who must come up with an answer soon?

A casual reading of the excellent Boston newspaper suggests that it is a wise town which prepares its case well.

Former Chairman Needham Taxpayers Study Comm., Former Executive Secretary, Spec. Com. on Structure of the State Govt.

REASONS DOMESTIC HELP IS HARD TO FIND!

Editor of the Star:

Some folks here in town wonder why they cannot get good reliable help in the domestic field.

I have been studying this problem, for a long time and find that lots of women who hire girls and women by the day expect them to clean upstairs and downstairs and do washing and ironing as well as care for children in eight hours when the house work has been permitted to pile up all week.

This cannot be done! How do folks expect girls and women to do all this in eight hours when all they can do, is care for their children? This is the reason good help is hard to find.

Another thing that is unjust is the employer's going away for the summer with no thought of how the girls and women they hire will earn a few dollars while they are gone. If people were thoughtful, they would make arrangements while they are away. Charity begins at home!

Some women will tell you to be ready for baby sitting at a certain time and you have your neck to be ready. They come after you an hour late, but you do not get paid for this hour! Is this fair? Or you may have plans to go somewhere, do they get home on time? Most do not! There is reason for poor help!

P.S.: Hourly pay should be $1.25. Most girls get $1.00 here in town and folks are shocked at this price; yet an evening's entertainment may cost $35 to $50, but no one objects to this price!

HAVE TO GO HALF WAY!

Editor of the Star:

I am extremely sorry that "Name Withheld" who wrote to the Star last week is leaving Winchester (and New England) with such an unhappy feeling.

This is a beautiful town, it has nice people in it, interesting activities going on, and it is a town that is always first to extend a helping hand to others. I am sorry this family did not find it so. And yet I cannot help feeling that "to be a neighbor you must first be a neighbor."

Most newcomers to Winchester find this a kind town, with kind people, and truly, I have never found it a town that first asked who you were, or what you were. If you can do your share in making the town what it is, and if you believe in your town and its people, I think you will find your town happy to have you in it!

I have never heard the question of church, college, home ownership, or children asked. I know that most people in Winchester will happily accept a newcomer for what he is. That is, if the newcomer will go half-way!

A New Englander is not unfriendly. He hesitates to push himself forward but he is always there, to help. And in all New England, I know there is no town as friendly and as willing to be neighborly as Winchester. I am sorry that this family left us not knowing the kind of people that are Winchester. But I still think you have to go halfway.

"FITZY"
(a tribute)

Editor of the Star:

Several years ago Bill Fitzgerald died, and we had lost a friend. Founder of Fitzgerald Auto Supply of Winchester, Fitzzy was endowed with a keen sense of business acumen, and was a self-made and successful man.

Although a little gruff on occasion, he had a heart of gold and always had an eye and an ear, a mind and a will for those less fortunate than himself. We are told he did a thousand good things unbeknown to but a few.

A sensible man, he faced reality, and was a daily communicant at Holy Mass. The beautiful statue over the entrance to the new Immaculate Conception Church is testimony of the love which he and his devoted wife had for their parish.

The nobility of his example as a Christian will long be remembered by those who knew him well.

We can be sure that he is now enjoying the good things which God has promised to those of us, who like Fitzzy, do his will.

ONLY FRIENDLY THING!

Editor of the Star:

I am a former resident of Winchester, now living in Florida. I am visiting in Cambridge right now.

Your paper has always interested me. I read it whenever I can. I think the only friendly thing in Winchester is the "Star," at least it was my only one while there.

I think one trouble with these Winchesterites, is that they are so impressed with their own importance, they think that newcomers just aren't important enough for them. If they would only take the time, they might find some are even more so.

A town is usually what the folks in it make it, so here's to you people really trying to make the newcomer feel welcome—important or otherwise. And you know making others feel at home really does make you a V.I.P.

Thanks for listening and again thanks for the "Star."

Also bringing out God's supreme power is this passage to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (228:25-27): "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

The Golden Text is from Revelation (15:4): "Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify the name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee."

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN PROSPER HOWARD

HOWARD — ANDREWS

At the Melrose Highlands Congregational Church last Saturday evening, June 14, Miss Emile Elizabeth Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Lane Andrews of 135 Porter street, Melrose, became the bride of Norman Prosper Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan F.
Howard of 22 Glen road. Dr. John J. Foster read the 8 o'clock service in a setting of candelabra and white bouquets touched with pink.

Miss Andrews was given in marriage by her father. She wore a blush pink gown having a beaded Chantilly lace bodice with Sabrina neck, cap sleeves and a princess waistline, and a full length tulle skirt with back sweep and so-folds of tulle over the hips caught in a small flat bustle back. Her blush pink fingertip veil was caught at a beaded Chantilly lace sweetheart can coming to a point on the forehead and she carried white gladioli with sprays of stephanotis centered with pink sweetheart roses.

Miss Judith Provandie of Melrose was maid of honor and Miss Janine Baker of Wakefield was flower girl. Bridesmaids were Miss Brenda Bell of Wakefield, Miss Brenda Monroe of Braintree and Miss Louise Lasserre of Reading, cousin of the bride.

The honor maid and bridesmaids wore white printed nylon oversleeved pink taffeta with square necklines and ballerina skirts having long pink panels in the back.
Streamers extended from bows at the waistline in back.

All the bridal attendants wore a complete circle of nose-length pink tulle with long pointed sleeves and a cascade bouquet of gerbera and vivid happiness roses. The bridesmaids carried similar bouquets combining gerbera with iris.

The flower girl wore a white nylon frock with pink daisies embroidered on the short skirt. She wore a headpiece of matching daisies carried in a basket of daisies, gerbera and roses.

Frank Carleton of South Dennis was Mr. Howard's best man, and usher was Gordon Andrews and Elmore Andrews of Melrose, brothers of the bride; Robert Derro and Philip Ives, both of Winchester.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church vestry, the bride and bridegroom seated in the front of the church, and the bridesmaids and honor attendant.

Mrs. Andrews, mother of the bride, wore a mauve lace sheath with a matching wide-brimmed hat of veiling, and a corsage of vivid happiness roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Howard, was gowned in a sheath of beige and white organza over blue taffeta. She wore a narrow lace headband with a short veil and a corsage of iris.

Mr. Howard and his bride went to Cape Cod for their honeymoon.
The bride is a graduate of Fisher Junior College and a member of Phi Theta Xi sorority. Mr. Howard, who is now attending graduate school, graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Shenrock Yacht Club in Rye, N. Y. Mrs.
Proctor wore a pink tulle sheath
with a matching wide-brimmed hat

PLAYGROUND NOTES

It is disappointing to say that too many youngsters who registered on opening day of the Playground Recreation Program have not been in attendance since registering. The instructors have attempted to please all who have been reporting and those that have been faithful have certainly left the play areas with a great deal of satisfaction. The facilities on the playgrounds are excellent and the instructors are prepared to please all but if the parents neglect to have their youngsters participate in a wholesome program then the purpose for such activities is lost. The supervision and materials for enjoyment are there so come and make the best of them. Come to the fields as long as you would like but come for a short time at least. Riding by the various neighborhoods one easily finds youngsters sitting on their doorsteps longing for something to do. Well you can find this enjoyable something to do if you attend the supervised fields for the day.

We are planning on a Beach Day for all participants in the playground program and if you do not make yourself known, how are we going to learn if you would like to go on the trip? We are also planning on a day in Fenway Park to cheer the Red Sox on but, again, if we don't see you how can we figure on your intentions of going to the Park?

The big day in the making is an "All Playground Day" when all youngsters, boys and girls, in Winchester will participate in the Boston Traveler Physical Fitness Program. On this day Director of the Winchester Playgrounds anticipates about 400 youngsters to participate in such activities as a "Little League" baseball game, a softball game for boys and girls, basketball accuracy throws, boys and girls relay races, sack races, three-legged races, backward running races, bean bag accuracy tosses, rubber horseshoe pitching, quoits, decorated bicycle parade, doll carriage parade, croquet and others. To top it off free refreshments will be served and awards will be presented to winners of various events. It will be a big day and a bigger day if all pitch in to take part. In the evening there will be an all-star softball and basketball game with teams being formed from the boys participating in the Town Softball and Basketball Leagues.

During the day there will also be a display of projects made in Arts and Crafts of the Playground Program headed by Betty Haggerty. In reference to this parents are urged to keep these articles brought home by their youngsters until they are called for, for the display. At present the youngsters show much desire in taking the article home and presenting them to their parents. During the Field Day Miss Haggerty will hold classes and demonstrate the making of various articles.

And mentioning Arts and Crafts the director Betty Haggerty had the several youngsters happily making pot holders, bracelets, lanyards, link belts and moccasins during the past week.

Playground instructor Nancy Davis, Mary Doherty, Joel Peckham and director Frank Provinzano offered many interesting activities such as dodge ball, lawn tennis, lawn bowling, horseshoes, croquet, Red Rover, softball, baseball, kickball, basketball and various tag games.

Supervised playgrounds for next week will be Leonard and Ginn Fields on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and Loring and West Side Fields on Tuesday and Thursday. The schedule for Arts and Crafts is as follows:

Monday, a. m. Leonard
Monday, p. m. Ginn
Tuesday, a. m. Loring
Tuesday, p. m. West Side
Wednesday, a. m. Leonard Wednesday, p. m. Ginn
Thursday, a. m. Loring
Thursday, p. m. West Side
Friday, a. m. Leonard Friday, p. m. Ginn

AMENDMENT TO ZONING BY-LAWS
TOWN OF WINCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTSADOPTED AT ANNUAL REPRESENTATIVE TOWN MEETING
MARCH 27, 1958

VOTED, That the zoning by-laws of the town be amended by making the following changes:

To amend Section 8A Area Regulations of the zoning by-laws by inserting at the end of the first unnumbered paragraph the following paragraph:

"Provided, however, that as to any lot shown upon a definitive subdivision plan which prior to February 4, 1957, shall have received the approval of the Planning Board of the Town, or upon a preliminary plan which prior to said date shall have received the approval of said Board and also upon a definitive plan not substantially different from such preliminary plan which shall subsequent to said date have received the approval of said Board the amendment adopted by the Town April 8, 1957, shall not be applicable, and any such lot shall be deemed in compliance with this section if it contains not less than 15,000 square feet and is not less than 100 feet wide."

To further amend Section 8A Area Regulations of the zoning by-laws by striking out from and including "adjoining areas" in line 13 of unnumbered paragraph 3 through and including "provided for such house" at the end of unnumbered paragraph 4 thereby striking out substantially the latter half of said unnumbered third paragraph and all of the unnumbered fourth paragraph and inserting in place thereof the following:

"(1) Adjoining areas have been previously developed by the construction of houses on lots generally containing less area, or width, or frontage than is prescribed by this section and the standard of the neighborhood so established does not reasonably require a subdivision of the applicant's land into lots containing the area, or width, or frontage hereby prescribed; or

(2) Lots as large as is hereby prescribed would not be readily salable and could not be economically or advantageously used for building purposes because of the proximity of the land to through ways bearing heavy traffic, or to a railroad, or because of other physical conditions or characteristics affecting it but not affecting generally the zoning district.

No lot on which a dwelling house is situated, whether heretofore or hereafter placed, shall be reduced in area or width, or frontage, if such lot has less area or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed, or if by such reduction it would have less area, or width, or frontage than is hereby prescribed, except in either case by taking by eminent domain or a conveyance for a public purpose; and in the event of such reduction in violation hereof, the house on such lot shall not be used until sufficient land is restored or added to said lot, so that it will have an area, width and frontage equal to its original area, width and frontage, or equal to the area width and frontage hereby required to be provided for such house."

So that said Section 8A shall, as amended, read as follows:

Section 8A. AREA REGULATIONS.

In any Single Residence District designated and marked "A" on the zoning map there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 20,000 square feet and not less than 120 feet wide; in any single residence district designated and marked "B" on the zoning map there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 15,000 square feet and not less than 100 feet wide; in all Single Residence Districts not so designated, there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 10,000 square feet and not less than 80 feet wide; in the General Residence Districts, there shall be provided for each single dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 6,500 square feet and not less than 65 feet wide, and for a dwelling house for more than one family to be housed on a lot containing not less than 3,750 square feet for each family accommodated therein and not less than 65 feet wide; and in all Single and General Residence Districts, no dwelling house shall hereafter be constructed on a lot which does not abut on at least one street for a distance of at least 50 feet. The purposes of this Section, lot width is to be measured through that part of the dwelling where the lot is narrowest.

Provided, however, that as to any lot shown upon a definitive subdivision plan which prior to February 4, 1957, shall have received the approval of the Planning Board of the Town, or upon a preliminary plan which prior to said date shall have received the approval of said Board and also upon a definitive plan not substantially different from such preliminary plan which shall subsequent to said date have received the approval of said Board the amendment adopted by the Town April 8, 1957, shall not be applicable, and any such lot shall be deemed in compliance with this section if it contains not less than 15,000 square feet and is not less than 100 feet wide.

Provided, however, that nothing contained in this Section shall prevent the construction or placing of any building on any lot having a smaller area, width, or frontage, if such lot on or subsequent to the effective date hereof did not adjoin other land of the same owner available for use in connection with said lot.

The Board of Appeals may make special exceptions to the provisions of this section by authorizing upon appeal, the granting of permits for the erection or placing of dwelling houses on lots of land containing less area or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed or, upon the written request of the owner of a parcel of land, by authorizing the Building Commissioner to grant permits from time to time for the erection or placing of dwelling houses upon subdivisions or any or all of the lots thereof, although containing less area or width or frontage, than is hereby prescribed, subject to such limitations of time and other conditions as it may impose, when after a public hearing, it shall find that: (1) Adjoining areas have been previously developed by the construction of houses on lots generally containing less area, or width, or frontage than is prescribed by this section and the standard of the neighborhood so established does not reasonably require a subdivision of the applicant's land into lots containing the area, or width or frontage hereby prescribed; or (2) lots as large as is hereby prescribed would not be readily salable and could not be economically or advantageously used for building purposes because of the proximity of the land to through ways bearing heavy traffic, or to a railroad, or because of other physical conditions or characteristics affecting it but not affecting generally the zoning district.

No lot on which a dwelling house is situated, whether heretofore or hereafter placed, shall be reduced in area or width or frontage, if such lot has less area, or width, or frontage than is hereby prescribed, or if by such reduction it would have less area, or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed, except in either case by taking by eminent domain or a conveyance for a public purpose; and in the event of such reduction in violation hereof, the house on such lot shall not be used until sufficient land is restored or added to said lot, so that it will have an area, width and frontage equal to its original area, width and frontage, or equal to the area, width and frontage hereby required to be provided for such house."

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an amendment to the Zoning By-Laws adopted by the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts, at an adjourned session of the Annual Representative Town Meeting of March 17, 1958, held on March 27, 1958, and approved by the Attorney General of Massachusetts on June 11, 1958.

M. D. C. IMPROVEMENTS
AT SANDY BEACH
EASE TRAFFIC DANGER

Improvements on the Mystic Valley parkway near Sandy Beach have been started by a contractor under the supervision of the Metropolitan District Commission. The work was started a month ago by a Watertown firm.

Some fill has been trucked in to the large plot of land between Sandy Beach and the Mystic Lake on the right side of the parkway. A section fronting on the parkway, 600 feet long by 60 feet wide has been filled in and black-topped to allow the parking of about 120 cars.

This parking area will relieve some of the danger caused by people parking cars on the opposite side of the Parkway and then crossing the busy roadway. A black-topped 20 foot roadway has been constructed in the rear of the lot which will provide additional parking facilities for about 30 cars close to the picnic grounds located on the hilly section of the lake shore.

Future plans call for additional recreational improvements on the large plot of land made from debris dredged from the lake in the 1930's.

JOHN VOLPE NAMED TO CONTRACTOR'S COMMITTEE

Responsibility for top leadership in the national campaign of the Associated General Contractors of America to promote greater efficiency and lower costs in the construction industry has been given to John A. Volpe, prominent building contractor, former Massachusetts Public Works Commissioner and former Federal Highway Administrator.

Volpe, who served as president of the AGC of Massachusetts in 1950, is president of the Malden and Washington construction firm bearing his name.

National president Fred W. Heldenfels, Jr., of Texas, has announced Volpe's appointment to the organization's executive committee. He is the first general contractor from New England to serve in that capacity for a great many years. He was also named chairman of the joint committee of the AGC with the Council of Mechanical Specialty Contracting Industries, Inc., organized last year to encourage better relations between general contractors and sub-contractors.

The committee likewise will study ways and means of effecting lower costs, and to promote positive steps in curbing the trend toward restrictive clauses in contracts.

Volpe's firm is currently engaged in building six major multi-million dollar projects in New England and another in the Washington area.

THE LICENSE YOU LOSE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Motorists using Massachusetts highways during the July Fourth holiday week end will be closely supervised for violations of traffic laws, rules, and regulations as officers of the state's combined enforcement agencies continue the Emergency Traffic Control Campaign declared a week ago.

Registrar Clement A. Riley, chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee, and Chief Joseph B. O'Kane, chairman of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association's Traffic and Safety Committee, have alerted every enforcement agency of the Commonwealth in this drastic crackdown on traffic violators. Any motorist booked for driving after drinking or speed too fast for conditions will lose his license. There will be no "fixing" of traffic tickets.

Slow down and live this week end. Reasonable driving will prevent accidents and save lives. The life and the license you save may be your own.

The cavalcade was led by a police escort with sirens screaming, followed by cars decked with Shaughnessy banners.

Ryerson, 23 New Meadows road. Hamburgers, hot dogs and the usual cookout appetizers were served and done full justice by the host and his guests.

Besides Bill's parents, his guests included Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Smith of Middlesex street, and their daughter, Beverly, the Ryersons' daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Conrad of Stoneham, and the Conrad's four children, Susan, Richard, Peter and Katie.

After the cookout family motion pictures were shown, the high light being very definitely a forgotten shot of "Bill" getting into his first automobile, a Ford, naturally, but quite different from his present snappy model.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

VOL. LXXVII NO. 43

THE WINCHESTER, MASS., STAR, FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1958

PRICE TEN CENTS

MAGUIRE — FITZGERALD

The marriage of Miss Sally Marie Fitzgerald, daughter of Mrs. Edward D. Fitzgerald of 60 Holland street, and the late Fire Captain Fitzgerald, to Thomas Edward Maguire, son of Mrs. Katherine Maguire of 18 Spring street, East Woburn, took place on Saturday morning, June 7, at St. Mary's Church. Spring bouquets of white and yellow roses with ivy decorated the altar for the 10 o'clock ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. John J. Murphy, S. J., of Boston College, who was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. Mrs. Marie Ryan played the bridal music.

Miss Fitzgerald was given in marriage by her uncle, James Fitzgerald, and had for her honor attendant, Mrs. Robert Sullivan, Jr., of Winchester.

Miss Kathy Maguire of Woburn, small niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Kimball and Miss Nancy Casoli, both of Winchester, and Miss Donna Fitzgerald of Roxbury, cousin of the bride. The bride wore a gown of silk organza edged at the neckline with Alencon lace and pearls, and with rosepoint appliques on the bouffant skirt and court train. Her French illusion veil was caught to a cap of silk organza and pearls, and she carried a spray of white roses and ivy.

The honor attendant wore a waltz-length dress of eyelet organza over yellow taffeta with a matching hat and carried a basket of daisies and ivy. The bridesmaids wore similarly styled dresses of eyelet organza over mint-green taffeta with matching hats and also carried baskets of daisies and ivy.

The flower girl wore a floor-length frock of yellow taffeta with a headpiece of daisies and carried a basket of ivy and daisies.

Edward D. Fitzgerald, Jr., of Winchester, brother of the bride, was best man, and ushering were George, Rooney, James Murray, and Robert Dunnigan, all of Woburn. Brian Julian of La Plata, Md., cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

A reception was held after the marriage at American Legion Hall in Woburn, the mothers of both the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, mother of the bride, wore a gown of ice-blue silk organza over taffeta with side panels of pearls and beads and an ice-blue picture hat. Her corsage was a white orchid, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Maguire, also wore a white orchid with her gown of gray lace over pink taffeta. Her hat was pink to match her dress.

Mr. and Mrs. Maguire went to Canada on their honeymoon and will make their home in Winchester. The bridegroom is employed by the United States Government as a fireman at Hanscom Air Force Base.

SWENSEN — SPEEDIE

There is Winchester interest in the recent marriage of Miss Constance E. Speedie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Speedie of Arlington to Oscar W. Swensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Walter Swensen, also of Arlington. The Rt. Rev. Frederic C. Lawrence read the marriage service at St. John's Episcopal Church in Arlington, assisted by the Rev. Halsey I. Andrews.

The bride, whose father formerly lived in Winchester, and whose grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Speedie, were for many years residents of Oxford street, graduated from the Forsyth School for Dental Hygienists. Mr. Swensen was graduated from Harvard College and is a senior at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge, where he and his bride will make their home.

YOUNG GIRL REPORTS ATTEMPTED PICK-UP NEAR WINTER POND

The mother of an eight-year-old girl alerted police Wednesday afternoon that her daughter had been offered a ride by a strange man while she was walking near Winter Pond.

She described the man as wearing a white shirt and a tie and said the car was blue and white. Officer John Reardon searched the area but was unable to locate anyone answering the description.

SHOOTING FIREWORKS ESCAPEDE RESULTS IN CAPTURE

Two boys who were shooting off fireworks last Monday night on Oxford street were picked up by the police. Fireworks are outlawed by both the state and the Town of Winchester.

Officers William Callahan and John McHugh picked the boys up and brought them to the station where Lt. Joseph Derry reported them and notified their parents.

After 33 Years Service

Fire Engine 3 Is Put Out To Pasture In Mentor, Ohio

After 33 years of service, Fire Engine 3 was retired on June 30 and put out to pasture on a farm in Ohio. The 1925 engine was bought by Royal Firman, Jr., of Mentor, Ohio, and taken to his farm there by truck.

Of the piston-pump type, the Ahrens Fox 750-gallon pumping engine was one of four bought in this area and of late it had been very difficult to get parts for it. The engine was made in Cincinnati, Ohio, and cost $12,500.

The engine will be replaced shortly by a 1000-gallon Mack engine which is expected to arrive some time in the early fall. Money for the new engine was voted by the town meeting last March. The new engine cost $17,972.

Engine 3 was serviceable right up to the end and it had been used at fires at the town dump. Its last big fire was the spectacular jet plane collision in January which set several houses on fire.

Since 1925 the engine has performed well for the town. Firefighters rate it as an engine "which does the town nothing." Fire Chief James E. Callahan is the only one of the original crew members still in active service.

It was on May 4, 1930, that a telephone call was received from Nashua, N. H., asking for some assistance by Winchester's pumping engine at the big fire which was raging in that city.

Ex-Fire Chief David H. DeCourcy was in charge of the fire department at that time. According to the town by-laws it was necessary for the department to secure approval of a member of the board of selectmen before taking a trip out of state. Selectman Walter Dotten gave his approval and joined the northward-bound crew of Chief DeCourcy, former Captain

PIKE — HOPKINS

At St. Andrews Episcopal Church in Wesley on Saturday afternoon, June 28, Miss Mary Stone Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Hopkins of 21 Ledgeways, Wesley Hills, was married to John Abbott Pike, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman F. Pike of 30 Arlington street. A small reception and luncheon followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Stone, was attended by her younger sister, Miss Margaret Hopkins, as bridesmaid, and by Jennie Sullivan, Jimmie Nolan and James Fitzgerald.

The wedding started at 6:20 p.m. and the crew was assigned to Main street in Nashua to protect a house fire and then went to a lumber yard. The engine and crew returned to Winchester the next morning. Engine 3 pumped ten hours.

Another "big one" for Engine 3 was the Andover and Lawrence flood on March 24, 1936. Engine 3 pumped 73½ hours to keep up the pressure for the water supply. Firefighters were at the town until March 28.

Engine 3 also did its share at the ice house fire on Massachusetts avenue in Arlington in 1930 and the more recent Winchester fires at the Lyceum Building, Bacon Felt Mill and others. In addition, Winchester fires the engine was used in other fires in surrounding towns. Winchester has mutual aid pacts with both Woburn and Arlington and soon will be connected to Stoneham, too.

The fire truck was a familiar sight to many with its big round silver ball on the front. Its last public appearance was at the Reading Lions and Chamber of Commerce parade, at which time Firefighter Robert Haggerty drove, accompanied by firefighters William O'Leary, David Dalton and Callman James Nolan.

READY NOW! NO CHEATIN'!

Competitors get ready for the watermelon-eating contest of Fourth of July games at Loring Avenue Field.

BABE RUTH TEAM READY FOR PLAYOFF SERIES

The first games of the Massachusetts State Tournament series in the four-state districts will start on Saturday, July 12, with Winchester in District IV meeting the strong Waterbury team at Manchester Field, 2 o'clock.

With seven or eight players from last year and the roster made up mostly of the past Little League All Stars, it is hoped that this may be the year to win the state championship and continue on to further laurels.

Manager Bill Cruwys and Coach Sam Bellino and Paul Corvino feel they have a well-balanced team, with good pitching and hitting, and should be on top.

If victorious each game, Winchester will meet either Belmont or First Religious Society of Newburyport at Manchester Field on Wednesday, July 16, 5:30 p.m., and either Lowell, Billerica or Newton on July 19, 2 o'clock, at Manchester Field.

Come out and see a good game and cheer the boys on.

WEST SIDE BURGLAR RECEIVES 3-5 YEARS IN PRISON

A Boston resident was sentenced to State Prison for 3 to 5 years on July 3 in Superior Court, East Cambridge, for breaking and entering the home of John E. Rines, 54 Everett avenue, on the night of January 22.

The long-drawn-out trial was followed closely by police officers, attorneys and others because of the highly technical nature of the evidence presented by authorities.

Officer John P. McHugh of Winchester furnished the clue which broke the case. While patrolling his beat on the West Side, he observed a parked car which aroused his suspicion and he noted the registration number. Shortly thereafter, the alert officer discovered the break at the Rines residence. The burglar jumped from a second-story window and escaped in his car.

Lieutenant Edward W. O'Connell, in charge at headquarters, dismissed Sergeant Edward F. Bowler and Officer John H. Boyle to Boston, where they apprehended the owner of the car, John D. Lawton of 316 Huntington avenue. Lawton denied being involved in the break. It developed that he had a previous record for burglary and had served time in State Prison.

For lack of an eye witness or a confession, it was found necessary to depend almost entirely upon scientific evidence. Sergeant Bowler, a graduate of the F.B.I. National Academy, was assigned by Chief Charles J. Harrold to conduct the investigation.

The sergeant enlisted the aid of a State Police chemist and conducted a crime scene search which brought to light shoe prints, paint particles and glass fragments which later were linked with the defendant.

An important feature of the trial was the presentation of photographs taken by Winchester Police Photographer William T. Haggerty. Officer Angelo Amico of the local department also testified at the trial.

Asst. District Attorney Joseph DeGuglielmo handled the prosecution and Judge Frank J. Donahue presided.

TWO BOYS PICKED UP DRIVING STOLEN CAR

The Winchester and Woburn police were led on a wild chase about 11:30 Wednesday night while they were trying to stop a stolen car.

The Woburn police radioed to Winchester asking for help in blocking the Woburn parkway at Pond street in order to stop the car. Sgt. Edward Bowler and Officer William Callahan immediately went to the section to help Woburn Officers Gray and Flaherty who were chasing the car.

The car entered Winchester by way of Pond street and Arlington road and turned down Woodside road. The men took up the chase behind the Woburn police at Chesterford and Woodside roads. The car, a Chevrolet convertible, made a right turn into Wildwood street, jumped the curb onto the lawn at 48 Wildwood street, home of C. W. Callahan, and two young men in the car ran off.

The Woburn police apprehended David Boynton, 19, of 59 Main street, Woburn, who was hiding in shrubbery at the corner of Harrison street. Winchester Police Officers Frank Tranchita and William Haggerty joined in the search.

Shortly afterward Sgt. Bowler and Officer Callahan caught Robert Little, 20, of Main street, Woburn, and turned him over to the Woburn police.

CAR WINDOW BROKEN BY RIFLE SHOT

A Ginn road resident notified the police last Saturday night that the rear window of his Cadillac had been broken by a rifle shot while he was driving through Symmes Corner.

He reported that he saw a young boy about 15 years old run down Grove street and he chased him but was unable to catch him. He said the boy was wearing dungarees, a pullover brown sweater with a stripe and sneakers.

He reported to police that his car window was completely shattered and he thought it must have been something stronger than an air rifle.

Patrol 52 with Officers John McHugh and William Callahan were sent to check the neighborhood.

Salaries of professional and technical personnel serving the blind are so inadequate as to make it possible for newcomers to consider acquiring the background and training needed to enter the field only at a great personal sacrifice, according to a report released by the American Foundation for the Blind.

LEGHORN NAMED
BRADLEY PRESIDENT

Kenneth M. Leghorn, a native of Winchester, has been appointed president of Bradley Container Corporation, a subsidiary of American Can Company.

Mr. Leghorn, who will make his headquarters in Maynard, has been president of Sun Tube Corporation, also an American Can subsidiary, since 1953. Sun Tube has plants in Hillsdale and Washington, N. J., and is a leading producer of collapsible metal tubes, aerosol valves and impact extrusions.

The new Bradley president was graduated from Winchester High School in 1937 and during World War II served for five years in the Army Air Corps with the rank of major. During a tour of duty in the Far East he was chief pilot of an air base in India and piloted transport planes "over the hump" to China.

Upon relief from active duty he completed his education at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1947, receiving a degree in business and engineering administration. He joined Sun Tube that year as an administrative assistant, becoming assistant to the president in 1951 and vice president in 1952.

Mr. Leghorn plans to move to the Maynard area from his present home in Berkeley Heights, N. J. He and Mrs. Leghorn are the parents of three daughters, Carleen, Susan and Christine.

IN GERMAN MANEUVER

PFC. Thomas A. Drohan, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Drohan of 6 Fenwick road, recently participated in an air transportation exercise conducted by the 8th Infantry Division near Wiesbaden, Germany.

An information specialist in Company C of the division's 5th Infantry, Drohan entered the Army in June 1957, completed basic training at Fort Riley, Kan., and arrived in Europe last January.

Drohan is a graduate of Winchester High School and of Boston College. In civilian life he was employed by the Boston Post.

ALISON HERSEY

CHOSEN FOR U. S. HOCKEY
TOUR

Winchester's Alison Hersey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldon B. Hersey of 29 Woodside road, has been chosen as a member of a team of American field hockey players who on July 10 will leave Idlewild Airport on a 6000-mile tour of South Africa and Southern Rhodesia, playing against top local and international teams on the way.

The 15-girl United States Field Hockey Association's touring team will be guests of the All-South Africa and Rhodesia Women's Hockey Association on the trip which will begin in Kimberly, South Africa, on July 19, and end in Cape Town August 30.

The strictly amateur team, composed of outstanding players chosen during the national tournament held at Vassar College last November, will travel with a visiting Scottish club and the All-South African team, playing matches against each other and against good local units.

A practice session in Johannesburg, games are scheduled in Kimberly, Potchefstroom, Pretoria, Johannesburg, Bulawayo, Pietermaritzburg, Durban, Bloemfontein, East London, Grahamstown, Port Elizabeth and Cape Town.

Alison Hersey, who is playing with the American team, has had a distinguished record in field hockey. She starred at the game while at Winchester High School, and after her graduation in 1954, was chosen for the All-Northeast team while at Northampton School. She has been chosen for this honorary team each year since 1954, as a freshman, sophomore and junior at Mt. Holyoke College.

As a sophomore at Mt. Holyoke in 1956, she was chosen as left inner on the United States Reserves, the second best field hockey team in the land, being the youngest player on the squad. Ordinarily college undergraduates are not selected for U. S. teams or for such honorary teams as the Northeast team, but Miss Hersey was elected for the fourth time as the result of the big hockey tournament at Vassar over last Thanksgiving. Last October she played against a Welsh women's team at Smith College.

Miss Hersey has played regularly with the Hampshire Field Hockey Association, and it has been as a result of her showing as a member of that team in the various U. S. tournaments that she has been chosen for membership on the Northeast team.

Now she has been chosen for the team of U. S. players to tour South Africa and Rhodesia this summer. With still another year as an undergraduate at Mt. Holyoke, she can tell what new hockey worlds she will conquer.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

FOURTH OF JULY EVENTS

After a nearly perfect forenoon (it lacked only the breeze needed for the scheduled ladies' sailing races), the skies clouded up and the outlook became quite discouraging.

However, the weatherman relented and satisfied himself with only a few occasional raindrops, just enough to dot the white paper tablecloths spread out on the thirty tables set up on the lawn.

Thus the water sports in the afternoon, the lobster supper at 6:30 p.m. and the square dance which followed all went off as scheduled and were much enjoyed by all.

Head life guard, Peter Coon, assisted by "Walt" Josephson, presided over some fifteen events in the water sports program with results as set forth below. During this program, the assistant life guard, Mrs. Edward Connolly, and Mollie Devaney watched over the smaller children in the water and on the beach.

The arrival of the serving tables of two steaming cauldrons of Mrs. Broder's fish chowder at 6:30 p.m. found a long line of hungry members and guests already lined up and waiting (more or less patiently).

Soon the lobster cutters were busy cutting and serving delicious 1 1/2-lb. lobsters fresh from the pot, some 280 of which were quickly and efficiently consumed.

Almost before the last slice of watermelon had disappeared, Mr. Baxter, square dance master, had set up his equipment on the black-top and the strains of the Good Night Waltz had just begun as the writer headed for home at about 10:45 p.m.

This most enjoyable affair was made possible by the cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Broder, club steward and stewardess, and the efforts of the following committee members and helpers:

Advisor—Weenie Pratt
Cooks—Daw Blamire and Walt Josephson

Lobster Cutters—John Powers, Dick Moriarty, Ted Shidler, Warren Dannenberg

During all the other activities of the Fourth, club members were quietly marking their ballots and casting them for a new staff of junior officers and directors. The results of this balloting were announced during the square dance as follows:

BOAT CLUB SAILING RESULTS

THREE RACES TO LEGERE

Tommy Legere, Jr., certainly had things pretty much his own way on the lake this week end, winning the single race on Saturday as well as the two Sunday races.

Peter Montminy took second place on Saturday, while Ivers was second in the first race on Sunday and Alderson second in the second race.

The turnabouts had two races on each day. On Saturday Durfee won the first race and slipped back to second place, behind Dannenberg in the second race. Harmon came in second in the first Saturday race.

Sunday Durfee repeated by taking first in the second race and second in the first race, won by Dannenberg, with Bartel taking second place in the second race, ahead of Dannenberg, and coming in third in the first race.

Regatta Notes

This week end will be a busy one at the club and on the lake with the sailing of the Mystic Lake Invitation Regatta. Snipes from a number of other fields are already signing up for this exciting event.

After a tune-up race at 10:30 Saturday forenoon, the real serious competition will be started at 1:30 p.m. with two races to be held, if wind conditions make it possible.

The third and final race will start at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday and immediately thereafter the awarding of trophies will take place on the clubhouse lawn.

The lake shore adjacent to the parkway makes an excellent place to view this interesting series of races. Why not come down and root for Winchester Boat Club sailors?

ST. MARY'S ENTERS CYO TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Nine stars and starlets seek titles and trophies for Saint Mary's in the Annual CYO Tennis Tournament at the Belmont Town Courts, scheduled for July 11-18. Top tennis talent from Essex, Middlesex, Norfolk, Suffolk, and Plymouth counties will compete.

If it wasn't for that out-of-state opportunity this summer, Ann Buross would be here to defend her championship among the girls in the Intermediate Class. However, her brother and sister, Allan and Patricia, have set out to follow in Ann's sneakers.

David Allen and Mary Ford hope to ace their way into being the King and Queen of mixed doubles. Last year they were runners-up. (Mary Ford, we must confess that she is a Melrose resident, was honored last week at Longwood in winning the New England singles championship.)

Winchester entries in the Intermediate Class are: Singles: Richard Smith, Edward McPartlin, Kathleen Doherty. Doubles: Richard Smith and David Allen, Mary Dowling and Kathleen Doherty. Mixed Doubles: Kathleen Doherty and Richard Smith.

Winchester entries in the Junior Class are: Singles: James Reid, Allan Buross, David Allen, Martha Brigham, Patricia Buross. Doubles: James Reid and Allan Buross. Mixed Doubles: David Allen and Mary Ford (Melrose), Allan Buross and Patricia Buross.

BOYS CAUSE DISTURBANCE ON WEST SIDE

In answer to complaints from residents of Pine, Dix and Church streets and Gleggarry of a noisy group of boys, police officers Richard Beaton and Roland Roy searched the area shortly after midnight. The officers apprehended the two boys, both 17 years old, who were around town every night late driving cars and generally looking for trouble. The boys were caught at the end of Lantern Lane where they went to avoid the police.

MOTOR STOLEN FROM EDGEWATER PLACE

Robert McLaughlin of 3 Edgewater place called police Sunday to report that sometime between 2 a. m. and 7 a. m. a motor had been stolen from his father's motor boat which was tied up at the rear of the house. The 45 hp. motor was blue and was worth about $600. The rope holding the boat was cut and the boat drifted away. The Metropolitan District Commission police who are in charge of the Mystic Lakes were notified.

WHS OCTETTE

BIDS FAREWELL TO EIGHT OF ITS MEMBERS

The above statement seems to contradict itself until we realize that this year the Winchester High "Octette" was made up of twelve girls instead of the customary eight. This number was reduced when, to everyone's regret, Gail Hendricks moved out of town.

The members of this year's Octette were as follows:
Cindy Dunn, Soprano
Ann Flaherty, Soprano
Judith Murray, Soprano
Janet Munro, Soprano
Betsey Bolster, Soprano
Helen Bolster, 2nd Soprano
Marilyn Snelling, 2nd Soprano
Irene Mullen, 2nd Soprano
Carolyn Parks, Alto
Lois Anderson, Alto
Marcia Scott, Alto

These members were not merely picked at random, but they had to undergo difficult voice tests, before any selection was made, to determine the ability of the person and what she would add to the group.

BEYOND PRICE

Many of today's "wonder drugs" are dispensed in small quantities because they are so effective that a little works a great deal of cure. While it may seem that you are getting a small amount of medicine for your money, you actually are buying faster relief from pain and swifter recovery from illness. Valued in these terms, prescribed medicine is truly beyond price yet it is priced within the means of all.

Being selected in one's Junior year is an honorable achievement, as in preceding years as many as twenty or thirty girls may try out for just one part alone. This means that out of about sixty-five girls, only eight are finalists.

Those chosen as Juniors who remained as this year's Octette were Carolyn Parks, Cindy Dunn and Helen Bolster. Marilyn Snelling and Betsey Bolster were also chosen in their senior year and, unless studies, these girls have had the pleasure of staying with the Octette for two consecutive years and have proved very capable in all ways.

Under the able leadership of Mr. Wendell Withington and music accompaniment of Joyce Connell, the girls began the year with preparation for the musical "Good News," in which they all took part. During the remainder of the year, they were busy appearing in the Annual Vaudeville Show, the Spring Concert, and the State Music Festival, where they won 1st prize. They also sang at the Home for Aged, the Congregational December Formal Dance, and several other functions.

Their last appearance of the year was Class Night where they left the halls echoing with sweet strains.

The eight girls of this year's graduating class are going on to join other choral groups where they will add to many well-trained voices like their own.

Lois Anderson heads for Colby where she eventually hopes to become a medical secretary. Carolyn Parks heads for Boston University School of Nursing and hopes at the end of four years to be a surgical nurse. Cindy Dunn aims for Middlebury and Marilyn Snelling heads for Colby Jr. Helen Bolster and Betsey Bolster will attend college also, the first to study commercial art and the latter to study nursing. Joyce Connell and Ann Flaherty also head for college. Joyce will continue her musical career and someday hopes to be a fine musician, not that she isn't already fine.

WHS is mighty proud of these girls who have represented it for two years, and they have left many hearty thanks to the people who have made up their audiences. Next year's Octette strives to do as well as this past year.

PRESENTED BY GROUP 20

A discount to all salesmen is being offered for the Group 20 production of Arthur Miller's classic American tragedy, "The Death of a Salesman" which opened at the amphitheatre on the Wellesley College Campus this week.

Any salesman in the New England area, or beyond, will receive a twenty per cent discount Monday through Thursday of this week and next, merely by identifying himself at the box-office, producer Alison Ridley of Group 20 announces, "Because they ought to see it," Miss Ridley says of the moving prize-winning drama.

Thomas Hill stars in the "Theatre on the Green" presentation as Willy Loman, a character who has already become a legendary figure in American literature, as a type of the travelling American salesman who has little to show, to himself or to his family, for a lifetime of labor and ambitions. Only at the end of his disconsolate life does Willy Loman realize that the devotion of his unpretentious wife is his only real claim to self-respect and dignity.

Satisfaction Far Beyond its Cost!

One Cadillac owner put it this way—

"I know," he said, "of no other investment a man can make that returns finer dividends than the purchase of a new Cadillac."

Consider, first of all, what a comparatively modest expenditure it requires to own and drive and enjoy the "car of cars" today.

A Cadillac is surprisingly reasonable in original cost—remarkably economical to maintain—and without rival in its resale value.

New Service of National Bank

Don Kent, WBZ Weatherman, Installs Weather Station Panel In Winchester National Bank

A new set of red, yellow and green lights has been added to the square. They are the lights on the new weather station panel installed Tuesday in the window of the Winchester National Bank. The red light signifies stormy weather, the green light fair weather and the yellow unsettled weather.

The weather panel was installed by Don Kent, WBZ weatherman, with a group of attentive adults and children watching. After indicating how the new panel works, Mr. Kent autographed pictures for those who braved the 95-degree temperature.

Installed as a public service of the Winchester National Bank, the panel enables passers-by to read the current temperature and observe the wind direction and velocity. Panels next to the instruments explain how and what each one records.

The temperature is read on a high-quality instrument which, though inside, shows the outside temperature. The temperature-sensing bulb is filled with mercury and is mounted about ten feet above the sidewalk. The temperature recorded is that outside the bank and may differ from other parts of town slightly.

The recording barometer, called the barograph, traces the rise and fall of pressure on a chart. The revolving drum is moved by a 7-day clock and a permanent record of pressure is made. In severe storms there will be very big changes in pressure and normally a fast change in pressure means strong winds while a nearly straight line showing little up or down tendency means little change. Occasionally Mr. Kent will call the bank to check on the readings in order to study where storm centers pass.

Winchester residents will no longer have to argue about the weather for they just glance at the instruments whenever they are in or near the bank. Unfortunately, the instruments only record the weather—they can't change it.

EDITORIALS

The police department reports one of the quietest Fourth's on record with no major accident of any kind over the week end.

Chief Harrold had the entire auxiliary police force on duty the night before the holiday and again on Sunday night. The Fourth and Saturday were so quiet this additional help was not needed.

The Winchester police, like those in other cities and towns of the commonwealth, were keeping a watchful eye on motorists as a part of the state's concerted attempt to keep highway fatalities at an absolute minimum. Here in town there were no serious violations of the motor vehicle laws and only a very few motorists sufficiently out of line to have their names taken for possible court or registry action.

The sight of uniformed officers at strategic points about town undoubtedly was a strong factor in promoting careful driving in Winchester, but in addition the repeated warning that police and motor vehicle inspectors would be on the lookout for driving violations helped a great deal, too. Many contend that the big hope for better driving lies in driver education, of which a warning of the probable result of bad driving may be considered an integral part.

People can drive sensibly and safely if they will! The Fourth in Winchester is sound backing for this statement. Unfortunately the possibility of punishment by law for bad driving seems still to be the principal deterrent, but there may come a time when people behind the wheels of automobiles come to realize that driving safely is best for them, too!

It has happened again in Winchester. On Wednesday a man attempted to get an eight-year-old girl into his automobile in the Woodside road area of the town, after first asking her about fishing in nearby Winter Pond.

The girl refused his invitation, and so far as the Star could learn there were no untoward advances made.

A description of the man was given the police, but a search of the neighborhood failed to locate him.

The girl accosted is to be praised for her good sense in not getting into the car, and her parents are to be commended for instructing their daughter to that end. All parents of young and teen-age girls should point out the danger of accepting rides, or other advances from strange men. Especially the parents of young girls should emphasize this point. Girls old enough to read the metropolitan newspapers should know better themselves!

The Planning Board does well to try to get as early in the year as possible information concerning the short and long-range needs of the various town departments requiring capital outlay.

By so doing the board can put together a long-range program of such expenditures and attempt at town meeting to get the voters to accept first things first.

In the past too often the Planning Board has learned of certain proposed departmental expenditures too late effectively to point out that good planning dictated foregoing some requests in the interest of others, more needed at the time or in the immediate future. Most departments naturally feel that their particular requests are the most necessary of all to the town.

It is the function of the Planning Board to fit capital outlay into an effective long-range planning picture. Its advice should be as important to the town as that of the Finance Committee.

The board will be materially assisted in attempting to advise the town in the matter of long-range spending if they know what requests for capital outlay are to be made soon enough to provide sufficient time for real deliberation on their necessity.

CLARENCE J. CHAMBERLAND

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO P. O. SUPERINTENDENT

Clarence J. Chamberland, acting superintendent of mails at the Winchester Post Office and a lifelong resident of this town, died suddenly Tuesday morning at his home, 51 Water street, following a heart attack with which he was stricken after he had arrived at the post office for work. He apparently recovered quickly and it was not believed the attack was serious. He was taken to his home where he died soon after his arrival.

Mr. Chamberland's sudden passing came as a severe shock to the entire community. He had seemed in his usual health when he arose in the morning, bought his morning paper at the store at the corner of Water street and reported for duty at the post office. His death followed by only three weeks that of his cousin, Dennis J. Collins, to whose position as superintendent of mails Mr. Chamberland had been appointed.

Born in Winchester, November 15, 1907, Mr. Chamberland was the son of Joseph and Mary (Lucy) Chamberland. He grew up in the North End, attended the Winchester schools and was graduated from Winchester High School in the class of 1926, captaining the baseball team in that year. Known familiarly as "Nip," he was popular with his fellow athletes and schoolmates generally, and this popularity continued in his adult life, a quiet but ready smile and a friendly manner endearing him to all with whom he came in contact.

After his graduation from high school Mr. Chamberland was for a time employed by Western Union. Later he was in the employ of the Boston brokerage house of Gunnett & Co. in Postoffice Square.

He was appointed a temporary carrier at the Winchester Post Office July 1, 1936, and became a regular carrier, December 1, 1941. Two years later, on May 16, he was transferred to a clerk at the local office and he remained in that capacity until June 14, 1958, when he was appointed acting superintendent of mails to succeed Mr. Collins, whose death occurred the day previous. He was popular alike with his associate postal workers and with the public he served.

Mr. Chamberland was a member of Winchester Council 210, Knights of Columbus; of the Immaculate Conception Holy Name Society and of the National Postal Association.

On April 15, 1934, Mr. Chamberland married Grace P. Connolly of Woburn, who survives with five daughters: Mrs. James Carroll, Joan, Lois, Sandra and Janet Chamberland, all of Winchester; also two brothers, Lawrence, of Winchester, and Walter Chamberland of Woburn.

The funeral was held this Friday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

MISS AURORA L. RONDINA

Miss Aurora L. Rondina of 121 Highland avenue, former secretary in the office of Dr. Milton J. Quinn, died Monday night, July 7, at the Winchester Hospital, following three weeks illness.

Miss Rondina was the daughter of Mrs. Amelia (Guidi), and the late Louis G. Rondina. She was born September 16, 1904, in Somerville, and spent her early life there, attending the Somerville schools.

In 1918 Miss Rondina came to Winchester with her parents and entered Winchester High School, from which she was graduated in the class of 1922. For nearly 14 years she was secretary in the office of Dr. Quinn, until her retirement about six weeks ago because of ill health.

She leaves her mother, and three brothers, Arthur L., of Winchester; Edmund P., of North Clarendon, Vt.; and Louis H. Rondina of Jaffrey, N. H.

The funeral was held this Friday morning from the M. G. Moffett Funeral Home, Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

MRS. MARY HOWE WOODS

Mrs. Mary Howe Woods, formerly of Lunenburg, died on Sunday, July 6, in Allentown, Penn., where her son, Arnold Woods, and daughter, Mrs. Marguerita Francis, also reside.

Committal services were held on Thursday at Wildwood Cemetery, the Reverend Robert Dale Richardson of Concord, pastor emeritus of the First Parish Unitarian Church of Medford, officiating.

Her family were former residents of Winchester. She was the niece of Henry and Nancy Symmes Howe, who gave to the town the land on which the junior high school now stands. Her father, George Howe, was employed by Briggs & Cobb until his health forced him to move to Lunenburg, where Mrs. Woods was born.

She graduated from the then co-educational Lawrence Academy in Groton in 1893 and taught school in Lunenburg until her marriage to Charles E. Woods, Dartmouth '88, the Lunenburg town doctor, who died thirteen years ago.

Mrs. Woods was a charter member of the Lunenburg Women's Club and a member of the D. A. R., as a descendant of Sarah Bradlee Fulton.

Besides her son and daughter, four grandsons and three great-grandchildren survive.

MRS. ETHEL M. TROOP

Mrs. Ethel M. Troop of 9 Elmwood avenue, widow of Lester W. Troop and mother advisor of Winchester Assembly, No. 50, Order of Rainbow for Girls, died suddenly Saturday morning, July 5, at the Winchester Hospital where on the previous Tuesday she had undergone an emergency operation. She was believed to be recovering nicely when she suffered a heart attack from which she failed to rally. Her sudden passing came as a severe shock to her family and many friends.

Mrs. Troop was born July 19, 1884, in Concord, N. H., the daughter of Asa and Mary Hammond, spending most of her early life in Concord and Amherst, N. H. She was twice married, her first husband, whom she married in the early nineties, being John McKinley of Manchester, N. H.

On June 8, 1910, she married Mr. Troop and they lived in Franklin, N. H., later residing in Ashland and finally in Falmouth, where Mr. Troop died in 1941. After her husband's death Mrs. Troop came to Winchester and had since made her home here, being widely known in Eastern Star, Rainbow and Grange circles.

Mrs. Troop was a member of Winchester Chapter, No. 75, Order of the Eastern Star, a member of Winchester Grange, No. 343; of Middlesex Essex Pomona Grange and of the State and National Grange. She had been for the past five years Mother Advisor of the Winchester Rainbow girls, was a member of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church and of the Women's Society for Christian Service.

While living in Falmouth Mrs. Troop held membership in Falmouth Rebekah Lodge, of which she was a past noble star, and she was also a member of the Cape Cod Noble Grands' Association.

Mrs. Troop leaves two daughters, Miss Marguerite H. Troop of Winchester and Mrs. Lawrence D. Rowe of Harrisburg, Pa.; a son, Harold H. McKinley of Winchester, eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Monday forenoon at the Bennett-Norris Chapel with the Rev. H. Newton Clay, pastor of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in the cemetery at Amherst, N. H.

MRS. ESTELLE GURNEY

Mrs. Estelle Gurney, wife of Walter F. Gurney of 78 Hemingway street, died Sunday night, July 6, at the Winchester Hospital after a three week illness that followed a long period of failing health.

Mrs. Gurney was the daughter of Wallace and Mary (Finley) Taylor. She was born Oct. 2, 1892, in New York City, and spent her early life there, later moving with her parents to Hamilton.

After her marriage Jan. 11, 1912, she and her husband came to Winchester, and had since made their home here in the North End section, residing on Hemingway street for the past 40 years.

Mrs. Gurney was a member of, and active in the Winchester Grange. She was also a member of the Second Congregational Church and a former member of the Bethany Society of this city.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Gurney leaves a daughter, Mrs. Francis

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The increase in attendance at the playgrounds was encouraging after the drop of the previous week. It is hoped that the increase will continue and it is up to you parents to urge your youngsters to attend for a wholesome summer of recreation. As you learned in last week's Star, the Winchester Summer Playground Program is participating in the Boston Traveler Youth Fitness Recreational Program which is taking place on Friday, July 25. You will be notified through this column later of the entire program for that day, but briefly there will be a softball and baseball game, a basketball game, croquet, horse-shoes, badminton, dodge ball, red rover, magic ball and kick ball on the morning's program. In the afternoon of the Field Day there will be all kinds of races, a doll carriage parade, bicycle parade, and circus parade, with awards being presented for every activity. There will also be ice cream for all present.

The program is a full one and one that will be a lot of fun. You mothers and dads are also in the plans, so get those joints loosened up. It's a day for fun, exercise and amusement for all.

Again we ask all you youngsters and parents and friends to attend to put this Field Day over the top. You'll enjoy it! The complete program will be printed in the near future but set aside July 25 now for a busy and exciting day.

During the past week youngsters attending the playgrounds enjoyed themselves in playing softball, baseball, basketball, croquet, whiffle ball, kickball, lawn bowling, magic ball, dodge ball, red rover, and various tag games.

The Arts and Crafts under Betty Haggerty's leadership went at a fast pace with the making of link holders, lanyards and bracelets.

It is again urged that these items made by the youngsters be saved for the Arts and Crafts display which is to be held on Field Day, July 25. It would be wise to have a name card attached to them in order to assure the return of the items to the proper persons.

The supervised fields for next week are Loring and West Side Fields on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, with Leonard and Ginn Fields open on Tuesday and Thursday.

Next week's schedule for Arts and Crafts follows:
Monday, Wednesday, Friday mornings—Loring Field
Monday, Wednesday, Friday afternoons—West Side Field
Tuesday and Thursday mornings—Leonard Field
Tuesday and Thursday afternoons—Ginn Field

Make use of the excellent facilities we have for a good summer of recreation and fun. Your able and eager playground instructors are Nancy Davis, Mary Doherty, Joel Peckham and Frank Provinzano.

And don't forget Field Day, July 25. Get your circus costume made now, give some thought to the decorations for your doll carriages and bicycles. Start now!

The American Foundation for the Blind in the last twelve months recorded 75 new titles on Talking Book long-playing records for the use of the blind. More than 2,500 different books are available for America's estimated 340,000 blind people, distributed by the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

TOWN OF WINCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTSADOPTED AT
MARCH 27, 1958

VOTED, That the zoning by-laws of the town be amended by making the following changes:

To amend Section 8A Area Regulations of the zoning by-laws by inserting at the end of the first unnumbered paragraph the following paragraph:

"Provided, however, that as to any lot shown upon a definitive subdivision plan which prior to February 4, 1957, shall have received the approval of the Planning Board of the Town, or upon a preliminary plan which prior to said date shall have received the approval of said Board and also upon a definitive plan not substantially different from such preliminary plan which shall subsequent to said date have received the approval of said Board the amendment adopted by the Town April 8, 1957, shall not be applicable, and any such lot shall be deemed in compliance with this section if it contains not less than 15,000 square feet and is not less than 120 feet wide."

To further amend Section 8A Area Regulations of the zoning by-laws by striking out from and including "adjoining areas" in line 13 of unnumbered paragraph 3 through and including "provided for such house" at the end of unnumbered paragraph 4 thereby striking out substantially the latter half of said unnumbered paragraph and all of the unnumbered fourth paragraph and inserting in place thereof the following:

"(1) Adjoining areas have been previously developed by the construction of houses on lots generally containing less area, or width, or frontage than is prescribed by this section and the standard of the neighborhood so established does not reasonably require a subdivision of the applicant's land into lots containing the area, or width, or frontage hereby prescribed; or

No lot on which a dwelling house is situated, whether heretofore or hereafter placed, shall be reduced in area or width, or frontage, if such lot has less area or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed, or if by such reduction it would have less area, or width, or frontage than is hereby prescribed, except in either case by taking by eminent domain or a conveyance for a public purpose; and in the event of such reduction in violation hereof, the house on such lot shall not be used until sufficient land is restored to said lot, so that it will have an area, width and frontage equal to its original area, width and frontage, or equal to the area width and frontage hereby required to be provided for such house."

So that said Section 8A shall, as amended, read as follows:

Section 8A. AREA REGULATIONS.

In any Single Residence District designated and marked "A" on the zoning map there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 20,000 square feet and not less than 120 feet wide; in any single residence district designated and marked "B" on the zoning map there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 15,000 feet and not less than 100 feet wide; in all Single Residence Districts not so designated, there shall be provided for each dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 10,000 square feet and not less than 80 feet wide; in the General Residence Districts, there shall be provided for each single dwelling house hereafter constructed a lot containing not less than 6,500 square feet and not less than 65 feet wide, and for a dwelling house for more than one family a lot containing not less than 2,750 square feet for each family accommodated therein and not less than 65 feet wide; and in all Single and General Residence Districts, no dwelling house shall hereafter be constructed on a lot which does not abut on at least one street for a distance of at least 50 feet. For the purposes of this Section, lot width is to be measured through that part of the dwelling where the lot is narrowest.

Provided, however, that as to any lot shown upon a definitive subdivision plan which prior to February 4, 1957, shall have received the approval of the Planning Board of the Town, or upon a preliminary plan which prior to said date shall have received the approval of said Board and also upon a definitive plan not substantially different from such preliminary plan which shall subsequent to said date have received the approval of said Board the amendment adopted by the Town April 8, 1957, shall not be applicable, and any such lot shall be deemed in compliance with this section if it contains not less than 15,000 square feet and is not less than 100 feet wide.

Provided, however, that nothing contained in this Section shall prevent the construction or placing of any building on any lot having a smaller area, width, or frontage, if such lot on or subsequent to the effective date hereof did not adjoin other land of the same owner available for use in connection with said lot.

The Board of Appeals may make special exceptions to the provisions of this section by authorizing, upon appeal, the granting of permits for the erection or placing of dwelling houses on lots of land containing less area or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed or, upon the written request of the owner of a parcel of land, by authorizing the Building Commissioner to grant permits from time to time for the erection or placing of dwelling houses upon subdivisions or any or all of the lots thereof, although containing less area or width or frontage, than is hereby prescribed, subject to such limitations of time and other conditions as it may impose, provided, however, after a public hearing, it shall find that—(1) Adjoining areas have been previously developed by the construction of houses on lots generally containing less area, or width, or frontage than is prescribed by this section and the standard of the neighborhood so established does not reasonably require a subdivision of the applicant's land into lots containing the area, or width, or frontage hereby prescribed; or (2) lots as large as is hereby prescribed would not be readily salable and could not be economically or advantageously used for building purposes because of the proximity of the land to through ways bearing heavy traffic, or to a railroad, or because of other physical conditions or characteristics affecting it but not affecting generally the zoning district.

No lot on which a dwelling house is situated, whether heretofore or hereafter placed, shall be reduced in area or width or frontage, if such lot has less area or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed, or if by such reduction it would have less area, or width or frontage than is hereby prescribed, except in either case by taking by eminent domain or a conveyance for a public purpose; and in the event of such reduction in violation hereof, the house on such lot shall not be used until sufficient land is restored or added to said lot, so that it will have an area, width and frontage equal to its original area, width and frontage, or equal to the area, width and frontage hereby required to be provided for such house.

The Planning Board on request of the Board of Appeals shall make a report to it, with recommendations, on the question of granting any application for special exceptions hereunder.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of an amendment to the Zoning By-Laws adopted by the Town of Winchester, Massachusetts, at an adjourned session of the Annual Representative Town Meeting of March 27, 1958, held on March 27, 1958, and approved by the Attorney General of Massachusetts on June 11, 1958.

STATE STUDENTS GOING TO OUT-OF-STATE COLLEGES

More Massachusetts undergraduates attend tax-supported colleges and universities in every other New England state than are enrolled from these states in Massachusetts public institutions.

Massachusetts also sends 11 times as many residents to tax-supported institutions outside New England as it educates in return.

These figures are based on a nationwide survey by the New England Board of Higher Education of undergraduates migrating during 1956-57 at public institutions of higher learning. These include state universities and teachers colleges, junior colleges and technical institutes.

Massachusetts showed these marked unbalances: 240 students went to and 19 came from Connecticut; 298 to and 2 from Maine; 464 to and 33 from New Hampshire; 97 to and 35 from Rhode Island; 217 to and 13 from Vermont; 1,515 to and 132 from outside New England. The total number of Massachusetts residents attending public institutions outside the state was 2,831; the number enrolled in similar institutions in Massachusetts was 234.

New England as a whole was an educational debtor, sending 2,321 outside the region to public institutions, enrolling only 1,983 students in return, a ratio of more than 3 to 2.

In 1956-57, 98% of the undergraduates enrolled in Massachusetts public colleges and universities were residents of the state. The percentages for the other five states were: Connecticut, 94%; Rhode Island, 89%; Maine, 85%; New Hampshire, 77%; and Vermont 57%.

"HIGH SCOUT ADVENTURE"

On the Fourth of July week end thirteen scouts and two leaders from Troop 12, St. Mary's Church, undertook a tremendous task. A climb to the summit of Mt. Washington, highest peak in the East, 6,288 feet above sea level, is a very difficult climb.

The hardy mountain climbers had planned and prepared for this trip by making pack frames, devices which have no equal for climbers.

The actual climb started Friday morning via the Great Gulf Trail. A stop for lunch was made, and the caravan continued until a half-way point was reached late in the afternoon. Camp was made at the Great Gulf Shelter, 3,288 feet up. Supper was prepared and served, and a good night's rest was in store.

Early Saturday morning the start was made for the summit via the Head Wall. The weary and hungry hikers reached the summit around noon. The boys had plenty of time to sight-see before the long trip down which began at 1:00 p.m. Base camp was reached at 7:00 p.m.

Camp was broken Sunday noon and the party headed back to Winchester with their spirits high and feet tired!

Scouts making the trip were: Tom Bates, Ed Croft, Robert Bates, John Oliver, Jack Kean, Larry Harrington, Ronald Thorne, John Cleary, Bill Schneider, George Murphy, Marv Walsh, Jim Donahue and David Hennessey.

Leaders were Tony Doyle, scoutmaster, and Tom Bates, assistant scoutmaster. Al Schneider was in charge of transportation.

SAVINGS BONDS TO ASP WORKERS

Employees of 13 A&P Food Stores operated by the company's Boston Unit have each been awarded a U. S. Savings Bond in a program designed to further improve courtesy and service.

Managers of winning stores received $100 bonds, full-time employees were given $50 bonds, and part-time clerks were awarded $25 bonds.

A total of 320 employees shared $12,000 in bonds distributed by the Boston Unit.

Over a three month period, all A&P Markets were rated on courtesy, service and general store operation.

More than 70 company supervisors and executives in A&P's New England Division followed a comprehensive rating system designed to assure fairness for both small and large stores. About 1400 employees in the divisional territory received bonds with a redemption value of $25,000.

The program serves to re-emphasize A&P's contention that courtesy and service are as important as quality merchandise and low prices.

IN DENMARK

On Wednesday, July 9, Mrs. Eleanor A. Thistlethwaite, music supervisor in the Winchester Junior High School, flew to Copenhagen, Denmark, where she will attend a conference of the International Society for Music Education July 31 to August 7, which is under the auspices of UNESCO and the Danish Ministry of Education. Mrs. Thistlethwaite is a charter member of the organization and was in Brussels and Bad-Aussee, Austria, in 1953 when the group was first organized. En route to Copenhagen, Mrs. Thistlethwaite will visit friends and relatives in London and will also stop off at the World's Fair in Brussels. For the coming school year of 1958-1959 Mrs. Thistlethwaite will be on sabbatical leave for graduate study at the Boston University School of Fine and Applied Arts.

FORMS PARTNERSHIP

A former Winchester resident, John D. Kettelle, Jr., has formed a partnership, Kettelle & Wagner, with office in Paoli, Penna., to do consulting in operations research and mathematics. Mr. Kettelle's partner is Daniel H. Wagner, formerly a fellow graduate student in Mathematics at Brown University.

Mr. Kettelle received his A. B. degree in Electronic Physics from Harvard College in 1945. At Brown University, he received his M. S. degree in Mathematics in 1949. His subsequent graduate work at Ohio State University was interrupted by a return to duty as a Lieutenant in submarines during the Korean conflict.

Upon being released from active duty, Kettelle joined the operations Research Group of the management consulting firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

During his three and one-half years with this group, he acted as a consultant to the management of several large industries throughout the country, on a variety of problems such as production scheduling, allocation of sales effort, and data handling.

Last summer Kettelle, who lived at 2 Calumet road, left Winchester to join the Special Products Division of the Burroughs Corporation Research Center, Paoli, Penna. His other research experience includes an oceanographic exploration of the Mid-Atlantic Ridge sponsored by the Geophysics Department of Columbia University. In 1950, and a mathematical study of injection sprays for jet propulsion with Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus, Ohio.

WISWELL CORINTHIAN WINNER

Byron Wiswell, who lived as a boy in Winchester on Fletcher street, and now lives in Marblehead sailed his "Goose" to a victory in the feature U.S. One Design division of last Saturday's open regatta of the Corinthian Yacht Club at Marblehead.

What is believed to be an all time record number of boats for a Marblehead championship race, exclusive of race week, competed. Wiswell won by a full minute over Bill Welch's "Nancy III," which sneaked into second place while the "Goose" and Bill Megowan's "Wind" were engaged in a ding dong battle for top honors. At no time were the boats more than 100 yards apart. For Wiswell it was his fourth victory in six races.

REP. HARRISON CHADWICK
WARNS OF PROBLEMS AHEAD

Representative Harrison Chadwick of Everett avenue, who has represented Winchester and Ward 1 in Woburn at the State House for the past twelve years, has filed papers with the Secretary of State for renomination.

In making his announcement, Mr. Chadwick says, "The problems of the next two years will be among the most grave ever to confront a legislative assembly in this Commonwealth. A majority of the voters has required the Legislature to furnish the people of Massachusetts with a vast number of ser-VICES, some of which carry very high price tags. "As a result, both industry and the private citizen are burdened with heavy taxation, and, furthermore, face the prospect of having to amortize a huge debt in the years to come.

"The truth of the matter is," continues Rep. Chadwick, "that the revenue structure of the Commonwealth is no longer able to support the load placed upon it, and our fiscal house has got to be put back in order.

"Experience, good judgment and courage will be necessary in large measure to achieve the sound reorganization that will balance our revenues and expenditures."

Rep. Chadwick concluded by saying, "During my years of service in the House of Representatives, I believe I have amply demonstrated my capacity to deal forcefully with problems of this magnitude.

"I have enjoyed serving my constituents in Winchester and Woburn and hope they will desire to extend my term of office. If re-elected, I shall do my best to give them effective representation."

WINCHESTER STILL HOLDS EDGE OVER 1957 IN HOME BUILDING ACTIVITY

By Ralph W. Hatch, Treasurer
Winchester Savings Bank

Home building in May showed a decline in Winchester, but the five month total is still ahead of last year with $847,500 in new home construction reported this year against $803,500 a year ago at this time. The May figure this year was $139,000 against $155,000 a year ago. Additions, alterations and repairs to all types of structures is considerably ahead of a year ago through the first five months with $63,075 through May this year compared with $33,800 a year ago in May. To complete the uptrend, the total amount of deeds and mortgages for the period through May 1958 in Winchester is 209 against 185 for the comparable period a year ago.

1958 Banner Savings Year

With national figures for the first five months of the year now available, one of the largest trade associations for savings institutions has gone on record, in its latest report, as expecting 1958 to be the greatest savings year in history for its members. Pointing out that it is impossible to predict all the variables in the savings picture, it still observed that the next seven months would have to show a drop of 7% in net receipts not to exceed the all-time high reached in 1956 with close to a 6 billion dollar increase by member institutions.

As we have pointed out repeatedly, savings banks do not remain inactive but, rather, go to work promptly in local payrolls for builders, carpenters, electricians and other community enterprises. In fact, housing of this nature is one of the country's standbys, and represents the nation's number one industry.

SUPERIOR LAUNDRY LAUNCHES BIGGEST SUMMER SALE IN 45 YEARS!

"We have decided," said Mr. John Campbell, President of Superior Laundry, "that now is the time to go all out and effect every possible saving for our customers, and their friends and neighbors in the twelve communities we serve."

"This business was founded in Cambridge in 1913 by my father, the late Fred H. Campbell, and we have grown to our present very substantial size because we have always stuck to three fundamentals. The first is quality; the next is service; and third comes economy."

Special Prices

Feature Summer Sale
All summer long you get 10% off on all orders of five dollars or more, no matter whether it is all laundry, all dry cleaning or some of both. Five men's shirts are laundered and finished at no charge with any 16 pound family bundle, known as the ECCO-for-economy bundle.

Or you can get five pounds of your bundle laundered at no extra charge if it weighs 24 pounds or more. Then on Thursdays you get 10% off on all orders; that is, on all regular two day service you get 10% off.

Another price special is on men's and boys' sport shirts. All summer you get them dry cleaned, finished beautifully, and returned on hangers for the same low price that Superior does its men's shirts, for only 25c. And this goes for women's and boys' blouses also for only 25c.

And the seventh price special is extra special because there's no price on it at all. In other words, Superior will Sanitone and finish any green dress without charge when accompanied by a dry cleaning order for a dollar fifty.

And you'd be surprised how many green gowns, skirts and dresses there are, willow green, Erin green, emerald green, grass green and just plain green, but they'll Sanitone them fresh, crisp and with that like new look without any charge during this memorable 45th anniversary summer sale.

"The ladies will appreciate the money-saving sale," Mr. Campbell says. "We figure summer is the time the lady of the house should keep cool and comfortable, avoid overstrain and fatigue."

"That's why we picked the summer time to celebrate our 45th year we have been taking the laundry and cleaning load off women's backs. As we've said for years, 'let us do it all.'"

Call UNiversity 4-1050 or drive into our large hot top parking area located at 625 Concord Avenue in Cambridge near the Fresh Pond outdoor theatre.

In the rehabilitation field persons working for the blind were paid less, on the average, than those serving other handicapped people, according to a report released by the American Foundation for the Blind.

QUICK WORK BY POLICE

Editor of the Star:
I want to thank the police for their courtesy and the way they came to my assistance on Wednesday.

We had been entertaining company from Quaker Town, Pa., and they left our home Wednesday noon headed for a trip through New Hampshire and Vermont. After they left we discovered they had left some of their things behind.

I immediately called the police and Officer Farrell at the desk issued a radio broadcast.

This resulted in our surprised friends being stopped in Billerica and sent back to Winchester.

They were delighted to get their things and surprised at the speed with which the police caught up with them. They add their thanks to mine and left town with a high opinion of our police.

NEW OWNER FOR KNIT SHOP

Patrons of the Knit Shop at 33 Thompson street will be pleased to learn that as Mrs. Clarence Whorf and Miss Adelaide Homer, former proprietors, leave the shop after nearly 20 years, the business is being taken over by Mrs. Warren Johnston, who has been for some time associated with the shop.

The Knit Shop has been a successful Winchester enterprise for many years. Started by Mrs. Robert MacArthur (Georgianna Waters), the shop was later conducted by Mrs. Thomas Cox (Flora Locke), and Mrs. Ernest Reiser (Barbara Waters). It was for a time located across Thompson street from its present location.

Mrs. Whorf and Miss Homer took over the business in 1941 and have conducted it from that time until July 1. The new owner, Mrs. Johnston, former home economics teacher at Winchester High School and long-time Winchester resident, announced the air conditioning and remodeling of the shop for the greater comfort and convenience of its patrons.

To gain the blessings promised by Christ Jesus, men must be willing to follow his example in daily life. This is the theme to be stressed in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament" which will be heard at Christian Science churches on Sunday.

From Galatians will be read the Golden Text (3:26,27): "Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

The Lesson-Sermon also includes this quotation from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise; else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

JAMES J. ROGERS

James J. Rogers of 10 Bridge street, a native of Winchester and veteran of World War I, died Sunday, July 13, at the Veterans Hospital in West Roxbury after a long period of failing health. Flags on the Common and town buildings were displayed at half staff in his honor.

Mr. Rogers was the son of Peter and Ellen (Collins) Rogers. He was born July 13, 1896, in Winchester and grew up in town, attending the Winchester schools. During World War I he served overseas as a member of Battery F, 301st Field Artillery of the 151st Brigade, 76th Division.

After his war service Mr. Rogers was in the employ of the Park Department. Given more opportunity to develop his skill he might have been quite a ballplayer, and for a time as a young man he played third base on one of the Winchester teams managed by the late Edward McKenzie.

Mr. Rogers was a member of St. Mary's Holy Name Society, a charter member of Aberjona Post 3719, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and a former member of Winchester Post, 37, the American Legion. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Manzie of Winchester, and a brother, William H. Rogers of Malden, formerly of this town.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with solemn requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church. Rev. Charles E. Anadore was celebrant. Rev. Martin J. Dolan, deacon and Rev. Robert J. Banks of the Immaculate Conception Church, subdeacon.

Military honors were accorded by Aberjona Post, V.F.W., a detachment of members attending the mass with the Post Colors and color guard. Bearers, all members of the Post, were John O'Melia, Frank Kelley, John Kelley, Andrew Dalton and George Foley.

Interment was in the family lot in Calvary Cemetery where three volleys were fired by a firing squad from the Boston Army Base and taps were blown by Buglers John McGinn and Francis Flahive of the Immaculate Conception Drum and Bugle Corps.

LAURA LEE CRENSHAW

Funeral services for Laura Lee Crenshaw, two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Crenshaw of 14 Gloucester street, Arlington, were held Tuesday afternoon in Cambridge with the Rev. Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in West Roxbury.

The youngster strayed from a cottage in Wakefield, N.H. last Saturday and was drowned in Pine River Pond. She and her parents were visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Crew of Newton and the girl had been playing on the front lawn of their summer cottage with her four-year-old cousin when she wandered off.

Laura Lee was baptised at the Crawford Memorial Church of which her parents are members.

PIERSALL VISITED WINCHESTER BOY

Jim Piersall, one of the greatest outfielders in baseball today, visited with Freddy Pulo of Stowell road, at the Children's Hospital last Tuesday morning.

Fred also has the bat with which Piersall won his first home run in Yankee Stadium.

The popular Red Sox star, escorted by Fred's dad, Alfred Pulo of Stowell road, visited each room of the sixth floor of the hospital and made the young patients happy answering questions and autographing their casts and books.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Planning October nuptials are Miss Jeanne M. Fallon and William J. Relfe, whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Fallon of Belmont.

Miss Fallon is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Country Day School in Newton and Barrat College of the Sacred Heart in Lake Forest, Ill. Mr. Relfe, son of Mrs. William F. Relfe of Chestnut Hill and the late Mr. Relfe, is an alumnus of the University of New Hampshire. Mr. Relfe is the manager of Filene's Winchester store.

When she returned to Ireland in 1925 Mary Martin presented to the Papal Nuncio in that country her plan for founding a medical mission order especially for African natives.

Since at that time the Catholic Church was wary about women engaging in obstetrics, it was not until 1936, after careful examination of all the factors involved, that the Vatican sanctioned her plan, and asked for Catholic women to dedicate their lives to medical mission work.

In the early part of the following year, the Medical Missionaries of Mary were founded officially, and Mother Mary Martin returned to Africa with her first two sisters.

Today the Medical Missionaries of Mary have in Africa training hospitals, clinics, field hospitals, leprosy settlements, and five schools in Nigeria for training African nurses. Since the order was founded the Medical Missionaries of Mary have treated more than one million African patients, more than one-third of whom have leprosy.

The order is composed principally of doctors and nurses, but also includes sisters engaged in ad-

Foundress from Ireland Present

Medical Missionaries Of Mary Dedicate Enlarged Novitiate

One of the most modern religious orders for women within the Catholic Church opened an enlarged novitiate in Winchester at the former Jere Downs estate on Arlington street, Saturday, July 12. Present at the dedication ceremonies was the foundress of the order, Mother Mary Martin of Drogheda, Ireland, who has seen her work grow from one small religious establishment in Africa, to what now numbers more than 21 houses in Europe, Africa and the United States.

The new novitiate, which will house 40 novices, is the American house of the Medical Missionaries of Mary, founded in Ireland in 1937. The 300 sisters of the order wear a habit unlike that of conventional religious habits, but almost identical to the uniform of Irish and British nurses.

His Excellency, Most Rev. Richard J. Cushing, Archbishop of Boston, officiated at the laying of the cornerstone and blessing of the new wing in the presence of church and lay dignitaries, members of the Medical Missionaries of Mary and friends of the order. The stone contained a strong box in which are vital records to be preserved for the life of the building.

In his dedicatory address the archbishop glorified the work of missionaries, and especially praised the services rendered humanity by the Medical Missionaries of Mary who have labored in the jungles of darkest Africa, among the lepers and with needy and sick people everywhere.

He challenged America to support this vital work, saying that people in plenty, lived of plenty, living in comfort, must take up the burden formerly borne gladly by the people of Europe, who because of economic reverses can no longer contribute to the support of the missionaries as they once did.

Present at the dedication ceremonies were friends from Winchester and all parts of Massachusetts, as well as Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, New England, Los Angeles, and even San Francisco. Reverend John Manion, pastor, Reverend Martin Dolan and Reverend Charles Anadore of St. Mary's Church were present at the dedication, as well as priests, Monsignor O'Gorman, St. Agnes, Arlington; Monsignor J. Garrity, St. Polycarpus, Somerville; and Monsignor W. Furlong, Our Lady's, Newton.

Mr. Gerard Woods, the Irish consul in Boston, spoke a few words to the group present.

The Medical Missionaries of Mary came to Winchester in 1952. The order was founded 21 years ago by Mother Mary Martin, the former Mary Martin of Dublin, an Irish nurse whose father, a Dublin lumber merchant, once employed Mary Talbot, now a candidate for sainthood.

In 1921 Mary Martin went as a nurse to Africa, where during the next four years she treated some of the most horrifying diseases known to man. While in Africa she was appalled by the spiraling death rate among the natives who died by the thousands of diseases, which, in many cases, could be prevented or cured by modern medicine.

Apparently the car had been pushed by someone as the front wheels had been braced against a large mound. The Ford was damaged on the front bumper and had a long scratch along one side. The Palmer's wooden fence and shrubbery were damaged.

GRADUATES FROM MT. AUBURN SCHOOL OF NURSING

Miss Genevieve Luongo graduated from the Mount Auburn School of Nursing in Cambridge, on June 24.

Miss Luongo is the daughter of the late Carmella and Emedio Luongo of Winchester. She makes her home with her sister, Mrs. Alexander Karmilla of Loring car. A reception was held in her honor at her home. It was well attended by friends and relatives who extended their good wishes for her success.

ATTENDED RED SOX GAME

ROTARY HELD ANNUAL TRIP WEDNESDAY

Thirty-five members of Winchester Rotary held their annual trip to a Red Sox night baseball game Wednesday evening, taking in the Red Sox-Kansas City Athletics contest, won by Boston, 5-2.

The party left the Common in a bus and made the trip without incident. At the game the Rotarians were pretty much on their own as far as expert baseball judgement was concerned. Neither Ernie Dade nor "Nick Fitt" being in the party, and Wade Grindle being so placed as to be of little value excepting to those actually adjacent to him.

Gordon Brennan had the well being of the group in mind, bringing along his radio so that those on the puzzled side could follow the game and know what was going on. This worked out fine until "Ab" Bradley was consumed during the game, making medical help more or less indicated, and probably the family bicarbonate of soda tin caught it when the boys got home.

No one got a souvenir of the game, but Freddy McCormack, the old high school southpaw first sacker, made a valiant effort to retrieve a foul ball that fell in the stands, only the thousand or so fans between him and the horsehide preventing him from taking it home to the kids.

The trip home was a happy one with Charlie Koch in charge of the impromptu entertainment. Many felt no planned show could have equalled the Rotary efforts.

Arriving home, tired, but happy they agreed that the trip was smoothly from porta to porta with much credit going to Jay Finn who was in charge of details.

LEAVES SISTER HERE

Mrs. Florence Goodwin Lane, 85, prominent resident of West Roxbury who died Tuesday, July 8, was the sister of Mrs. Nathaniel M. Nichols of 183 Mystic Valley Parkway. Funeral services were held Friday, July 11, at Gordon Chapel of the Old South Church in Boston.

Widow of Benjamin Clarke Lane, the deceased was a native of Somersworth, N. H., and a graduate of Boston University in the class of 1895.

Mrs. Lane was co-founder of the "Lark Club" of West Roxbury, member of the Massachusetts Society of the Education of University Women, Massachusetts Women's Home, Massachusetts Industrial Union, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, Alpha Phi sorority and a worker of the City Missionary Society.

For many years a member of Union Congregational Church of Boston, and more recently of the Old South Church in that city, she was active in the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts and the College Club of Boston.

Besides her sister in Winchester, Mrs. Lane leaves a daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Anderson of Greenfield, N. H., and four grandchildren.

BOY TURNS IN MONEY; COMMENDED BY POLICE

The second case of a boy finding money and reporting it to the police immediately was recorded this week when Frank Welch, 18, of Baldwin street came to the station to report a sum of money found in front of the Winchester National Bank.

Police Desk Officer James Farrell commended the boy for his honesty and told him that if the money was not claimed it would be turned over to him.

CAR PUSHED OVER BANKING ON MYOPIA HILL ROAD

Arthur Birnie of 9 Myopia Hill road called the police Saturday morning to report that his car had been damaged sometime the night before.

The car, a Ford Station wagon, was parked across the driveway at Mrs. Clara Palmer at 15 Myopia Hill road to stop motorists who were being detoured from Cambridge street because of the storm from using the driveway.

Mr. Birnie reported that he had left the car in gear with the brake on, windows closed and one door locked. Saturday morning he found the car over an incline in Mrs. Palmer's flower garden. The window was open, the car out of gear and the brake was off.

Apparently the car had been pushed by someone as the front wheels had been braced against a large mound. The Ford was damaged on the front bumper and had a long scratch along one side. The Palmer's wooden fence and shrubbery were damaged.

WILD THUNDERSTORM ON FRIDAY CAUSED LOCAL DAMAGE

The thunder and wind storm which struck Winchester last Friday at about 6:30 p.m. brought damage to many parts of Winchester and caused very hazardous driving while it was at its height.

Among the casualties of the storm were lightning damage to two houses, Jerry Nason's at 27 Onedia road which had its chimney toppled and two holes in the roof and at 11 Arlington street where lightning also hit the roof.

Bartholomew Sullivan of 36 Cambridge street called the police to report a tree and some live wires down near his house. Police officers John Boyle and William Beaton and auxiliary police went there and detoured traffic up Myopia Hill road and Robinson

Held for Grand Jury

Cambridge Pair Surprised At West Side Home

A 22-year-old Cambridge mother of three children and her 17-year-old brother were held in $2500 each by Justice William Henchey at the District Court in Woburn last Friday morning for appearance before the Grand Jury on the charge of breaking and entering a West Side home with intent to commit a felony.

The appearance of the pair in court was the result of a telephone call received at police headquarters Thursday afternoon, July 10, from Peter W. Cullen of 78 Woodside road, who asked that an officer be sent to his home at once.

Officers Andrew Crawford and John Reardon were dispatched in a cruiser to the Cullen home and there learned that the house had been entered by a youth who had joined a young woman outside the house and had fled with her through Ardley road, across the footpath into the pines on the West Side well field.

Mr. Cullen told the police he and his wife had arrived home shortly before 10 p.m. to find the house empty. They entered the house Mrs. Cullen surprised a youth of 17 or 18 years coming down the stairs from the second floor.

When asked what he was doing in the house he said he was after a drink of water for his sister. When he saw Mr. Cullen he ran from the house and joined a young woman further down the street, the pair subsequently making off toward the North End.

So far as could be ascertained from a quick check nothing was missing from the house though two of the upstairs rooms were ransacked.

The police took after the wanted pair, and soon apprehended them on Canal street in the North End awaiting a bus to get out of town. Officer John Reardon took them into custody.

Returned to headquarters, the pair were questioned by Chief Charles J. Harrold and Sergeant John J. Dolan.

Police say they admitted being at the Cullen home, and the youth said he had entered the house through a cellar window in search of money. They came to Winchester, they said, in search of work.

They told the police the young woman had remained on the porch of the Cullen home as a lookout while her brother entered the house. She signalled him upon the arrival of the Cullens and then left the premises.

Booked on the charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony they gave their names as Mrs. Maria O. Marquis of 43 Market street, Cambridge, and David D. Goodwin of 118 Pleasant street, Cambridge.

NATIONAL LEAGUE STARS MEET MEDFORD TEAM

The Winchester National League All Stars will meet the Wellington All Stars of Medford in the opening round of the Little League district playoffs Tuesday evening, June 22, at 6 o'clock at the MDC Field at the intersection of Mystic Valley Parkway and Winthrop Street in Medford.

This changes the Winchester Stars' original scheduling, which resulted in their drawing a bye for the opening round of district tournament play. Winchester was one of three teams to draw byes, and it wasn't until it was found that Wellington of Medford had not been included among the original tournament teams that it became necessary to change its status.

Through some misunderstanding the Medford team had not registered for the district playoffs. When it was finally decided to admit the Wellington stars it became necessary to secure a team for them to play.

The three bye teams were thrown in a hat and then drawn to meet the Medford nine. Winchester was the team drawn, and as a consequence the National Leagueurs will engage Wellington as stated above on July 22. Art Johns is manager of the National Leagueurs with Bud Boutwell as coach.

If Winchester gets by Wellington it will play again Thursday, July 24, at Ginn Field, meeting the winner of the first-round playoff game between the Winchester American League All Stars and Watertown Central.

BABE RUTH LEAGUE BEATS BELMONT 8-2

VANDY FRENCH BELTS TWO HOMERS

Playing their first game in the 1958 tournament series our Winchester Babe Ruth Tournament Team came from behind on Saturday, July 12th and beat the strong Watertown team, 8-7.

Arlanson started for Winchester but after giving up 4 runs on 5 hits, Bellino took over and trailing in the fourth 4 to 1, the first two batters, Bellino and DeMinico singled, Grinnell walked, Gay was hit by a pitched ball which scored Bellino, a fielders choice and DeMinico came in with the bases still loaded, French smashed a long homer over the center fielder for 4 runs, putting Winchester on top 7-4.

With Watertown scoring 2 in the 5th, another in the 7th, the large gathering of fans was looking for extra innings, but with one down, Vandy again unloaded with his second genuine homer. Knowlton's office, if the door had been open and put the game on ice.

Winchester played Belmont last Wednesday night.

K. COOK CAPTURES WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB SNIPE FLEET REGATTA

Brisk breezes, brilliant sailing, a beautiful banquet and bright sunshine made the annual Winchester Boat Club Snipe Fleet Regatta an outstanding affair. And best of all, for the first time in years, Winchester sailors dominated the racing.

The sailors who usually play the roles of the villains, the skillful skippers from Quassapaug, were on hand in full force, including their former national champion, Harry Allen, but the best they could do was capture third place.

The outstanding sailor of the regatta was undoubtedly Kenneth Cook, who sailed brilliantly and boldly and who, in spite of some of the most heartbreaking luck he's fought back to win the title from teammate Herby Alderson. Joseph Walcott of Quassapaug finished third and was the only real threat to the winners.

Saturday afternoon two races were held in winds surpassing 20 miles an hour in gusts and that there were two upsets is a tribute to the ability of all the skippers who were participating.

In the first race, Ken Cook took off like a scared rabbit and it was strictly no contest after that. A dandy duel for second developed, and Herby Alderson finally worked his way through the fleet to finish second and Joe Walcott of Quassapaug finished third.

In the second race, Tommy Legere and Walcott were locked in a thriller all the way. Walcott split tacks with Tommy at the start of the second lap to gain a slight lead and by very clever cutting man, Legere to protect his lead to the finish. Rodney Long finished third.

Sunday morning's racing conditions can be described in only one word, brutal. So light and so varied were the oh, so gentle breezes that for 15 or 20 minutes at a time not a single one of the 28 boats even moved.

Actually the race started in a fairly good breeze and Ken Cook demonstrated his skill and daring by crossing the bows of the entire fleet on the port tack and getting away with it. While every other skipper chose the starboard tack start, Ken took the gamble and it paid off handsomely. In the first few minutes of the race he built a commanding lead but then the wind started to do its tricks.

While Cook sat in a calm spot, every single boat in the fleet swept down on him and passed him. As a matter of fact he was the last boat to round the second marker. Not only did Ken lose the lead to the vagaries of the wind but Jim Snow, Tom Legere, Joe Walcott, Carl Freyer, Harry Allen, Rodney Long and Chipper Mead all held the lead at one time or another only to lose it because of wind shifts.

While all this was going on, Cook was working his way up through the fleet and finally, half way through the third and final lap, he was leading the way again. You'd think the gods of the winds would have let it go at that but he was due for other frustrations. First Rodney Long swept by him along with four or five other boats and 100 yards from the finish line Cook was about six boats back.

And then came the only break he'd gotten all day. He and Alderson were side by side near the shore and a barely perceptible puff picked up Herby and swept him past Cook, but at the last moment it decided to take Ken along, too. While the other boats sat, Herby and Cook drifted gently by to cross the finish line. And Cook with a first, second and a fourth earned his well-deserved victory.

REUNION AT DRUM

The two weeks Pentomic training which the 94th Infantry Division has been receiving at Fort Drum, N. Y., served as the occasion for a reunion between the Palladino brothers, Major General Ralph A. Palladino, chief of the nation's Reserve, and Master Sgt. Ray Palladino of Mansfield.

General Palladino, whose Winchester home is at 19 North Gate-way, formerly commanded the 94th Division, largest in New England, before he was promoted to chief of Reserve and moved to Washington. A career man, his rise to the rank of major general is something of which the Army is justly proud.

BIG FIELD DAY

(Traveler Caravan)

As has been mentioned for the past two weeks in this column, the Winchester Park Department is participating in the Boston Traveler Recreation and Youth Fitness Program.

Winchester's big day is next Friday, July 25, from 9:00-12:00 and 1:30-5:00. The Park Department and director of playgrounds anticipate hundreds to take part in this varied program of fun and more fun. We are one of twenty-three communities in the state to be selected as a part of the Traveler Caravan, so let's get on it and overload it.

The program has been arranged to make it as convenient as possible for all concerned and we urge you very strongly to be a part of this form of activity. By all means let's live up to the standards set by these cities and towns which already have had their days, as you have probably read in the Traveler. There will be Traveler awards and free ice cream, so be on hand at Ginn Field on the 25th.

For the morning Director Frank Provinzano has arranged a general playground activity program from 9:00-12:00 noon which will consist of a baseball game for boys, softball game for girls, basketball game, quoits, horseshoes, badminton, dodge ball, croquet, bean bag tossing, tag games, baseball accuracy throws and a display of arts and crafts projects that youngsters have made at the various fields. The display will be open all day. All of the above-mentioned will take place simultaneously as there is ample space, since the whole affair will be held at Ginn Field.

The morning part of the program will conclude at noon and lunch on the field or at home will be optional. You are more than welcome to have a picnic on the area if you so desire.

Other events have been arranged in the afternoon and all activities in the afternoon will end up with winners in each activity. The winners will receive awards from the Boston Traveler.

Due to the fact that some activities will be delicate ones, Director Provinzano has arranged to have these in the first part of the afternoon program.

It is felt that the first afternoon activities will take some time to prepare for and to cause as little discomfort as possible, we plan to have these activities as soon as possible.

To begin the afternoon part of the Caravan there will be a costume parade starting at 1:30. This is so arranged in order that those youngsters can rid themselves of the costumes and take part in the various races later. Three winners will be declared and there will be three winners selected as in each of the afternoon's activities.

Following the costume parade will be a doll carriage parade. Have you given thought as to how you can decorate them? If not, now is the time! Don't wait until the last minute. This activity is set aside for girls only but the costume parade is open to both boys and girls.

Then comes the bicycle parade. The girls will show their decorated bicycles first and the boys will follow, with three winners in each group. Again, have you thought about your decorations? Now is the time!

After the bicycle parade the races begin. There will be three winners for each race. The schedule for these races is as follows:

Much Ado About Men

By Jack Chitel

The year was 1928, and Uncle Laurie was driving his big square-top Essex that looked like a rolling greenhouse. Peering ahead, he saw Freeman Grimes walking along the sidewalk. Freeman was the picture of sartorial splendor, his white flannel trousers contrasting neatly with the blue blazer sport coat.

Free stepped along jauntily, humming a tune from "Blackbirds of 1928" that had to do with tiptoeing through someone's tulips. He thought well of himself and the world in general. In the sunshine of this summer day, made cool by a recent thunderstorm, he was off to visit his girl friend and spend a lazy Sunday afternoon at the seashore.

But lo! even before I could utter a warning, Uncle Laurie had stamped heavily on the gas pedal and the car veered over to the side of the road. The Essex splashed through a mud puddle in the gutter, and a black wave of muddy water cascaded over the horrified Freeman and his white flannel trousers.

Disaster had struck the debonaire, dashing Freeman, and he would go through life forever wary of mud puddles and cars with nuts at the wheel such as Uncle Laurie.

I am certainly not condoning Uncle Laurie's actions of that black day in Freeman's life 30 years ago. But, if it happened by mistake today, the remedy of wash-and-wear clothing would somewhat mollify the situation.

However, in those days it meant a trip to the dry cleaners for Freeman's trousers. Today, while inconvenienced, all he would have to do is wash the garments, hang them up to drip dry, and then wear them with only a slight touching up with a warm iron. For the dashing Freeman Grimes, wash-and-wear came 30 years too late.

OPEN FRIDAY EVENINGS TO 9

These activities close the day-time part of the program, but that's not all yet. In the evening Director Provinzano has arranged a softball and basketball game. The participants will be teams from the town's softball and basketball leagues which will start at 6:30. Both leagues have had some exciting games and if you have not seen them in action this is a good opportunity.

Well, there is your program. It is a lot of work and it certainly is hoped that Winchester's showing in the Traveler Caravan will be one of much praise.

BANK ADOPTS RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions on the death of Walter A. Redding of this town, former director, was recently adopted by the Melrose Cooperative Bank. It is reproduced for Mr. Redding's many friends in Winchester.

WALTER ADAMS REDDING

Born November 16, 1902

Departed: June 3, 1958

"Time has no limits—it has no beginning, it has no ending. We do not think of fifty-five short years in this world, but rather of a lifetime of accomplishment, rich in every manner."

"In describing Walter Redding we can only think of the word 'constant'. He was constant in his love for his family, his devotion to his friends and his application to his profession. His was indeed a full life, and it was an active life."

"In his every endeavor he was constant and thorough. His love for his wife, son and family, his affection for his friends, his civic activity and his application to his profession all reflect a serious intent of purpose far beyond that of the average person."

"We will miss his physical presence at our meetings, but his calm demeanor and sound advice will be remembered and influence our future actions."

"The whole plan of Walter Redding's professional life as a lawyer started in 1927 when he entered the law office of Honorable Claude L. Allen as a student, later attended and graduated from Northeastern University School of Law and was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1933. He continued his association with Mr. Allen and Honorable George L. Barnes in the practice of law, later becoming a partner with Mr. Allen in a happy, professional relationship, which lasted until Walter's death."

"His entire life followed this pattern. Whatever he started he started in 1927 when he entered the law office of Honorable Claude L. Allen as a student, later attended and graduated from Northeastern University School of Law and was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar in 1933. He continued his association with Mr. Allen and Honorable George L. Barnes in the practice of law, later becoming a partner with Mr. Allen in a happy, professional relationship, which lasted until Walter's death."

"May he walk with God until it is our privilege to join him."

Respectfully submitted:
Claude L. Allen, Chairman
Paul M. Dove
Ernest F. Perkins

MRS. HARRIET B. LOCKHART

Mrs. Harriet B. Lockhart, widow of George E. Lockhart and a former resident of Winchester, died early Wednesday, July 9, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Brondello, 6223 Seward Park avenue, Seattle, Washington.

During their 15 years in Winchester the Lockharts lived on Winthrop street, and later at 361 Main street. After her husband's death May 5, 1955, Mrs. Lockhart went to make her home with her daughter in Seattle.

Besides Mrs. Brondello, she leaves a son, G. Whitman Lockhart of Marblehead; a sister, Mrs. Mary Burnham of Woburn; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Mrs. Harold Wass, formerly of Winchester, died in Scarsdale, N. Y., in 1952.

"GIRL CRAZY" OPENING AT NORTH SHORE MUSIC THEATER

"Girl Crazy," George Gershwin's greatest musical comedy, opening at the North Shore Music Theater, Route 128 at Exit 9, Beverly, has a remarkable score that has remained fresh and singable ever since Gershwin himself conducted the opening night in 1930 that introduced Ethel Merman to Broadway. The ever-popular tunes, among them, "Bidin' My Time," "I Got Rhythm" and "Embraceable You," will be sung by an outstanding cast at Beverly, headed by Anne Jones, popular blonde heroine of this week's "Paint Your Wagon" in the Ginger Rodgers role, and Kelly Brown, starring Hollywood dancer, playing Danny.

Settings at the arena theater, which have ranged from Paris in the roaring twenties to California in the Gold Rush days, will be placed this time in Custerville, Arizona, where a New York millionaire playboy gets up a dude ranch. The leading roles are played by Anne Jones, who winds up running for mayor of Custerville, will be played by Colee Worth, who was one of the starred principals in the hit "Pajama Game" last season, Harrison Muller, the brilliant comedian and dancer who has been reminding North Shore audiences of Fred Astaire in his greatest days, will be playing the role of Danny's pal, Slick.

"Girl Crazy" opens on Monday, July 21 with a special performance in honor of Beverly Homecoming Week, and will play through Saturday, July 26.

"DOG DAYS ARE HERE"

Since man can remember, the hot, sultry, steam bath period common to July and August, has been designated as the "dog days." Nobody seems to know why.

At any rate, the Animal Rescue League of Boston has some advice for pet owners to keep their dogs comfortable during the "dog days."

The League says:

1. Keep fresh water available, don't let your dog get thirsty.
2. Feed him only one good meal a day.
3. Don't let him ride in your car with his head out the window, wind, dust and sun can damage his eyes.
4. Don't bathe your dog too often, it dries out his skin.
5. Your dog will be cooler with his own natural coat (which insulates him) than he will be if clipped short.
6. If on vacation in the country, don't let your city dog get mixed up with a porcupine or a skunk.
7. Both are bad news for city dogs.
8. Don't leave your dog in a closed, locked car parked in the sun. He could suffocate.

ZONTA CLUB

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With Your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

You have a miracle in your chest. From the cradle to the grave, this miracle outperforms the most complicated machines known to science, around the clock and around the calendar, responding to the most challenging of demands, resting only between beats.

This is your heart, a tremendously tough muscle about the size of your balled fist. It rests near your spine and on your diaphragm, and even in a big man it weighs less than a pound. In a 70-year lifetime it beats more than 2½ billion times, each hour circulating and recirculating your 11 pints of blood at the rate of 166 gallons. In a Biblical lifetime, it pumps more than 100 million gallons of blood, that fast-flowing river of life which bears food and oxygen through your system.

Your heart is a four-chambered pump which sends the blood along many miles of "roads," starting with the aorta at the top of the heart and working through smaller and smaller vessels to the capillaries, where nourishment seeps through the walls to feed the cells which keep you alive.

These red roads have several important stopoffs—among them a "restaurant," a reconstituting plant and a filtering station.

The blood starts its round trip at the right side of the heart. It goes first to the lungs, the "restaurant" where oxygen is taken on and carbon dioxide eliminated. It returns then to the left side of your heart, fully fueled and ready to start feeding your system.

Then the trip through the arteries get under way. Along the way, stops are made. For instance, in the liver and spleen the blood is monitored and waste is weeded out. In the kidney, the blood is separated and put together again, with waste fluid drawn off.

The return trip is made at a smaller pace, through your veins, and brings the blood back to the heart to start the whole cycle again.

The heart is the beginning and end of our existence. It is a living testimonial to the toughness of tissues, muscles, veins and arteries. It is a miracle that the human heart does as much—and as well—as it does.

FIRES

Thursday, July 10, A call at 3:55 p.m. reporting smoke coming from a chimney at 5 Alben street, home of Gus C. Larson who was away, brought out Engine 4, John Nash driving with Joseph Connolly and McElhinney and the rescue wagon driven by Robert Sullivan, Jr. They forced entrance to the house and found a defective oil burner had caused the trouble.

Friday, July 11, At 6:45 p.m. an electric range fire at 215 Forest street brought out Engine 2 with Henry O'Melia driving and Capt. Ignatius Amico and auxiliary Sherman Saltmarsh and the rescue truck with John Pearson driving. Everything was in order on arrival; apparently the lightning caused a flash of light which was mistaken for a short circuit.

At 7:45 Mrs. Paul Nason of 27 Oneida road called to report what appeared to be a house fire on Westland avenue near the corner of Oneida road. Box 572 was sounded from the station and Engine 2, Henry O'Melia driving with Capt. Ignatius Amico and John Horn; Engine 1, Robert Haggerty driving with Lt. Michael Connolly; the ladder truck with Francis Welch driving, the rescue truck with John Pearson driving and Chief James Callahan in the Chief's car responded. They forced entrance to the house and found that a power burner in the basement had flooded with fuel oil and was burning. On the way back to the station they noticed that lightning had struck the Nason house and the ladder truck went there to patch the holes in the roof.

Another call due to the storm was at 11 Arlington street at 7:10 p.m. Lightning had struck the roof of the house and firefighters patched it with tar paper.

Saturday, July 12, Mrs. James Kyrios of 21 Albamont road reported a fire in the oven of her kitchen range at 3:20 p.m. Engine 4, David Dalton driving with Walter Carroll and the rescue truck driven by John Wynn responded. They found the insulation on wires of the stove were burning.

RED CROSS NOTES

The Winchester Chapter is happy to welcome Mr. Charles Craven as the new treasurer as of July 1.

It is a treat to realize again the advantages of the new Chapter House, where the treasurer, too, finds desk room for his work.

At the same time also the Chapter wishes to pay tribute to the retiring treasurer, Mr. Roland Carter, who has been untiring in his efforts as treasurer the past year, during many changes and the acquiring of a new Chapter House.

Mr. Carter has served Red Cross as a director for many years and it was only because of the expiration of a term that the Chapter regretfully lost his services. It is confident, however, of having his continued loyalty and interest in the work of the Chapter, and is counting on his usual support.

The many volunteers carrying on the services of Red Cross these summer months have found the new Chapter House surprisingly cool and find the duties almost easy as they think back to the summer months of work in their rooms on the top floor of the town hall. Nevertheless the Chapter needs more volunteer workers in the motor corps, Gray Ladies, canteen, and staff aides. Call Winchester 6-2300.

How spiritual understanding of God as eternal life brings health and healing will be explained in Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon on "Life" include the account in John of Christ Jesus healing of the nobleman's son.

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy declares: "Jesus never asked if disease were acute or chronic, and he never recommended attention to laws of health, never gave drugs, never prayed to know if God were willing that a man should live. He understood man, whose life is God, to be immortal, and knew that man has not two lives, one to be destroyed and the other to be made indestructible." (369:16.)

The Golden Text is from John (17:3): "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

KIWANIS MEETINGS

DAN DOHERTY ON DEAN'S LIST

The next two summer meetings of the Winchester Kiwanis club will be held on July 15 at the home of John Mercurio 351 Highland avenue and on July 22 at the Girl Scout Cabin. The July 15 meeting is a Ladies Night cook-out and will be held rain or shine. The other meeting is a cook-out to treat the Kiwanis Dodgers Little League Championship team.

Before marriage, a girl in New Guinea's Wahgi Valley does no work and lives a merry life. But afterward, she loses her freedom and becomes a drudge, the National Geographic Magazine says. She gathers wood, hoes gardens, cooks meals, and tends children and pigs.

Daniel J. Doherty, Jr., son of Attorney and Mrs. Daniel J. Doherty, 247 Highland avenue, has received notice from Rev. Joseph E. Mullen, S.J., Assistant Dean of the College of The Holy Cross, Worcester, Mass., that his name has been placed on the Dean's list for his freshman year.

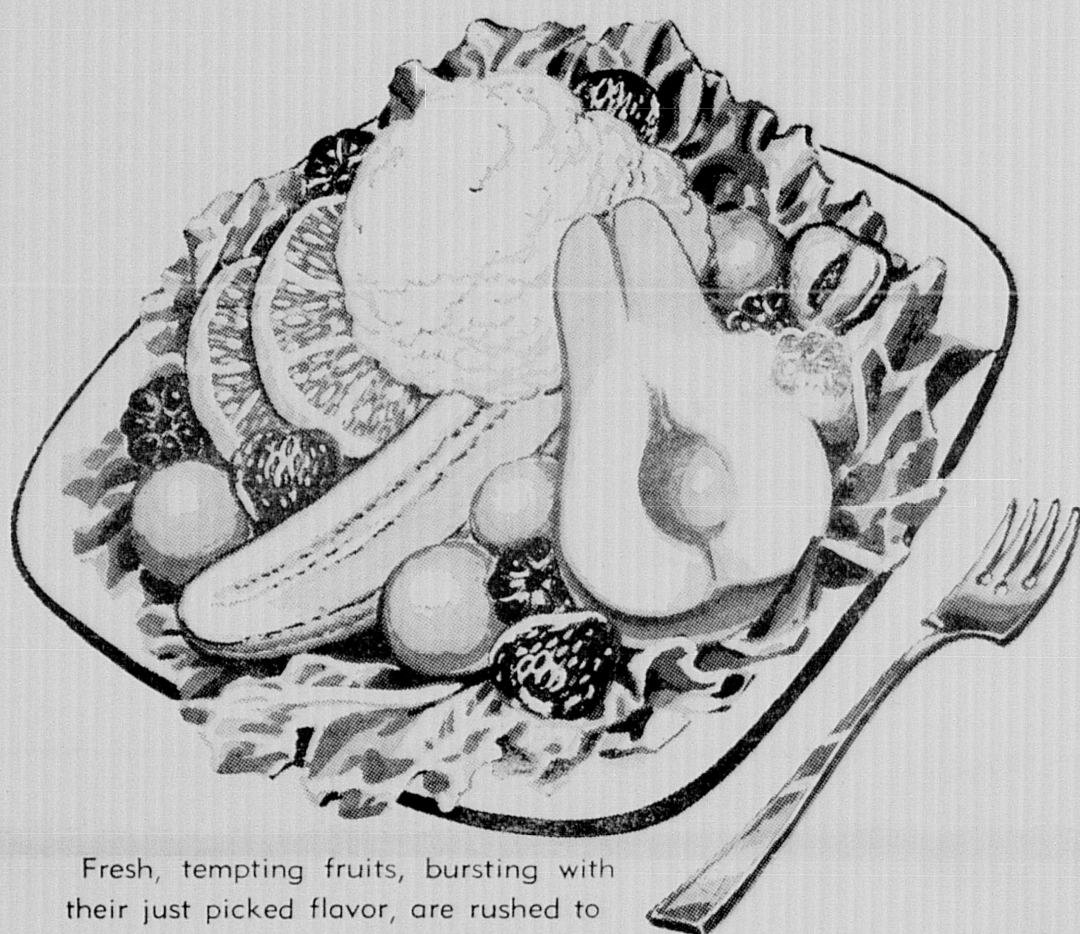

Dan will be a candidate in 1961 for an A.B. Degree, majoring in languages.

He is a graduate of St. Mary's Parochial School, Class of 1953 and Winchester High School class of 1957.

HOMEOWNERS BEWARE!

It's the season for glib-talking salesmen to get your name on the dotted line for expensive home improvements, with the promise that yours will be used as a "model home" or "demonstrator" for the company; and that you'll get a big cash credit for each sale in your area.

Don't listen!

Tempting as it sounds, it's a sales technique that has brought grief to many homeowners, who have found themselves saddled with a big bill, and not a nickel of "model home" cash.

When a salesman's story sounds "too good to be true," watch out! It probably is.

EDITORIALS

The Selectmen and Winchester Red Cross Chapter have signed an agreement under the terms of which the Red Cross is given a lease of the so called Cutting house on Washington street as a chapter headquarters.

This in itself is not news. The Red Cross has been occupying the former Legion and School Department headquarters since last winter when it became necessary for the Chapter to vacate its space in the basement of the town hall to make room for certain of the new mechanized processes being installed to stream-line the town government.

At that time the Red Cross asked the Selectmen to permit the Chapter to occupy the old Cutting house, which had been relinquished by the School Department after several years occupancy as a headquarters and superintendent's office. The Selectmen granted permission for the Red Cross to move into the Cutting house with the provision that the Chapter might have to vacate at any time if the town decided to demolish the house, or for some other reason, and with the understanding that the town would spend no money on the building.

The Red Cross agreed to these stipulations and moved into the building, installing new heating and making other improvements which have run into a substantial amount, including exterior painting.

At the March Town Meeting the Selectmen sought and secured the town's vote to permit the Red Cross to occupy the Cutting house, though technically no such vote was necessary since the custody of the building lies in the Selectmen's jurisdiction.

The Planning Board, while not objecting to the then occupancy of the house by the Red Cross, asked that a limit of two year's occupancy be made, stating that it had long been the plan of the town to demolish the house to improve the overall appearance of the civic center and specifically for the benefit of the library.

The Planning Board offered the time limit as an amendment to the Selectmen's motion. It failed to pass, but the margin of defeat was much less than expected when it was presented, and many have felt since the meeting that had the Planning Board done a better job of presentation, and the consideration come earlier in the meeting, the result could have been different. Quite a few have felt that the Red Cross should not have the right of indefinite occupancy of their new quarters.

They really had no such assurance from the Selectmen. Rather they were told their lease might be terminated at any time if the Selectmen felt it desirable.

The recent written agreement signed by the Selectmen and Red Cross authorities is basically the same as the verbal agreement entered into last winter, with two exceptions.

The present lease will terminate April 30, 1960, or at about the time asked by the Planning Board at the meeting in March. The Selectmen may also terminate the lease upon 30 days notice if the Cutting house is wanted for municipal or charitable purposes.

We think few can gainsay the Planning Board's thinking that good municipal planning calls for the eventual removal of the old Cutting house from its position so near the library and between the library and town hall. There are also few who would like to see our Red Cross without adequate quarters for carrying out its fine service to the unfortunate.

The suggestion was made to the Star that if and when it becomes desirable to get rid of the old Cutting house, that it be moved to some suitable location and maintained as an example of historic interest and by-gone architecture. Perhaps some arrangement could be made so that the little house that old timers know so well could be sold for some nominal sum to the Red Cross. Those of us who have lived long in Winchester see these old familiar landmarks go one by one with real regret.

Chief Harrold of the police department has asked the Star to warn parents that prompt action is necessary all along the line if the authorities are to act effectively in apprehending persons who improperly accost young girls and children of the town.

There have been instances when the police have not learned about such incidents for hours after they occur, and then such information as they do get is of little use in attempting to run down the suspect.

Chief Harrold urges parents to impress upon their children, not only the importance of accepting no advances from strangers, but also the importance of acting promptly when such advances are made. Parents themselves should realize the necessity for their own prompt action in such cases. Even if they think the matter trivial, they should give the police the chance to investigate at once.

Youngsters should be instructed to tell their parents as soon as possible if they are accosted. If they are old enough, they should be told to go at once to the nearest house and call the police. Especially they should be told to get the number of the car involved. In most instances persons trying to entice girls or children are in automobiles.

If the police get information in time, they can generally run down the wanted person. Chief Harrold believes he can, as he says, "put these accosters out of business in Winchester," if he can have the cooperation of parents and children. He and his men are eager to do just that, but they cannot act promptly in an emergency if they do not know about it until long hours after it occurs.

We hear a lot about the trouble our young people get into. Stories of youthful mischief are easy to come by and pressure is often exerted by irate victims of youthful pranks to have them published in the press. A lot of such stories do get in print and the impression is held by many that our young people as a whole are strictly no good.

Those who come in close contact with youth claim this is not so. They maintain that a big majority of our youngsters are fundamentally sound and a credit to their parents and the community. An instance supporting this contention came to hand this week.

Many in Winchester know about Winning Farm. Located at the Winchester-Woburn-Lexington line, it is a charitable enterprise providing country vacations for needy city youngsters. A number of Winchester men and women are included among the officers of the corporation and the board of directors. Winchester Rotarians especially have contributed both in money and effort to the physical improvement of the farm buildings and grounds.

It was recently brought to the attention of one of the directors that two dead trees on the farm adjacent to the superintendent's cottage really needed to come down. The director while chatting with several boys of high school age mentioned this fact and suggested the removal as a project for the boys.

With typical youthful grumbling and much joking talk of high pay for such a tough job the matter was passed off, but it was not forgotten and the boys did go over to the farm and not only took down the trees, but sawed them into fireplace lengths which were stacked in neat piles for future use.

The Star salutes the boys for a good deed well done and for the community spirit which prompted them to do what was by no means an easy job. We also salute the adult who gave the boys the chance to show their community spirit and sense of responsibility. Many times we would be surprised at what fine things boys will do if given the opportunity.

STILL THE SUFFERING GOES ON!

Editor of the Star:

Beaches are booming. Happy vacationists throng to motels and eat-eries, but still the needless suffering goes on. An editorial in The Boston Herald explains what I mean.

"Every day in which the Senate dallies with the Humane Slaughter Bill is one more day in which animals die cruelly and in pain. But after passing the House by an overwhelming margin in February the bill has been sidetracked, supposedly because the Senate Agriculture Committee needs time to study slaughter methods."

"The Committee required time in 1956 too, when the bill met an identical end. A House Committee then toured slaughterhouses observing the methods that prevailed. The tour was a horrifying revelation of man's indifference to the fate of other species."

"The House Committee sponsored a bill requiring the employment of humane methods by packers wishing to contract with the government. It was passed by a voice vote."

"But in the Senate Agriculture Committee, which did no slaughter-house inspection, the Senators refused even to see a sound film graphically depicting routine pig slaughter as practiced on more than 80 million pigs a year. Instead, by a vote of 10-5, they passed a 'study' bill."

"This means that the senators, who were too squeamish to watch hogs being massacred on a screen, could with serenity and good conscience condemn millions of animals to a ghastly fate. But the bill had this feature as amended: the senators didn't have to see the animals die."

"Perhaps it is easier and more pleasant not to have the hideous facts of life paraded before one. The senators do not have to see the wildly rolling eyes of shackled animals, the welter of bloody trails, the stagger of half-stunned cattle closing with the knife. Nor do they have to listen to the screams and bellows of animals in agony. Life, in fact, can continue on its cheerful round."

The firm of Hormel & Company, which has adopted humane butchering methods, reports that swift and efficient techniques have proved economical. No packer will go bankrupt because humane slaughtering methods prevail. But at least 10 senators are convinced that all's right with the world and business is business."

If the above moves you as it does me, write to Senator Allen Ellender, Chairman of Committee on Agriculture, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. and urge him to stop and "study" and do something. Kay Cardin

RAILROAD SUBSIDY

Editor of the Star:

On the horizon, there appears to be a second M.T.A., known as the Old Colony subsidy for the South Shore railroad commuters. The most brazen raid that this nation has ever seen, is being planned to reduce the treasuries of the towns and cities involved. This will be done by reckless, irresponsible squanderers of the taxpayers' money.

The Metropolitan Transit Authority now pays its 4,500 employees an average salary of $301 per week, and the operators receive $133.73 weekly retiring at $212 monthly! For a system that is constantly running at an enormous deficit, the personnel mainly have most lucrative positions, aided by politics and a powerful union. The waste of money and manpower in the M.T.A. could well be sufficient to run five towns the size of Winchester.

These same people want to extend the M.T.A. to fifteen fringe towns and cities which would include Winchester and now the same scheme is proposed for the South Shore communities in order to subsidize the Old Colony Railroad. The time is coming when the federal, state, county, and town governments will take everything, rights, money, property and even self respect from us who are supposed to make up a democracy! This is what happens in Russia.

If aptitude tests were mandatory for those seeking public office, the results would no doubt be most enlightening and in favor of the taxpayers! Apparently, incompetence and dishonesty are much too prevalent.

A TREMENDOUS WEEK!

Editor of the Star:

I wish to express my appreciation to the American Legion, Winchester Post No. 97, for the opportunity extended to me to attend Boys' State, at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Massachusetts from the 20th to the 28th of June, as a representative from their Post.

The program consisted of actual participation in highly intensified courses dealing with the functioning of our state, county and city governments. I learned a good deal about the rights, privileges, duties, and responsibilities which citizenship entails and am grateful for the chance given me to participate in such a program.

For recreation there was presented a variety of sports, including baseball, basketball, swimming, tennis and track. It presented a wonderful chance to meet and know boys from all over our state.

Again, I want to say "thanks" to the American Legion for this tremendous week!

THANKS NOT ENOUGH

Editor of the Star:

It is impossible to thank individually everybody in Winchester for their kind words of encouragement, prayers and best wishes at the time that the extremely delicate heart operation was performed on our 3½-year-old daughter Mary.

Mary is now convalescing at home and is doing fairly well, but it is expected that a long period of gradual recovery lies ahead.

We wish to express our sincere appreciation and thanks to all who have donated blood and to all of you who knelt to ask God's help for Mary and for us. You have all done us a service that can never be repaid.

POLICE CITED FOR QUICK EFFICIENT WORK

Editor of the Star:

Thanks are certainly due to Winchester's excellent police force for its quick work in tracking down the two persons who broke into our house last Thursday.

The break occurred about 3 o'clock and by 3:15 the persons responsible were at the police station.

Winchester can certainly be proud of a police force that can act so quickly and so thoroughly.

REAR-END COLLISION ON CAMBRIDGE STREET NEAR BOAT CLUB

An automobile accident involving two cars last Wednesday, July 9, resulted in no personal injuries but damage to both vehicles. The mishap occurred at 3:20 p.m. in front of the Winchester Boat Club on Cambridge street.

Officer Thomas Parsons investigated the incident and found that a Plymouth convertible owned by Donald G. Conrad and operated by Mrs. Carol L. Conrad of 137 Columbia street, Cambridge while going south had collided with the rear end of a Ford sedan which was stopped in a line of traffic. The Ford was operated by Leon M. Cangiano of 1303 Canton avenue, Milton.

Passengers with Mrs. Conrad were her 4-month-old son, Timothy, and Anne Pica of Cambridge. Riding with Mr. Cangiano were his mother Mrs. Eleanor Cangiano of Cambridge and Mrs. Edith Pistorino of Winchester.

The Plymouth was damaged on the left front and was towed away. The Ford was damaged on the right rear and side but was able to proceed under its own power.

INDECENT EXPOSURE
REPORTED AT PALMER BEACH

Police officer Andrew Crawford reported that a man had indecently exposed himself to a young girl at Palmer Beach last Thursday afternoon. The Woburn and Metropolitan District Commission police alerted to be on the look-out for him.

The man was described as being about 22 or 23 with a dark complexion, heavy set with a whiffle hair cut. He was wearing a green metal shirt with checks and drove a two-toned green car with a dark top and lighter bottom. The make and registration of the car are unknown.

Police Chief Charles J. Harrold reminds residents that if the witnesses to such acts would get the license numbers and more adequate descriptions of the car it would expedite the capture of such persons.

TRADERS' DAY AUGUST 6

Wednesday, August 6, has been designated Traders' Day for Winchester merchants, many of whom will close their establishments all day on that date.

Traders' Day has long been a Winchester custom, and in the "old days" the business center of the town was closed up tight while the traders went on an outing in a body, spending the day with a program of sports of all kind and a huge picnic lunch.

For some years now there has been no concerted outing on Traders' Day, but many stores about town still close, the proprietors and their help spending the day as they choose. Housewives would do well to plan their shopping for the week of Traders' Day to bypass August 6.

For the merchants who want them Traders' Day closing placards will be on sale at the Star Office.

FRANCE'S OLDEST AND SMALLEST COLONY LOYALLY SUPPORTS DISTANT MOTHERLAND

When General Charles de Gaulle returned to power in France, residents of these islands 1,000 miles northeast of New York reverently placed a wreath at a memorial honoring those who died for France in two world wars.

The wreath symbolized the warm feeling that France's oldest and smallest, the National Geographic Society says. The people of St.
Pierre and Miquelon typically ignore their proximity to Newfoundland, and think of themselves as being 3,700 kilometers (2,300 miles) from Brest, the French port facing them across the Atlantic.

Trees Are Dwarf

Most important of the fog-draped islands, chilled by the Labrador Current, is rocky St.
Pierre. Dwarf balsam firs, growing a couple of feet tall, are all the only trees. But St. Pierre has been an excellent port. The town of St. Pierre, a cluster of houses between the harbor and the mountains, is the capital and business center for the island's 4,500 inhabitants.

North of St. Pierre Island lies Miquelon, a double island some 25 miles long. The northern part, Grande Miquelon, connects with Langlade, the southern part, by means of a seven-mile sandy isthmus. Langlade has many farms.
Its trout-filled streams, strawberries, flowers, pink rock, and picturesque dunes make it an appealing vacationland.

St. Pierre and Miquelon began attracting Breton and Basque fishermen more than 400 years ago.
When explorer Jacques Cartier stopped for a visit in 1536, he found fishermen already there. As the years passed, a village grew up to care for the needs of fishermen too far from France to return home easily.

For several centuries, England and France alternately controlled the islands. France gained final possession in 1814.

Radish, Lettuce Gardens

Today the territory has a French governor, and sends a deputy to the French National Assembly. As always, the inhabitants depend largely on the sea. Cod, herring, mackerel, and other fish abound on the near-by Grand Banks. Unfortunately, modern vessels and refrigeration have caused a relative decline in the importance of the islands as a port of call. Vessels from France no longer need to stop, except for repairs.

The islands cannot practice extensive agriculture, though they nurture gardens of radishes, onions, and lettuce. They have turned to mink and silver fox breeding to supplement their fishing income.
They also hope to attract tourists.

Through the years, France has sometimes had to help the territory's faltering economy. But St.
Pierre and Miquelon can at least look back to one period of fabulous prosperity. That came during Prohibition days in the United States when the islands became a major center for bottled shipments. Residents look back on those days as an age d'or (golden age) and a temps beni (blessed time).

OBSERVATORY TO BE BUILT ON PAPAGO'S SACRED PEAK

Men with "long eyes" want to rent the Papago Indians' Mount Olympus. The Indians are willing.
Congress will soon be called on to approve the arrangement.

Astronomers—the Indians call them "long eyes"—plan to build the United States National Astronomical Observatory on Kitt Peak, a 6,875-foot rise on the Papago Reservation in southwest Arizona. It is the traditional home of the Papago's ancient gods.

Most Papagos now are Christians, but any contract entered into by the tribe will have a clause prohibiting the astronomers from disturbing the sacred caves on the peak where the spirits dwell.

Peak Desert Country

Situated about 40 miles southwest of Tucson, Kitt Peak stands in rolling desert where there are no permanent streams and few year-round springs. The National Geographic Society says. It is a land of cactus, mesquite, ironwood, and paloverde.

The Papago Reservation, totaling 2,774,374 acres, is the home of about 7,500 Indians. Mineral deposits in the area have been exploited since the 18th century. Millions of dollars worth of silver were taken out in the boom of the 1880's.

Today the Indians gain their basic income from livestock. They also work off the reservation, weave baskets, and make pottery.
Highways across the reservation bypass the Papago villages, both to avoid the traffic hazard and to give privacy.

Curiously, Kitt Peak gets its name, not from an Indian god, but from a Mrs. William F. Kitt, whose brother surveyed the area in 1893.
The Peak was chosen for the new observatory after a three-year study of possible sites. Astronomers were anxious to find a place where weather conditions could complement those in southern California, which has the world's three largest telescopes, located respectively on Palomar Mountain, and Mts. Hamilton and Wilson. The California weather cycle gives clear skies in summer and fall. Arizona normally has clear winters.

Joint Project

After the choice had narrowed to five possibilities, instruments were installed on each to check visibility, wind direction and strength, temperatures, and other factors affecting clear viewing. Kitt Peak was judged the most favorable location.

The observatory will be built for the National Science Foundation by the Association of Universities for Research in Astronomy, Inc. Included in "AURA" are the Universities of California, Chicago, Harvard, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Yale. Other institutions may join as the project progresses. When completed, the National Observatory will be open for research to qualified scientists all over the United States.

The Foundation's present plans call for a 36-inch and an 80-inch telescope. The latter will be the United States' fifth largest.

WHAT PRICE CHIMNEY REPAIRS?

The Boston Better Business Bureau has received complaints regarding unsatisfactory chimney repair work.

There is a pattern which unscrupulous operators follow. First, they seem to select women, or elderly people to victimize. They then call at the house, unsolicited, with a "scare" story about the chimney's dangerous condition and the immediate possibility of fire. Then after a quick and often inadequate job, they demand immediate payment.

One elderly man wrote us that a man had wanted to "inspect the chimney without charge." He proceeded to go up on the roof, tear off some bricks from the chimney, and do about a half-hour's "work." He then demanded payment of $100, and refused to leave until he was paid!

If you have any reason to believe the chimney of your home needs repairs, be sure that you (1) have it inspected and get estimates from at least two established companies in your community, and (2) ask the firm selected for a written specification of the work to be done, the materials used, and the cost.

Don't be high-pressured by an unknown "chimney swift" into repairs that are overpriced, and that may not even be needed!

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

The human heart is a muscle of amazing toughness and durability, and nowhere is it more apparent than in a Massachusetts Heart Association study under way at Boston University School of Medicine.

These strips of heart muscle, functioning under laboratory conditions simulating various types of cardiovascular disease, are providing new clues in the unending search for more knowledge about the cardiovascular system.

Dr. William Ullrich and his associates are using tiny columns of heart muscle from patients dying of heart failure and other causes to re-create the demands placed on the heart by many diseases of the heart and circulation.

The samples of ventricular muscle, so small as to be hardly visible, can derive energy from a nutrient solution, and actually "beat" many hours after their owners have died.

The muscle can be made to beat against high resistances, working to excess and mimicking conditions existing in patients with high blood pressure.

The project determines not only the amount of work of which the heart is capable under such circumstances but the amount of energy used by the tissue in performing a given amount of work. A heart which can perform a normal amount of work may require inordinately large amounts of energy in the process. Nobody knows why.

These techniques let researchers compare characteristics of "failing" heart muscle with those of normal muscle.

Several promising results already have been noted in this program:

It has been found that strips from enlarged and dilated hearts and from patients with kidney or liver disease will contract more rapidly than those from normal-sized, non-dilated hearts and from patients who have had neither kidney nor liver trouble.

The strips do not need more oxygen when lifting minute weights under electrical stimuli than when the strips were allowed to rest. It would seem, therefore, that work done by the tissue is not the key factor in its use of oxygen.

Research of this kind, linked with many other approaches to heart and circulatory disease, is helping speed the day when the nation's gravest health problem will be more effectively controlled.

Mr. Percy Bugbee of the National Fire Prevention Association and Mr. C. Stewart Cole of the Home Insurance Company are Winchester members of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention Committee, the members of which have adopted a three-point program, "Operation Firestop", for attacking the City of Boston's annual loss by fire. The Chamber committee is working closely with the Boston Fire Department Fire Prevention Bureau.

ATTENDED CONVENTION FOR BLIND

FORMER WINCHESTER BOY HOLDS HARVARD DEGREES

Lawrence Thompson of Tampa, Florida, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Thompson of 201 Ridge street, brought his wife and three daughters for a visit with his parents while he attended the National Federation of the Blind Convention which was held at the Hotel Somerset in Boston the week of July 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th.

Mr. Thompson, a delegate to the convention, is vice president of the Florida Federation of the Blind. The Florida Federation unlike many state groups is privately operated wholly by the blind. Their purpose is to rehabilitate the blind in every way possible.

Mr. Thompson graduated from Harvard in the class of '38 and from the Harvard School of Education in '45. Before going to Florida he taught at Perkins Institution and is well equipped for his present position.

The National Federation of the Blind wants to find out why business and industry won't employ blind people, and to obtain the answer the Federation has proposed a five-phase study by a research organization.

This action was taken at the Federation's recent convention, attended by about 1,000 blind persons the proposal being made by Dr. Bradley Burson, a nuclear physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory, Lemont, Ill.

Under the plan 2000 blind persons would be interviewed and a similar study would be made of their employees. The public's attitude toward the blind would also be studied.

FALSE RUMORS REGARDING "SEEING EYE" DOGS

Kenneth B. Backman, manager of the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Boston, warns today that the false and vicious rumor that Seeing Eye Dogs may be obtained by saving and redeeming red cellophane tabs from cigarette packages, continues to be circulated throughout the country.

"The fact is," Mr. Backman states, "these famous guide dogs cannot be secured in this way, nor for the collection of match folder covers, or any other article. Such collections can only result in disappointment to blind people and their friends who save the articles."

George Wernitz, Jr., vice president of the Seeing Eye, has advised the National Better Business Bureau, with which the Boston Bureau is affiliated, that this rumor persists despite continuing efforts to correct it, and is now spreading with alarming rapidity throughout the country.

"Here are the facts," Mr. Wernitz stated: "Any blind person who wants a Seeing Eye dog should communicate directly with The Seeing Eye, Morristown, New Jersey. His eligibility will be established promptly. No blind person who is otherwise eligible, is ever denied a Seeing Eye dog for lack of funds."

The appearance of this Service Message in these columns is evidence that this publication subscribes wholeheartedly to the principles of the Boston Better Business Bureau, and co-operates with the Bureau in protecting you even to the extent of refusing to accept the advertising of firms whose advertising and sales policies are contrary to the public interest.

Tired all the time? Maybe you just think you are. For most of the tiredness we feel is "psychological fatigue," tremendously affected by such things as an unhappy frame of mind, or even a cloudy day.

However, says Dr. William E. Huckabee, an American Heart Association established investigator at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, this is no cause for alarm: "probably no ordinary person ever could be free of psychological fatigue."

He is studying true fatigue, as differentiated from an "all tired out" feeling. It is basically the product of an oxygen deficiency in your tissues.

Two major factors are involved in the energy with which we function, first your circulation, which carries oxygen to the cells, and in normal persons produces about 95 per cent of the body's energy; and second, the anaerobic metabolism of the cells themselves, an oxygenless reserve upon which you can draw just as one draws money from the bank in times of emergency, to produce energy when the oxygen is insufficient.

Heart patients draw upon this "bank" for as much as half of their energy under stress, but, like any loan, it is a debt which must be paid later. Bankruptcy can be fatal.

Adequate circulation, as measured in Dr. Huckabee's laboratory, occurs when a large percentage of energy is supplied by oxygen, relative to that of the anaerobic reserve working to produce activity in the cells.

The limitation in the rate at which oxygen can be taken to your muscles by the circulation is a controlling factor in true fatigue.

Dr. Huckabee's study has used college athletes, young and old volunteers, and many others in a series of tests involving exercise and blood chemical analysis.

He has found that physical training produces no appreciable improvement in a deficient circulatory system, it only improves the tolerance to fatigue, but we approve of it simply because it makes the patient feel better," he says.

This research is aimed also at clarifying how organs such as the kidney and liver operate when you are ill to maintain the body's energy supply despite circulatory disease.

Perfect for outdoor meals or for saving summer laundry, placemats, 2 different patterns, 18 in package for 50¢ at the Winchester Star.

NEW WORKERS NEED SS CARDS

Now that school is out, many of our younger people are going to be working for the first time. It may be full time or only part time; but, one thing is certain, they are going to need a Social Security Card.

Why a social security card. It is just a little card with a blue border, a social security account number and a name. Employers want to see it for their records, they cannot make complete payroll reports without the number and name of each employee. Self-employed persons also need a social security number to make a proper report of their earnings.

The social security card should be carefully guarded as it is necessary when changing jobs. If it has been lost, it takes several days to get a duplicate card showing the same name and the same social security number.

When a claim is filed for social security benefits, the social security account number card is important. It pays to keep it where it can be found. The social security number is the number of the individual's social security account, the insurance account to which the employer, employee and the self-employed make regular contributions. These contributions pay for old-age survivors and disability insurance. Don't lose that card. For a new card or a duplicate of one that has been lost, apply at your social security office located at 2 Trowbridge street, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

NEW VICE PRESIDENT ANNOUNCED

President Thomas G. Dignan of Boston Edison Company announces the appointment by the Board of Directors of Thomas J. Galligan, Jr., as Vice President and Assistant to the President.

Mr. Galligan is a native of Watertown, was graduated from Boston College in 1941, from Harvard Business School in 1943, and from 1943 to 1946 served as an officer in the U. S. Navy, mostly in the Mediterranean theatre. From 1946 until 1953 he was a certified public accountant on the staff of Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery.

In 1953 he joined Boston as Director of Stores and Services, and in November 1957 was appointed Assistant to the President.

ALARM SOUNDED FOR BELIEVED DROWNING

An alarm was sounded Sunday evening for a drowning scare at Palmer Beach. Police officer Robert Baird notified the station that Richard Mobbs, son of Cliff Mobbs of 44 Mt. Vernon street, was missing and the life guard was afraid that he might have drowned because his clothes were still in the locker.

Patrol 51 with Sgt. Edward Bowler and Officer McMillen were sent there and the fire department responded with the rescue truck with Robert Sullivan, Jr. driving and Lt. Joseph Shea and Joseph Connolly and the ladder truck with Ernest Howard driving.

Upon arrival it was discovered that the boy had been swimming behind the raft and could not be seen from shore.

U. S. NUCLEAR TEST GROUNDS COVER HUGE BUT LONELY PART OF PACIFIC

A huge swath of the Pacific is again off limits to world shipping. United States nuclear tests at its Pacific proving grounds put an invisible barrier of warnings—"Danger, No Trespassing"—around 300,000 square miles northwest of the Marshall Islands.

The rectangular forbidden zone reaches far across the open sea to allow for the patterns of prevailing winds. It lies in the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands and is uninhabited.

Eniwetok and Bikini Atolls, formerly occupied but now the site of atomic bomb tests, stand near the southern boundary of the zone.

The proving grounds occupy a lonely place in a wide, lonely, blue-green wilderness, the National Geographic Society says. Though seemingly dotted with islands, the Pacific's immense distances are suggested by Magellan's experience.

He managed to sight only two small islands in his 9,000-mile odyssey from the tip of South America to Guam in the Marianas. Magellan missed the Marshalls altogether. But trade winds brought Spanish galleons to the archipelago in the 16th century. The record indicates that Spaniards made no regular stops there and little if any interest in the double chain of 34 low-lying, spray-lashed coral atolls.

That part of the Pacific was almost empty of ships in the 17th and 18th centuries. For some time a Spanish galleon sailed each year from the Mexican port of Acapulco to Manila, but followed a route north of the Marshalls. European traders came only to the islands, a handsome and amicable people of Polynesian descent, made a livelihood fishing.

Few food plants other than coconuts and breadfruit grew well, particularly on the northerly atolls. The islanders, a handsome and amicable people of Polynesian descent, made a livelihood fishing.

Some of the islands were a colonizing eye on the Marshalls in 1896 and laid claim to them. After that the gentle fisherfolk got to know well the changeable tides of world affairs. Japan, a western ally in World War I, took over the islands and expelled the Germans.

Thunder of World War II rumbled like a typhoon over the Marshalls during World War II. In the 1944 struggle between Japanese and American forces, several of Eniwetok's islands were blasted down to the bare coral bases.

Now the United Nations Security Council and approval of Congress, governs the Marshalls. The Trust Territory covers the Marshalls, the Marianas far to the northwest, and Carolines to the west—all told, some 2,000 islands dotting 3,500,000 square miles of sea.

Operation Crossroads in 1946 brought the atomic era to the Marshalls. Bikini's 167 inhabitants were transferred to another atoll. When the Atomic Energy Commission expanded the proving grounds for hydrogen bomb tests two years later, it chose Eniwetok because of its remoteness from other islands and the relatively few people, 138, who would have to be moved.

Former residents of Bikini and Eniwetok now live on Rongerik and Ujae. They have been compensated with sizable trust funds and cash payments for the loss of their ancestral homes.

DIGGINGS AT CANNAE BATTLE SITE RECALLS HISTORY, LURE SIGHTSEERS

After more than 2,000 years, the Battle of Cannae is still making news and influencing people.

The Italian Government has lately started digging at the site of Hannibal's overwhelming defeat of the Romans in 216 B.C. It is hoped the extensive excavations will establish the exact location of the classic battle and bring to light more details on the period.

Such information would not only be of keen interest to historians and archaeologists. It would provide a fresh sightseeing goal for visitors who are beginning to discover the appeal of classical scenes in Italy's long-neglected southeastern provinces.

Punic War Disaster
The Cannae site lies about 10 miles west of the Adriatic seaport, Barletta, in Apulia Province, says the National Geographic Society. Authorities agree that the battle took place beside the river known as Aufidus in ancient times, and now called the Ofanto. The question as to which bank is still unsettled, however, with an added complication. The river has since shifted its course.

The Cannae engagement was a nearly decisive one in the second of the three Punic Wars fought between Carthage and Rome. The prologue opened in 218 B.C., when the Carthaginian general, Hannibal, crossed the Alps to carry the war into northern Italy. After winning a succession of victories there, he moved down the peninsula and met Rome's massed legions on the plain of Cannae.

By that time Hannibal's forces had dwindled to perhaps 35,000 infantrymen and 10,000 cavalry. The Romans, under the joint command of Consul Varro and Paulus, numbered about 70,000 infantry and 6,000 horsemen.

As historians reconstruct the event, Hannibal planned his second victory with consummate skill. He drew up his lines in the form of a horseshoe, with the weaker Gallic and Spanish troops in the forward center and veteran African forces making up the powerful wings extended toward the rear.

When the center gave way, as planned, the wings closed in on the trapped Romans in a giant pincer movement. Crack cavalry moved around and completed the encirclement. The result was virtual annihilation of the Roman horde at a cost of only six or seven thousand of Carthage's men.

Precedent for Tactics
Later, Hannibal went on to other victories in southern Italy. Although he failed to take Rome, and eventually had to abandon the Italian campaigns, he left to future military tacticians the dramatic object lesson of the first recorded pincer maneuver.

Relics turned up so far include quantities of human bones, weapons, metal ornaments, vases, and bowls. Some are on view in a museum built recently near the ruins of the early town of Cannae, which survived until the Middle Ages.

Modern visitors to this Italian Adriatic region are enchanted by its scenes of fishing villages and farms set amid vineyards, olive and almond groves; by its Roman ruins and medieval castles.

South of the Cannae site stretches the strange stone world of the trulli—the unique cone-shaped cottages that peasants have built with conventional materials and limestone since time immemorial.

But the emphasis is not all on the past in this part of Italy. A land reclamation project is now under way, with irrigation and power dams rising on many of the rivers, including the Ofanto system.

Pilots and air service operators urged government supervision of aviation for the sake of uniform safety rules. By 1934, three federal agencies—the Post Office Department, the Department of Commerce, and the Interstate Commerce Commission—shared control over commercial aviation.

The Civil Aviation Act of 1938 replaced these three authorities with one. Under the Department of Commerce, the Civil Aeronautics Board supervises the safety of aircraft and licenses commercial and private pilots; it sets up rules of the airways, provides aids to navigation, and helps build airports.

When an airliner gets within 20 miles of its destination, control generally passes from the local controller to the CAA instrument traffic-control tower. Gazing through green-tinted picture windows, a local controller spots the plane and radios landing instructions.

CAA MARKS 20th BIRTHDAY AS TRAFFIC POLICE OF AIRWAYS
Every one and a half seconds, a plane takes off or lands under the eye of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

This far-reaching branch of the Department of Commerce manipulates the nation's air traffic on electronic strings. Its purpose is to keep the air safe.

Marking its 20th birthday on June 28, the CAA looks back on an era of seam-busting growth in American aviation. Some 100,000 miles of airways weave an invisible road map above the United States and its territories. Commercial aircraft fly the paths at regulated intervals and altitudes. CAA controllers at 29 Air Route Traffic Control Centers keep tabs on each plane with radar and radio communication.

Flying the Mail
Commercial flights in the 1920's were haphazard affairs, the National Geographic Society recalls. In aviation's youth, soon after World War I, a pilot navigated by peering from his open cockpit to follow a railroad or a river.

Mail planes, carrying meager cargoes of air mail, settled down at dusk, transferring mail sacks to trains for overnight transportation. This fly-by-night method clipped 22 hours of coast-to-coast mail service and roused enthusiasm for aviation's commercial possibilities.

When night flight started, errand boys in biplanes to guide the erratic biplanes on their way.

Pilots and air service operators urged government supervision of aviation for the sake of uniform safety rules. By 1934, three federal agencies—the Post Office Department, the Department of Commerce, and the Interstate Commerce Commission—shared control over commercial aviation.

The Civil Aviation Act of 1938 replaced these three authorities with one. Under the Department of Commerce, the Civil Aeronautics Board supervises the safety of aircraft and licenses commercial and private pilots; it sets up rules of the airways, provides aids to navigation, and helps build airports.

By the CAA rules of the road, a plane flying on instrument flight rules (IFR) occupies its own reserved block of air 25 to 50 miles long and 2,000 feet thick. In effect this air space moves with the plane from one traffic-control segment to the next. All information about it passes from controller to controller.

When an airliner gets within 20 miles of its destination, control generally passes from the local controller to the CAA instrument traffic-control tower. Gazing through green-tinted picture windows, a local controller spots the plane and radios landing instructions.

When visibility is limited, radar takes over. The pilot has a choice of using his instrument landing system (ILS) or of being "talked down" by a controller scanning a precision-approach radar screen. ILS activates a cockpit instrument that tells the pilot the moment he wanders off his proper glide path. At the airport, a CAA controller monitors the approach on radar.

First thing the passengers know, the airliner's wheels are on the ground—and the skilled technicians of the Civil Aeronautics Administration have accomplished another miracle.

NEW STATUS IS SOUGHT FOR PETRIFIED FOREST
Congress has before it a bill to give new stature to one of the United States' most colorful possessions, the Petrified Forest National Monument in northeastern Arizona. There tons of semiprecious gemstone lie sparkling on the ground, the National Geographic Society says.

The "forest" would be designated a national park. Its boundaries and uses would be fixed by Congress, and Congressional action would be necessary to change them. The present national-monument status of the forest was conferred by President Theodore Roosevelt in a proclamation in 1906.

Becomes More Popular
Steadily increasing in popularity, the monument was visited by 665,747 persons last year, the National Park Service reports. Figures for previous years show 603,000 tourists in 1956 and 442,000 in 1955.

The forest consists of shattered trunks of huge trees strewn in the colorful valleys of the Painted Desert. Millions of years of geologic action have changed the wood to agate.

The petrified wood was useful to America's early inhabitants. Centuries before Columbus, Indians built huts of the thinner logs. The extremely hard rock also made good arrowheads.

In Navajo legend, the logs were the bones of the great monster Yei-tis, who was killed by the Sun God. The Paiute thought them the broken weapons of the Wolf God.

Today's scientists have a different explanation. They declare that some 160 million years ago—in the period known as the Triassic in northern Arizona was a low plain, laced by shifting streams. Forests of trees resembling pines grew on hills, perhaps as much as 100 miles to the west and south-west.

Dead trees from the forests were carried by rivers to the lowland and buried in mud and sediment. For some the burial was so quick that the oxygen necessary for decay was excluded before the trees could rot.

Then water-borne chemicals—chiefly silica—soaked into the tree cells, replacing wood fibers. When the process was finished, and erosion again brought the logs to the surface, they were 98 percent stone.

Color from Chemicals
Small amounts of other chemicals in the waters gave the striking color patterns prized today. The glowing browns, yellows, and greens found in the natural beauty were caused by compounds of iron and manganese.

The first published account of the monument area came from an expedition in 1851, soon after Arizona was acquired by the United States. The forest attracted little attention, however, until settlers and the railroad came through.

Then souvenir collectors, gem hunters, and commercial interests threatened the existence of the forest. The final blow was the establishment of a stamping mill to crush the petrified wood to make abrasives. Much of the natural beauty seemed destined to coat grimy sandpaper.

The Arizona legislature petitioned for the creation of a national preserve that would protect what was left. President Theodore Roosevelt complied.

Ancient Romans fed garlic to their laborers to make them strong and to their soldiers to make them courageous. Europeans have used the aromatic plant for 2,000 years or more, according to "The World in Your Garden," a book published by the National Geographic Society.

While swimming at Leonard Field pool Wednesday shortly before noon Charles Tofuri, 13, of 10 Quigley Court sustained a severe head laceration when he dove and struck what was believed to be a submerged board.

Houseman George Dunbury called the police for assistance and Officer Thomas Parsons responded in a patrol car.

The injured boy was removed to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Phillip J. McManus. Ten stitches were necessary to close the cut in his head and after the wound had been closed Dr. McManus ordered the boy held for observation.

Wednesday, August 6, has been designated Traders' Day for Winchester merchants, many of whom will close their establishments all day on that date.

Traders' Day has long been a Winchester custom, and in the old days the business center of the town was closed up tight while the traders went on an outing in a body, spending the day with a program of sports of all kind and a huge picnic lunch.

For some years now there has been no concerted outing on Traders' Day, but many stores about town still close, the proprietors and their help spending the day as they choose. Housewives would do well to plan their shopping for the week of Traders' Day to bypass August 6.

For the merchants who want them Traders' Day closing placards will be on sale at the Star Office.

MRS. MARY K. SNELL

Mrs. Mary K. Snell, wife of A. Kirby Snell of 5 Dix terrace, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon, July 22, while on her way home from a family trip to Newton and her daughter, Miss Mary Dean Snell.

She became critically ill while in Waltham, and passing motorists notified the State Police who rushed Waltham for assistance. She was taken in an ambulance to the Waltham Hospital where she was pronounced dead upon arrival. Her death was the result of a heart ailment with which she had been afflicted for some time.

Mrs. Snell was the daughter of Thomas G. and Daisy Dean (Smith) Kerr. She was born August 24, 1899, in Cambridge, Ohio, and spent her early life there, attending the Cambridge schools and graduating from Cambridge High School in the class of 1917.

After attending Northwestern University for two years she studied at the Whitney Studios of Plate and Art, a dramatic school in Boston, where she prepared for a stage career.

Mrs. Snell started her career with Redpath Chautauqua and Radio Chautauqua, later traveling with a dramatic company, of which she was a member.

The illness of her mother called her home to Cambridge, Ohio, where on May 25, 1927, she married Mr. Snell, whom she had met in Boston and who was then in the wool business in Ohio. In 1928 she came east to Malden and two years later came to Winchester, making their home here ever since.

Mrs. Snell was a member of the First Congregational Church, and active in the Little Theatre of the church, the Parish Players, appearing in several of their productions before her health became impaired. For nearly three years she taught speech at the Codrington School of Fashion and Design in Boston and was a member of the Boston Professional Women's Club.

Besides her husband and daughter, Mary Dean, of Winchester, Mrs. Snell leaves a son, David K. Snell, of this town.

Funeral services will be held this Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Bennett-Norris Chapel with the Rev. Wesley A. Mallery, assistant pastor of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

BOSTON TROPHY TO BORGGGAARD

WINCHESTER SKIPPERS DOMINATE ONE-DAY EVENT

Wednesday's race, sponsored by the Boston Yacht Club, was sailed in a breeze so light and variable that some classes barely finished within the three and one half hour time limit.

The Snipe Class started fourteen boats. The Skipper of the Winchester Club having arrived for the day. The results were more favorable for the Winchester skipper, than on any previous day.

For the second day in succession, Clarence and Roger Borggaard in "Ragabag II" crossed the line first, fifty-five seconds later, Herb Alderson in "Missy" finished in second place.

The only non-Winchester boat to finish in the money was the former Winchester Skipper, "Navists" of Cottage Park, which came in third. Winchester's Jim Snow in "Zibba" finished fourth.

Fifth place was taken by Sue Forrest of the Football Writers' Club, followed by the three Winchester skipper, Buros, Dick Cook, and Freyer.

In the Turnabout Class, of over 100 boats, the youngest Winchester skipper Bob Dannenberg came in ninth out of some 25 or more boats in his division.

On the outside line where the big U.S. One Design class is started, Byron Wiswell in "The Goose" finished second just behind the winner, Megowan.

Results of the Corinthian racing and final award of trophies will be published in next week's Star.

ACCOSTING AGAIN

A mother living in the Highlands section of the town called police headquarters Wednesday to report that her 15 year-old daughter, while walking along Highland avenue had been accosted by a man.

The girl told her mother the man was riding in an old blue automobile, and had pulled up beside her, asking her if she wanted a ride. When she said she did not he drove away, making no objectionable advances.

The number of the car was not taken, and the police had little on which to work. At headquarters the Star was asked to bring to the attention of parents and children the importance of getting numbers of automobiles involved in cases like the above.

Two more girls were accosted in Winchester this week, one an 18 year-old on Highland avenue, Wednesday night, and the other, a 15 year-old, on Church street, the day before. In neither case, was there any undue advances but in neither case was the car number taken.

GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

A Winchester young man of 20 was given a suspended sentence Tuesday morning in the District Court at Woburn where he was arraigned on the charge of disturbing the peace.

Shortly after midnight Tuesday the police received complaints of a noisy group of boys at the corner of Elmwood avenue and Park street. Sgt. John Elliott and Officer John Boyle went to investigate.

As they approached they saw and heard the noise of a group of youths at the intersection, who took to their heels as they saw the police.

The officers gave chase and Sgt. Elliott found one of the group hiding in some bushes near Moody Motors. He was taken into custody on the charge of disturbing the peace and appeared in court later Tuesday morning.

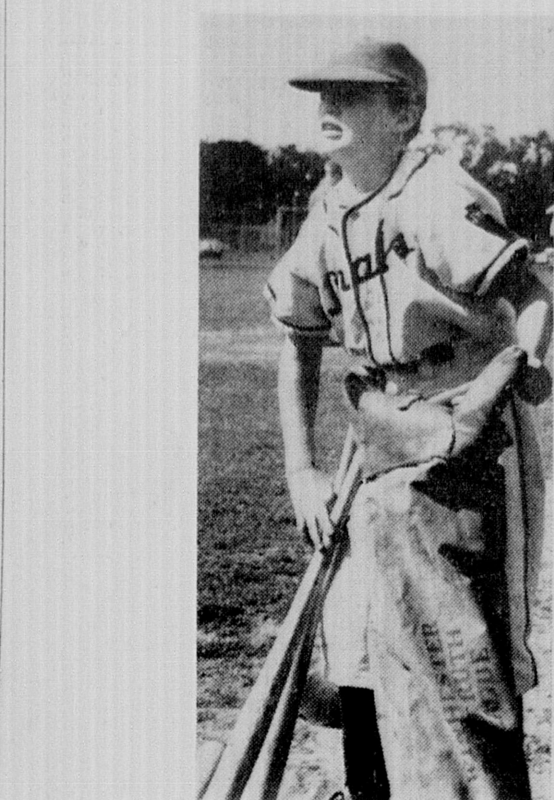

MRS. MARJORIE A. FOLEY

BARBARA MORTON

WINCHESTER GIRL TENDS BATS FOR BABE RUTH STARS

Girls and women are starring in sports these days generally, and no one even bats an eye when a gal comes up with an outstanding performance in a field of athletics once the exclusive property of men.

There are however not too many girls, we imagine, who tend bats as a sports hobby. Generally the high, low and middle justice of the bat rack is a boy, but not with the Winchester Babe Ruth Tournament Team of 1958. Eleven year-old Barbara Morton, is the "star" for the club, and if you can believe the boys who play on it, is a darned good one.

Barbra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Morton of South Border road. Her father was one of the founders of, and active in Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball in Winchester, and her brother, "Billy," recent high school football and baseball player, went through the ranks of Little League and Babe Ruth ball, being one of longest ball hitters the Winchester Little League has boasted.

Barbra never missed a Little League game, nor a Babe Ruth game while big brother was in the pamples, and she missed few, if any, ever since. The same goes for all high school sports and for Junior Legion baseball. She just goes for sports, plays all sorts of games whenever possible and participates enthusiastically in the athletic program of the Lincoln School, where she will enter the 8th grade in the fall.

"Brother Bill" played with the Phillies while in the Babe Ruth League, and naturally Barbra was partial to their games. She probably began her bat-tending proclivities at that time, maybe guarding her big brother's favorite cudgel.

Last season, however, Barbra took over the bat-tending duties for the Phillies officially, and she is a holdover this year, going to all games and keeping the team's bats in excellent order.

If she had been a boy, Barbra would undoubtedly be playing ball herself, and playing the game well. As it is she is a "darned good bat-boy!" Ask any one!

VACATIONING IN CALIFORNIA

Spending a few days at DelMonte Lodge, Popham Beach, California, are Mrs. and Mrs. Leon F. Sargent of this town and their daughter, Betsy.

FENCE DAMAGED BY CAR ON DIX STREET

Police were called at 4:25 Tuesday morning to the residence of Mr. Lyle Longworth on Dix street by the report that an automobile had crashed through a fence there. Officers Archie O'Connell and John Farrell went to investigate and found that a Plymouth beach wagon, registered to a Winchester man, while headed east on Dix street, had smashed about 100 feet of the fence at the Longworth home.

Passing between a pole and a hydrant, the car broke through the fence and then went over the embankment into the parking area of the Professional Building, narrowly missing a collision with a car parked there. After making a U-turn in the parking lot and going over a curbing and part way up an embankment, the beach wagon finally rolled back down grade and stopped in the parking lot.

No one was at the car when the police arrived and conflicting stories are told by those purporting to have seen the accident, some saying two men ran from the machine and others saying two girls left the car.

The owner of the machine told the police at his home that he had left the car in the driveway. An investigation was begun by the police who at about the time of the accident had been called to quiet a noisy radio in the Glenmary neighborhood.

MISS DOLORES HUNN

Miss Dolores R. de M. Hunn, formerly of Plainfield, N. J., passed away, July 21, at the home of her niece, Louise Hunn Barker, 389 Washington street.

Miss Hunn was the daughter of Townsend S. and Lydia de M. (Mortimer) Hunn. She was born August 10, 1875, in Philadelphia, and was for nearly 80 years a resident of Plainfield, N. J., prior to coming to Winchester four years ago. In Plainfield she had been a member of the First Church of Christ Scientist and librarian at the Christian Science Reading Room. Her niece is her only survivor.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon in Plainfield where the interment was made in the family lot in Hillside Cemetery.

EMERGENCY CALL

BLOOD TO REPLENISH ABNORMALLY LOW SUPPLIES BADLY NEEDED

Abnormally low blood supplies at hospital and Red Cross blood banks have created a critical situation in the Greater Boston area. Hospital officials and the medical profession have indicated their growing concern over this serious shortage which has occurred not only during a season when blood is most needed, but during a time when blood transfusions have become standard procedure in an increasing number of surgical operations.

In an effort to alleviate this critical shortage, the Town of Winchester, Reading, Wakefield and Stoneham will hold a joint Blood Day on Monday, August 11, from 1 to 7 p. m., at the Winchester Red Cross Chapter House, 84 Washington street. Those persons who have not yet established blood credit with the Red Cross are particularly urged to do so at this time. Phone Winchester 6-2300 for an appointment.

THIS IS THE ONE WE WANT!

WIRES — WIRES — WIRES

From each main Telephone in Woburn and Winchester, a pair of wires lead into a cable which eventually is connected to automatic switching apparatus in a Telephone Central Office.

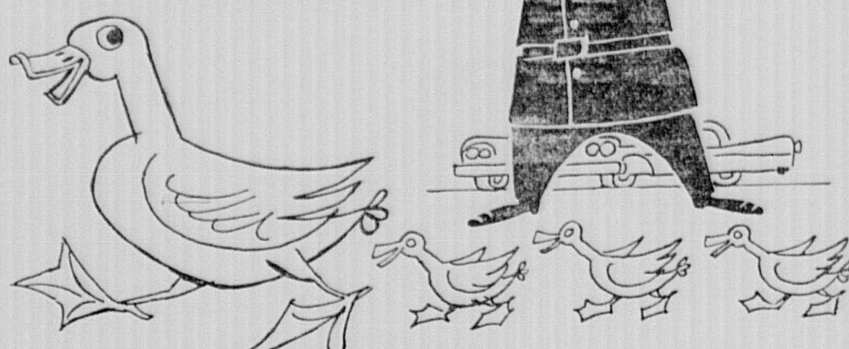

It would seem from the above picture that the Telephone equipment installer has more wires than he needs. However, after further questioning, we find these wires but a fraction of the many thousands of wires that will eventually be interconnected to give us dial telephone service the early part of next year.

To meet this scheduled conversion date, there are at present, approximately 100 men, each trained in a certain phase of Telephone technology, in the process of installing the automatic switching equipment at the new dial telephone office at 954 Main street, Winchester, Mass.

LETTERS FROM ALISON

WINCHESTER GIRL WITH U.S. FIELD HOCKEY TEAM ON TOUR

Saturday, July 12, 1958

Dear Folks:
Well, here we are in London at last! The flight over was comfortable, but a little shy on food—for tea, sardines and raw fish sandwiches; for dinner a few pieces of thinly sliced lamb and tongue on a piece of bread with mint garnish and of course tea. I think that I got the most sleep of the lot. We were all glad to land, though. (This was the new economy run.)
We are having a little trouble getting off for South Africa. The plans have changed and we are now supposed to leave at 10:00 on the 13th—almost 24 hours later. This will cut our practice time to two days instead of three before our first match.

Our stay in London has been very good. Today after arising at 11:00, three of us left for the London zoo. It was really great! Nature in action. Two giraffes were having spring fever. Not too humorous! They had elephant, camel and llama rides, but no ostrich rides. Have to wait for South Africa.

London, as one can easily tell, is just loaded with tourists. While walking in the street I met two girls who were in my dorm at Mount Holyoke last year. Right after that we ran into Ann Marks. Really amazing!
My best to all. Will write next from South Africa, if we ever get there.

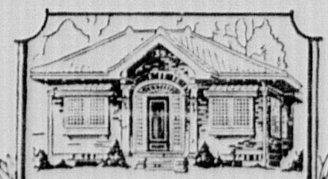

Love,
Alison

July 14, 1958

Dear Folks:
We finally arrived only 19 hours late. A flat tire in Khartoum, breakfast in Nairobi, tea in Salisbury and finally, Johannesburg at 2:30 today. The South Africans are wonderfully friendly people.

They just open their hearts and homes to us. Tonight we were all personally escorted to the exclusive Wanderer's Club. The Athletic Club was celebrating the Queen's birthday by having a kind of sports day. The huge party, which we were invited to, ended the whole celebration. The drinking and dancing had already begun when we got there, but when we did finally arrive, what a royal welcome we received—cheering, etc!
To get back to the young purpose of the tour—hockey! We are to play at 3:15 tomorrow (Tuesday) with a pick-up team from here. We are 5,000 ft. above sea level and this may have some effect upon us. We'll know soon enough. The temperature is ideal for hockey. Today it was about what you would find on a perfect October day. A well suited was adequate. The nights are a different story, a sweater is needed with a blazer. We have the heater going tonight in the room to keep us warm along with the blankets and puffs.

WINCHESTER BOYS ON NOVEL CAMPING TRIP

Seven Winchester boys are among the 94 campers, parents and staff of Camp Westward-Ho, the Lawrence YMCA's travel camp for boys 11 to 15, who left the "Y" Monday morning, July 14, at 6 o'clock on a 21 state, two country, 26 day trip.

One of the programs offered by the Greater Lawrence YMCA, Camp Westward-Ho is open to all boys of good character who are 11 through 15 years of age. The camp this year is traveling in a modern diesel coach, operated by experienced drivers and equipped with reclining chairs for relaxation on long hauls. OPERATION ROAD WATCH

His Excellency, Foster Furcolo, governor of the Commonwealth, honorary chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee, and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley, committee chairman, in a joint statement today announced that a plan of action by enforcement officials to regulate and control traffic on Massachusetts highways will be inaugurated as soon as possible.

This campaign will be known as "Operation Road Watch." All motor vehicles will be stopped by enforcement officials working as a team between the hours of 1:00 a.m. and 4:00 a.m. The first official checkup will be known as "Operation Road Watch No. 1. There will be no advance publicity. The date and time will be announced on the police communication system.

Enforcement officials will check the license, registration, equipment and operator of every vehicle in a safe, well-lighted area without causing traffic congestion or highway hazards.

"Operation Road Watch" will be a sincere attempt to remove from the highways drinking drivers and speeders. Violators of all motor vehicle and criminal laws will be apprehended.

A sticker will be placed on the lower right-hand corner on the outside of the windshield so that motorists will not be unnecessarily delayed after one checkup. The stickers will be a different color during this series of checkups and will be distributed by Registrar Riley, chairman of the committee, and police officials are requested to inform motorists to remove the sticker the day following an "Operation Road Watch" checkup.

During the hours of "Operation Road Watch," the communications network of the State Police, Registry of Motor Vehicles, Metropolitan District Commission, and community police will be available to verify license and registration information that may be desired.

The above action was unanimously voted by the following members of the Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee at a meeting held in Registrar Riley's office on Monday, July 21: Attorney General George Fingold, Commissioner of Insurance Joseph A. Humphreys, Commissioner of Public Works Anthony Di Natale, Commissioner of Public Safety Otis M. Whitney, Commissioner of Education Owen B. Kiernan, Chairman of the Youth Service Board John D. Coughlan, Commissioner of the Metropolitan District Commission Charles W. Greenough, Commissioner of Mental Health Jack R. Ewalt, Chief of Police Thomas H. Calnan of Pittsfield, Treasurer of the Worcester County Safety Council Howard W. Hindes of Worcester, Executive Secretary of the Massachusetts Division of the American Automobile Association Robert S. Kretschmar, Business Agent of the Teamsters' Union, Local No. 25, Michael J. Norton, and Business Agent of the Streetcarman's Union, Local No. 589, Thomas J. Rush.

K. of C. OUTING

The annual outing of the Winchester Council, 210, Knights of Columbus will be held on Sunday, August 24, at the Tyngsboro Country Club, Tyngsboro.

Chairman Richard Fiore and his committee are hard at work to make this the most successful outing in history. A delicious turkey dinner has been promised. The all day program will include golf, softball, horseshoes, card games and many other activities, as well as a late afternoon wienie roast.

Record One of Best

YD Infantry Complete Training At Drum

One of the best all-round records in the modern history of the 26th Yankee Infantry Division was posted by the tanned and toughened "Pentomic" troops during their annual summer training encampment, it was revealed by Colonel William R. Porter, Millis, chief of staff for the division.

The YD travelled to Camp Drum on more than 1600 organic vehicles of the division and the attached 182nd Regimental Combat Team. The vehicles were driven over 1,500,000 vehicle miles transporting the troops and equipment to and from Drum with but one serious accident. In addition, the same vehicles, plus heavier equipment and armor, were driven an additional million vehicle miles, much of it across rugged country, by the same Yankee Division soldiers, without major mishap.

Inspection teams consisting of regular army officers from the First United States army, saw and examined scores of units in various phases of their training and made out separate inspection reports daily. The compilation of which was a source of satisfaction to Major General Otis M. Whitney, Division Commander and his staff.

Some awesome figures compiled by Lt. Col. Raymond Wilkinson, Marblehead, Division G-4, show that the outdoor hungry troops ate their way through over 100 tons of food in fifteen days! While not eating, they were shooting and 726th Ordnance Battalion Commander and Ammunition Officer, the YD, Lt. Col. Arnold Hunter, Randolph, contributed figures which literally smell of cordite and gun-smoke. . . . 365 tons of all types of ammunition were fired by the sharpshooting guardsmen!

Col. Wilkinson also procured gasoline among the numerous major items of supply—nearly 300,000 gallons of fuel, insuring organic mobility!

The cost? In these days of awesome figures spent for defense, it was light. Some one million four hundred thousand dollars was paid to over 12,000 officers and men of the Division and the Combat Team by Lt. Col. John A. Hanson, Finance Officer—and most of it will be spent right back in their home towns—for a complete cycle.

"Aggressor" troops were again used as dramatic training aids during the squad and platoon problem phases of the first weeks training and again during the tactical training exercises and field bivouac period, according to Lt. Col. James O'Rourke of Roxbury, Division G-2.

The men in bright green uniforms and "Mars" helmets participated in ambush actions, roadblocks, communications interference and stealthy night raids.

Surpassed only by the fine operational performance in the field which was reported daily to Lt. Col. Howard Elliot of Waltham, G-3, the health and safety record of the Yankee Division was also one of its best. Col. Eugene Mittleman of Newton, YD Surgeon, had fewer actual hospital patients than ever before, principally due to a new system of out-patient procedure which in effect saw the numerous—less-serious cases of a medical nature, being treated and held for short periods at the Medical Clearing Company. This tended to reduce the hospitalization ration and returned men to duty in a shorter time to contribute to the overall efficiency of all units. Expert medical attention was supervised by 17 doctors and 5 dentists.

Another contributing factor to the low casualty rate was the strict adherence to a vehicular safety program initiated by the Commanding General directed by Lt. Col. Wallace Davis of Cambridge and executed by Lt. Col. Angelo Mantano of Needham, Division Provost Marshall.

The nearly two and one half million vehicle miles of driving with the resultant low accident ratio, is an excellent record, according to Major General Otis M. Whitney, Division Commander, who is an authority on the subject of traffic figures in his "civilian" occupation as Commissioner of Public Safety for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

On the lighter side, the mail and postal traffic (Postal Officer Lt. Donald Alcantara) for the division was terrific. From July 6th, and continuing through July 17, Guardsmen began receiving 3,000 letters per day and approximately 200 packages. By the end of the first week, the figures had jumped to 7100 letters and 400 packages. Division postal authorities estimated that the figure would go to 11,000 letters and 500 packages for a grand total for the training period of 60 thousand pieces of mail and some 4,000 packages. . . . mostly containing "brownies," "toll-house" cookies and other samples of other-than-GI cooking!

The boys themselves didn't do badly either, sending out 7,000 pieces of mail on the top day and averaging 3,000 per day for the rest of the encampment. Their packages went out, too, on a lesser scale, with 92 "souvenirs" on the top mailing day.

HIGH PRAISE FOR AUXIES!

It is indeed gratifying at this period, when the current outlook is so often, "What's in it for me?" to find a group of public spirited citizens giving freely of their time and efforts to make the town a better place in which to live.

The Star refers to the Auxiliary Police of Winchester, who since their formation in 1940 have served the community faithfully and well. Many do not realize that besides their regular and voluntary assignments, they are on call for all emergencies. Many of the members gave of their time during the holiday over the Fourth, helping materially to make this a safer town, and during the recent big storm the Auxiliary Police responded to render service to their fellow townsmen.

The following letter from the Board of Selectmen to Auxiliary Chief Herbert T. Wadsworth is significant:

Mr. Herbert T. Wadsworth
Chief, Auxiliary Police 15 Norwood Street
Winchester, Massachusetts

Dear Mr. Wadsworth:

The fine work which you and the members of the Auxiliary Police of the Town of Winchester have recently performed has been brought to the attention of the Selectmen by Chief Harrold.

May we commend you and your force for the voluntary service rendered on traffic duty over the 4th of July week end and last Friday during the storm.

The Town of Winchester is indeed fortunate in enjoying the benefits of the work done by our Auxiliary Police.

Very truly yours
The Board of Selectmen
John A. Dolan
Chairman

Race Week NotesWinchester Sailors At Marblehead

(Special to the Star)

The annual Race Week regatta at Marblehead began Saturday, July 19, under poor weather conditions. The Saturday morning small boat races were held in spite of showers and variable winds, but by afternoon conditions kept getting worse. The Eastern Yacht Club, sponsoring the Saturday race, started a few of the larger boats, which use the outside line, then cancelled other classes as the wind increased.

Several boats were disabled and failed to finish. Byron Wiswell finished in his U.S. One Design "The Goose," minus his jib, which had been torn away. Another tardy Winchester skipper, Harry Bean, sailed his "Beanie" home in the 210 class with no apparent damage. Those classes which start on the inside line were confused as to whether the committee had postponed or cancelled their class. Several Winchester snipe sailors failed to start, only three snipes starting officially, and none checked in as finishing.

Clarence Borggaard was in evidence, sailing his successor to the "Ragabag" back and forth between the dock and the starting, but whether he was one of the snipe skippers who actually raced, the Star correspondent was unable to learn.

Coakley Pleon Winner
Sunday, the Pleon Yacht Club always runs off their races for juniors, that is, only skippers under 21 years old. This race was postponed due to the continued high winds, and several of the Winchester snipe sailors believed it was cancelled. Officially, however, two snipes started. Dan Coakley of the Winchester club, in his "First Try," finishing in first place, and the other snipe skipper being disqualified.

Former WBC Boat Wins
Monday, July 21, was the second day of the Eastern Yacht Club's three race series. For the first time all classes were able to sail without the risk of upset or damaged equipment.

On the inside line, the Snipe Class, usually well represented by the Winchester Boat Club fleet, started five out of twelve from WBC, the other seven being from Cottage Park, or other clubs.

The winning Snipe was "Navilux," recently purchased by Charles Toombs of Cottage Park, from Bart Sullivan of the Winchester fleet.

Herb Alderson of Winchester, sailing "Missy," was a close second with third and fourth places going to Forrestal and Ford, both of Cottage Park.

The next Winchester boat was "Ragabag II," which Clarence Borggaard brought in fifth, followed by the veteran Winchester skipper Jim Snow, sailing his "Ziba" home in sixth place.

Other Winchester finishers were Burros, eighth, in "Sinbad," and Carl Freyer, tenth, in "Winsome."

Unfortunately for the Winchester fleet, three of their high point skippers of past years, Rod Long, Ken Cook, and Tom Legere were unable to get to Marblehead.

Larger Class Sailing
In the larger classes sailing the outside course, there is always interest in Harry Bean, whose "Beanie" is a regular contender in the 210 Class, and Byron Wiswell in the U.S. One Designs.

Harry Bean took second place in the first division of the 210's, and Byron Wiswell, with his torn jib patched up, brought the "Goose" home in second place in the U.S. One Designs.

Eastern Trophy to Alderson

The third and last race of the Eastern Yacht Club series was sailed Tuesday in a light southeasterly breeze. For the Winchester Boat Club's snipe fleet the day proved more successful than Monday in points scored.

Although outnumbered by the Snipes from Boston Bay, Winchester's hard working Clarence Borggaard, with his son Roger, took first place by a slight margin over Herb Alderson of W.B.C., whose Snipe "Missy," is one of the leading boats on Mystic Lake.

The Borggaards in late years have had only moderate success with "Ragabag II," forcing Clarence to build "Ragabag II," during the past winter. He should now feel repaid, after finally finishing first.

Herb Alderson of Winchester, with second place Monday and second place Sunday, will take home the Eastern Yacht Club Trophy. Third place in this race went to Sue Forrestal of Cottage Park, who beat out her brother Jack for the first time.

Jack Forrestal came in fifth just behind Morley of Town River. Carl Freyer of Winchester brought in "Winsome" in sixth place, followed by Winchester's Jim Snow sailing "Ziba" home in seventh.

Another Second to "Beanie"

In the larger 210 Class, sailing the outside course, Harry Bean repeated his performance of Sunday, as "Beanie" again finished second place in the first division.

LEAVE CANCELLED

Sgt. Bernard A. Marvin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Marvin of 8 Chestnut road, had his leave cancelled while visiting this week with his parents at their summer home in Meredith, N. H.

With the cancellation were orders to return to Washington where on the morning after his arrival Sgt. Marvin left by plane for Europe. As the Star went to press Sgt. Marvin's parents had not learned of his exact destination.

While attending Winchester High School and prior to his enlistment Sgt. Marvin was a photographer for the Star, and during his service in the Marine he has been an official photographer for the corps.

EDITORIALS

There is what appears to be an increasing tendency on the part of motorists to ignore the fact that Thompson street at Waterfield road and Waterfield road at both Church street and the Parkway are stop streets. This is especially true of those entering the Parkway from Waterfield road. It seems to be the exception rather than the rule when someone stops there.

There is double likelihood of a collision when cars fail to stop at stop streets, because those approaching such streets expect the cars leaving them to stop. They are required by regulation to do so, and yet we have seen many instances where collisions would have occurred had it not been for the alert stopping of the car having the right of way.

The motorist entering Waterfield road from Church street, turning left, stands an excellent chance of being struck amidsthips by these "go-through" boys and girls who drive up the incline past Waterfield Building and breeze into Church street without even breaking stride.

The police cannot be everywhere, of course, and undoubtedly have much more important things to do than ensuring that cars do stop when required by stop signs to do so.

If, however, the police can have an officer on the watch once in a while at the intersections we have named and have him turn in a few of these "go-through" drivers, we believe conditions could be helped a lot. And by all means these drivers who whiz along Church street, making as if to turn into Waterfield road, and then suddenly make a U-turn into a parking place on the opposite side of the street—they should have their wings clipped, and closely! They are awfully hard on the blood pressure of the operators who are trying to drive carefully!

IF YOU CHANGE YOUR MIND ABOUT A PURCHASE...

The appearance of this Service Message in these columns is evidence that this publication subscribes wholeheartedly to the principles of the Boston Better Business Bureau, and co-operates with the Bureau in protecting you... even to the extent of refusing to accept the advertising of firms whose advertising and sales policies are contrary to the public interest.

Many people believe that they are entitled to a refund if they decide to return an article they've bought.

This is not so.

Only if goods have been misrepresented to the customer, can he demand his money back. When merchandise is bought, the money then belongs to the seller, and the merchandise to the buyer. To ask for a refund, is to ask the retailer to buy it back!

When a firm allows refunds or exchanges of purchased articles, it is a matter of individual store policy, and of courtesy to the customer... not a legal requirement.

Serving the Public and Business of Metropolitan Boston

This organization is supported by reputable business institutions of Metropolitan Boston and operates, without profit, to promote fair dealing and integrity in the printed and spoken word. Our service is offered without charge—we have nothing to sell.

It is hard to fathom the mental processes of anyone who will rip out a telephone instrument from a public pay station, especially one located on the street.

Those booths are placed out of doors for the convenience of the public and under certain conditions might mean more than convenience to someone, perhaps in need of assistance of some kind. Most of us can think of cases where a public phone available when places of business are closed for the night could mean a lot, if not actually safety; a ride home perhaps for someone ill or exhausted.

To be sure, the police are always available, but some people never seem to think of the police in an emergency, and others seem to think there is something wrong with turning to the police for help.

At all events, telephone pay stations, like life preservers, are for the use and safety of the public. They should be used properly, or let alone. We can well imagine it would be hard with anyone the authorities detect tampering with either.

Almost daily on the police blotter there appear entries telling of the loss of valuable articles at the town beaches, usually by theft.

The Star has often called attention to the fact that things of value should not be taken to the beach, or if they must be, they should be given to the beach authorities to watch over until the owner is ready to leave.

Taking money in any real amount, or other things of value, like radios, and leaving them where they can be easily picked up by the unscrupulous is asking for trouble. More than that, it may be placing temptation in the way of one who for one reason or another is not strong enough to resist it.

Going away for the summer? Look out for your water, gas and electricity, lock ALL the doors and windows, not just those on the first floor, and notify the police of the length of your absence and where a key to your house can be found.

These precautions will not, of course, guarantee you will not have a break, but those who ought to know, believe they help, and help a lot!

Police will tell you that many empty houses are entered through unlocked doors and windows. Don't make it that easy for the burglar, or mischievous kid. Lock up the house, and tell the police. They want to help, but they can't give you that extra protection if they don't know you are away.

RECEIVED ANNAPOLIS BID ON ROTC CRUISE

John Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Foster of 34 Lloyd street, was notified Monday in Rotterdam, Holland of his appointment to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis. A student at Cornell University, he was with the U.S.S. Macon on a Navy ROTC cruise.

Foster, a graduate of Winchester High School and former manager of the football team, entered Cornell last fall, enrolling in the ROTC at the University. He was among 21 Cornell ROTC members who took examinations for the Naval Academy last fall, and was one of two of the group to pass the exams.

Hearing nothing further from the examinations, "Johnny" put the matter out of his mind, and as a consequence was surprised when he was notified last Monday by the Navy Department of his acceptance by the Academy. His appointment was non-political, coming from the President of Cornell.

In the event of his accepting the appointment, Foster was to be flown to this country and given some time at home before reporting to the Academy, where classes had started in June.

While naturally pleased to learn that he had been accepted by the Academy, "Johnny" decided not to accept the appointment. He will remain at Cornell as a member of the ROTC and will be commissioned an ensign upon his graduation, after which he will serve four years in the Navy.

If he had gone to Annapolis, he would have to repeat his freshman year, and after graduation would have been required to serve three years in the Navy, the amount of time required for him being the same in either case.

FELLSLAND NOTES

Recent events of interest at Camp Fellsland, the Boy Scout Camp in Amesbury, were a trip to Canobie Lake Park, where the campers enjoyed the various amusement features, and a visit by Red Sox Scout Joe Brawley, who showed the 1957 World's Series game and the All Star game.

The Scouts evidently benefited by the pointers he gave them during an all day coaching session, and Fellsland was able to defeat Pow Wow in the ball game the day after his departure.

Scouts from Medford, Woburn, Burlington and Stoneham are also at the camp.

STARFISH OFTEN BEAT GOURMETS TO OYSTERS

Oystermen have appealed to Congress for an all-out war against a five-armed invader—the starfish. This weird creature gobbles up millions of oysters every year, wreaking havoc in one of America's important food industries. Oystermen have poured thousands of dollars into a never ending battle to halt the marauders. They have caught thousands of starfish, but the predators keep right on coming. Congressmen from Connecticut seek legislation authorizing the Interior Department to make a $1 million campaign against the starfish. Scientists are experimenting with chemical treatment of oyster beds. More research is needed to find effective controls.

Related to Sea Urchins
Though the bane of oystermen, the starfish has fascinating habits, the National Geographic Society reports. Its manner of life differs markedly from that of most animals known to man. The creature is not a fish at all. It belongs to the Echinodermata phylum, a biological grouping that includes the sea urchins, brittle stars, sea cucumbers, and sea lilies.

The starfish's body radiates as many as 40 arms, though the five-armed starfish is best known. Slender transparent tubes called "tube feet" stubble the arms. Each tube foot has a sucking disk at its extremity.

To move, the starfish draws itself forward on these suckers at the rate of about six inches a minute. Though, slow, it has no trouble catching clams, which are even slower, or oysters, which don't move at all.

To open an oyster—often nearly as big as itself—the starfish grasps its prey in a many-armed embrace. Hundreds of sucking disks fasten onto the shell and begin to tug in relays so that some can rest while others pull. The oyster can resist the pressure for a while, but eventually it tires. The shell opens, and the battle is over.

The starfish then turns the lower part of its stomach inside out and extends it through a mouth at the center of its underside. When the meal is over, the stomach withdraws.

Regenerates Lost Arms
Menhaden and other fish prey on the starfish, but it has a trick to avoid destruction: it can lose an arm and grow it back again. Even more startling, a severed arm can develop into a complete starfish. Before biologists made this discovery, oystermen would often cut up the starfish they caught and throw them back into the sea. This simply increased the number of pests. Starfish are caught by dragging huge mops over the sea bottom. Tiny piners on the starfish's arms grasp the mop threads and do not let go. These piners act almost independently of the rest of the starfish. They are believed to protect the skin-gills from parasites.

At breeding time, thousands of eggs and sperm are shed into the water, where fertilization occurs. Curiously, an unfertilized egg may develop normally in the laboratory if it is stimulated with certain acids or concentrated sea water.

The larva looks nothing at all like the mature starfish. The armless little blob moves about by means of tiny hairs. It settles on some solid object and remains fixed while the adult phase develops inside its body.

The Bahamas, made up of 3,000 islands, cays, and rocks, depend on the sea for transportation, food, and wealth. From the time of the first settlement, says the National Geographic Magazine, the sea has been the chief highway. Columbus found dugout canoes that were capable of voyaging between islands. Fish has always been the main staple of diet.

FIREFIGHTERS FREED BOY

Wednesday forenoon shortly after 10:30 the Central Fire Station received a call for help to free a boy who had his hand caught in a door.

The rescue truck with Firefighters John Flaherty, James Hagerty and Joseph Connolly went to the home of Mrs. James Mulcare, 4 Rangeley Ridge, and there found that four-year-old Thomas Mulcare had caught his right hand in a swinging door.

Using two axes the firefighters pried the door sufficiently to release the child's hand and Thomas was taken to the Winchester Hospital for treatment, accompanied by his mother. The full extent of his injury was not immediately determined.

Abduction Case Here

Lt. Derro Solves Mystery
Has Victim Returned Home

Abduction cases have been rare in Winchester police annals. The Star can recall no such case, at least in recent years, and so it is a great source of satisfaction to us, and to everyone that the first instance of abduction to take place here, so far as this paper's memory serves, was so successfully solved by Lt. Joseph J. Derro of the police department last Saturday.

To be sure we do not believe that either the abductor, nor the abductee, shall we say, participating in last Saturday's activity realized the serious contravention of the law involved. The abductor may have wondered a bit about the legality of his act, or he may not, but the abductee very definitely did not realize what a serious crime was being committed. For the abductee was a duck—one of the town ducks that are based at the Mill Pond and spend their days swimming the turgid waters of the Aberjona and accepting bread and other handouts from those who like to feed them during the temperate summer months.

As we get the story, which thus far, at least, has had no serious international complications, the first word of any abduction in Winchester came early last Saturday afternoon when police headquarters was notified that a man had gotten out of an automobile and stolen "one of the town hall ducks."

Lt. Derro was at headquarters and felt that any such procedure as purloining a duck belonging to the town, abduction or no abduction, just wasn't cricket. He investigated and was at first told that the man who had swiped the duck had first enticed the fowl from the Mill Pond with bread. Then when the duck got near enough, he had picked it up and driven away with it in his car, one of those little M.G. jobs. Why the whole business smacked of foreign intrigue!

Later on Lt. Derro got a somewhat different story, but chronologically this fact does not come next.

When the duck was abducted the whole business was witnessed by Lois Russo, 17, of 84 Swanton street, daughter of Library Custodian Louis Russo, who hastened to tell her dad the story. Mr. Russo sent his fellow custodian to tell the police and apparently neither custodian knew exactly where the "pickup" had been made.

With fine presence of mind Miss Russo had given the number of the car the kidnapper had driven, and Lt. Derro got right on the "track down" trail. He finally found that the driver of the car lived in Somerville, but he was unable to contact him. Further investigation disclosed the fact that the driver was married to a Stoneham girl, and at her former home
Lt. Derro struck oil.

When asked why the police were in search of the son-in-law and when told the whole story, the father-in-law stated that he had the duck in question, and was at the moment giving the bird a bath in a washtub. Every member of his family was crazy about the bird.

He insisted that his son-in-law law? Gee, he hoped not!

That offered at least extenuating circumstances, but had no direct bearing upon the order to return the duck!

This the father-in-law did, and escorted by one of the firefighters from the Central Station, he returned the fowl to its habitat at the Mill Pond.

Later son-in-law showed up at the police station and corroborated the contention that he had picked up the duck at the traffic circle. He liked animals and birds of all kinds, he said, and was afraid the duck would be killed, his first thought, being preservation of the fowl's life! He hadn't worried about the owner of the duck, and hadn't thought about any laws that might apply!

When he got the duck to his home in Somerville and found out how tame the bird was, he decided it would make a fine pet for his little girl, visiting her grandparents in Stoneham. He had taken the duck thither, and that was it. Was he in trouble with the law? Gee, he hoped not!

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

DAY CAMP

Camp Joy, the day camp operated by the Winchester Council of Girl Scouts, recently completed a successful four week season. The camp was run in two sessions of eight days each, and the campers placed in five units according to age and interest. The unit leaders were Mary Lou Eugley, Corinne Ford, Lib Knight, Lillian Monsen and Marjorie Todd. They were assisted by Senior Scouts from troops 2 and 10, and included Kathy Oliver, Babs March, Joan Denton, Marie Enright, Betsy Root, Anne Dyson, Marilyn Beckley and Martha Maloney. Other staff members were Ellen Glowacki, Brownie crafts; Ruth MacIndewar, Intermediate crafts; and Eleanor Shinnick, camp director. Mrs. Shinnick, who holds a Red Cross First Aid Instructor's certificate, took care of any minor cuts and bruises, and also worked with the campers in ceramics and pottery. The entire camp enjoyed singing together each afternoon with Mary Lou Eugley.

A unit for older girls, those entering 7th and 8th grades in the fall, proved most successful. There were 15 girls registered in this unit, and 12 of them were at camp for both sessions. Their program was planned by the girls and included an overnight at Cedar Hill in Waltham, under the supervision of Mary Lou Eugley, Lillian Monsen, Kathy Oliver and Betsy Root. A few qualified campers from Unit 2 were also included in this trip out of camp. Enthusiastic reports of sleeping in tents, swimming in the pool, and being kept awake by a racoon, were heard at camp the next day.

Parents and friends were invited to camp at the end of each session when all units planned and participated in the program. Highlight of the program on the final day at camp, was the presentation of a new camp song. The words and music were written by Mrs. Eugley, and the name, "Happy Memories," was chosen by the campers from several camper suggestions. Enrollment for the 1958 season was high, with 114 campers attending the first session and 88 for the second session. The Medford Girl Scout Council will again operate a day camp at the Winchester Cabin for a five week period, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Logan.

The Winchester Girl Scout Office will be closed until September 2nd.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

What happens in a heartbeat, that life-giving phenomenon which occurs more than 2½ billion times in a 70-year lifetime?

A complex, and marvelously efficient, process which is doing two vital jobs at once.

Your heart is a four-chambered pump. The two small chambers, the atria, are on top; the two large "rooms", the ventricles, beneath them.

The top and bottom chambers in the left-sized muscle, for that's what your heart is, are connected by small valves, but the left and right sides are partitioned from each other by tissue. Leading out from the top of your heart is a maze of veins and arteries, the roads through which blood which nourishes your body is carried to and from the heart.

Your heart's left side takes oxygen-charged blood from the lungs; the right side, meanwhile, takes in "used" blood from all parts of the body.

Both sides of your heart contract and expand, in a motion curiously like squeezing and relaxing, at the same time within their common casing.

When this occurs, the left side of your heart is pumping oxygen-laden "fresh" blood to feed your body, and your right side is pumping "used" blood to your lungs to rid it of carbon dioxide and taken on oxygen.

Here's the story of one heart-beat:

Taking the right side first, the upper chamber (atrium) receives the charge of blood from your emptying veins, and then contracts. Meanwhile the lower chamber (ventricle) simultaneously expands so that the blood is pushed and sucked through a connecting valve.

A fraction of a second later, the filled right ventricle contracts. But instead of forcing the blood back into the upper chamber, the connecting valve is closed tight. The blood is pushed through a second valve leading to the lungs. The blood enters through one door, leaves through another. When it has left, that door in turn closes so that the blood cannot return.

Over on the left side of your heart, the same kind of process is under way; blood empties from the lung-vein into the left upper chamber and passes through a mitral valve well known for its place in heart surgery, to the lower chamber. The powerful left lower chamber jams shut this valve and propels the blood forcefully through still another door, through the aorta, or great artery, which is the trunkline of your arterial system.

COMPLETES BELVOIR COURSE

Pvt. Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, Jr., of 250 Washington street recently completed the ten-week construction course at the Army Engineer School, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Fitzgerald was trained to record survey instrument observations and to provide survey data required for construction projects.

He entered the Army last February and received basic training at Fort Dix, N. J.

The 22-year-old soldier is a 1953 graduate of Winchester High School and a 1957 graduate of Tufts University. He was employed by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, Boston, before entering the Army.

COMMISSIONER FRENCH
SALVATION ARMY PREPARES ANNUAL CAMP MEETINGS

The annual Salvation Army camp meetings, one of this resort area's most cherished summertime events, will begin August 8, it was announced today by Colonel Ralph T. Miller, Provincial Commander, at Old Orchard Beach, Maine.

Featured speaker at the spiritual sessions will be Commissioner Holland French, Salvation Army leader from the Eastern U.S.

Adding an international flavor this year will be the Dovecourt Citadel Band of Toronto, Canada, which will give free public concerts.

This famed orchestra is made up of clerks and bankers, laborers and professional men, all Salvation Army members who play without pay.

Special speakers will include: Lt. Comm. Wm. Davidson, Commander of the Southern States; Col. Wm. Harris, Chief Secretary for the Eastern States; and Col. Albert E. Dalziel, noted bible leader.

VISITING IN HAWAII

"Teddy" Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Elliott of Horrick street, is enjoying a vacation at Wahiawa, Oahu, some 20 miles from Honolulu in Hawaii where he is visiting John Maesaka, who was his freshman roommate at Harvard.

John and his younger brother met "Teddy" at the airport in Honolulu with a cute "wahiv" (girl), who gave him a big kiss and a large "lei" to wear around his neck. He has found the Maesaka home nicely appointed and tastefully decorated with a cool green the predominant color, and just the right blending of the American and Oriental in the furnishings. He and his host have walked along Waikiki Beach, visited sugar cane and pineapple plantations and enjoyed the glorious surf bathing.

"Teddy" is planning to fly back to Los Angeles August 16 and is hoping for a flight to match his trip out, which he described as only slightly rougher than a ride in an expensive baby carriage.

On his way to Honolulu, "Teddy" stopped over in Seattle, Washington, to visit his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond Cronin (Barbara Elliott). Thoroughly enjoying the temperate weather, which permits both skiing and bathing in Seattle, "Teddy" had all his meals out of doors on the porch of his sister's home commanding a view of the 20 mile-long Lake Washington.

A friend of Mr. Cronin, who is an FBI agent, working nights, introduced "Teddy" to the intricacies of water skiing and contrived to duck him thoroughly just as he was commencing to fancy himself as a performer.

Among other pleasant experiences "Teddy" had in Seattle was attending a performance of "Guys and Dolls", in which the audience viewed the performance in a beautiful outdoor setting across water.

While in Seattle he and his sister motored to northern Washington in time to catch the 7 a.m. ferry to Sidney, B. C. where they visited the Butchart Gardens, beautiful rock and formal gardens made by a wealthy couple who transformed an old quarry into a horticultural wonderland, the work taking many years and costing millions of dollars.

During his visit to Sydney "Teddy" was interviewed by a broadcaster from the Vancouver station CKDA TV, the Winchester boy getting in a fine plug for the old home town as well as diplomatically praising the Northwest. "Teddy" claims he didn't have his tongue in his cheek when he cracked up the Northwest as he really likes it.

Fulfillment of Jesus' promise "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8:32) is the present-day possibility. This is a theme to be brought out in the Christian Science services Sunday.

Scriptural texts and comparative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy and "The Golden Rule" by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy. Among the selections from Science and Health will be read the following (3:12, 12:19, 24:26): "Mortals try to believe what they understand; but God is Truth, and he who understands Truth yet God is Truth. A personal sense of God and of man's capabilities necessarily limits faith and hinders spiritual understanding." The Golden Rule is from Psalms (25:5): "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day."

Slugged by Intruder

Ridge Street Resident Sustained Head Injuries

Shortly after 1:30 last Friday morning the police were notified that a resident of Ridge street had been badly injured when he was slugged by an intruder in his home.

Officer Robert Elliott, with Officer George MacMillan in Patrol 52, and Officers Mario Buzzotta and George Stevenson in Patrol 51 went to the Locke home at 78 Ridge street in the West Side hill district and there found that Chester Locke, 70, had sustained severe head injuries when he was attacked by an intruder in his home about 1:30 Friday morning.

Upon their arrival the police found the front door to the house was open. In the hall they found the two brothers, Chester, 70, and Wendell, 67, the former bleeding profusely from wounds about the head and apparently in great pain. Officer Elliott took the injured man to the Winchester Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Phillip J. McManus. He sustained more than 15 lacerations, some reaching four inches in length, apparently made by a blunt instrument. X-rays were taken to determine whether there were more serious internal head injuries, but bearing these, it is believed Mr. Locke's recovery is assured.

He told the police he had been asleep in a room to the left of the front door. He evidently was awakened by some noise and got up to investigate. He had taken only a few steps when he was struck on the head with what he believed to be a blunt instrument of some sort.

Mr. Locke is blind and was unable to give the police any description of his assailant. He said he or his brother had recently left the front door unlocked, for the police could find no evidence that an entrance had been forced.

Mr. Locke's brother, Wendell, saw no one. His hearing is impaired and he had heard nothing either. He discovered his brother in the hall when he got up as usual to check the barn and livestock. The police commenced an immediate search of the neighborhood in an attempt to locate Mr. Locke's assailant, but without success. A search of the premises failed to disclose the weapon used in the assault, and a later search after daylight Friday morning was also unsuccessful.

A slugging incident was reported in Woburn about 1 o'clock the night before the assault at the Locke home. In Woburn Robert W. Patterson, 46, was slugged about the head by two men as he was walking between Sturgis street and Warren road on his way home from the Woburn railway station.

Before the Woburn slugging the victim was accosted by a young woman in a car who offered him a ride. Robbery was believed to be the motive in this case, but Patterson's cries frightened off his assailants before they were able to carry out their plans.

GEORGE ROBERT BLAKE, JR.

George Robert Blake, Jr., died at his home in Houston, Texas, on July 24. He was the son of Mrs. George Robert Blake of 37 Grove street and the late Mr. Blake. A native of Winchester, he was a graduate of Culver Military Academy, and Harvard University, where he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, and he had his Master's degree from Rice Institute.

Mr. Blake was a bomber pilot in the U. S. Air Force during World War II. He was plant manager of Sheffield Steel in Houston, and was active in civic and fraternal organizations.

He is survived by his wife Ella Mae (Givens) Blake, two daughters June and Barbara; his mother, two sisters, Mrs. Richmond E. Boswick of Reading and Miss Barbara Blake of Winchester; and two brothers, Paul G. of Buffalo, New York, and Lt. Kenneth A. Blake, Strategic Air Command, U. S. Air Force. Funeral services and interment were held in Houston on July 28.

SWIMMERS LOSE SHOULDER BAGS

Thomas J. Kilcoyne, an employee of the Park Department, came to police headquarters Wednesday with two shoulder bags he had found at the Packer courts on Palmer street. Identification in the bags placed them as the property of two Somerville girls, Annette B. Corriere of 15 Howe way and Patricia Mack of 39 Thurston street.

The Somerville police were notified and later that day Miss Corriere claimed the bags. She stated that she and Miss Mack had been swimming at Palmer street Tuesday evening with Francis O. Ducharme of 49 First street, Medford, going to the beach in Ducharme's automobile.

While they were there they saw an automobile pull up beside the Ducharme car and remain there a few minutes, and when they returned to the automobile they found their bags and a cigarette lighter had been stolen. The sum of $31 was taken from Miss Mack's bag before the two bags were left at the police station.

Tuesday evening shortly before 10:30 Daniel Chane of 125 Forest street reported that a wheel and white sidewall tire had been stolen from his Ford stationwagon, parked in his garage.

MRS. BETH EVA CORLISS

Mrs. Beth Eva Corliss, widow of William Henry Corliss and a former resident of Winchester, died Monday, July 28, after a long illness. Born in Brooklyn, N. S., April 19, 1875, Mrs. Corliss was the daughter of Andrew and Susan (Cook) Ellington. She came here from Nova Scotia only five years ago and had made her home with her son, Ross, at 64 Vine street until she became seriously ill.

Besides her son, Ross, now living in Tewksbury, she leaves a son, Albert L. Wynnot of Winchester; three grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and a brother, Louis Ellington of Liverpool, N. S.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the LaFayette Home with the Rev. Ralph B. Putney, assistant rector of the Church of the Epiphany, officiating. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetery.

TO TOUR EUROPE

Miss Carol Damon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Damon, Jr., of Arlington street, sails today on the Ile de France for a tour of England and Continental Europe. Accompanied by three of her 1958 classmates at Vassar, she will visit England, France, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and the World's Fair in that country, returning on the Liberte in October. The girls have hired a car and a guide and plan to see as many places of interest as possible during their trip.

FIRES

Though there were no serious fires during the week past, the firefighters had several runs, three of which were for persons locked out of their dwellings.

Friday evening at 7:31 they were called to 52 Emerson road for a fire in a dishwasher, and Saturday evening at 6:35, to 56 Emerson road for a fire in a kitchen range. The latter fire was out before the apparatus arrived.

EMERGENCY CALL

Abnormally low blood supplies at hospital and Red Cross blood banks have created a critical situation in the Greater Boston area. Hospital officials and the medical profession have indicated their growing concern over this serious shortage which has occurred not only during a season when blood is most needed, but during a time when blood transfusions have become standard procedure in an increasing number of surgical operations.

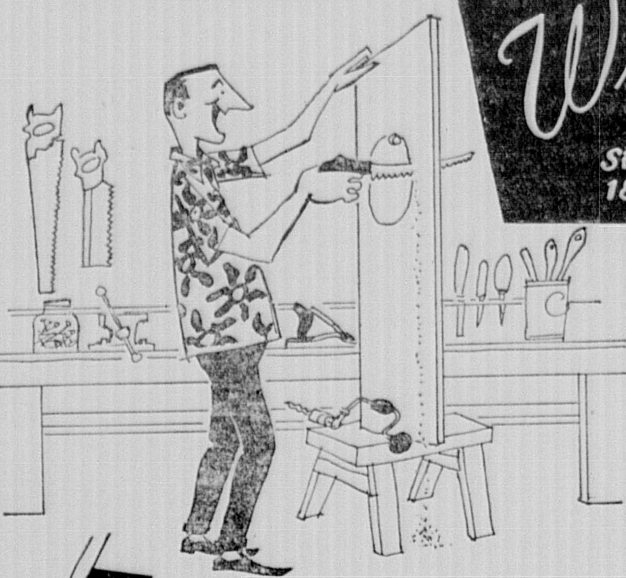

In an effort to alleviate this critical shortage, the Town of Winchester, Reading, Wakefield and Stoneham will have a joint Blood Day on Monday, August 11, from 1 to 7 p.m., at the Winchester Red Cross Chapter House, 84 Washington street. Those persons who have not yet established blood credit with the Red Cross are particularly urged to do so at this time. Phone Winchester 6-2300 for an appointment.

Pet Parakeet Precedes Family To Winchester

Captain Kenneth West, USN, son of Mrs. H. T. West of 24 Mason street, with his wife and their three children, sons, Daniel and Jay; and daughter, Gretchen; is on his way back to the States on the cruise ship Matsonia of the Matson Line, docking in San Francisco about August 5.

Preceding the Wests to Winchester was their parakeet, "Meeko," which was flown from Honolulu to Boston, arriving Wednesday. Capt. West's mother picked up the bird at the airport and found him chattering and chattering away to everyone within range.

A great talker, he was saying, "My name's 'Meeko'; what's yours?" Passengers were finding him very entertaining.

The Wests have owned "Meeko" actually since before he broke out of his egg. He was raised for them by a friend and is a really beautiful bird, chartreuse, yellow and blue with a long tail. He loves to talk and to tell every one his name.

Captain West and his family are returning to the States from Pearl Harbor where he has been captain of the USS Hassayampa, a tanker. His next assignment takes him to Washington.

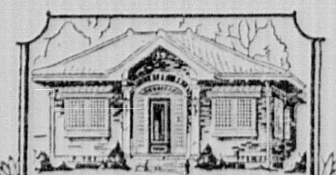

After docking at San Francisco the Wests will take one of the Canadian - Pacific's vista - dome trains to Montreal and from there come to Boston and Winchester.

Captain West graduated from Winchester High School in 1931 and from Annapolis in 1935. He served in both World War II and the Korean action.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall W. Symmes have returned from a trip to Colorado Springs, Rocky Mountain National Park, Yellowstone National Park and the Big Horn Mountains where they visited the battlefield of Custer's last stand which is now a National Monument.

ELKS TO HOLD OUTING

Winchester Lodge of Elks is renewing on Sunday, August 10, an old custom that was popular with the lodge in years gone by.

On that date the lodge is sponsoring a clambake and outing at Stage Fort Park in Gloucester with buses and private cars leaving the Elks Home at 10 o'clock Sunday forenoon.

Reservations positively must be made to go on the outing and all members are urged to contact the stewards at once to sign up. It is hoped to make the event an annual affair, and the attendance and enthusiasm this year will go far to determine whether further bakes will be held.

Joe Peel is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements and promises an interesting program, which may or may not include potato and three-legged races, a ball game and horseshoe pitching, according to popular demand.

The complete menu is also being kept a dark secret, but a clambake without roast corn and watermelon just can't qualify, unless, of course, there chances to be something better in store.

AD TAX VOIDED

The City of Baltimore's controversial taxes on advertising have been declared unconstitutional, the judge who heard the case stating in a 29 page decision declaring, "these ordinances violated the fundamental constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press and therefore the ordinances are invalid and void."

Last November 15, Baltimore adopted a four percent tax on gross sales of all advertising space in newspapers and other publications and on advertising time on radio and television; also a two percent tax on all the gross receipts of those publishers and broadcasters handling advertising. The taxes became effective January 1, 1958.

The city since has repealed the two taxes effective the end of this year and the State of Maryland has passed a law forbidding such levies in the future. Baltimore news and advertising media challenged the tax laws in the hope of recovering money paid in taxes. Papers everywhere have been awaiting the result of the litigation with much interest.

ANTARCTICA'S LITTLE AMERICA WILL FLOAT AWAY ON ICEBERG

The relentless forces of nature are threatening to destroy Little America, famed base in Antarctica. The base stands on the Ross Ice Shelf. An enormous floating ice field fed by glaciers, the shelf moves north at the rate of about four feet a day, the National Geographic Society reports. At the seaward edge, huge tabular icebergs break off and float away. Sooner or later, this will happen to the Little America site, and already plans have been made to abandon the camp and move its equipment to other Antarctic stations.

The Ross Ice Shelf, about the size of California, weighs several billion tons. Its movement stems from the plastic nature of ice itself. It flows under the tremendous pressure of the glaciers which are its source.

The present Little America is actually the fifth base on the shelf to bear the name made famous by the late Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, first man to fly over the North and South poles. So cherished is the name of Little America that already there is talk of establishing a Little America VI. Byrd established the original Little America in January 1929, during his first Antarctic expedition. The camp stood 792 miles from the geographic South Pole and 820 miles from the South Magnetic Pole.

Though temperatures went so low a man could hear his breath freeze, Byrd and his men built a comfortable American village with weather-tight buildings, electric lights, and artificial ventilation. Little America's first residents left in 1930, having carried the United States flag 1,000 miles farther south than it had ever been before.

When Byrd returned to Little America in 1934, he found the old camp intact beneath 30 feet of snow. He built the second Little America directly above the first. By digging tunnels, he was able to use some of the old buildings.

A dramatic moment came during Byrd's stay in Little America II. One night, without warning, the ice where the camp was situated broke loose from the shelf. The explorers felt themselves lifted and lowered on a giant sea swell. Fortunately, a cold spell healed the cracked ice.

Byrd built a third Little America six miles to the north, during his 1940-41 expedition, and a fourth — a tent city — when he led the Navy's mammoth Operation Highjump in 1946-47. During this operation, a party of men went to the abandoned Little America II and found beefsteak, bread, butter, and candy left behind six years before. The abandoned provisions were in excellent condition, and the party picnicked on them.

Little America V was established in 1956 about 30 miles from the other camps during Operation Deepfreeze in support of the International Geophysical Year. Little America V has served as the cen-

PECK AND PECK WINDOW BROKEN

While Officer Joseph L. Quigley was on duty in the street Saturday evening shortly before 10 o'clock he was notified by several persons that the plate glass window had been broken in the vestibule of the Peck and Peck store at 538 Main street.

Officer Quigley knew that the window had been all right at 9:15, but when he arrived at the store he found a broken area in the window about two feet square, evidently broken by some one's arm or body, since there was no sign of a missile and the glass was inside the store. A woman's handbag on display in the window had not been taken.

There had apparently been no witnesses to the breaking of the glass, but later in the evening an 18-year-old Winchester youth came to police headquarters to report that the window had been broken when youths pushed him into the doorway and against the glass as he was passing the store.

Police say the boys responsible will be summoned into court.

Winchester Skippers Come Back

Marblehead Honors To Borggaard And Freyer

Thursday, July 24, saw the beginning of the three-race series sponsored by the Corinthian Yacht Club.

For the first time during race week, the Winchester snipe fleet lost the domination of this class by being heavily outnumbered. Two of Winchester's top skippers of the earlier races were absent. Herb Alderson, with the highest score of the week to date, left Marblehead Wednesday night due to other commitments, while Dick Cook, last year's New England champion, accepted a chance to sail in the larger 210 class.

Carl Freyer in "Winsome" actually saved the day for Winchester by coming in third. First place was taken by Morley of Town River and second by Jack Forrestal of Cottage Park. His sister Sue came in fourth, followed by Winchester's Jim Snow whose "Ziba" finished fifth.

The "Navillus" of Cottage Park came in sixth, just ahead of Clarence Borggaard, whose "Ragabag II" fell back into seventh place. Following him came Buros of Winchester in "Sinbad".

Bean 210 Winner
In the 210 class, Winchester's Harry Bean, whose "Beanie" is always well up in front, finished first in the top division. Twice before during the week, he finished second.

Byron Wiswell, one of the leaders in the big U.S. One Design, had to settle for third place, after taking second on two occasions during the week.

The second race, on Friday came out just the opposite of Thursday, as far as the Snipe Class is concerned, with the Winchester Club making a strong come-back. Of the twelve starters, the first four to finish were Winchester boats, and the last eight were the salt water skippers.

Third Win for Borggaard

For the third time this week Clarence and Roger Borggaard in "Ragabag II" finished first, by a margin of two minutes. Carl Freyer with Ralph Swanson as crew, came in second in "Winsome". Third place went to Jim and Heidi Snow in "Ziba", and Alan Buros, also of Winchester, finished fourth in "Sinbad".

This boat is well known to the old timers. It was built in 1941, by Don Simonds and won the New England Championship in 1946, and 1948 with Don Simonds, Jr., at the helm. Youthful Alan Buros, one of the newer Winchester skippers, deserves credit for bringing in this boat ahead of all the veteran salt water sailors, many using the newest type Snipes.

Turnabout Wins for Hall and Dannenberg

In the Turnabout class, Lester Hall, Jr., of the Winchester fleet, was the winner in the Red division. In the afternoon Turnabout race for Seniors, the winner was Warren Dannenberg also of Winchester. The third and last race of the

WINCHESTER SWIMMERS TO VISIT WESTON

Next Thursday, August 7, the members of the Winchester Swim Club will journey to Weston to compete against a greatly improved Weston team. Last year when these two teams met at Winchester the locals, led by Pat Murphy, Mollie Devaney, Bob Korwath and Pepper Cunningham won by a large margin. Weston's top swimmers were a pair of French brothers called Paul and Ed. These two won every event they entered and were the main reason Weston stayed in contention.

Mollie Devaney, Bob Korwath and Pepper Cunningham are missing from this year's Winchester team but Pat Murphy and Julie Devaney are expected to be high scorers for the girls. Bob Carroll and Joe Kane will carry the burden for the boys' team. Danny Winn, a hard working youngster, is showing promise and with continued efforts will have to be reckoned with before the season is over.

Weston's swimmers again will be led by 14 year olds Paul and Ed French—but the balance will be much better this year. Weston is still smarting from last summer's defeat and will be out to turn the tables.

Any Winchester boys and girls desiring to take part in this swimming meet should give their names to Mr. Burns at 9:15 Monday morning at Leonard Field Pool and they will be allowed to try out for the team. Transportation will be furnished by the local chapter of the American Red Cross. The team will assemble at Leonard Field Pool on Thursday, August 7 at 12 noon and will leave for Weston at 12:15 P. M.

The Winchester Swim Club is sponsored by the Winchester Red Cross and coached by Mr. Joseph Burns.

RACE WEEK NOTES

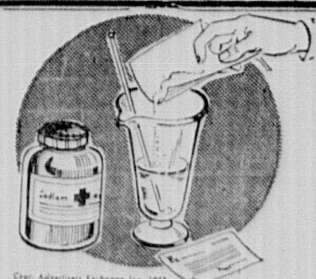

During the week a total of three boats from Winchester were active in the Turnabout Class.

The Dannenberg and the Hall boats had the most success, but Jane O'Malley with her crew Linda Chase were faithful and hard workers.

The Boat Club treasurer, Stan Gardner and his wife Ethel had an excellent view of the races from the new yacht owned by Edgar Cook, member of the Winchester, Boston and Medford Yacht Clubs. Incidentally Edgar's son Russell from the Medford Club won the championship for the week in the Comet Class.

The most loyal fans from the Winchester Boat Club, were the entire Dannenberg family, who were on hand every day, either racing or watching from the shore.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With Your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

There's a lot of solid sense in the ancient adage about the ounce of prevention and the pound of cure. Nowhere does this apply with more force than in your most precious possession—your health. And one way to better health is to re-visit your philosophy about the family doctor—to think of him as a man whose function it is to help keep us well, rather than just to treat us when we're ill.

A periodic checkup serves almost as important a purpose when you're perfectly healthy as when you are not. When you let the doctor look you over, tell him frankly anything that may be worrying you, and answer his questions fully and truthfully, you've taken a long step on the road to keeping your health. By this time, your doctor probably knows considerably more about you than you do about yourself. He will tell you whether to return for a checkup in a year, or perhaps six months. His decision will be based on your age and general level of health as he has found it in his examination.

Make your appointment on the spot—then don't worry about yourself. Suppose that within the next few weeks or months you fall sick—whether with a heart condition or just a common cold. You have already given your physician a vital tool in the form of that earlier checkup; he knows your normal condition.

Armed with your medical record, your family physician can compare the facts learned on your first visit with those which you face today. He will know whether your problem is one for him to handle or whether there should be consultation. He will be guided by what is best for you.

Your relationship with your family doctor is one of great importance. You need not even like him—although most of us do—but you must respect him and have confidence in him.

What should your doctor charge you? Usually there is an accepted rate, although fees may vary. Your doctor expects you to ask his charges on your first visit, and he wants you to feel completely free to discuss finances with him at any time. If you cannot pay his full fee, you will find him to be understanding. You place your life in your doctor's hands. He is your friend. You can help him to help you more effectively by having periodic checkups—and following his instructions.

WINCHESTER HOME BUILDING HAS SLIGHT INCREASE

By James F. Dwinell, Jr., President, Winchester Savings Bank.

The first six months of 1958 showed a slight rise in new home building for the Town of Winchester compared to the similar period last year with $1,087,500 for the first half of 1958 against $1,018,500 at this time a year ago. Additions, alterations and repairs to all types of structures, both dwelling and commercial types, amounted to $147,725 through June 1958 compared to $184,825 a year ago. Total volume of deed transfers and mortgages for the six months through June 30, 1958 came to 276 while the comparable period a year ago showed a figure of 236.

50% Of Homes Out-Dated
The tremendous latent market for home improvement highlights the findings of the largest marketing agency in the world, according to a report released early in July. Over half our homes were built in 1928 or earlier, which means there were no provisions for TV, few radios or home appliances of any kind, undersized garages, not enough closets, poor insulation, old-fashioned heating, and inadequate wiring.

Besides the need of improvements based on age alone, the report found that families with three or four children have increased about 50% since 1940. In most cases, it's been proved to be actually cheaper for families with $5000 to come to own a home costing $12,500 than to rent. The conclusion is inevitable. Over half of our homes are out-of-date and many are badly in need of remodeling. It will pay such home owners to consult a nearby savings bank that specializes in home modernizing loans of various types. The time spent in getting details would be well spent, and no obligation would result.

OPERATION ROAD WATCH

"Operation Road Watch" will be held simultaneously in every city and town of Massachusetts from 1:00 a. m. to 4:00 a. m. No public notice is to be given of this surprise checkup of every operator and motor vehicle on our highways during those hours.

State Police, Metropolitan Police, Registry Inspectors, and city and town police, working as a team, will check the license, registration, equipment, and operator of every vehicle. "Operation Road Watch" will be a united effort to remove from the highways drinking drivers and speeders.

It was also unanimously voted that Registrar of Motor Vehicles, Clement A. Riley, contact all factory representatives of automobile manufacturers in this area and request them to meet with him and the Traffic and Safety Committee of the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association to discuss the following items: 1. Governors for motor vehicles operated in Massachusetts. 2. Less emphasis on power of acceleration. 3. More regard for the safety of passengers.

These suggestions are based on photographs taken of recent fatal accidents which show that many of the vehicles involved were practically demolished on contact with fixed objects.

EMERGENCY CALL

RED CROSS BLOODMOBILE DAY AUGUST 11

Abnormally low blood supplies at hospital and Red Cross blood banks have created a critical situation in the Greater Boston area. Hospital officials and the medical profession have indicated their growing concern over this serious shortage which has occurred not only during a season when blood is most needed, but during a time when blood transfusions have become standard procedure in an increasing number of surgical operations.

In an effort to alleviate this critical shortage, the towns of Winchester, Reading, Wakefield and Stoneham will hold a joint Blood Day on Monday, August 11, from 1 to 7 p. m. at the Winchester Red Cross Chapter, House, 84 Washington street. Those persons who have not yet established blood credit with the Red Cross are particularly urged to do so at this time. Telephone Winchester 6-2500 for an appointment. au-12t

MARINE REUNION IN BOSTON

More than 2,000 Marines and former Marines who served in the highly-decorated First Marine Division will come to Boston from all over the nation on August 8, 9 and 10, for their 11th Annual Reunion.

The 1st Corps Cadets Armory will be the site for the Reunion events of the First Marine Division Association.

The Association, formed 11 years ago in Boston, had as its first President Lieutenant Colonel John I. Fitzgerald, USMC, a local businessman, who heads the 1958 Boston Reunion Committee. The main purpose of the Association is to foster and perpetuate the spirit and comradeship born of service in the First Marine Division.

Activated in 1941, the Division fought in the island-hopping campaigns of World War II, launching at Guadalcanal the first successful counter-offensive of the war. Later came the battles for Cape Gloucester, Peleliu and Okinawa.

Five years later the First Marine Division was called on to stem the Red tide of aggression in Korea and, in so doing, was decorated with the Presidential Unit Citation three times.

Together with the three PUCs received during World War II this makes a total of six. It is believed that no other division's colors fly six Presidential Unit Citations, which is the highest decoration which can be awarded to a military unit.

In addition, 60 Medals of Honor, the country's highest personal decoration, have been awarded to members of the First Marine Division.

Since the first Reunion in Boston, the First Marine Division Association has met yearly in major cities throughout the country on the weekend closest to the August 7th anniversary of the Guadalcanal landing in 1942.

The Association established a scholarship fund in 1952 and has since awarded six scholarship grants to dependants of deceased Marines. Two additional scholarships will be awarded this year.

Captain W. W. USMC, the Assistant Director of Personnel, Marine Corps Headquarters, Washington, D. C., is the present President of the First Marine Division Association.

The Willard Scholarship Foundation of Phoenixville, Pa., has just announced that its annual Scholarship Awards have been granted this year to Ad-Writers Guild of Chester Springs, Pennsylvania, for excellence in professional teaching in the field of Police Association to discuss the following items: 1. Governors for motor vehicles operated in Massachusetts. 2. Less emphasis on power of acceleration. 3. More regard for the safety of passengers.

This is a professional Correspondence or Home Study Course in Copywriting for newspapers, magazines, radio, TV and mail order and covers a period of about four months.

The opportunities for employment in the Advertising field are plentiful and, as is well known, this is the highest paid branch in the writing field.

Applications for these 15 scholarships should be mailed to the Executive Secretary, Willard Scholarship Foundation, P.O. Box 341, Phoenixville, Pennsylvania, immediately and applicants should give their age, graduation year and, if employed, nature of work. Postal cards will not be considered.

ENORMOUS TRAFFIC IN POST CARDS GREW UP IN LESS THAN A CENTURY

The United States Post Office Department is prepared to enjoy a lucrative picture post card business late this summer.

Stamp increases effective August 1 include a rise from two to three cents for regular-mail cards, four to five cents for airmail service. The Government's plain, pre-stamped cards (properly called postal instead of post cards) will sell for three instead of two cents. Airmail postals will be five cents instead of four.

Of the 60 billion pieces of written mail now handled by the Post Office annually, nearly three and a third billion are cards, says the National Geographic Society. Their contributions to government revenue have amounted recently to some $66 million a year, with an additional $33 million expected from the increased rates.

A Philadelphia Invention
America's huge post card traffic got its start in 1861, when John P. Charlton, of Philadelphia, obtained a copyright for the first practical open-face mailing form.

Shortly after, the inventor passed his copyright on to another Philadelphian, who set up a business in printing and selling "Lipman's Postal Cards."

The United States Government entered the field in 1873 with its own postals. Sold for a penny each—a price maintained with only brief interruption until 1952—the cards won immediate and widespread public acceptance.

The National Geographic Society, which has long been a collector of old picture post cards, has recently acquired a collection of 19th-century post cards. The cards were produced in the early 1870's, when the industry's birthplace was in Germany or France, as variously indicated, its scenes and comic designs soon were attracting attention and snickers around the world.

Today, a dedicated band of hobbyists (called deltiologists from the Greek word for a small, illustrated tablet) find an engrossing pastime in the collection and exchange of old picture post cards. Prized items may include samples of straw-hat humor from the early 1900's, buxom bathing beauties, muscled men with handbar mustaches, and cigar-store Indians. There are majestic scenes ranging from the Grand Canyon to the Alps, and nostalgic reminders of Uncle Will's trip to the Chicago World's Fair in 1893 or Cousin Elsie at the London Zoo.

Novelty cards decorated with gilt, sequins, and bits of metal are necessarily historic. The Post Office long ago stopped accepting type that scratched mailmen's hands and clogged cancellation machinery.

Even the approved modern cards, when over regulation size, are subject to letter-postage rates. And the "cute" miniatures, if less than 2 1/2 inches by four, will not be handled at all after July 1, 1959.

SMASHED METER BRINGS FINE

A Winchester youth of 18 appeared in the District Court at Woburn Monday morning charged by the police with malicious damage to property.

Officer James F. Cogan was the complainant and police say he saw the youth smash a parking meter with a large rock in front of 612 Main street shortly after noon time on Sunday, July 13. The glass in the meter was broken and the meter marked by the blow. Officer Cogan took the youth to the station where he was questioned by Lt. Edward W. O'Connell and told that court action would follow. In court Monday morning the youth was found guilty by Judge William Henchey, who imposed a fine of $15.00. The judge lectured the youth, telling him that any further appearance in his court by him or any of his friends who have been causing trouble in Winchester will result in a sentence to a corrective institution.

SISTER IS GOING TO LIKE THIS!

Teddy Neill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Y. Neill of Overlook Way, smiles happily with Lew Snow, proprietor of Renton's Market, as he holds the bike he won in the Cott's Beverage Bike Contest which ran during the month of June at Renton's. The contest was to guess the number of parts in a Raleigh bicycle, and Teddy's guess was the nearest. On July 29 he was awarded a fine Raleigh as a prize, but as his sister, Nancy, did not have a bike, Teddy asked Mr. Snow to change the fine boy's model he was given for a girl's model for his sister. This was done and everyone at the Neill home is happy about it. Mr. Snow's smile reflects his pride in Teddy's accomplishment in winning the Cott contest at his store and also his appreciation of a brother's consideration for his sister!

EDITORIALS

One of the last jobs done by the retiring executive clerk of the Selectmen, Mary H. French, was the gathering together in a scrap book of all the data she had available on the subject of the grade crossing elimination. Clippings and advertisements from the Star and Boston papers make up much of the data, and a lot of it is mighty interesting reading.

It has been said that history cannot be written in the present; that only after sufficient time for the action to be appraised in view of its final effect can any sort of worthwhile judgement be pronounced.

This is true of the overhead, which we believe most residents now feel has turned out well, or at least, much better than many thought possible. A lot of heat and lost friendships could have been avoided if it had been possible to see ahead. We do not mean that the overhead is the perfect solution. There are some who have perhaps good reason to be unhappy over what happened to them as a result of it, but by and large, most of those with whom the Star has talked seem satisfied.

Take a trip to the Selectmen's office and ask to browse through Miss French's scrapbook. Read the charges and counter-charges and the arguments advanced by both sides of the overhead crossing question. We predict you will find them interesting. And don't read only one side!

Judge Henchey evidently was not fooling the other day when he warned a Winchester boy that another appearance before him would result in a sentence to a corrective institution. He told the youth to take back to his friends who have appeared in court before the news that they will face the same sentence if another appearance is made. No one could accuse Judge Henchey of being overly severe with youthful offenders who face him in court, and when he issues such a warning it is evident that he believes that further leniency is not justified.

The particular boys in question would do well to heed the judge's warning, and their parents would be equally well advised to see that they do!

Have you registered to vote in the coming primaries on September 9? If not, your last date to do so is August 8 at the office of the town clerk in the town hall. You can register there any day during regular office hours, Monday through Friday, and on certain evenings.

Registering to vote is one duty every good citizen should do. It is more than a duty. It is a privilege that many an enslaved people would give their lives to possess.

And it is more important to vote in the primaries, for under our election system we can only vote into office at elections those nominated at the all-important primaries. Make sure these persons to be elected are the ones you want, by registering if you are not registered, and by voting when the primaries roll around September 9. Our whole democratic system of government can fail if we all do not vote.

One day this week as we drove along the Parkway between Mystic avenue and the Unitarian Church we saw MDC men sweeping the gutters along both sides of the street. All the way along they were sweeping up paper refuse, empty ice cream cartons, popsicle sticks and other debris either dropped by thoughtless youngsters or thrown by adults from cars.

Two days later the same accumulation of refuse was commencing to appear in the gutters, and on the sidewalk near the tennis courts someone had thrown a cardboard carton and several empty beer cans.

We suppose anyone indifferent enough to throw such stuff on a sidewalk or in the street would care little for an appeal to his sense of civic pride. On the off chance, however, that people are cluttering our roadways without thinking, we ask that they refrain from using our streets as disposals for trash.

Well-kept streets, free from refuse, are an asset to a community. Let us all help to make our streets create the right impression on those visiting us for the first time.

Good work, you Babe Ruths! With both our Little League all-star teams out of the championship running, you are carrying Winchester's tournament hopes into that state semi-final game with Fitchburg at Lakeville tomorrow. Give them your best! Close followers of your team believe that will be good enough to win. If it should turn out otherwise, you and your town can have no regrets.

NATIONAL STARS ELIMINATED

PITCHING FALTERS AS WATERTOWN WINS, 8-6

Watertown Central knocked the Winchester National League All Stars out of the Little League district playoffs by winning the game between the two teams last Thursday evening on Ginn Field, 8-6.

This game the Nationals could well have won with better pitching. The locals got away to a good start, scoring two in the first and three in the second to hold a 5-2 lead going into the third.

Here the bottom fell out of the local pitching with Rowe, starting pitcher, and his relief, Peckham and Doherty, giving up four big runs to send Watertown into a 6-5 lead. Bases on balls proved Winchester's undoing, as the local boys were out only 10-8.

Winchester knotted the count in the fifth, but again the local pitchers couldn't contain Watertown and a two-run 6th decided the nailgame.

TRADERS' DAY AUGUST 6

Wednesday, August 6, has been designated Traders' Day for Winchester merchants, many of whom will close their establishments all day on that date.

Traders' Day has long been a Winchester custom, and in the "old days" the business center of the town was closed up tight while the traders went on an outing in a body, spending the day with a program of sports of all kind and a huge picnic lunch.

For some years now there has been no concerted outing on Traders' Day, but many stores about town still close, the proprietors and their help spending the day as they choose. Housewives would do well to plan their shopping for the week of Traders' Day to bypass August 6.

For the merchants who want them Traders' Day closing placards will be on sale at the Star Office.

DREAD CAT DISEASE

Panleucopenia, a virus disease, (sometimes called cat distemper, cat plague, or cat typhus) has now made its annual appearance in the Boston area, according to Dr. Gerry B. Schelle, chief of staff of the Mass. S.P.C.A.'s Angell Memorial Animal Hospital.

The disease may affect cats of any age, but is most serious in kittens and less so to mature cats up to two years of age. It manifests itself by vomiting, retching, depression, and unwillingness to eat. Affected cats may sit quietly and look at a water dish although they seldom drink. Immediate veterinary attention is advisable.

Vaccination of cats less than two years of age is recommended. The vaccine is given in two doses, 7 to 10 days apart, and in some instances it may be advisable to give immune serum prior to vaccination. One-year-old cats which were vaccinated last year, or earlier this year should receive "booster" vaccination.

CAMP FELLISLAND NEWS

The week of August 10 promises to be one of the best in many years at Camp Fellisland. Several big events have been planned.

Number one is a mystery mountain trip. Scouts will leave camp by bus and after 10 minutes ride the destination will be announced. Mr. Stafford Rogers, with many years of mountain experience, will be in charge of this event assisted by other members of the camp staff. Number two is carnival day. Each troop in camp will develop and operate a booth or demonstration during one of the afternoons. This carnival threatens to be one of the best ever. Also, Scouts interested in baseball, basketball and volleyball may like to come to camp the week of August 10 and help camp retain its advantage over arch rival, Camp Powow. Swimming meets will also be held with Camp Powow. All Scouts interested in upholding the honor of Camp Fellisland in any of these events may register at the Scout office.

Tri-Camp rally will be held on August 6 to observe the birthday of George W. Magee, a most generous benefactor of the Boy Scouts. Scouts from Bay Shore Council, including Lynn, Winthrop, Saugus, Swampscott and Lynnfield and Lone Tree Council, including Haverhill, Amesbury, Newburyport, Merrimack and Newbury and Fellisland Council will participate. This promises to be an outstanding event in the scout lives of 300 boys participating.

THERE'S A "CATCH"
IN SOME COUPON OFFERS

Have you been offered a coupon book, for some price such as $2.98, which contains "free" or "discount" offers on various services and entertainments?

One coupon book was advertised recently as having a value of over $125. But before you rush to buy it, you might want to know that it would cost you $100 to take advantage of all the offers! And, several coupons have limits as to date, time, age, choice of items, etc.

When offered a coupon book, you'd be wise to look it over carefully and consider:

If the goods and services are really attractive to you.

If you would have to spend extra time, or travel to make use of the coupons.

If the restrictions, such as time limits, etc., would make it difficult, or impossible, to use them.

In other words: INVESTIGATE BEFORE YOU INVEST!

ROBIN HOOD
HAD PARENTS' DAY

The 60 foot filtered pool at Robin Hood Day Camp was recently the scene of the first Splash Party of the season. It was the highlight of the second Parents' Day and all of the campers participated. The first part of the party was a regular lesson instructed by Denny Rickard, certified Red Cross Swimming Instructor and Water Safety Director. Following the lesson the campers took part in the "Splash Party." The intermediate girls and the advanced beginners put on a pretty demonstration of synchronized swimming. The girls in this particular number were: Ruth and Jean Bissell, Patty Keane, Jean Dunklee, Norma McLeod, Andrea
Starr, Debbie McLean, Mary Fran-

ALABAMA CAVE
MAY YIELD NEW SECRETS

The National Geographic Society announced today that it is resuming excavation at Russell Cave near Bridgeport in northern Alabama, where pre-Columbian man lived for some 9,000 years.

Earlier expeditions in the summers of 1956 and 1957 dug 32 feet into the floor of the cave and, layer by layer, collected two and a half tons of artifacts. But they did not reach bedrock.

This year, again under the leadership of Smithsonian archeologist Carl F. Miller, diggers will seek to plumb the ultimate depth of the big cave and thus throw additional light on the everyday lives of some of North America's earliest human inhabitants.

Uncover New Cave

There is a possibility that the digging this season may open up an entirely new cave. Late last summer a small charge of dynamite precipitated a huge, rumbling rockslide deep within the mountain beneath and behind Russell Cave. No entrance has been found to the new cavern, but Mr.
Miller believes further excavation will find or produce an opening to what might be "an archeological treasure trove of early man."

Fortunately for archeologists, Russell Cave's occupants were messy housekeepers. For thousands of years cave men and cave women cleaned up the debris by scattering fresh soil over the debris. Thus the stone points, bone tools, broken pottery, and fishhooks of each generation were preserved in chronological order.

From a hearth 23 feet down was radiocarbon-dated at 9,020, plus or minus 350 years.

The stone-age occupants received little better than their fellows than did the broken pots and tools. From the size and position of the bones and the angle of the lethal weapon, Expedition Leader
Miller reasoned that the March National Geographic Magazine what happened to one of the cave men.

"He was short, naked, and desperately afraid. He was bending over to make himself smaller, seeming not so much by sound as by a hunter's instinct that an enemy was close behind. Suddenly a stoned shaft thrust itself in the muscles of his back.

"The warrior stumbled on, hid, and somehow escaped. Then he dragged himself, half paralyzed, back to the safety of his dark, vaulted cave home and there he died.

"No grave was dug for him. His body, with the stone spear point still in his back, was simply laid on the cave floor and covered with earth and refuse. Life went on around his resting place as it had for thousands of years and would for thousands more."

King David's Era
"This Stone Age American," said Archeologist Miller, "lived and died about 1000 B.C., when David was bringing the Kingdom of Israel to greatness. Yet the slain hunter was a comparative latecomer to the great limestone cavern where his family laid its campfire, ate, and slept. For at least 6,000 years before his lifetime, that opening in a wooded ridge near the present Tennessee border had sheltered primitive men, women and children."

Earlier this year, Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president and editor of the National Geographic Society, announced that Russell Cave and the extensive lands around it had been presented to the Federal Government for the education and enjoyment of future generations.

In accepting the gift for the National Park System, Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton thanked Dr. Grosvenor for the "generous and far-sighted offer" and said
"The continuous and unique record of human occupation of Russell Cave for over 9,000 years makes this site one of the most important scientific archeological areas east of the Mississippi River."

Further exploration of the cave this summer is a joint project of the Society and the Smithsonian Institution.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES
AND BRIEFS

More than a billion dollars in gold, copper, silver, coal, lead, tin, platinum, and mercury have been taken from Alaskan soil since the region was bought from Russia in 1867. Though the boisterous gold-rush days have passed into history, the annual yield from gold still exceeds the purchase price of $7,200,- 000, says the National Geographic Magazine.

The American Embassy in Baghdad, capital of Iraq, is a replica of the White House in Washington,

The Druses fighting in Lebanon's civil war are an 11th-century religious sect, the National Geographic Magazine says. They constitute a large and important segment of the Lebanese population of 1,- 500,000. Though Druse beliefs are shrouded in secrecy, the clansmen venerate the sixth Egyptian Fati-mid Caliph Hakim.

The bowhead whale has a mouth big enough to hold an ox, but it eats the tiniest of sea creatures, its throat can swallow anything larger than a small herring.

Cyprus is the traditional birthplace of Venus, though present-day strife makes ironic its ancient title,
"Island of Love." Cupid's legendary home is Cyprus's fairbook castle, St. Hilarion, that was built in 1223.

The Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Oklahoma is a living museum of America's pioneer past, says the National Geographic Magazine. Buffalo still roam the ranches, along with antelope, deer, and longhorns. As the animals may charge without provocation, highway signs in the refuge warn visitors against leaving the road.

The Roman amphitheater at Aries in southern France is still used for spectacles, the National Geographic Magazine says. Bull-fights are a favorite attraction.

Chunks of muktuk are consumed in eating contests held at Eskimo festivals in Alaska. Muktuk, whale skin and blubber, resembles coconut meat in texture and taste. When pickled, it has the flavor of pickled pig's feet.

England's largest and finest palace is Hampton Court, near London. Built by Cardinal Wolsey in 1515, and later the favorite residence of Henry VIII, its beautiful galleries and 44 acres of gardens are open to the public.

PAL SAVES WINCHESTER BOY AT GLOUCESTER

The quick thinking and watermanship of Walter Scott, 14-year-old son of Mrs. Isabel E. Scott of 2 Lagrange street, may have saved the life of Malcolm Mackay, 13, of 5 Lagrange street Tuesday afternoon when the latter was struggling in the heavy surf at Long Beach, Gloucester.

The two boys are pals and had gone to Gloucester with Malcolm's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm N. Mackay. While the Mackays were visiting friends from Medford near the beach the two boys, both good swimmers, went to the beach for a swim.

Everything went all right until Malcolm, who was standing in the water waist-high was suddenly caught in the heavy undertow and quickly carried out well over his head.

The suction of the undertow pulled him under once and although he fought hard against the waves he was making no headway when his pal, Walter, saw his plight. Immediately swimming to his assistance, Walter lent just the help necessary to enable his struggling friend to get ashore.

Both boys were exhausted when they reached the shore, and were taken to the cottage where the surprised Mackays were visiting. After stimulants and a good rest neither was any worse for the adventure, with the exception of Walter who sustained a cut arm when he was dragged against a rock as he went down in the undertow.

Both boys have been warned of undertows and Tuesday they learned the hard way that they can be real menaces. Had it not been for the courage and promptness of his friend, Walter, the lesson might have been much more costly for Malcolm and his parents.

WATER SITUATION GOOD

Winchester's water supply is holding up well through the summer, despite the lack of much of any heavy or prolonged rain.

Water Superintendent Jim Halwartz reports the North Reservoir full, the Middle Reservoir, down only 1.2 ft. and the South Reservoir down 1.6 ft.

This is in sharp contrast with conditions at the same time last year, when the North Reservoir was down 6½ ft. the South Reservoir down an equal distance and the Middle Reservoir three feet below the full line.

Winchester is pumping water regularly from Spot Pond to the Middle Reservoir, and has its permanent pipe installation from the reservoir to the Fellsway. The permanent installation of pipe beyond that point and the installation of the permanent pumping station is waiting the completion of the new expressway from Roosevelt Circle in Medford through Winchester, Stoneham and Woburn.

The MDC refused Woburn's request to take Metropolitan water through the Winchester system by making a connection with a Winchester hydrant on Ridge street to provide additional water for the rapidly growing Shaker Glen section.

The MDC did not rule out all possibility of getting water through Winchester in the event of a real emergency, and connections are now being made to get water for putting out fires in the Shaker Glen district.

TRADERS DAY AUGUST 6

Housewives will do well to remember that next Wednesday, August 6, is Traders Day in Winchester and not plan to do the family shopping on that day. Many stores in town will be closed all day next Wednesday as proprietors and clerks take a day off. Do your shopping before or after Wednesday next week and avoid disappointment. Closing placards are still available at the Star Office.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

The summer Playground program got back to normal after last Friday's highly successful Field Day as a part of the Boston Traveler Youth Fitness and Recreation Program. (Complete details of this day are found in another column).

The youngsters came to the various fields to tell the instructors of the wonderful time they had at Field Day and it certainly made all responsible for the program extremely happy.

For the past week the little ones kept very happy and interested while participating in such activities as baseball, softball, badminton, croquet, horseshoes, quoits, basketball, whiffle ball, lawn bowling, dodge ball, magic ball and various tag games.

In Arts and Crafts, more pot holders, bracelets, link belts, lanyards, key chains and wallets were made and the youngsters are doing marvelously in these projects.

Director Provinzano is hoping now that due to the Little Leaguers being out of regular competition that the players will report to the supervised playgrounds and take part in some of the games. The equipment is there so come and use it. We can easily arrange some games if you show some interest!

Director Provinzano is also planning a Beach Day and a day at Fenway Park. For the youngsters to go on either one of these trips, notes from the parents are most important and a must! If you wish your youngsters to go to Wingaersheek Beach or Crane's Beach, your notes must show that permission. The same is true for the Fenway Park trip.

Dates are not certain as yet but now is the time to think about those notes. The notes are a means of telling us that you have granted permission and that you will know where your youngsters are for those days. Both trips will be supervised and safety and a good time, assured.

Next week's schedule for supervised fields is Leonard and Ginn on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and Loring and West Side Fields on Tuesday and Thursday.

There will be Arts and Crafts at Leonard on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. Ginn on the afternoons of those same days. Instruction will then move to Loring on Tuesday and Thursday mornings and to West Side on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

CONVERSE GROCERY MANAGER RETURNS FROM CHICAGO

Alfred Joseph Nowell, manager of the grocery department of the Converse Super Market in Winchester, has recently returned from the Super Market Institute's annual seminar at the Edgewater Beach Hotel, in Chicago.

Mr. Nowell who has been Converse's grocery department manager for the past seven years, met with grocery managers from all over the country in a seminar dealing with the problems of super market operation, and the best ways to bring maximum service to super market customers.

According to Converse's management, "In working with men who represent the leading super markets in the United States, we have been able to bring about many improvements in our methods of operation, as well as being able to share some of our methods with others."

THREE FIRSTS FOR HALL

Lester Hall, Jr., 232 Highland avenue, mistakenly identified as a member of the Marblehead racing group in the city newspapers during Marblehead Race Week, won the Boston Yacht Club trophy in his division of the Turnabout Class on July 23.

Representing the Winchester Boat Club, he came in first in all three races of his division but was disqualified in the last race because of hitting the finish marker with the tip of the boom. On "Number 8" turnabout was Walter Josephson, 16 Winslow road, ably assisting Lester the entire week as crew.

Miss Sandra Lawson will begin her professional training on September 12 when she enrolls as a member of the freshman class at Bouve-Boston School, which is affiliated with Tufts University, Medford. Bouve-Boston School prepares students for careers in physical education and physical therapy. Miss Lawson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor F. Lawson of 85 Pond street, is a graduate of Winchester High School.

U. S. LASSIES DROP OPENER

WINCHESTER GIRL ON TOUR WITH U. S. HOCKEY TEAM WRITES HOME

Dear Folks:

I waited an extra day to include our first game against Northern Transval. They are a young team with four of their players on the Springbok team—the South African team. This also includes the goalie who is only 19. We played at the Pretoria Stadium before a medium sized crowd—one as big as the Welsh Hampshire crowd.

In the first half they scored twice, once on a penalty bully with the goalie. We scored then on a center bully. Our right inner Joan Edembon passed the ball to the left wing (that's me) who pugged in. We were playing 30 minute halves.

In the second half a Springbok hustler put a lively shot in. Joan Edembon threatened twice by breaking through but was stopped both times. Once after she had passed the goalie, the fullback made the save on at least the one inch line.

The crowd was very responsive and appreciative of the good play on both sides. U.S. never stopped fighting. Lee Chadbourne, our center half, almost put one high on a corner, but missed the goal by inches with no-one near her or the ball.

The game, final score 3 - 1, was a good one and the U. S. team represented itself well. The South Africans are at the end of their season so they have all that behind them while we only played together once as a team before the tour.

However, look out future teams. The U. S. has a team and it's just about ready to bust loose. Our next game is Wednesday with the Western Transval.

In the time before our game, here in Pretoria, we were kept quite busy. Outstanding in our visits were the trip to Vortrekker Monument, memorial to the Trekkers who went North away from British rule; the Premier Diamond Mine; and a native location. The Monument was spectacular, set high on a hill, a huge thing 100 ft. tall. Inside is a marble frieze of the Trekkers' move north. They associate this with our Western Frontier movement.

At the diamond mine, where the Cullinan diamond was found, we saw the whole process with the final results of both gems and diamonds for industrial use. Most of the labor was native. I think, however, that our most interesting visit was to the native location outside of the city. Of course this is a better fare than many of the natives have. At least it is an effort on the governments part to establish the native.

Thousands of small brick four-roomed houses are squeezed together, separated into sections according to tribes. There is still a tribal loyalty and any mixture cause conflict. Once forty people were killed before it was stopped. There is an infirmary which administers all medicine free.

The natives run their own stores on the location and it is up to each family to provide and improve for himself. The houses range from squalor and near slums to a very neat well-kept place complete with garden.

The hitch is that the native will never hold the land grant although he may eventually own his own house. The location is also about 10 miles from the city with a bus service but the native usually has to wait a long time.

As I have said before we have been entertained just royally, a tea at the home of one of the U. S. Legation, a South African barbecue dinner, and on and on. We travel first class and all the hotels have baths. We all are going to be so spoiled.

Love to all,
Alison

TENNIS TOURNEY STARTS

Winchester plays host to top New England tennis talent this afternoon at William Packer Courts in the Mystic Valley Junior Veterans Championships with the opening singles matches scheduled for 4:30. Doubles competition starts Saturday morning and finals of both events will be held Sunday.

Junior veterans' tennis, restricted to men of 35 years and over, was inaugurated in New England in 1957 and proved to be a popular classification, productive of keen competition as well as a high level of tennis. The matches this weekend, sponsored by the Winchester Tennis Association, are expected to be no exception, as a strong field has been assembled by chairman Josiah Bacon. One of the favorites in singles is the redoubtable Bill Power of Worcester, possessor of a bludgeoning forehand, a delicately turned drop shot and an excellent match play temperament. Also expected to put in an appearance is Power's doubles partner and fellow townsman, Nick Sharpy, who yields to no one in the tennis world in the matter of heavy hitting on the forehand wing. These two players are worth watching at any time and will be on view for Winchester fans at no charge.

A phalanx of Winchester players, plotting for some time to derail the outlanders, will be led by James Coon, Henry Fitts, Arthur Hills and Robert Joslin. All of these men have the necessary experience and stroke equipment, when in full cry, to win either event. However, all will have to find peak form early to stay in contention as the calibre of competition from the first round breaks no lapses.

Of interest to Winchester residents will be the play of Russell

Ellis, a native son, now residing in Putney, Vermont. He will team with Paul Faden of the Sudbury River Tennis Club in doubles. Both are good doubles players, particularly exemplifying the value of the return of service. Faden does not conform to the maxim that doubles matches are won by the team controlling the net position. On the contrary, he eschews going to net and appears there infrequently, depending upon his authoritative forehand from backcourt.

In addition to the outstanding Worcester team of Sharpy and Power, the doubles draw will also include tandems such as Summer Rodman - Harrison Rowbotham; John Carder - Wayne Schell; Joslin - Hills; Coon - Fitts and Paul F. Conway - William Marsden. Rodman and Rowbotham, former New England champions and winners of more than four score tournaments over the years, loom once again as the team to beat—powerful overhead and full of guile. Schell, perennial badminton champion and co-holder of the 1958 National Badminton Veteran's Doubles title, is an amazing competitor, facile with his racket at close quarters and overhead. He is ably partnered by Carder, quick at net and sound in returning serve. Conway, former University of New Hampshire hockey star, has an exceptionally strong wrist and an affinity for the outright winner.

A testing and interesting tournament appears in prospect for the competitors, according to chairmen Bacon and Adolph Alla, who are in charge of the event. Spectators will see some rousing tennis in a competition which will be an annual feature of the Winchester tennis calendar.

Camp Wyanoke Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary

Camp Wyanoke, one of New England's oldest boys' camps, located on Lake Winnepesaukee at Wolfeboro, New Hampshire, is celebrating its golden anniversary season with a special 50th anniversary week end on August 9 and 10.

The weekend program will include land and water sports, a reception for camper alumni, a band concert, and the traditional Saturday night parade and campfire, as well as regular camping activities. Invitations have been sent out to the more than 2,500 former campers scattered throughout the United States and in several foreign countries.

Founded 50 years ago by Mr. Walter H. Bentley, Camp Wyanoke has been under the direction of his son, Mr. Bradford M. Bentley, since 1943. Long a popular vacation home for hundreds of Greater Boston boys, its widely-distributed enrollment comes mainly from communities from Maine to Florida. One-fourth of the campers this year are sons and grandsons of former Wyanoke campers.

Camp Wyanoke has long been a familiar name to Winchester people. The Bentleys have been residents of this town for forty years, and since 1950 the camp's winter office has been located here. Scores of Winchester boys have been campers at Wyanoke. In addition, the Wyanoke council staff has always included Winchester men. This year it numbers Henry T. Knowlton and F. Meredith Cooper, both of the Winchester High School faculty, and Christopher Righter, Stephen Hood, John Hos-

FREE MILK AT FOODLINER

To celebrate the excellence of the Massachusetts dairy industry, free milk will be offered to all customers of the IGA Foodliner Chickenque in Burlington this weekend, it was announced today. Many residents of this area will recall last year's Chickenque—a mammoth cookout in the supermarket's parking lot on Route 3A—and it is expected that this year the free milk will make the event even more attractive.

The Massachusetts Department of Agriculture assisted the management of Foodliner in arranging this tribute to the Commonwealth's milk products. In quality of dairy herds and in the most up-to-date processing equipment and standards, Massachusetts is a recognized world leader.

The Chickenque, which will run Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, features half chickens, barbecued over charcoal fires. Nearly 1100 halves can be cooked at a time, so it is expected all will be served with utmost convenience. The secret recipe for the barbecue sauce, which created a sensation last year, will be available on request.

ADMITTED TO ST. MICHAELS

Peter Neal Keliher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Keliher of 1 Kenilworth road, has been admitted to St. Michael's College in Winoski, Vt., and will enter the freshman class there in September. A graduate of Boston College High School in Dorchester, Peter will report for freshman week at St. Michael's, September 10 - 14, and will attend his first classes September 15. Classes for upper classmen start the next day.

St. Michael's is a college of liberal arts and sciences founded in 1904 at Winoski Park in the suburbs of Burlington, Vt., by the Society of St. Edmund.

TOWN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The Town Softball League started about 25 years ago in the town, and it can be safely said that this year is the first time that the schedule ended with a four-way tie for first place.

All teams in the playoffs have a record of 12 wins and five losses. These teams are the defending champions, Holy Name Society, followed by the Sons of Italy, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Elks.

A one-game tournament has been arranged to secure play-off positions and these games are to be played starting Monday at 6:15. On Monday the VFW meets the SOI at Leonard Field, while the Holy Name tests the Elks at Ginn Field. The winners of these two games will then play one game to determine first and second places in the play-off, while the losers will play to determine third and fourth places.

The first and third-place teams and the second and fourth-place teams will then have a two-out-of-three series to determine the finalists. The finalists will then play a three-out-of-five series for the championship and beautiful trophy.

TRAVELER CARAVAN SUCCESSFUL HERE

On behalf of the Park Board, Director of Recreation Frank Provinzano wishes to thank all who participated and assisted in making Winchester's Field Day last Friday a most successful one. Winchester was the tenth community to take part in the Boston Traveler Youth Fitness and Recreation Program, and its day was rated by the Traveler as tops.

Winchester residents, no doubt, read about it in the Boston paper and probably saw parts of the program on Channel 5 Saturday evening at 7:00.

Approximately 700 attended the day's activities and from all reports everybody enjoyed themselves tremendously. Director Provinzano was highly pleased with the cooperation received from parents, boys and girls, visitors, the Park Department, the police, photographers from the Star and Traveler, Fred Foye of the Traveler who was in the audience; Jim Donahue, Director of the Traveler Caravan; the camera man of the Channel 5, park commissioner Jim Coon and superintendent Babe Mullen of the Park Department. It was a pleasant sight to see the former Director of Recreation, Ted Bartlett, enjoying himself during the day.

The morning program was extremely active with the playground instructors directing two baseball games, badminton, basketball, dodge ball, kick ball, horseshoes, quoits, tag games, rides on the swings, croquet and story-telling. All of these took place simultaneously at various parts of Ginn Field.

The evening program consisted of two lively games of All-Star groups from the Town Softball League and Town Basketball League. The softball game started at 6:30 and ended in a close 14-12 game. The basketball game got under way at 7:15 and it was close all the way, finally ending in a 94-72 score.

The Boston Traveler donated 130 beautiful medals which winners of the various events received. The free ice cream to all in attendance also came through the Traveler.

The portable loud speakers used during Field Day and now to be used by the life-guards at the town beaches were also gifts to the town. There are five of them and they certainly are invaluable and highly appreciated.

Before the list of events and winners are printed, it must be mentioned that it was a fine day for and it certainly was a pleasant sight for the Park Department and residents of Winchester to see. Visitors from other towns were present and expressed their favorable comments.

During the day Betty Haggerty, instructor of Arts and Crafts, showed several articles that youngsters made on the playgrounds and much praise goes to her for her display.

There were such projects as mosaics, link belts, key chains, lanyards, purses, wallets, pot holders, bracelets, ear-rings, plaster of Paris figurines and aprons on display.

In the afternoon there were many events which called for fun and skill and everyone enjoyed themselves, both in performing and watching. A complete report of the activities and winners will be found below.

State Champion Babe Ruthers Play In New Englands Today

Winchester's newly crowned Massachusetts State Championship Babe Ruth Tournament All Stars journey to Amherst today to participate in the New England Regional Playoffs to be held there at Community Field.

Getting effective pitching from those two former Little League aces, Paul Del Rossi and Vandy French, and showing a fine attack spearheaded by French and Carl Arlanson, the Winchester Babe Ruthers turned back Fitchburg, 6-1, and favored Wellesley, 15-3, to win the state crown at Lakeville last week end. The local boys move up into New England competition as the result of these victories.

New England Regional play starts today August 8, and continues through August 9 and 10. In the first of today's two games, the champions of Rhode Island and Connecticut lock horns, commencing at 2:30 p.m. Winchester, as Massachusetts champion, meets the Vermont State titlist in the second game at 5:30.

The winner of the Rhode Island-Connecticut game meets Maine at 1:30 Saturday afternoon, and Winchester, in the event it gets by Vermont, will meet New Hampshire in the second game called at 3:30. The survivors of this six team playoff meet in the championship final Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The winner of this game will be crowned New England, or Region One, champion and advance to the Babe Ruth League World Series to be held August 18-23 at Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. New uniforms will be provided for the World Series team and all travel expenses will be met by the Coca Cola Company, Little League Baseball sponsor.

Fans to Follow Team

Many parents of Winchester players and supporters will follow the team to Amherst and support the local boys in their effort to gain a World Series tournament berth.

The team will leave Manchester Field for Amherst, rain or shine, Friday, August 8, at 9 o'clock, traveling either by Route 128 to Route 2 through Concord, Westminister, and South Gardner to Route 202, to Pelham, and to Amherst; or by 128 to the Massachusetts Turnpike and Exit 8 at Palmer, to Route 118, through Thorndike and Bondville to Belchertown, then taking Route 9 to Amherst. Either way the distance is about 90 miles.

At Amherst the boys will be lodged by the University of Massachusetts at the University campus, and will have their meals at the college. Practically all the members of the local team are veterans of Little League World Series play, and will take the series in the college town in stride.

Even the most experienced of the boys, however, gets a thrill out of the possibility of going on to Vancouver, and seeing some of the most beautiful scenery on the continent in this vacation wonderland. It is going to take a real good team to keep them from this experience.

The Babe Ruth League hopes that as many as possible will follow them to Amherst and give them any vocal support necessary to win a World Series berth. They could use some financial support as well.

The local Babe Ruth treasury, not affluent at best, will be badly bent after meeting the expenses involved in the State Tournament series. The teams pay their own expenses in this series, but most of this expenditure is returned to the various clubs through donations made at the games. In the New England regionals, however, the teams will again pay their traveling expenses, and this time there will be nothing come back.

Funds are urgently needed to meet the expenses of sending the Winchester team to Amherst and the Babe Ruth management hopes that all friends of the team, who can possibly do so, will make a donation, no matter how small to keep the League out of the red.

Put a dollar or more in an envelope and send to Babe Ruth Financial, Chairman, E. A. French, 24 Westland avenue, Treasurer, Elmer Grinnell, 81 Forest street, or President Carl Morton, 558 South Border road. If more convenient, leave it at the Star office or Sport Shop. Here is a chance to make an investment in youth. Send in your contribution. Nothing is too small.

PARK INSPECTION

The Board of Park Commissioners has extended an invitation to the Finance Committee to make a conducted tour of the town's parks, playgrounds tomorrow to get a first hand picture of what is involved in their maintenance. James H. Coon, chairman of the Park Board, Commissioner Albert MacDonnell and Park Superintendent H. Stanley Mullen will accompany the Finance Committee.

BLOOD TO REPLENISH ABNORMALLY LOW SUPPLIES BADLY NEEDED

Abnormally low blood supplies at hospital and Red Cross blood bank have created a critical situation in the Greater Boston area. Hospital officials and the medical profession have indicated their growing concern over this serious shortage which has occurred not only during a season when blood is most needed, but during a time when blood transfusions have become standard procedure in an increasing number of surgical operations.

In an effort to alleviate this critical shortage, the Town of Winchester, Reading, Wakefield and Stoneham will hold a joint Blood Day on Monday, August 11, from 1 to 7 p.m., at the Winchester Red Cross Chapter House, 84 Washington street. Those persons who have not yet established blood credit with the Red Cross are particularly urged to do so at this time. Phone Winchester 6-2300 for an appointment.

Among his assignments after the war was his separation from the service was that of senior curate at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, which he served until 1955.

Msgr. McGoldrick returned to California yesterday after enjoying a vacation in the east. He learned of his elevation to the Monsignor while here.

FORMER ST. MARY'S CURATES ELEVATED TO MONSIGNORI

MSGR. MAGUIRE NATIVE OF WINCHESTER

Two former curates at St. Mary's Church are among the 13 pastors in the Boston Archdiocese elevated to the rank of Monsignor by Pope Pius XII. Official announcement was made Thursday, July 31, by Archbishop Cushing.

Msgr. Eugene Maguire of St. Rita's Church, Lowell, and Msgr. Conrad J. Quirbach of St. Francis de Sales, Charlestown, both formerly served as curates at St. Mary's, and Msgr. Maguire is a native of Winchester and member of a family well known in town for many years. His parents, the late James and Mary Maguire, were among the earliest members of St. Mary's Church.

Msgr. Maguire attended the Winchester schools and was graduated from St. Bonaventure's College in Allegheny, N. Y. He studied for the priesthood at St. Bernard's Seminary in Rochester, N. Y., and was ordained in that city.

He served as curate at St. Mary's, Immaculate of Lourdes in Newton, Blessed Sacrament and Immaculate Conception, Stoughton; and as pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Hanover, and Most Blessed Sacrament at Hough's Neck, going to St. Rita's in Lowell from the latter post five years ago. He has a sister, Catherine, and a brother, Patrick M. Maguire, living at 21 Lincoln street, and a brother Michael, in Medford.

Another brother, Rev. Edward D. Maguire, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, died August 5, 1949.

Msgr. Quirbach was born in Lowell, and in addition to his service at St. Mary's, was a curate at St. Rose, Chelsea; St. Joseph's, Ipswich; St. Bridget's, Lexington; St. James, Arlington; and Our Lady's, Newton. He was a curate at St. Mary's during the pastorate of the late Rev. Aloysius F. Malone.

His first pastorate was the Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Greenwood, to which he was transferred from St. Mary's in 1937.

MONAHAN'S LEAD FATHER-SON FIELD

Judge Joseph Monahan and 37-year-old Joseph, Jr., of the home club were leading the field after two days of competition in the annual Father and Son Golf Tournament at the Winchester Country Club this week.

The two Joes posted their leading gross 72 on Tuesday and their score withstood all challenges on that day and on Wednesday. Edgar and Barrie Bruce of Wenham shot a 73 on Wednesday to lead all competitors that day, but their gross was a stroke under that of the Monahans, who have won this Father-Son tourney six times, and may be on their way to a seventh title this year.

Second best gross on Tuesday was the 74 of George and Egan of Oakley, Wednesday R. D. and R. D. Chapman, Jr., of Oyster Harbors had a gross 76 as did R. and Richard Dion of Nashua.

The gross 81 posted by Bill and Billy Burke, Jr., of Thorny Lea led the two day fields in the class for fathers, and sons 12 to 15. William and Billy Thompson of Sagamore carded a gross 87 the same day to withstand the two day challenge in the class for fathers playing with sons under 12.

Wednesday's best score in this class was turned in by the Winchester team of Jim and Jimmy Wilcox, a 90.

The Winchester veteran, P. S. Goodale, and grandson, Richie, were the only team to turn in a score in the Grandfather-grandson class, their gross being 121.

One hundred and ten more entries were expected on the closing day of the tourney yesterday.

RETIRING CLERK FETED

MISS FRENCH GUEST OF TOWN HALL ASSOCIATES

Miss Mary H. French, who retired August 1, as executive clerk of the Board of Selectmen, was feted last Thursday afternoon in offices of the Welfare Department by her associates at the town hall, town officials, including the Chief of the Police and Fire Departments, and members of the clerical staff.

The feature of the party was the presentation to the surprised Miss French of a fine clock radio, the most appropos presentation being made by Town Treasurer E. Abbott Bradley, who has a "way with him" in such matters.

Miss French was delighted with her gift, (how did they know she had recently dropped her radio and was carrying it around on a tray), and was particularly appreciative of the friendship that prompted the gift. Her "thank you" left no doubt of her appreciation.

She left the town hall after 26 years in the town's service as clerk in the town clerk's office, assistant town clerk, general clerk, secretary of the Selectmen and since 1946 as executive clerk in the Selectmen's office.

MRS. GEORGE BARBARO
BARBARO — COTE

Floor baskets of white gladioli and huckleberry foliage were used on the altar of St. Patrick's Church in Manchester, New Hampshire for the wedding of Miss Lorraine T. Cote and George Barbaro which took place Saturday morning, June 14, at 10 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Cote of Manchester, N. H., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George J. Barbaro of 7 Eucalyptus avenue. The Very Rev. Msgr. James R. McGeary performed the double ring ceremony and wedding music was played by Maurice Theriault.

The bride's gown of embroidered organza over tulle had a V neckline edged with self scalloped, fitted bodice, Dior long waistline and shirred short sleeves, with which she wore short gloves; the full bouffant skirt fashioned with three tiers of scalloped embroidered organza and ending in a chapel sweep. Her fingertip length veil of silk illusion was caught to a coronet of pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with ribbon streamers. Mr. Cote gave his daughter in marriage.

Jocelyn G. Cote, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Jacqueline St. Pierre and Anne Driscoll, both of Manchester, and Annette Barbaro and Doris Barbaro, sisters of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identical gowns of white embroidered organza over light blue tulle with white horsehair picture hats trimmed with matching blue ribbons and carried old fashioned bouquets of white flowers tied with blue satin bows.

The best man was Richard Donahue of Keene and the ushers were William Murray of Westminister, Emerson Priest of Westminister, Thomas R. Neal of Winchester, and Donald A. Cote of Manchester, brother of the bride.

Immediately following the church services a reception for 200 guests was held at Six Acres Hotel. Mrs. Claude P. Pelletier presented the guest book. A local orchestra furnished music for dancing.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Barbaro left on a wedding trip, the bride wearing an aqua dress with matching coat of beige print with aqua flower design, beige hat, black patent leather accessories, and corsage of cymbidium orchids. They will make their home at 1566 Pauline avenue, Manchester.

Mrs. Barbaro was graduated from St. Joseph's High School for Girls and attended the University of New Hampshire, she is employed as a clerk in the disbursement office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and is a member of Beta Sigma Phi, Iota Chapter.

Mrs. Barbaro is a graduate of Winchester High School and Tufts University in Medford, Mass. He is sales representative for the Upjohn Company.

Alleged Assaults Caught

Youthful Trio Held In $30,000 In Assault On Blind Man

Three youthful alleged assailants of a 72-year-old blind resident of Winchester appeared in the District Court at Woburn yesterday morning after being held in bail of $30,000 following previous hearings. The two oldest members of the trio, a 20-year-old Winchester youth and his 17-year-old brother had been in the East to the Cambridge jail since their arrests and hearings. The youngest of the three, a 15-year-old Winchester boy, had been in the custody of the Boston Youth Service Board.

Mr. Locke is blind and had taken only a few steps after rising from the couch on which he was sleeping when he was struck down. His brother, Wendell, who is blind, lives, is deaf, and knew nothing of the assault until he arose to check the barn and live stock as usual, and found his brother in the hall bleeding profusely from wounds about the head.

The police were called and took the injured man to the Winchester Hospital where Dr. Phillip J. McManus found he had sustained 15 lacerations of the scalp as the result of being repeatedly struck on the head with a blunt instrument.

The police commenced an immediate investigation, but had little on which to go, the blind man having been unable to see his assailant or assailants while his brother had heard nothing.

Since

When Winchester Savings Bank first opened its doors in 1871, there were far more "wide open spaces" in Middlesex County than there are NOW! But, even then, folks didn't need to keep their ear to the ground to know that their savings were safe here and G-R-O-W-I-N-G. And the word has travelled far and wide ever since. Why not come in soon and "explore" the many savings opportunities here?

LETTERS FROM ALISON

WINCHESTER GIRL ON TOUR
WITH U. S. HOCKEY TEAM
WRITES HOME

Dear Folks,

I hope that these community letters are O. K. with you all. Yesterday I got the first mail, a letter from Steph, Mom and Linda.

July 25, 1958
Sorry I couldn't finish this on the train to Johannesburg — just too bumpy. I had to catch up on my diary first anyway. Having a difficult time getting it off.

Today after a hard practice I ended up in bed all day with complete exhaustion. Several others are sick, too, one from eating too much. Haussie broke her nose in Wednesday's game and Joan Edem-horn and Phil Stadler both pulled muscles. So for the practice we had just 11 players.

For the game today, vs. Witwatersrand in Pretoria, the situation is about the same. I am now fully recovered after a visit from the doctor—2 tbsps. of white junk, a pill and a hot-water bottle. Wednesday I was one of four who "rested." We won handily, 4-0, with Joan getting two and Phil the other two. Phil is the one who made U. S. Reserve last winter. Lee played beautifully as right wing. The goalie, Pat, had another penalty. She won this one. It was the first time that particular forward had ever lost one.

In the car now on the way to Pretoria for our third game. Another pause, it's now 1:00 a.m. I've just come from a dance at the Wanderer's, seven of us went, the rest were either too sick or too tired or perhaps too lazy. We really had a good time. The South Africans sure know how to dance, better than the "bloody blosks" at home.

Anyway, to get back to today and the game. We got creamed. We were just barely able to fill a side of 11, using two with stuffy noses and two of us who had been in bed the whole day before. We just never got started and the whole line was a mess.

I never did get my second wind. The day was very hot and I thought I would die before the final whistle blew. I used to pray for the ball to go off the end line, and give a minute to rest. In this country the whistle is blown very rarely and as a result we are continually running up and down at a good pace.

This course is not counting the sprints at top speed usually necessary whenever the ball was nearest you. The games at home are going to be a lark after this tour.

I played left inner today and not at all well. Sally Ginter played left wing and she might as well not have been there for all the use she was, suffering from a runny nose. I just don't ever want to play like that again.

Keep the letters coming. I'll try to keep up.

Love to all,
Alison

July 30
Johannesburg

Dear Folks,

I shall try to get this off by the 11:00 mail. The big news is that we beat Scotland 2-1. This is the first time U. S. A. has ever beaten them. We tied them once. The game was a thrilling experience. We played before hundreds of people, mostly school girls in their traditional uniforms, complete with black stockings, wide-brimmed hats and blazers.

As for the game, it was an exceptionally good and fast one. About 12 minutes after the opening whistle, we were pressing around their goal. All of a sudden there was the ball, right before me and nothing between it and the goal. I couldn't have missed. An easy flick sent it into the net, and we led 1-0.

From that point on I think all of us were dead certain of victory. We had been determined to win before the game and now we knew it. The psychological factor of that first goal is tremendous. Phil Stadler, left inner, put in the insurance goal on a flick at about 20 minutes. For the rest of the half it was back and forth.

Second half went scoreless for almost 20 minutes before Scotland finally rushed one in. Our goalie was doing a superb job, making fantastic saves. The stands were wild. It sounded like a close football game between Winchester and Woburn. Several times we thought they might score again.

With two minutes to play, we again pressed and almost scored. We were sure glad to hear the final whistle. Then the most fantastic thing happened! The stands just emptied themselves and swarms of school girls were pressing for autographs. Hundreds of them! Before the game we had been writing like mad. You'd think we were Elvis Presley or something.

Tomorrow we have another match, equally as difficult, against Southern Transvaal. Four of the Springboks (South African) will be playing for them. Then on Saturday is our biggest test, against the Springboks. I hope that you have seen my letter to Linda written just before Kruger Park.

We beat Eastern Transvaal on Monday 3-0. I have found the answer to my slowness—too much junk on my legs. I had been wearing a pair of white socks under the knee socks plus a pair of shin guards.

Yesterday took off the shin guards and the white socks and, boy, did it make the difference! I

PLAYGROUND NOTES

It is and to say that attendance has dropped off the past week. Many youngsters have told the instructors that they were going out of town for a week, two weeks or the whole month of August. But it is true that so many have gone? If not, steer your youngsters to the supervised fields because the instructors are certainly waiting to give them a good day of recreation. If the days are hot and uncomfortable quiet games, not too strenuous, can be played.

Although the youngsters have enjoyed themselves playing baseball, softball, basketball, croquet, quoits and various quiet games, croquet seems to be the most popular activity. And to see the youngsters "send" their opposition! Wow! And are they serious about their playing! It's loads of fun just watching them!

In the arts and crafts department the little ones are completing their purses and link belts and are making more bracelets, pot holders, key chains and lanyards.

Next week supervised fields will be Loring and West Side Fields on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and Ginn and Leonard Fields on Tuesday and Thursday. Arts and crafts will take place at Leonard on Tuesday and Thursday mornings, at Ginn on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings arts and crafts will be had at Loring and on the afternoons of these same days it will be at West Side Field.

You were told in last week's column that we are planning a beach day and right now it appears that this day will be next Thursday, August 14. We are planning to go to Crane's Beach, leaving Leonard and Ginn Fields at 9:30 in the morning and returning to the same fields about 4:00 in the afternoon.

Your youngsters must meet us at about instructing them as to traffic conditions on the way. It would be wise if you would meet them at these same places at 4:00 in order that nothing will go astray. All instructors will be present to care for those going on the trip so all precautions measures will definitely be enforced.

In order for the youngsters to take part, they must have a note from their parents stating their permission is granted, and it must be signed. This assures us that you know where the youngsters are for the day. It also helps in "sounding off" during roll call. $1.00 must be enclosed with the note to cover the trip, ice cream, etc. Remember that the notes and fee are important; the sooner this is taken care of the better.

Please don't send your youngsters if they are under nine years old. To make the trip definite we must have enough to fill at least one bus. So let the instructors on the playgrounds have the necessary items by Monday or Tuesday at the latest. If there is not a satisfactory response for this beach day, returns will be made as soon as possible.

TOWN SOFTBALL LEAGUE STARTS PLAYOFFS

This softball season was certainly filled with rarities and there probably are more in store during the championship playoffs. The four teams in playoff positions are the defending champions, Holy Name Society, the V.F.W., the Sons of Italy and the newcomers, the Elks. All four teams ended the season with a 12 and 5 record which means a four-way first-place tie. An arrangement was made to play two games to determine the positions to be held for playoffs because in the semi-finals the first and third place teams and the second and fourth place teams played the best of three series and the winners will play the finals in the best of five series.

On Monday night at Ginn Field the defending champions defeated the Elks by an 8-5 score. At Leonard Field the V.F.W. knocked the S.O.I. over by the same score of 8-5. This is another of the rarities.

On Tuesday evening the V.F.W. visited the Holy Name Society at Ginn Field. Holy Name was in the lead 5-2 in the last frame when pitcher Archie MacDonald came to bat with bases loaded and two outs to hit a grand slam and end the game in V.F.W.'s favor 6-5 to win first place in the standing and placed the Holy Name in second playoff position.

Then another rarity occurred with the Elks' and S.O.I.'s game at Leonard Field to determine third and fourth place positions. As in the game just mentioned the S.O.I. was up for the last time in the game and trailing 12-10 with two outs and bases loaded. This time Peter Provizano planted himself at the plate to meet one of Bob Smith's pitches for a double and three runs to give the win to the S.O.I. with a 13-12 score and third place in the standing.

This all means now that the S.O.I. visited the V.F.W. at Ginn Field on Wednesday evening and at Leonard Field on Thursday evening. At the same time the Elks visited the Holy Name at Leonard Field on Wednesday and at Ginn Field on Thursday. Results of these games will be reported in next week's column. If a third game is necessary in these semi-finals it will be played next Monday evening rather than tonight because many of the players have arranged to follow and cheer the winning Babe Ruth team and we certainly hope they go all the way.

Finals in the Softball League will definitely be on its way next week and all games will be played at Ginn Field starting at 6:15. There's plenty of excitement so come on down and take it all in! Don't miss a game from Monday evening to the end of the series, championship and trophy.

By His Excellency
FOSTER FURCOLO
Governor

A PROCLAMATION

One of the outstanding achievements in brotherhood in this country has been the growth and development of a true understanding of the American Indian as an integral and important influence upon the history and the heritage of this country.

The rewarding study of the life and lore of these early Americans reveals that their philosophy stressed the essential dignity of man, and the propriety and equity of the laws by which he lived. They practiced self-control and self-denial, and fulfilled their promises. They were reverent in their religious ideals, loyal to their family ties, and faithful to their standards of virtue. They were honest, just, generous, and unflinchingly brave, qualities which they displayed as members of our armed forces in World War II.

They possessed a variety of talents which affected the life and culture of modern America. Indian corn and other native vegetables, fruits, fish, and fowl are foods which remind us that the Pilgrim fathers might have perished if Squanto, Massasoit, Samoset, and other Indians had not extended the helpful hand of friendship.

Our sports, folklore, literature, and arts and crafts are richer and more varied because of their interest and activities in these subjects. Even in the field of political science, the peaceful and mutually helpful confederacy of five Indian nations was instrumental in shaping Benjamin Franklin's ideas for a successful union of the thirteen colonies.

The American Indian, rightfully recognized as a true citizen by an Act of Congress in 1924, has placed his indelible mark in many ways upon our commonwealth and our nation. The Indian names of cities, towns, streams, rivers, hills, and other landmarks serve as a constant reminder of his pioneer contribution to the American way of life—a contribution to be cherished for what it is—a rich, distinctive, and proud heritage.

NOW, therefore, I, FOSTER FURCOLO, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in accordance with Chapter 184, Acts of 1935, and Chapter 56, Acts of 1939, do hereby proclaim as

INDIAN DAY

Tuesday, August 12, 1958, and recommend that it be observed by all people with appropriate exercises commemorative of the Indian tribes of Massachusetts.

GIVEN at the Executive Chamber in Boston, this ninth day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-eight, and of the Independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and eighty-third.

FOSTER FURCOLO, By His Excellency the Governor, EDWARD J. CRONIN, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

RED CROSS CAR

TYPICAL WEEK OF SERVICE DESCRIBED

As the Red Cross car is seen in its daily service, it is probable that Winchester residents wonder what service the car performs.

The Ford station wagon, new in December 1956, has been driven 5,000 miles. Sixty members of the Motor Corps, with the office serving as its chairman, drove 7,883 miles (with owners cars in use) last year; gave 605 hours for 281 calls, to take patients to Boston hospitals and clinics, and on other trips of money. Twenty-one trips were made to the Children's Hospital last year.

Let us detail the engagements for the car's first week of August to give some idea of varied trips throughout the year.

At 8:15 a. m. Monday, August 4, Mrs. E. W. Feeley (a veteran Motor Corps driver) picked up Valerie Russell for a 9:00-11:00 therapeutic treatment at Children's Hospital. After three years on crutches it is a treat to see the progress made by this courageous girl. Monday afternoon the car was in the shop for its own check-up.

Tuesday at 9:30 a. m. Mrs. Ralph Sexton picked up the car with Mrs. Cass's help, as Canteen chairman, to gather seven volunteer workers to serve a picnic at Bedford Hospital to seventy-five patients. Mr. Newell Purrington, of the Winchester Post Office, joined the group during the noon hour to play his accordion. Since the car was in use, another driver, Mrs. Feeley, was busy in her own car transporting a patient and his mother to the Children's Hospital, performing double Motor Corps duty for Red Cross.

Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. the car was picked up at the Chapter House by Mrs. Joseph Doyle (one of the busiest Motor Corps drivers) to drive six women representing Canteen, Nurse's Aide, Staff Aides, Registered Nurse and Gray Lady to man the Boston Blood Center at 314 Dartmouth street. This article, written in advance can only estimate the car will average 90 miles, taking men and women to work, picking up donors from

Babe Ruth Team Sweeps
Fitchburg, Wellesley; Wins
First State Championship

At the State Babe Ruth League Championship games held at Ted Williams Camp, Lakeville, last Saturday and Sunday our Babe Ruth boys were just too good for the other district winners. Paul Del Rossi held Fitchburg to one run and struck out 14 batters, while Arlanson, French, Bellino, Grinnell and Del Rossi timely hits scored six runs for Winchester in the first game.

After Wellesley had upset Pittsfield they met Winchester in the finals and was really no match for the now Massachusetts champions, who will represent our State in New England Region contest starting August 8, at Amherst. With Vandy French on the mound, allowing just two hits and the outstanding hitting and playing by all the team, Wellesley went down to defeat by a 15 to 3 score. Carl Arlanson drove in seven runs with a homer, double and two singles, with French, Del Rossi and Grinnell collecting two hits each.

Much credit for the showing of these champs should be given their manager Bill Cruwys and coaches Sam Bellino and Pro Connors for the many hours spent the past month in giving Winchester their first Babe Ruth Championship.

With the New England Championship the next step, here's hoping for three more wins to their credit.

FOUR BOYS CELEBRATE BASIC COMPLETION
BY DRILLING ON PARKWAY

Four boys who apparently didn't get enough drilling in army basic training were continuing their training—or perhaps, just practicing—Monday morning on the Mystic Valley parkway.

Several residents in the area called the police to report some sort of disturbance and Sergeant Irving Reardon and Officer Roland Roy went to investigate the situation. The police ordered the four bathing suit clad men to stop drilling on the parkway—especially at 6:34 a. m. The boys who were celebrating the completion of their basic training were asked to confine their drilling to Army grounds.

NATURAL GAS SERVICE

Mystic Valley Gas Company will begin at once to extend natural gas service into the town of Burlington, it was announced today by the Company's President, Harold L. Dalbeck.

The Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities on August 1, 1958, granted to Mystic Valley a franchise to supply natural gas to the town.

Mr. Dalbeck said that initially natural gas would be brought into Burlington from the Mystic Valley Company's high pressure mains in Woburn in order to get a natural gas supply as rapidly as possible to the Cabot, Cabot and Forbes, Burlington Industrial Center, on Route 128.

The Spencer Laboratory of the Raytheon Manufacturing Company located in this center is now under construction and will require natural gas service for its research and development work in the vitally important electronic field. The gas connection with the Raytheon plant should be completed within their time limit.

The Gas Company President explained that it would take about three years to complete the job of extending gas service into the area to be covered in the initial phase of the program. He said many hours of work must be put in to install the necessary equipment which will be used in the projected area.

Negotiations are under way for the acquisition of a metering station site near the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company natural gas pipeline which runs through Burlington. At this site, a natural gas supply for the town will be taken directly from the Tennessee lines for distribution to homes and businesses throughout Burlington.

CHILDS — RAMSDELL

There is Winchester interest in the marriage which took place in Tucson, Ariz., on Saturday afternoon, August 2, when Miss Virginia Ramsdell of Tucson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Eben Ramsdell of Summit avenue, became the bride of Richard Childs, also of Tucson and son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Childs of Redlands, Calif. The Rev. George C. Vance read the 2 o'clock double ring service at the First Congregational Church of Tucson in a floral setting of white gladiolas and chrysanthemums combined with aquamarine and orchid carnations. A reception was held at the church, immediately following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsdell went west for the wedding and Mr. Ramsdell gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a white off-the-shoulder gown with a fitted and pleated bodice and a full ballerina length skirt of net over nylon. Her fingertip veil was caught to an open half-crown edged with pearls and she carried an old fashioned bouquet of white carnations centered and edged with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. George Holloman attended the bride as matron of honor and Mrs. Rollin Jones was bridesmaid. Miss Bonnie Childs was flower girl.

The matron of honor wore a dress of orchid embroidered satin cotton with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and a pleated bouffant skirt. She carried a bouquet of orchid carnations and wore a tiara of the same flowers.

The bridesmaid wore a dress of aquamarine organza with a boat neckline, a fitted bodice with cap sleeves and a full circular skirt. Her bouquet and tiara of carnations matched her gown.

Dean Willis Brewer was best man for Mr. Childs and ushering were Sidney Soundheim and Allen Childs.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Ramsdell wore a gown of dusty rose crepe and lace. Her small hat, shoes and corsage were white and she wore a short rose veil and matching mitts.

After a wedding journey to Oak Creek Canyon, Grand Canyon, Ariz., Mr. Childs and his bride will make their home at 967 Casa Grande Highway, Tucson, Ariz.

GOODROW — COPPINGER

At St. Francis of Assisi Church in Medford on Saturday morning, August 2, Miss Janet Mary Coppinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Coppinger of 7 Rockwood terrace, Medford, was married to Howard Reynolds Goodrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard George Goodrow of 116 Forest street. The Rev. Joseph A. Flaherty, O.S.A., of Merrimack College, Andover, performed the 10 o'clock marriage ceremony and was also celebrant of the nuptial mass which followed. Pink and white gladioli made an attractive setting for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Coppinger wore a gown of white faille with inserts of lace and scattered sequins and pearls. Her fingertip veil was caught to a matching tiara and she carried a crescent bouquet of stephanotis and ivy edged with French tulle and tied with white ribbons.

Mrs. John Coppinger of Brantford, Conn., was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Goodrow of Winchester, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Jean Collins of Salem and Mrs. Richard Gilmore of Pittsfield.

All the bridal attendants wore of walk length chiffon print dresses of apricot, yellow and Nile green. Their headpieces were crowns of white daisies and ivy and they carried cascade bouquets of daisies, French roses and ivy with shower streamers of pastel shades.

Edward J. Coppinger of Woburn, brother of the bride, and Mr. Goodrow's best man and ushering were John Mathson of Woburn, Robert Hall of Salem and Daniel Mulhern of Newton.

A reception was held after the marriage at Chickland in Saugus, the parents of the bride and bridegroom assisting in receiving with the members of the bridal party.

Mrs. Coppinger, mother of the bride, wore a white, green and sapphire print with white accessories and a corsage of stephanotis and pink roses. Mrs. Goodrow, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pure silk print of variegated blues with accessories of powder blue and a corsage of blue feathered carnations and stephanotis.

After a honeymoon spent at Finger Lakes, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Goodrow will live in Medford.

The bride is a graduate of Merrimack College and Mr. Goodrow is completing his course there.

ANNOUNCING

3 TYPES of PLUMBING SERVICE for your benefit

1. Regular, high-quality installations and repairs on plumbing and heating.
2. Repairs on small jobs, pipe cut to measure, threaded, etc., in our new shop while you wait.
3. Supplies and instructions for "do-it-yourselfers."

Save money by doing your own small repair jobs.

A dripping faucet, "running" toilet tank, or wobbly radiator handle is easy to repair. Probably all you need is a screwdriver, pair of pliers, and small wrench plus a new washer, "lift wire," or handle. As for doing it, you can learn how because we'll show you.

When you have a small plumbing repair problem, phone us — better still, come in and tell us what it is. In our new shop you'll find we've combined the advantages of an efficient retail plumbing-parts store with those of a professional plumbing counsel. On actual equipment we'll explain how easily you can make your own repairs. You can get the necessary parts from us—tools, too, if you wish.

As a result you'll save the cost of labor which is often greater than the cost of parts on such easy jobs as:

- Adjusting Toilet Tank Balls
- Replacing Toilet Tank Lift Wires
- Releasing Toilet Stoppages
- Repairing Faucets
- Cleaning Boilers
- Replacing Radiator Handles and Valves

The value of promptly notifying the police if you notice someone acting strangely was emphatically demonstrated last week when the authorities were able to apprehend a man for improper conduct on Main street. The police believe he ties in with several of the complaints of a man accosting children and girls in Winchester over the past several weeks. Police say he has a previous record and had been on a suspended sentence which expired in May.

All too often people who see someone acting strangely do nothing about it until they learn of trouble or tragedy involving the person they saw. They then tell the police that they did see someone conducting himself in a suspicious manner but had done nothing at the time, believing it was "none of their business" or because the "police would be sore" if nothing turned out to be wrong.

Nothing could be further from the fact. The police welcome the opportunity to investigate any suspicious person or happening, regardless of outcome. Many times they find everything all right, but they would rather investigate fifty unnecessary calls than to miss the one leading to an important arrest because someone was either too indifferent or too timid to call them.

The mother, whose call last week resulted in the pickup of a man wanted by the police deserves the praise and thanks of the community. The town is safer for girls and children because of her prompt action.

The whole town is excited about the success of the Winchester Babe Ruth Tournament team at Lakeville last week end. Winning the state playoffs is a real feather in the caps of the local boys and their hard-working coaches and managers.

The Winchester team now goes to Amherst this week end for the regional playoffs and victory there will send the team to the finals in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Everyone here will be rooting "for the home team," and there are not a few close followers of the boys who believe they have what it takes to go all the way. The way the locals landed on the Wellesley pitcher in the final game strengthens that belief, for he is considered the best in the state ranks.

Winchester up to now has gotten by financially, and the money expended to take the team to Lakeville will be pretty much returned from the state authorities. At Amherst, however, there will be nothing coming back, and there is little in the local treasury to pay the bills.

The local Babe Ruth authorities hope there are in town many who will want to help out the boys financially. The Babe Ruth League takes boys when they graduate from Little League and keeps them playing ball instead of hanging around the streets and getting into trouble. It is well worth supporting.

Put a dollar or more in an envelope and send it to the Babe Ruth treasurer, Elmer Grinnell, 81 Forest street. You'll be helping along a good thing by so doing and you will be even prouder of the lad's fine showing in the realization that you had a part in their activity.

Think of the hours the adults connected with the Babe Ruth League have given to this youth project. Surely those of us who can will want to back them and the boys financially.

The National House Ways and Means Committee has voted to approve another election-year social security liberalization bill.

The proposed legislation would raise social security benefits by about 7 per cent and also raise the tax on employers and employees to 2½% each to be effective January 1, 1959. The measure would also increase federal subsidies for needy persons on state-operated relief rolls through liberalized payments for the needy aged, blind and disabled.

The Eisenhower administration is unhappy over the proposed legislation and will not endorse it. Outright opposition is to be decided at a series of conferences by White House and Welfare Department officials. Passage of the measure seems certain.

Out in Ohio they do not want billboards on their new highway system. The Ohio legislature has passed, and the governor signed, legislation barring outdoor advertising from new sections of the Interstate Highway System in that state.

The bill provides that all outdoor advertising structures within 660 feet (2 1/3 football fields) of the edge of the right-of-way are barred. Ohio will be rewarded for its action by the Federal Government in the form of footing a greater share of the cost of the state's highways.

The Winchester Little League did not win any championships this year, but let no one underestimate what Little League has contributed to the crack Babe Ruth Tournament All Stars, who won the Babe Ruth State Championship at Lakeville last week end.

Virtually all the members of the Babe Ruth team are Little League graduates, and most of them have been tournament play which includes competition in the World's Series at Williamsport, Pa. Only such seasoning and expert handling can produce the poise and all-around performance that marked the Babe Ruth stars in the state finals. We have Little League to thank for their splendid play.

The success Winchester has enjoyed in Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball hasn't just happened. Long hours of work on the part of interested men, and women, have gone into each season to build this success. The material has been there, granted, but those handling the various teams have gotten the very most out of the boys they have coached and managed.

It has been a real grind for these coaches and managers, and parents of players have made their particular contribution in accepting good naturedly disruptions in meal schedules and vacation plans. "Oh, we aren't going. The boy is in Little League," has been the rule instead of the exception!

On the other hand, the rewards have been great, both for the coaches and those who have handled the business end of the leagues, and especially for the boys, who have been associated with some fine men in one of the greatest of all games, baseball.

Winchester has been very fortunate in the success its Little League and Babe Ruth League have enjoyed, but as we said before, it didn't just happen. Those responsible for this success have worked hard for it. They deserve the gratitude of all interested in the youth of the town.

Chatting with one of the town's physicians Wednesday, we were told that he had been treating several Winchester persons who were desperately ill from eating what they supposed to be mushrooms. Persons have been known to die from eating poisonous toadstools, thinking they were mushrooms, and those who do not die go through torture they will long remember.

The persons being treated by our physician friend would not, he said, die, but they are deathly sick. He asked the Star to warn its readers of the danger in amateur identification of mushrooms. His patients, he said, picked theirs up in the Fells, but toadstools anywhere else are just as deadly.

If you like mushrooms, it is the advice of the medical profession to buy them at the market. Don't pick them in the woods or fields! Fortunately Winchester has many markets that sell mushrooms, the variety it is perfectly safe to eat!

ROLL OUT THE LADDER!

Palmer Beach Lifeguards Noreen Johnson and Frank Logan hold new lifesaving ladder constructed by Park Superintendent H. Stanley Mullen, shown in the center of the photo.

NON-SINK LIFESAVING LADDER

PARK SUPERINTENDENT TRIES NEW IDEA

Park Superintendent H. Stanley "Babe" Mullen during the off season last winter constructed something new in lifesaving ladders, which he hopes will be a big improvement over the old variety.

Old lifesaving ladders, at least those in use in Winchester, have been just ordinary short ladders. They have easily been removed from their places at the various ponds in town, and worse, are of little value if called upon actually to support a person in the water.

The use of ladders in potential drowning accidents is pretty much limited to winter and the breaking of thin ice. Sometimes it is difficult, if not impossible, to get the ladder quickly to the person in the water. If it does reach him, and the ice around the hole in which the victim finds himself is not strong enough to support the ladder and the victim's weight, both the ladder and the person seeking its support go under.

All these disadvantages were pondered by Mr. Mullen last winter, and after thinking things over for a while he came up with the idea of attaching non-sinkable drums to each end of the lifesaving ladders. With the addition of these drums, even if the supporting ice about the person in the water lets go, the drums will keep him afloat. "Babe's" friend, "Pete" Ryerson, parts man at Bonnell's Ford agency, provided him with a couple of air tight brake-fluid drums, and to the top and bottom of each he had a welder attach steel disks with short axles in the middle.

These axles "Babe" put through holes in the sides of the ladder, placing the drums just above and below respectively the lowest and highest rungs.

These axles would permit rolling the ladder over land or ice instead of carrying it, and the drums would keep the ladder from sinking, even when supporting the weight of an adult. This at least was the theory, and the ladder Mr. Mullen built during the winter was actually placed on the standards at the Mill Pond, though it was not used.

"Babe" was reluctant to talk about the ladder until he had a chance to try it out, and human guinea pigs were hard to come by during the winter. No one wanted to see if the ladder would support him in ice water.

This summer, however, "Babe" has given the ladder a good testing at Palmer Beach, with the cooperation of Lifeguards Frank Logan, Noreen Johnson and Mary Laird. The tests have been very satisfactory.

In open water the ladder has actually supported the three lifeguards and four youthful swimmers; Billy Chase, Barbara Brotherton, William Thompson and Peter Kean joining the lifeguards in clinging to its sides when the Star reporter witnessed a demonstration Tuesday morning.

"Babe" is satisfied that the new ladder is an improvement over the old type and plans to construct additional ladders to cover the Mill Pond, Winter Pond, Wedge Pond, Leonard Field Pond and Black Ball as well as Palmer Beach.

The new ladder is also an improvement over the old in that it isn't going to be much good to the chap who "borrows" it to do some work around the house. With the attached drums the ladders aren't going to stand up too well.

WHO'S WHO TROUBLES

We have received several calls and letters questioning the list of Winchester residents we published recently as appearing in the new Sixtieth Anniversary Edition of Marquis Who's Who in America. Friends and associates have reported the omission of James L. Jenks, Jr., of 12 Myopia road, and Francis E. Smith of 1 Wolcott road from the list.

We did not go through the new book and pick out the names we published. They were sent us by the publishers. There may be, and probably are, other Winchester names omitted.

We seem to recall the same trouble once before in connection with such a list, and if memory serves, some of those we didn't mention were unhappy over the omission! Well, it won't happen again! From now on if you want to know who's in "Who's Who," see for yourself in the book. Apparently that is the only sure way to find out.

ANOTHER JOB FOR THE HIGHWAY CREW

Shown above are "Jake" Horn and one of his highway crew hard at work removing some of the words written on the big bridge supporting the overhead at Winchester Station. None of the words adds anything to the attractiveness of the structure and some of them are bad enough to make one wonder whether after all kids could have been responsible for writing them. It would seem some of the filth to be seen on this and the other railroad bridges in town could only have been put there by adults or those approaching that station. The defacing of the bridges is doubly unfortunate. The words written are embarrassing to all decent residents of the town and give visitors to the center a bad impression of the community. The authorities should try, and very probably are attempting to pick up those responsible. The community will applaud prosecuting them to the limit.

ALL IS WELL!

Editor of the Star:

The folks who live on or near Mystic Lake are so very much happier since the motor boat situation has been so much improved. The hot rodders don't come to our lake any more as they find that they are not welcome. Until the MDC put the patrol boat on the lake, living here was almost unbearable, but now all is well.

Officers Dennehy, and Eddie Leahy have done a wonderful job in bringing this situation under control. They are most courteous to the boat owners and they fully realize as do the residents near the lake that the motor boat owners have just as much right to enjoy the lake as we who live near it, but these boat owners have been made to realize that Mystic Lake is not a race course that would not allow the sail boats to race properly, and this season it has been wonderful.

So here is a real "Thank You" to these officers who have done their job so well.

Very truly yours,
J. F. Fitzsimmons,
4 Robinson circle

P.S.: From the enclosed letter in the Wakefield Daily Item you can see how the citizens there keep their eye on their lake to see that it does not become a "pesthole."

Editor, Daily Item:
The Item editorial of Tuesday, admittedly twisted the facts about Lake Quannapowitt. There can be no proper control of motor boats of high horsepower. A 10 mph limit is absurd in the hands of some of the characters that operate. Without a speed-recording device they are blissfully unaware of what speed they are traveling and care less as they proceed to turn our lake into a noisy pest hole complete with water dare-devils and exhaust fumes.

The Item with a misplaced sense of justice feels for the poor motor boat with his sixty-horse outboard but it is a fact that big motor boats will drive the simple and pretty sail boat off the lake—there are parkways restricted to pleasure cars, bridle paths for horses, sidewalks for pedestrians and airports for airplanes. Are we to invite the seaplane to land here "for all" you say. Try riding your son's bicycle on route 128 next Sunday. Would the Item editorial writer have these restrictions removed for "everyone's use"? A small lake like ours has sail boats and small motor boats or large motor boats and no sail boats as anyone who has spent time on New Hampshire lake can testify.

Before the present restrictions we had a gruesome accident on our lake where a young boy's head was virtually sheared off by the propeller of a motor boat. Balance this against thousands of hours of zooming about in boats too large for this small lake if you can. The license to operate motor boats on the lake does not insure that your mythical "sensible family man" will be alone in applying. The number of deaths on the highway bears stark witness to the fallacy of this thinking—most of these people also had a license.

It all boils down to this: our lake is well suited for small pleasure craft—sail boats, rowboats, canoes and low horsepower motor boats—as the present restrictions allow. Let the others rent a small boat from Mrs. Hill and come on out and join the fun. Don't spoil it for the rest of us with a mania for size and horsepower. There is room "for all" if you don't take more than your share.

HILLS' PLANS CHANGED

Frederick R. Hill of Winthrop street, appliance manager at the Winchester Appliance on Thompson street, has learned that the trip he and Mrs. Hill were scheduled to take to the Dominican Republic in the fall has been cancelled.

Mr. Hill won separate trips to the Republic for himself and his wife in the recently completed York Air Condition Sales Contest, this year marking the third in which popular "Fred" has been among the winners. In 1956 he and Mrs. Hill flew to Nassau, and in 1957, to Cuba.

The York company cancelled the proposed trip to the Dominican Re-

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

The famed Scythe Tree near Woburn, New York, is a unique memorial to a young soldier of the Civil War. When the boy left for the front, he hung his scythe in the crook of a Balm of Gilead poplar and asked that it be left there until he returned. He never did. The growing tree enveloped the scythe's blade, and today only six inches of it show, the National Geographic Society says.

The larvae of the pronuba moth eat the seeds of the yucca plant, which is fair enough since there would be no plants without the moths, the National Geographic Society says. The yucca's pollen is meager and too sticky to be moved by the wind. When the mother moth lays her eggs in a blossom she gathers pollen from its anthers and places it on the stigma, thus fertilizing the plant's eggs. When the young hatch they find a banquet of seeds awaiting them. What they do not eat propagates the yucca.

The begonia owes its name to a French amateur botanist, Michel Begon, an administrator in the West Indies at the time of Louis XIV. The National Geographic Magazine says. The plant reached England in 1777; its culture in Belgium began in the middle of the 19th century. Today the begonia is to Belgium what the tulip is to the Netherlands. The bulk of Belgium's huge crop of begonia tubers is exported, mostly to the United States.

John O' Groat, who gave his name to the settlement on Scotland's far northeastern tip, was a man of enormous tact the National Geographic Magazine says. He supposedly had seven sons with turbulent dispositions. So he built a house with eight doors and an octagonal table to give them all equal precedence.

SECRETS OF MIGRATION STILL PUZZLE SCIENCE

The baby seal that recently migrated for days around its pool in Coney Island Aquarium was doing what comes naturally.

Like a few other mammals of sea, air, and land, seals regularly undertake long, strenuous journeys between their fishing grounds and breeding zones, the National Geographic Society says.

As travel involves hazards, even in the animal kingdom, the regular commuters usually swim fast, fly well, or run a good race. Most mammals venture only short distances from their homes.

Mysteries of Migration
Though the rewards of travel seem directly related to food, weather, or romance, the thing that triggers it is not known. No single unfavorable factor applies to the migrations of all creatures. Yet nothing ever migrating animal—mammal, bird, fish, or insect—is a mysterious voice that tells it when to leave, where to go, and how to get there.

In recent years scientists have studied photoperiodism as a possible cause. The theory is that changes in length of day or night stimulate an animal's endocrine glands, compelling the animal to leave for ancestral breeding grounds.

The harp seal species, of which Coney Island's youngster is a member follows the seasons in the North Atlantic.

Each March thousands are born on ice floes off the Grand Banks. The pups learn to swim in early May. Soon the herds shove off for the north, eventually reaching the coast of Greenland about

REGISTRATION DATA

New registration plates (2) will be available and issued for 1959. The plates have white numerals on a maroon background. New registration application blanks are being distributed as of August 1, 1958. Registration applications for 1959 on any other application blanks will be refused. The new forms must be used.

For plates numbered 1 to 10,000 K1 to K1,000, H1 to H1,000, E1 to

E1,000, blanks will be mailed directly to the registrants concerned as soon as possible, together with special instructions. These applications, properly filled out and accompanied by the required fee, must be returned to the Registry during the month of September in the envelopes provided, and preferably by mail.

Plates numbered 10,001 to 100,000, K1,001 to K10,000, H1,001 to H10,000, E1,001 to E10,000, will be reassigned to present holders provided the applications for them, properly filled out and accompanied by the required fee, are received on or before Tuesday, October 14.

To insure reassignments of the same five-figure number plates to present holders, those registrants concerned should pay particular attention in answering Question No. 5 on the application blank. This question is of special importance for persons holding plates K1,001 to K10,000, H1,001 to H10,000 and E1,001 to E10,000. Failure to prefix the letter "K", "H" or "E", or insertion of the wrong number, will undoubtedly mean the loss of the number for 1959 to present holders of the same.

Separate Checks

Inasmuch as the registry extends the courtesy of reserving the registration plates numbered under 100,000 and those in the "K", "H" and "E" series under 10,000 for those persons now holding these numbers, the co-operation of these registrants is requested to the end that a separate check or money order covering the registration fee accompanies each application for plates in these series.

Only in those instances where registrants have one or more plates in the same series in sequence, is a single check or money order covering the fees for the plates in sequence acceptable. This detail is necessary to expedite the handling and the proper reassignment of these reserved numbers.

General Registration

Registration applications, in general, from owners of motor vehicles holding number plates other than those mentioned previously will be received through the mail in the Boston office only, beginning Monday, October 6. No advantage is to be gained by filing such applications before October 6.

Registration certificates and plates which are applied for by mail will be mailed during the latter part of November and in early December. Early registration will make more certain that a registrant will be legally on the road by January 1.

Counter Registration

The branch offices throughout the State and the Boston counter will accept registration applications beginning Monday, November 3. Insurance companies, their agents, and the public in general should take advantage of this early service and secure their certificates and plates at the nearest branch office as soon as possible to avoid last-minute uncertainty and confusion.

Branch offices of the Registry are not equipped or personelled for the mailing of registration certificates or plates.

Excise Tax Warning

The responsibility is on the owner to see to it that the information contained in the application is correct and that he personally signs the blank. If the owner wishes to avoid the possibility of difficulty with his excise tax collector later on, he will insist on filling out the answers to Questions 1, 1A and 9 personally.

INTERNATIONAL POSTAL RATES

FIRST AND SECOND CLASS MAIL RATES HIGHER

Higher international postal rates, applying to both first and second class mail, have been announced by the Post Office Department, and information on these changes will be of general interest.

International rates are not subject to Congressional legislation, but may be set by the Postmaster General under treaty provisions by virtue of American membership in the Universal Postal Union.

Effective August 1, 1958, first class mail rates to Canada and Mexico went to 4 cents per ounce, and, for all other countries, 8 cents for the first ounce and 5 cents for each additional ounce. Airmail letter rates to Canada and Mexico changed to 7 cents per ounce to conform with American domestic rates. Airmail postcards became 5 cents. Airmail rates to other nations remain unchanged.

Proposed Second Class Rates

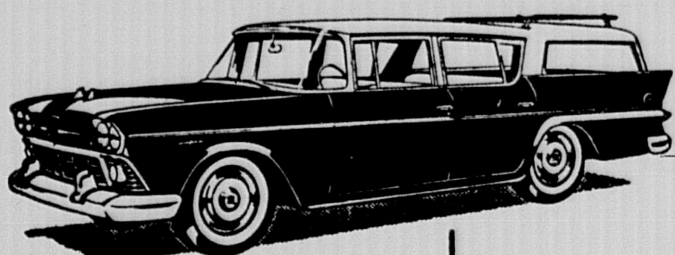

Proposed new rates for second-class matter mailed by the publishers or registered news agents are to become effective January 1, 1959 when domestic rates increase.

For Canada, the new second-class rate will be the same as the domestic rate on the reading portion, while the 8th domestic zone rate will apply on the advertising portion. These rates will increase on January 1, 1960 and January 1, 1961 along with the increase on domestic rates. The domestic minimum piece rate will also apply. The present Canadian delivery rate for newspapers issued less than five times a week is 1 cent for each 4 ounces or fraction of 4 ounces.

FROZEN FOOD REPRESENTATIVE
ADDRESSES HOUSE COMMITTEE

The frozen foods industry has cut its prices to homesteaders in recent years while providing more income for farmers, a Congressional subcommittee was told today. An industry representative declared that average retail prices of typical frozen foods have declined nine percent since 1953.

At the same time, the statement pointed out, the farmers' share of the frozen food dollar has changed little, and the vastly greater volume of farm products bought by the industry has resulted in a huge increase in total incomes of farmers who sell to frozen food packers.

From the cost of living standpoint the above statements have general interest, and this interest is intensified by Winchester readers by the fact that the speaker, Lawrence S. Martin of Chevy Chase, Md., is well known here as the husband of the former Marjory Ordway, daughter of Mrs. Harold F. French of Samoset road, and the late Dr. Clarence E. Ordway, late head of the Winchester Hospital Staff.

Mr. Martin, secretary-manager of the National Association of Frozen Food Packers here, defended the industry's cost and price policies at a hearing of the Consumers Study Subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee. He pointed out that increased yields of farm products per acre, plus added efficiency in harvesting, processing, packaging, and marketing, have enabled the industry to make its prices competitive with other foods. This is especially evident, he said, since government statistics show that over-all food prices have risen during the same period.

The subcommittee was shown the results of a survey which compared store prices of fourteen frozen foods in seven major cities during the first week of May 1953 and the first week of May 1958. To buy one each of the fourteen items in May 1953 the consumer paid $2.90. In May 1958 the same frozen food grocery list cost only $2.61. This is a cash saving of 29 cents, or nine percent, Mr. Martin pointed out.

Of the fourteen frozen products surveyed, eleven were at lower price levels in 1958 than in 1953. They were: strawberries, green beans, peas, french fried potatoes, corn, lima beans, broccoli, spinach, lemonade, peas and carrots, and chicken pot pies.

The only product which showed a substantial increase was frozen orange juice concentrate, the survey showed. However, Mr. Martin reported, this can be traced to a much greater increase in the cost of raw oranges to the packer as a result of the disastrous below-freezing weather in Florida last winter which destroyed crops and damaged citrus trees.

"The frozen foods industry has been a prime factor in permitting Americans to eat better for less money," Mr. Martin said. "Typical families could eat the same food today as they did twenty years ago, but it would cost them only sixteen percent of their incomes today instead of the twenty-five percent of the 1935-1939 period."

"But they won't do it," he declared. "They want the convenience, variety, and quality of the newer products. And so they continue to spend approximately twenty-five percent of their incomes for food—and eat better than ever."

"It seems clear," the industry spokesman said, "that frozen foods have done more than their part in recent years in maintaining—and even reducing—price levels to the consumer consistent with the quality and convenience which are built in."

NEW BUILDING FOR RAYTHEON IN LOWELL

Mr. W. Rogers Hamel of 13 Everett avenue, plant manager of the Raytheon Manufacturing Company's missile plant at South Lowell, has announced that a two-story administration building will be added to the plant in the immediate future.

Designed to relieve present cramped facilities for administrative personnel as well as free additional space needed for production of the Navy's Sparrow III air-to-air missile, the new building will contain 25,000 square feet and accommodate about 300 present plant employees.

Construction of the new brick building, which will be located directly in front of the present plant, is scheduled to begin in August, with completion estimated for December.

FIRES

August 1, 10:35 a. m. The rescue truck with John Flaherty driving and Lt. Michael Connolly went to Filene's to check on a smell of gas. They used a gas detector on Filene's and Brigham's basements but were unable to detect any odors.

Later that night a telephone call from the watchman at the J. H. Whitten Company at 10:15 p. m. brought Engine 4 with John Wyman driving and Joseph Carroll and David Dalton to a trash fire on the Boston & Maine tracks.

August 2, a radio call at noon from the police notified firefighters of a brush fire on South Border road near the Medford line. Lt. Michael Connolly, John Kimball and Hubert O'Donnell responded.

At 3 o'clock Engine 4 went to the woods on Clearwater road for a brush fire in a vacant lot.

August 3, firefighters answered another call at 5:02 p. m. at Clearwater road for a brush fire. Engine 4 with Robert Sullivan, Jr., driving, Henry Heitz, Jr., and Robert McElhinney responded. The police were notified that the fire was of suspicious origin.

"KISS ME KATE" OPENS AT NORTH SHORE MUSIC THEATER

"Kiss Me, Kate," which opened Beverly's North Shore Music Theater's first season in 1955, has been chosen as the first "repeat" performance ever to be included among the theater's offerings, slated for August 11 to 16. Stephan Slane, Managing Director, explains that not only does he consider it a very good show, certainly Cole Porter's best, and one that has proved its great popularity, but that he is also able to present as its star Robert Wright, who will recreate in-the-round a role he played on Broadway and on national tour over a thousand performances.

By now, Cole Porter's variation on a theme by Shakespeare has become one of the great classics and longest running hits of the American musical theater, topping even "Can-Can." It has to do with some of Mr. Shakespeare's wittiest ideas about love and marriage, and the 20th century complications that ensue when a husband and wife stage team, Fred and Lilli, begin to carry their roles into backstage life. Robert Wright, who plays a dashing Petruchio off stage and on stage, and Janet Medlin, who plays his Kate, will be familiar faces to television viewers, for Mr. Wright currently speaks for Kent Cigarettes on the $54,000 Challenge, and Miss Medlin appears for Pepsi Cola. In addition to their commercial assignments, both are regular performers on the musical stage, along Broadway and elsewhere.

There's a pair of gangsters to complicate matters hilariously, played by the outstanding comic favorites in the current "Can-Can," Mickey Deems and Bob Eckles. The Bianca of the piece, Lois Lane, will be Barbara George, a star of "Plain and Fancy."

ASKS RETURN OF SIGN

Bettie Donald, who conducts a lingerie shop on Waterfield road, would be happy to have returned the hand-carved business sign stolen recently from the outside of her shop.

Shaped like an old-fashioned corset, the sign was fastened to the building with two inch screws and cost Miss Donald in the neighborhood of $35. Whoever took the sign must have spent some time at the job and did so under the direct rays of a streetlight.

If some thoughtless youngster took the sign as a souvenir, Miss Donald would be happy to have his or her parents see that it is returned.

MISS SULLIVAN INJURED
ON MYSTIC VALLEY PARKWAY

David H. Willis of 39 Rangleway road reported to the police on July 31, that while he was driving east on the Mystic Valley parkway at 6:15 p. m. and making a left turn onto Main street he struck Miss Elsie Sullivan of 28 Church street. Mr. Willis took Miss Sullivan to the Winchester Hospital where she was treated by Dr. William Barone for lacerations on her right leg and for bruises on her arms and legs.

IT'S AN OLD, OLD ONE, MATE!

Jim Riley, past president of the Winchester Tennis Association and perennial town family doubles champion (right), presenting trophy of inter-county tennis tournament held in Winchester in October, 1890, to Josiah Bacon, president of the Winchester Tennis Association.

Old Trophy Uncarved

Winchester Tennis Association Has Interesting Tourney Memento

Winchester Tennis Association recently came into possession of an old tennis trophy, competed for in Winchester in October of 1890 by teams of players representing Middlesex and Essex Counties. The names of the players are engraved on the trophy with the winners of the individual matches. No scores are given and the winner of the team match is not named.

Individual winners are named as follows:

H. G. Bixby beat A. L. Ripley
J. H. Carter beat G. H. Carter
W. Harrington beat C. A. Reed
J. Z. Read beat M. Morton, Jr.
A. J. Wellington beat M. A. Jewett
H. Anderson beat E. Shaefer
R. Boyden beat E. Shaefer

There are undoubtedly Winchester men among the players listed above. The names, Ripley, Carter, Harrington, Wellington and Jewett, are familiar to older residents of the town, and it may be there are some still around who can identify the players positively. Here is where we miss a Sam Symmes or an Elmer Fletcher.

The story behind the Winchester Tennis Association's coming by the old trophy, a covered humidor type of thing, is of much interest.

Executor Finds Trophy

Some time ago one Fred Danford in Dallas, Texas, wrote the Winchester Chamber of Commerce stating that he as executor of the estate of Mrs. E. F. Mitchell had in his possession an old tennis trophy, awarded the winner of an inter-county match held in Winchester in October of 1890.

Mrs. Mitchell was 94 when she died recently and her husband was 92 at the time of his death two years ago. Both came from Mevetown, Pa., and Mr. Mitchell was well known in the field of railroad engineering. There was nothing in their lives to connect them personally with Winchester.

Mrs. Mitchell's maiden name was West, and she had a sister, Caroline West, who lived in Boston until her death 12 years ago. It is Mr. Danford's belief that the trophy had been in Miss West's possession and had come to the Mitchells with other effects after her death. Whether Miss West ever lived in Winchester is not known unless there is some "old timer" able to remember her residence here.

Letter Returned

Mr. Danford's letter to the Chamber of Commerce was of no avail for it is many years since there has been a chamber in Winchester. It was returned to the writer, and Mr. Danford tried again.

This time he wrote the Postmaster, Thomas F. Gilgun, and this letter started the wheels of progress turning.

Officers' council was held at the Postoffice and it was decided to hand over the letter to Blair Hawley, a tennis enthusiast well known in New England tennis circles. Mr. Hawley was away, so the letter was given to Carrier Herb Nelson for delivery to Bob Joslin of Crescent road, who was on his route and known to be "interested in tennis." "Bob" was tremendously interested in the possibilities of the trophy. So was Josiah Bacon, the Winchester Tennis Association president and Dwight Bellows, association treasurer. "Bob" wrote Mr. Danford to send along the trophy, and he did so, it reaching Winchester in time to be wondered over at the Mystic Valley Junior Veterans Tournament at Packer Courts last week-end. The Winchester Tennis Association is very happy to have the ancient mug.

They would of course be happier to know more about it, and are hoping that some one who reads this article may vouchsafe more information.

One of Earliest Courts Here
Winchester was among the earliest communities to indulge in tennis hereabouts. Allen Forbes, then president of the State Street Tennis Company, in his interesting little book, "Early Myopia," which places the origin of the famous Myopia Hunt Club in Winchester, tells of the part played by Myopians in tennis in the '70s in this town.

The actual locale of the Myopia Club was in the lodge of the Prince estate on Wedge Pond, home of Frederick O. Prince, at one time mayor of Boston as well as Massachusetts senator and representative. It was on the Prince grounds that tennis was started here.

Mr. Forbes in his book says, "As nearly as can be learned the club (Myopia) laid out the second tennis court in this country. Frederick Prince, son of Frederick A. Prince, tells this interesting story of this tennis incident."

"My brother Morton and I assisted Dr. Jim Dwight of Nahant in marking out what I believe was one of the first lawn tennis courts in America," concluding with the statement, "At once the game became very popular at Nahant and we immediately ordered one to be put up on my father's lawn at Winchester."

"On week-ends many Bostonians came down to see the new game. I was quite young when I learned to play, and it was in this way that I became very intimate with the older men who, with my brothers, were soon to form the Myopia Club."

Myopia in Winchester, according to Mr. Forbes, consisted of three epochs, the boating and tennis period in the 1870s, the baseball era from 1876 through 1879, and finally the hunting period, from 1880 to 1883.

Since those old days of tennis and boating on Wedge Pond there have been few if any grass tennis courts in Winchester. There have been clay courts about town early in the 1900s, among them one on Wildwood street, another on Grove street, on Highland avenue, Maxwell road, at the Calumet Club and Country Club.

Winchester reached a peak in the years when the late Rev. William S. Packer, for whom Packer Courts are named, was spearheading the game in town, and now tennis seems to be taking a new lease on life here. Looking back, it is something to have had the second court in America laid out right in this town, almost within a stone's throw from where Packer Courts now flourish.

Three thousand islands, cays, and rocks comprise the Bahamas, the British Colony southeast of Florida. The Bahamian Constitution, dating from 1729, provides a form of government similar to that in the North American Colonies before the Revolution. The House of Assembly is one of the oldest legislative bodies in the Western Hemisphere, the National Geographic Magazine says.

DOUBLES VICTORY TO WINCHESTER

Robert Joslin and Arthur Hills (left), men's doubles winners in last week-end's Mystic Valley Junior Veterans Tournament at Packer Courts, line up with Tournament Chairman Josiah E. Bacon and their opponents in the championship bracket, Robert Stewart of Wellesley and Seymour Hunter of Melrose. Joslin and Hills won, 6-4, 6-3.

WINNER AND RUNNER-UP

Play was concluded last Sunday at the Packer Courts on Palmer street in the first Junior Veterans Tennis Tournament held in Winchester. To be eligible, players had to be born in 1923 or earlier. This class of tournament was new to New England last year, and so far at least has been limited to men for the very probable reason that no women would admit to being thirty-five or over.

There were twenty entries in the singles and twelve teams in the doubles. As expected the local talent shone brightly, the team of Arthur Hills and Bob Joslin winning the men's doubles and Henry Fitts being the runner-up to William Power of Worcester in the men's singles.

Among the highlights of the men's doubles were two close semi-final matches with Hills - Joslin pulling out a real squeaker from Wayne Schell and Jack Carder of Waban, at 6-4 in the third set, and Henry Fitts and Jimmy Coon being nosed out at 4-6 in the third set by the number two seeded team, Seymour Hunter of Melrose and Robert D. Stewart of Wellesley.

In the men's singles one of the highlights was a first round match in which unknown Walter Foeger of North Troy, Vermont, who turned out to be a forty year old former Austrian Davis Cup player, nosed out J. Blaine Gilley of Melrose, a ranking New England singles player.

The luck of a completely honest draw brought Henry Fitts and Bob Joslin, both ranking players, together in the second round. Bob happened to catch a red hot Henry, and the former Town Champion (also well known as head of the High School English Department) swept to victory in straight sets.

Three Winchester players reached the semi-finals. In one half Jimmy Coon couldn't quite catch the number one seed and ultimate winner of the tournament, William Power of Worcester, although this match produced some brilliant tennis in spots. In the other half, Henry Fitts who has the reputation of never having lost to Arthur Hills in any town tournament, pulled the upset of the entire tournament by putting out Hills who was seeded number two here.

Hills won the first set 6-4, Fitts won the second 6-1 and at 2 all in the third set Arthur retired from heat exhaustion.

Acknowledgement is made with thanks to Adolph Alla, Jr., whose mobile refreshment vehicle proved quite welcome to hot tennis players and many sponging bystanders. On behalf of the Winchester Tennis Association, acknowledgement is made with many thanks to the Park Board through whose efforts two courts were relined early Sunday morning for the finals.

JUNIOR TENNIS WINS TWO

Two more scalps were taken in the past week by the Winchester team of the New England Junior Tennis League (Essex Division) at Lexington and Haverhill.

August 2, the Winchester braves first encountered Lexington, who succumbed 5-2 in a match where Dave Money stood out in his first tournament. The Old Reliables, Bill Macneill and Benny Bacon, were up to snuff. Here are individual match scores.

Singles: B. Bacon vs. Hinchcliffe 6-2, 6-1; Macneill vs. Potter 6-0, 6-0; Jeff Hills vs. Dudley 1-6, 1-6; Jerry Hills vs. Bailey 4-6, 6-3, 2-6; Money vs. Maurer 6-4, 8-6. Doubles: Macneill and B. Bacon vs. Hinchcliffe and Potter 6-1, 6-3; Hills and Hills vs. Dudley and Bailey 7-5, 6-2.

In the season's second skirmish with Haverhill our mighty mites buffaloes the taller, heavier settlers along the Merrimack by a score of 5-2 on August 5. While Eagle Jim Reid hit the dust in the singles, Winchester won without two of its strongest men. Individual match scores follow:

Singles: Macneill vs. Karampatos 6-3, 4-6, 6-1; Jeff Hills vs. Staples 6-4, 6-1; Reid vs. Quinlan 1-6, 0-6; Money vs. Campagna 3-6, 6-1, 6-2; Jerry Hills vs. Boyd 6-2, 6-1. Doubles: Macneill and Money vs. Karampatos and Staples 6-2, 6-1; Jeff Hills and W. Bacon vs. Boyd and Quinlan 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

TIGERS UPSET KNICKS

THRILLS AND CHILLS IN ANNUAL SOFTBALL GAME

In the midst of the furious driving rainstorm of last Thursday evening, 19 boys representing the North End and Plains section of town, undaunted by the elements, swooped down upon Leonard Field and engaged in their annual softball game to decide the softball championship of Amos's.

Sparked by the red hot bats of
"The Slenderella Kid," Richie
O'Brien, and Lieutenant Roy Port, the "Tigers" from the North End subdued the Village Knicks by an overwhelming 12-3 score.

For the first two innings, the game was a tight pitching duel between the fireballing southpaw of the Knicks, Tony Juliano, and the Tigers' Harry Ekstrom, but in the third inning a screaming line drive off the bat of Roy Port eluded the sharp-fielding right fielder of the Knicks, Brian Collella, for a four-bagger error, allowing the first two of 10 unearned Tiger runs to cross the plate.

Collella later explained that he had momentarily lost the ball in the rain and when he had finally caught sight of the ball, it was too late.

The Knicks came back in the last of the third to take a brief 3-2 lead on Dom Serratore's three-run home run. From the fourth inning on, the Knicks' defense collapsed behind
Juliano.

Jim "Murray" McElholm was summoned to put out the fire in the fifth inning, during which five runs were scored by the Tigers, but in the remaining two innings the Knick's defense collapsed behind
Juliano.

The powerful bats of the Knicks were mysteriously silenced by the strong hurling of "Charlie Brown" Ekstrom, who was given magnificent support in the field by his teammates.

The "Mighty Mouse," Tom Connolly, and Admiral George Dun-bury were magnificent in the field for the Tigers.

The dramatic point in the game came in the last of the seventh, with the bases full of Knicks and two out, with Ekstrom having to face the slugging Brian Collella.

The count ran to 3 and 2 and then Ekstrom sneaked a slow curve by the stunned Collella for a third strike, ending the game.

A slight argument preceded the game. The Knicks claimed that rightfully, by reason of adoption, Mike Callahan should play for them. The Tigers, claiming birthright, said no, but cooler heads prevailed. Neil Kerrigan, who had just finished his pre-game quart of milk (for added strength) proposed that Callahan be the audience.

This plan did not meet with the approval of Prof. Ed Fitzgerald.
After giving much thought to the matter, the professor suggested flipping a coin. No coins could be found, so Jim "Muscles" Fulzano dipped Gordie "the Hot Dog King" LaValle. The Tigers won the toss on the judgment of Senator Dick Bestany.

The following awards were presented: to Brian Collella, by uni-mous vote of the tigers, most valuable player! The best hitting award went to Kevin McElhinny. The "Splendid Splinter," Jerry McMahon, won the award for being hardest to pitch to. McMahon used brilliant strategy throughout the game, standing sideways and thereby preventing the opposing pitchers from seeing him.

Richie O'Brien won the award for being fastest on the basepaths and Dom Serratore won the Quiet Man award. Tony Ferritano won an award for coming to the game, because without him, the Knicks would not have had nine men.

The game was played in both gladness and sorrow. Everyone was happy to see Jim Gibbons back on the ball field after a near tragic episode at the Lynn Arena a few months ago. It seems that Gibbons' severe dizzy spells were connected with his last hockey game. On the unhappy side, Andy Connolly, Louie Evangelista and Jack Mc-Cormack were missed by all the boys. These three boys were scheduled to take the field with the Tigers, but the current world turmoil abruptly interrupted their leaves from the Navy, forcing them to return to their

Elephants are driven by their ears, says the National Geographic Magazine. The mahout, or master, sits on the beast's neck and conveys his orders by pressing with his knees, toes, or heels on the elephant's ear fans or shoulders.

Using no words at all, he makes his mount and the forward wheel right or left, pick up things, go in to reverse, break off an interfering branch, kneel, salute, stop, look, or listen.

ATOMIC BLASTS MAY OPEN DOOR TO MORE OF ALASKA'S RICHES

Atomic explosions may dig a harbor in Alaska's coast, about 100 miles north of the Arctic Circle. The harbor would open the way to what may prove a bonanza of coal, oil, asbestos, zinc, tin, copper, gold, and other mineral ores. The lack of ports has so far prevented extensive development of this wealth, but the Atomic Energy Commission has announced that nuclear excavation of a harbor may begin in 1960, if surveys are favorable.

The area under study is in Alaska's Second Judicial Division, one of the four great territories into which Alaska is divided, the National Geographic Society says. The Second Division, with headquarters in Nome, includes most of the western coast facing Siberia and the northern coast fronting on the Arctic Ocean.

The site of the harbor would probably be between Cape Thompson and Cape Seppings, northwest of Kotzebue Sound. The surrounding country is sparsely inhabited by Eskimos, who live largely by hunting and fishing.

Neglected Since Gold Rush Northwest Alaska, the frontier country of the recently approved 49th State, has become something of a forgotten land since the Nome gold rush in the early 1900's. Despite popular belief, the section is not excessively cold. Kotzebue, an Eskimo village near the harbor area, has a mean July temperature of about 52 degrees Fahrenheit. Cakes at Unalakleet, less than 200 miles from the Arctic Circle, have produced excellent vegetable crops.

Arctic waters, though icy, may support several times more marine life than tropical waters, because cold waters are a better solvent for life-giving oxygen than warm waters near the Equator. Species are fewer, but the sea teems with plankton, a prime food of whales and other sea life.

Northwest Alaska boasts king crabs with leg spans of seven feet. A king crab may weigh up to 22 pounds, of which 25 to 30 per cent is pure meat. Shrimp, clams, cod, herring, halibut, salmon, and other seafood are also found in the area.

The Second Division, more than half as big as Texas, is practically barren in the upland country and mountains, but elsewhere lichens, shrubs, flowers, grasses, and other vegetation grow. Reindeer have been successfully raised, and authorities believe the territory could support many more.

Eskimos Hold Eating Contests The Eskimos have proved their ability to fit into civilization, and may become invaluable in the development of the region. At the same time, the colorful Eskimo customs may someday make Kotzebue and other northwest Alaska towns popular as tourist resorts.

During daylong festivities each Fourth of July, the Kotzebue Eskimos hold dance contests in which the stories of whale hunts are related. Drummers pound sealskin stretched over wooden hoops, while women chant. Fur-clad belies vie for the title of Miss Arctic Circle. One popular event is the blanket catapult. Contestants are sent flying into the air by men on the ground who snap walrus skins taut. A mukluk-eating contest adds to the hilarity. Boiled mukluk (whaleskin with an inch-thick layer of blubber) tastes something like coconut.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

Warm waters of the Gulf Stream pass near the New England coast but have little direct effect on winter temperatures because prevailing winds blows from the land.

The tropical passionflower was named by early Spanish priests in Central and South America. They thought the center of the blossoms suggested the Crucifixion scene on Mount Calvary.

The National Park Service looks after 792 pieces of property in the capital city of Washington, D. C. The public sites include the White House, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Rock Creek Park, parts of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, and numerous statues.

Basement Improvements Begun

East End Of Town Hall To House
Planning Board And Accountant

For several weeks now work has been going on at the town hall clearing the east end of the basement to make ready for remodeling that will provide new quarters for the Planning Board and town accountant. Authorization for this work was voted by the town meeting in March, and $18,000 was appropriated for the work.

The remodeling of the east end of the basement is the first step in several to be taken to modernize the town hall. It is the authorities' idea to do the complete modernizing job in several steps, so that it will not be necessary to borrow to complete the work.

Plans for the remodeling job have been completed by the Winchester architect, Jerome Bailey Foster, and the general appearance of the offices to be constructed will be much like the Foster offices in the beautiful modern Gustin plant on Cross street.

When the remodeling job is completed the new area will provide for a hearing room, an office for the Planning Board, and an office for the Town Accountant, his mechanical equipment and his clerical staff.

The new area is under the offices of the Welfare Board. In the past it has consisted pretty much of one large room which was used to lug up and distribute the Thanksgiving and Christmas provision gifts to the town's needy. Accumulations of many years have been piled up in every nook and cranny.

When completed the new area will have its own entrance on the Washington street side of the town hall with steps leading from the town hall parking lot in the rear. Another door at the rear of the building beyond the Town Engineer's office will be used as an exit from the hall, only. The present ground floor entrance to the town engineer's office will remain as it is.

The old brick and stone walls of the building will be furred and covered with decorative material; in places, plaster board; in other areas, vinyl covering, and in still others, birch plywood.

The old partitioning posts are to be removed and replaced by steel beams, making it possible to have the entire new area clear of up-rights. The present pipes and beams will be hidden between the first floor of the building and a new suspended ceiling, which is to be luminous and is to have some sound-proofing. The floors will be of vinyl.

The partitions in the office of the Town Accountant are to be of the modern type, moveable, and open at the top with glass sides. The old vault which has served the town for so long will remain in the new area. The newly remodelled area will be heated with a gas forced air system, it being thought much cheaper to install a separate heater than to run the necessary pipes and equipment from the central heater in the hall. The heat will also be more effective.

Bids for the actual construction work will close August 21, and it is hoped to start soon after that. Present plans call for the area to be ready for occupancy by early December. The entire job is being done under the supervision of the Board of Selectmen.

ROGER CONANT HADLEY

Roger Conant Hadley of 193 Forest street passed away very suddenly Monday evening, August 11, at his home. He was 64 years old.

Mr. Hadley was the son of William P. and Florence (Averill) Hadley. He was born December 15, 1893, in Arlington and spent his early life in that town, graduating from Arlington High School.

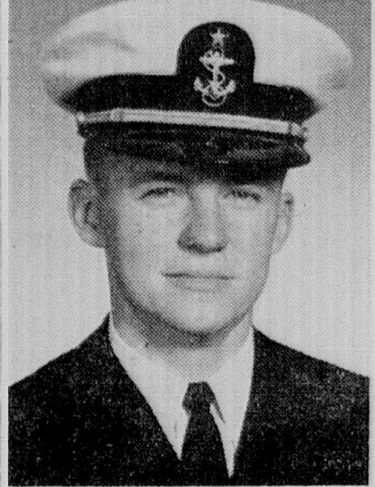

He entered Lowell Textile Institute, but his studies there were interrupted by World War I, during which he enlisted in the United States infantry and saw active service overseas in France.

After the war he returned to the Institute, but he did not complete his course, leaving to enter the wool business in Boston. At the time of his passing he was active in his own business as a wool merchant with offices on Summer street in Boston. He was a Mason, a member of Aleppo Temple of the Mystic Shrine; a Legionnaire and a member of the York Club of Lowell.

After completing high school Mr. Hadley lived for a time in Billerica, where on May 28, 1924, he married Dora E. Ellis of that town. They came to Winchester in 1927, buying the old "Chase place" on Highland avenue, known as Forest Farm and headquarters for a milk business Mr. Chase conducted for several years. During their occupancy the Hadleys have extensively remodelled the property and have developed a beautiful garden spot.

Mr. Hadley leaves his wife, two brothers, Richard E. of Hartford, Conn., and Wilfred N. Hadley of Springfield, Vt.; also a sister, Mrs. Robert Wyman of Chelmsford.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Pory Funeral Home in Billerica. Cremation followed the services.

CADET NORMAN H.
HAROLD, JR.COAST GUARD CADET VISITING BERMUDA

U. S. Coast Guard Cadet Norman H. Harold, Jr., of Winchester arrived August 4 in Bermuda on the Coast Guard Cadet training bark "Eagle." The "Eagle" is one of the three ships comprising the Coast Guard Cadet Practice Squadron now on its last leg of the annual summer training cruise to Europe.

Cadet Harold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Harold of 22 Lincoln street, also visited Dublin, Ireland; Amsterdam, Netherlands, and Lisbon, Portugal. He will return to New London, Conn., later this month. His twin brother, David, is attending Coast Guard Electronics School at Groton, Conn.

The Squadron is under the command of Rear Admiral Frank A. Leamy, Superintendent of the Coast Guard Academy. His squadron also includes the 311-foot Ocean Station cutters "Abasco" from Norfolk, Va., and "Yakutat" based at New Bedford, Mass. The Squadron sailed from New London May 29, with 275 Cadets of the classes of 1959 and 1961 embarked.

The cruise is designed to give the Cadets practical shipboard experience in the roles they will be expected to fill as career officers in the Coast Guard. Opportunity to study and enjoy the ways of life, customs and traditions of other people is also afforded by the visits to foreign ports.

The majority of Cadets are aboard the Eagle during the cruise. Others, principally those of the upper class, are aboard the Abasco or Yakutat, with groups being rotated among the various vessels at various ports. This insures each cadet receiving training in all phases of shipboard duties.

Eagle, commanded by Captain Karl O. A. Zittel, USCG, is 295 feet in length and is capable of 16 knots under full sail and ideal winds. She also has the power of her 750 h.p. diesel auxiliary engine available.

Handling the Eagle's 22,000 square feet of canvas, and 18 miles of manila and nylon lines, presents many problems seldom encountered on a more prosaic vessel. While underway, Cadets of the first, or senior class, act as junior officers of the ship, directing and supervising the efforts of the third classmen who perform the duties of the ship's crew.

RUN NUMBER ONE.

Vandy French crosses the plate with the first run scored by Winchester in last Friday's opening game of the Babe Ruth Regional Championship Playoffs at Amherst. Winchester won the game from Montpelier, Vt., 8-2. Other tournament pictures on Page 9.

Babe Ruths Lost to Strong Club

Stamford Often Regional And World Series Winner

When Winchester dropped its heartbreaking 4-2 decision to Stamford, Conn., in the final of the Babe Ruth Regional Playoffs at Amherst last Sunday, the local boys lost to just about the most winnifst team in Babe Ruth baseball.

Stamford, in beating Winchester, was winning its sixth regional title in seven years stretching back to the inception of Babe Ruth ball in 1952. Only New Haven, Conn., in 1956, has been able to break through the Stamford reign.

In Babe Ruth World's Series competition The Stamford record, while not so good, is still very impressive. Six times the Nutmeggers have gone to the World Series and three times they have won the top title.

That is pretty good going for any team, and indicates that it took a team of real championship caliber to knock our boys out of the Regionals last Sunday. They weren't playing any panty-waists when they squared off against Stamford in the championship bracket.

For all that, many from Winchester, players, coaches and fans who know their baseball, believe Winchester beat in the semi-final round a better team than the ultimate titlists. All agree that this New Hampshire team was a great ball club, and that if Winchester played against Stamford as it did against the Granite State boys, they would have danced home from Amherst with the Regional Crown.

It was unfortunate that the local Babe Ruthers picked the Stamford game for their worst play of the series. Usually the Winchester tournament team has known what to do with the ball, has thrown accurately and hit when hits were needed. The boys just didn't do any of those things too well Sunday against Stamford, and the big, supremely confident boys they were playing took advantage of their mistakes.

That, my friends, is the hallmark of a champion, and none can grudge the victors the spoils. At the same time Winchester can be pardoned for regretting it wasn't at its best against Stamford. After all that would have been a swell trip to Vancouver, and all good judges of baseball who were at Amherst last Sunday will tell you the Winchester boys could just as well have gone.

To settle several arguments, Winchester has never played Stamford in Little League ball. That was Stratford, Conn., the local boys knocked out of the Regionals at Woburn a couple of years or so ago. The Stamford team has been together since Little League under the same capable coach, but they had never played Winchester 'till last Sunday, darn it!

Club Commodore Everett Littlefield extended his congratulations to the Motorboat Club and expressed his best wishes for the club's future. Many members were present and it is the wish of the club that those able to attend the organization meeting will soon join.

The next meeting will take place August 25 at the W.B.C. following the cook-out.

ALL IN A GOOD CAUSE.

Members of Red Cross Chapters in Stoneham, Reading and Wakefield join Winchester for a big Blood Donor Day at the new Red Cross Headquarters, 84 Washington street on Monday, August 11. The big Bloodmobile was able to pick up 105 pints for the Boston Blood Bank though two pints were rushed immediately by Red Cross representatives to the Winchester Hospital where a certain type blood was needed. Of the 133 donors, 55 were from Winchester and 55 volunteers from this town gave their services in various capacities during the day.

NAVY-BU FOOTBALL
PLANS PROGRESSBELLINO AND DATTILO WITH NAVY TEAM

Winchester fans who have not as yet secured their tickets for the Navy-Boston University football game at Boston University Field on October 4, will be pleased to learn that there are tickets still available, though the sale has been increasing in recent weeks.

With Joe Bellino and Frank Dattilo sure to be in uniform against the Terriers Winchester football followers, who have thrilled to these boys' past exploits on the local high school gridiron, naturally wished to see them perform in Boston, and through the cooperation of "Vic" Stout of B.U., a block of seats in the same section was made available to Winchester fans so that those attending the game primarily to see Bellino and Dattilo can sit together.

At the time it was first announced that these seats would be available many were snapped up, but there are some left, and those in charge of the tickets here hope all those who are going to want to see the game will get them soon. There is a time limit during which the tickets will be held for Winchester fans.

A more complete announcement and details for the purchase of tickets will be made in next week's Star. Meanwhile, if you do not wish to wait, see "Charlie" Koch at the Winchester Sport Shop.

School Building Committee Chooses Wellfield

The Building Committee investigating sites for a new junior high school announced its recommendation today. The committee, basing its choice on educational factors and construction costs, concluded that the new junior high school should be located at the town-owned Wellfield on the north side of town. The Wellfield is the first choice of the committee's architectural and educational consultants. A Planning Board study concludes that the Wellfield is one of the two more desirable sites of the five included in the study.

Something to Think About

Wedgemere Station
Offered For Sale

The Star learns that an offer has been made to former Selectman William C. Cusack to buy Wedgemere Station of the Boston and Maine Railroad. The railroad has already sold 21 stations, according to report, including one in Wakefield, and it is because of the Wakefield sale that the Star is bringing the proposed Wedgemere sale to the notice of the town.

The Town of Wakefield had planned to buy the Wakefield Station as part of a location for a proposed new road. When the community came to look into the matter it was found that the station had already been bought. In view of Wakefield's experience it would seem wise for Winchester to consider at once any possible use it might have for Wedgemere.

The station stands in a desirable residential section of the town. It could, of course be bought by some one who might use it for some purpose wholly out of keeping with the neighborhood. It is understood that Mr. Cusack was not offered the station by the Boston and Maine but that the information that he could purchase it came from a source he considered very reliable. He has developed much property on the former Ginn Estate adjacent to Wedgemere.

As a past Selectman Mr. Cusack felt that the town should be alerted to what could happen at Wedgemere, especially in view of the fact that there is to be a special town meeting in the fall to hear the report of the Junior High School Building Committee. It would be entirely possible to insert in the warrant for any action the town might feel it desirable to take in connection with the station.

It was reported that Mr. Cusack in the event he bought the station, the railroad would require him to agree to provide waiting room space for fifty persons, to agree to the possibility of leasing the building back to the railroad and to keep the premises clear of snow.

Though the station belongs to the Boston & Maine Railroad it is reported that the State paid from $38,000 to $40,000 to wreck the old building and build the present structure at the time of the construction of the overhead railroad.

ACCIDENT INVOLVES THREE AUTOS
NEAR LAWSON ROAD

Three cars were involved in an accident Tuesday morning at 9:20 near Lawson road on Main street. There were no serious personal injuries but two of the cars had to be towed away from the scene.

John Steinkoski of 8 Chapin court, operating a Chevrolet sedan south on Main street, was in collision with a Volkswagen sedan owned and operated by Alton D. Rath of 77 Lawson road as Mr. Steinkoski neared the Lawson road-Main street intersection.

After the collision, Mr. Rath's car moved forward and struck the rear of a Lincoln sedan operated by Walter B. Rierdan of 9 Ingall street, Woburn and owned by Alice W. Lyman of 15 Lawson road who was a passenger in the car.

There was no damage to the Lincoln and no personal injuries were reported by either Mr. Steinkoski, Mr. Rath, Mr. Rierdan or Mrs. Lyman. However, Joan Steinkoski, age 9, a passenger in the Chevrolet, reported hurting her chin on the dashboard.

The Volkswagen was damaged on both the front and back ends and was towed to Bonnell's; the Chevrolet was damaged in front and was towed to Winchester Motors.

PLAYGROUND NOTES

Beach Day at Crane's Beach was arranged for yesterday (Thursday) but as this article went to press the response for making the trip was inadequate and the trip was tentatively cancelled.

Youngsters are still participating in baseball, softball, kickball, magic ball, basketball, quoits, croquet, horseshoes, wiffle ball and tag games. Baseball and croquet seem to be the most popular active games at present and the youngsters really play a good game of croquet. Some make up their own rules as the game progresses but all in all they are enjoying themselves. And how they like to "send" the instructors!

In the Arts and Crafts department the youngsters are going strong, making bracelets, key chains, lanyards, purses, wallets, and pot-holders.

The playground season ends next Friday, August 22. For that final week, send your youngsters to the supervised fields for a good time.

Just one week left. Supervised fields next week will be Leonard and Ginn on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and Loring and West Side Fields on Tuesday and Thursday.

Arts and Crafts will take place at Leonard on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings, at Ginn on the afternoons of those same days. On Tuesday and Thursday morning Arts and Crafts will be at Loring Field and at West Side on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

FINALS START FOR TOWN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The semi-final for the Town's Softball Championship got off to a flying start the past week with the defending champions, Holy Name Society, eliminating the Elks in two straight and the Sons of Italy knocked off the V.F.W. likewise.

In the first game of the best of three at Ginn Field the S.O.I. defeated the V.F.W. 4-1. In the first frame Midskipman Joe Bellino and hard-hitting Angie Amico singled but were left on base. The V.F.W. went down in order in their half of the first.

Bob Fiore opened the second inning with a single for the S.O.I. but could not reach pay dirt. For the V.F.W. Reardon singled and scored on Dave Dalton's single for the V.F.W.'s only score.

In the third V.F.W.'s pitcher Archie MacDonald held the S.O.I. scoreless but the V.F.W. also scored after Patsy O'Brien reached on a single but got no farther than the initial sack.

Bob Fiore again led off in the fourth for the S.O.I. by hitting a double but stayed there because of three fly put-outs. The V.F.W. were left hitless and scoreless in this same frame.

The S.O.I. tied the game at one-all in the fifth when Procopio scored with a single and reached third on Pete Provinzano's single and finally crossed the plate after the fly off Sam Bellino's bat to deep center. Dave Dalton started what looked like a rally for the V.F.W. when he led off with a double but he was left there as a result of a fly ball and double play.

The sixth inning was a big one for the S.O.I. when they scored three runs to put the game on ice. Bill Fiore punted out to open the inning and Bob Fiore followed with a single. Richie Giacalone walked. Paul Amico reached on a fielder's choice to load the bases and Procopio reached on a fielder's choice that score Bob Fiore. Pete Provinzano singled for his second hit scoring Giacalone and P. Amico for the third and fourth runs to put the S.O.I. ahead 4-1. The V.F.W. were held in place in its half of the frame and both teams were kept from threatening in the last inning.

On the same evening at Leonard Field, the Holy Name Society checked the Elks by a 5-0 score. The Elks were first at bat and had a big inning by crossing pay dirt for four runs. Bob McLaughlin and Bob Haggerty scored after being walked and Lindner and Bob Smith crossed the plate after reaching on errors. The Holy Name was held to one hit and no runs in its half of the initial frame.

Pitcher Bob Merenda for Holy Name checked the advances of the Elks in the second inning by allowing a walk, two flies and a strike-out. The defending champs came back in its half of the frame to tally three times. Joe DiIorio opened with a single, Leo Williams walked, Richie Farrell fled out and Bob Merenda reached on an error that scored DiIorio. Lou Farrell grounded out and Williams and Merenda scored on two successive errors.

Fred Patterson opened the third for the Elks with a triple and scored on Bob Smith's fly to left. Score now Elks 5, Holy Name 1. The defending champs fought back by scoring two runs on three hits. John Farrell singled and scored on Joe DiIorio's double. Joe then tallied on pitcher Merenda's single and the Holy Name tied the score at 5-5.

The Elks went down in order the first of the fourth but in this same frame, the Holy Name crossed pay dirt for three runs to go ahead 8-5. John Fields walked and scored on successive singles by Johnny Farrell and Joe DiIorio and the latter two scored when Leo Williams reached on an error.

The Elks were held from threatening for the remainder of the game while the Holy Name scored the final run of the game in the last frame. Joe DiIorio singled, his third hit in the game, and scored on a walk to Richie Farrell and single by Leo Williams.

On Monday night the S.O.I. visited the V.F.W. at Leonard Field and the S.O.I. came through with a 7-0 victory as the result of a walk that forced the winning run in the extra inning.

The V.F.W. got off to a good start by scoring five big runs in the first inning. Nor Cogan walked to open the game and Reardon, Paul MacDonald and Marty Joyce singled while Dave Dalton doubled. Scoring for the V.F.W. were Cogan, Reardon, MacDonald, Port and Dalton. V.F.W.'s pitcher, Marty Joyce put the S.O.I. down in order to end the first.

The V.F.W. were held hitless and scoreless in the second but the S.O.I. came through with one run on Sam Tibaldo's double and Bob Fiore's single that scored Tibaldo. In the third Roy Port led off for the V.F.W. with a double and crossed pay dirt on Dave Dalton's second successive hit to put the V.F.W. in the lead 6-1. The S.O.I. came back fighting to tally three runs. Midskipman Joe Bellino and Sam Tibaldo walked to start the S.O.I.'s inning and Bob Fiore doubled for his second hit of the game which crossed Bellino and moved Tibaldo to third. Paul Amico walked and his brother Angie singled to bring in Tibaldo and Fiore.

S.O.I.'s pitcher Dick Tofuri held the V.F.W. to two flies and a grounder in the fourth while the S.O.I. scored another run and still trail 6-5. Sam Bellino singled and after brother Joe's fly to center, Sam moved to second and tallied on Bill Fiore's single.

No harm done by either team in the fifth and in the sixth the V.F.W. went down in order while the S.O.I. scored a run that tied the game at six all. Sam Bellino doubled and scored on Bill Fiore's single.

The seventh frame found neither team threatening and in the extra inning V.F.W.'s Archie MacDonald singled but was left stranded. For the S.O.I. Angie Amico opened with a double. Joe Berardi grounded out. Marty Joyce then intentionally passed the Bellino's, Sam and Joe to load the bases and hope for a double play with Bill Fiore next at bat. The strategy backfired, however, and Joyce walked. Fiore forced Angie Amico in with the deciding run.

At Ginn Field on Monday evening the defending champions Holy Name Society, downed the Elks in two straight by a 9-7 score. Holy Name was at bat first to start the game and the Elks pitcher Bob Smith held them hitless and scoreless. Bill Murphy, Holy Name's pitcher did likewise.

In the second frame, the Holy Name went around the batting order and crossed pay dirt three times. Don Kenton singled, Tony Barbaro reached on an error, Bill Murphy singled to score Kenton, Richie Farrell sacrificed, Lou Farrell walked and Jocko Serieka reached on a fielder's choice that scored Barbaro. Johnny Farrell singled Bill Murphy in with the third run.

Both teams did not then threaten until the fourth inning. The Holy Name did no damage in this frame either but the Elks came back to cross twice more. Brother West walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Fred Patterson grounded out and Smith singled West in. Smith then went to second on a wild pitch and in on Gary Nelson's double to right.

In the fifth Joe DiIorio started things for the Holy Name by reaching on an error. Don Kenton reached on a fielder's choice that wiped out DiIorio's advances. Tony Barbaro singled pushing Kenton to third who then came in on Bill Murphy's fly to left. Richie Farrell walked and stole second and tallied on Lou Farrell's single. The Elks never gave up and came back in its half of the inning to score three. Bob McLaughlin singled and came in on Al Lindner's homer. Brother West walked, reached second on a wild pitch and scored on Bob Smith's single. The score at the end of five innings 6-5 in favor of the Holy Name.

The Holy Name was checked in the sixth while the Elks got back into the ball game with two runs and lead 7-6. Gary Nelson walked, Russo walked, Bob Haggerty doubled to score Nelson and Russo. The last inning was the downfall for the Elks when the Holy Name came back to score three runs and win. Tony Barbaro tripped to open the last inning and scored on Richie Farrell's single. Lou Farrell reached on a fielder's choice that erased Richie and Lou then stole second. Jocko Serieka doubled to tally Lou and Jocko reached pay dirt on John Farrell's single. The Elks were wiped out in the last frame by a grounder and double play and the Holy Name wins the chance of going into the finals against the S.O.I.

The finals should have started Wednesday of this week (weather permitting) and will run until the champions are declared. It is a best of five series and all games start at 6:15 at Ginn Field. Since the boys are not playing Friday (today) you can still see one or two games starting next Monday. The finals will still be on although near the end.

LETTERS FROM ALISON

WINCHESTER GIRL ON TOUR
WITH U. S. HOCKEY TEAM WRITES HOME

("Letter to Linda" written between Western Transval and Scotland games and before Kruger National Park.)

Johannesburg, July 26, 1958
Dear Linda, Elliott, etc.:
I shall start this tonight and finish it after the game against Eastern Transval tomorrow. I am to play left wing. We still have some on the disabled list but the team will be considerably strengthened from our last inglorious defeat. We leave here, Johannesburg, for Witbank at 8:15 via train.

Here at the Skyline, we have had a wonderful time getting to know the Springboks, or Bokies as the South African team is known by. The Springbok is a type of antelope and is the national animal and symbol. Anyway, tomorrow we take a 3 to 4 hour train ride in the morning, play a game that afternoon, have our regular cocktail hour and civic reception, then get on the train again at 12:12 a. m. for Kruger National Park. We are all eagerly anticipating this, even though it is to be only a one day thing and squeezed in between a series of important matches. If we are lucky we will see lions, giraffes, elephants, hippos, rhinos, etc. Then again we may see only a few zebra. We return that same night to Johannesburg arriving on Wednesday and have our first international match against Scotland. Our only consolation is that Scotland will be traveling with us all that time. I am having a fabulous time here meeting many wonderful people and learning so much about this country, its problems, about hockey, and how to mix easily with strange people. Today we had a very memorable trip to one of the local gold mines to watch the natives in their tribal dances. I sure hope that all the pictures I took come out alright.

Two of us, the two youngest, went out with two university students. Our hostess here in Johannesburg is very good at that sort of thing. I guess her children will eventually call her "stupid cupid" too. Well, the captain just came in to tell us to get to bed. I'll finish tomorrow.

Quick passage of time and it's tomorrow! We got up early—ugh! and entrained for Witbank. The Scots joined us on the train. Each one of us, the two teams had its own car, and traveled first class—pure luxury, two people to a compartment. Witbank, a coal town, is way off somewhere, a two bit town but still the same friendly people.

The game against Eastern Transval was more like the club games at home. We did play better than Saturday but we are going to have to get better before our game against Scotland on Wednesday. We won, by the way, 3-0. It should have been 10-0. Personally with me, it is a frame of mind for us. After the first game I felt great and confident but after Saturday I have lost that drive and assurance. I've just got to get it back before the international matches. We have just got to do better! We have the ability, all we need is the actuality. Right now we are sitting around waiting for the train to leave for Kruger.

Please give my love to all.

Love,
Alison

Johannesburg
August 2, 1958

Dear Folks:

I shall try to get this off to you before we leave South Africa for Rhodesia. We leave by train tomorrow and will spend two nights on the train before we get to Livingstone and Victoria Falls.

The big news of the day is that we held the Springboks to a scoreless tie. This is a feat that has not been accomplished since 1936 by and U. S. team (win or tie). The last the Bokies went scoreless was in 1930. How about that! Both teams came close to scoring but both goalies were outstanding in their play. Our goalie, Pat Zimerny, a Pennsylvania Dutchman, stopped high ones, low ones, fast ones. She was fantastic! The two backs, Ronnie Gros and Hausie, were also superb. I could go on and on. We played as a team, a team full of determination and drive to win. The Bokies went into the game with the expectation of at least a 7-0 score. I guess they were disappointed. It is taking time but gradually we are convincing the people and the press over here that we can play a good game and that we are not just here for a big party. On Thursday we just didn't have the same pushy fight that we had against Scotland and S. A. We lost it 4-1. Kay Laurie, an all-England player and our S. A. coach, played a beautiful game for the Southern Transvals. She certainly taught her "student" a few things the hard way. So far our record is won 3, lost 3 and tied 1. We have scored 11 goals against 11. From now on the record is going to get better. If only we could field the same side every time we really could go to town. Unfortunately we have four extra players. Two are border line and do not weaken the team too much. The other two definitely weaken the team. It's a difficult position to know where to use these players. I'm glad I'm not the one to decide who is to play.

Well, enough of that. Friday eleven of us went to a gold mine and went underground 4600 ft. or so level. After being given "white togs" aluminum helmets and lamps, we descended at a rate of 30 m.p.h. down the shaft. The intricacies of the tunnels and the workings were a wonder. The main and larger tunnels had white washed sides and were quite comfortable, pressure and heat wise. However, in the smaller tunnels where things were still working, the temperature was very hot and stuffy. Farther down the temperature reached near 100°. This heat is mainly generated from the rocks themselves. Hell didn't seem quite so far away. They shove up the walls and ceilings, not to prevent cave-ins but to control the settling of the rocks. It will vary from 1/1000 of an inch to 1/100 of an inch a day. The actual ascent and descent took approximately four minutes each. The longest "lift" ride I've ever had. I sure appreciated the sun and fresh air when I got back on top. After two hours down there I was more than ready to come up. We also were shown hunks of gold in the raw state, quite a rare thing nowadays, and the pouring of gold brick. They have a brick there on display and will give it to anybody who can pick it up with one hand. I guess that it is a pretty safe offer. They said that most of the gold goes back to Fort Knox to be put back into the ground again. Seems rather ridiculous!

A great party last night. These men are the best dancers!—ages 24 to 30.

Love to you all,
Alison

FILENE'S TO HAVE ZOO ON ROOFTOP

Boys and girls who are looking for some novel fun in the way of summer activity will be able to find it in Boston right on Filene's Rooftop beginning August 16, when the store welcomes a menagerie of wild baby animals for a two week stay. Filene's rooftop, high above the selling floors, adjacent to the seventh, will be transformed into an exotic jungle paradise complete with appropriate flora and fauna, which includes incidentally, pretty Safari jungle girls, palm trees swaying in the breeze and an occasional falling coconut. The animals, most of them more commonly found in the jungles of darkest Africa than on Filene's roof, have been imported directly from Benson's Wild Animal Farm in New Hampshire.

Bear cubs, a baby lion, rare Australian Wallabies, and a monkey, take up residence beside a llama, deer and a guinea hen. Passing through the jungle hut, on to the lower level, the feature attraction will be a baby camel, five months old.

Admission to the rooftop zoo will be by passport only, which may be obtained free of charge on Filene's third floor for children at the special jungle table.

HANDICAP ROAD RACE

OCTOBER 25th

WAKEFIELD'S C.C.C. SPONSORS EVENT

Wakefield's Crystal Community Club will sponsor a ten-mile handicap road race on October 25, which is designed to attract not only local and national "name" runners but also novices.

The race is a testimonial to Al Confalone of Wakefield, who has risen to the undisputed rank of America's second-best marathoner in recent years. Young Johnny Kelley, only an American to finish regularly ahead of Confalone the past three years, promises to be one of the race's leading contenders.

The run will start at 2:30 Saturday afternoon, October 25 on the Wakefield High athletic field. It is timed to begin between the halves of that day's Wakefield-Levittown High football game. The course takes in most of the town before concluding in front of the CCC quarters on Preston street.

Sanctioned by the New England Amateur Athletic Union, the competition is established on a handicap basis in order that every entrant will have a chance of placing high among the finishers.

Twenty-six trophies and merchandise prizes sponsored by Wakefield businessmen will be awarded. There is a special trophy for the first Greater Wakefield (consisting of 14 communities within a five-mile radius of Wakefield) novice to cross the finish line. Time prizes and team awards are also to be presented.

A banquet will be held for the runners and other interested persons after the race at 7 o'clock. At that time the Al Confalone Testimonial Trophy will be given the winner.

Applications and information blank forms are available by writing to chairman Frank Fotino, Crystal Community Club Race Committee, Preston street, Wakefield.

BLESSING TO SERVICEMEN

U.S.O. MINISTERING TO ARMED FORCES SINCE 1941

Since February, 1941, the U.S.O. (United Service Organization) has been a blessing to many a serviceman.

Today, 13 years after VJ day, the blessing still exists. Servicemen still visit the USO for almost as many reasons as there are servicemen. Fuzzy-cheeked boys or calloused veterans, it makes no difference.

For example, last year, the two United Fund units in Boston, the Charlestown Armed Services Y.M.C.A. and the Armed Forces Club on Boston Common, provided varied services for more than 450,000 visits.

The Armed Forces Club alone provided some 41,000 courtesy tickets donated by theaters and other organizations. Seventeen hundred Christmas packages were wrapped, something a man who is all thumbs usually has someone at home do for him. In addition, 1,100 lodgings were obtained, mostly for servicemen who were traveling.

Shaving gear was provided for more than 17,000 men—the young ones had probably been using dad's until they left home. Again, Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners were shared by more than 750 servicemen who did not want to eat alone those two days.

A serviceman will not starve and will not freeze but Uncle Sam will not guarantee that he will not be lonely.

The U.S.O. tries to help and you can. The U.S.O. is one of the 288 agencies participating in the United Fund Campaign. Through your support the U.S.O. can make life more enjoyable to a boy or man who misses home as much as you have at times.

K. of C. OUTING

On Sunday, August 24, Winchester Council No. 210 Knights of Columbus will hold their annual outing. Chairman Skitchy Fiore and his committee have lined up a wonderful day. The affair will be held at the Tyngsboro Country Club in Tyngsboro, and many sporting events have been arranged. Golf, softball and horse-shoes are on the agenda for the athletically inclined and card games and good fellowship are available to all.

A catered turkey dinner has been promised and the usual late afternoon wienie roast should appeal to all the chow hounds.

Plan to come in the morning and stay as long as you like. Tickets may be obtained from Skitchy Fiore and from grand knight Charles Doucette and all the officers.

JOHN DUNNAN

John Dunnun, president of Town and Country Homes, Inc., who has been appointed General Chairman of the 1958 Fund-Raising Campaign of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children which will seek $300,000 to support its program on behalf of 140,000 retarded children in Massachusetts.

TO STUDY ABROAD

SMITH "JUNIOR YEAR ABROAD" GROUP SAILS IN SEPTEMBER

Miss Margaret Dietz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. H. Dietz of 19 Cambridge street, sails from New York City Tuesday, September 2, on the S.S. Flendro as one of 97 students who will spend their college junior year abroad, studying in Paris or Geneva under the Smith College Junior Year Abroad program.

The Geneva group is made up of 36 Smith undergraduates and eight from other institutions. (Mount Holyoke, Northwestern, Stanford, University of Michigan, Vassar, Wellesley). In the Paris group are 39 Smith students and four from Agnes Scott and Wellesley Colleges. They are among a total of 115 students, 92 from Smith and 23 from other colleges, who will spend the junior year in Europe under the Smith program. The other students sailed August 20 from New York to study in Italy or Spain.

The Paris-bound group will spend six weeks at Aix-en-Provence as an induction into French life and study and will then go to Paris, where they will live with French families while studying at the Sorbonne and other French institutions. Miss Jeanne Saleil, associate professor of French at Smith, is the director. The French program is the oldest of the four maintained by Smith, having been established in 1925. The majority of the students are majoring in French.

The Geneva program, which was established in 1946, centers on the study of international relations, and most of the group are majoring in government or history. After a six weeks induction period in Paris, they will go to Geneva for study at the University. Some will live with Swiss families and the others at a Geneva hotel. Miss Margaret Marsh, professor of sociology and anthropology at Smith, is the director.

Nearly 2000 students have participated in the Smith Junior Year Abroad Program since it was established in 1925.

DID HE SALUTE?

David M. Ambrose, son of President Vincent C. Ambrose of the Winchester Trust Company, and Mrs. Ambrose, had rather a unique experience recently at Fort Devens where he is a member of a transportation unit assigned to helicopter work.

David is a private, first class, having reached this rank only recently. He entered the Army at Dix last October and served at Fort Eustis, Va., and Camp Gordon, Ga., before coming to Devens a short time ago.

One thing you can pretty surely count on all soldiers doing when possible is to fall in for chow! David was doing just that a few days ago and had worked well up toward a position of vantage when something made him turn his head and look behind him.

There only a couple of long steps away was his uncle, Captain Ralph Ambrose, an officer in the Reserve, who was doing some reserve training. What David did about saluting a superior officer, when he happened to be his uncle and in a chow line, the Star didn't learn. Doubtless he did the right thing.

Captain Ambrose, former Winchester High athlete, is a graduate of Boston College, and is presently assistant superintendent of schools in Wilmington.

EDITORIALS

While chatting this week with the father of a Little Leaguer the editor was commiserated with because he and his contemporaries had never enjoyed the advantages of Little League baseball. The L. L. dad was right, of course! They didn't have things like Little League baseball for the boys of our time, and they did not have Babe Ruth baseball or Junior Legion baseball or Red Cross swimming or supervised playground activity or auto rides to school, or a lot of other things that are considered musts for present-day youngsters.

Perish the thought, however, that we didn't play baseball in our youthful days! We did! We played a lot of baseball! In fact, we played about every free minute we had during the spring and summer, that is, when the lawn was cut and the household chores attended to.

Some of us even had baseball suits, of a sort. We well remember the outfit we proudly wore. It was a sort of blue gray, of very cheap material that did not stand up at all well in sliding on-rock-strewn grassless diamonds. The pants were padded, in front, where you didn't need the protection and very vulnerable in back. The cap was a stand-up, flat-topped job sporting two stripes of cheap red braid, while on the breast of the short-sleeved shirt, also in red, but felt this time, were the letters, "W. B." standing, as I remember it, for "Winchester Boulevard," or some such, which was the neighborhood team to which we belonged. In those days the Mystic Valley Parkway was "the Boulevard," and was watered with a watering cart daily to keep down the dust. Our players came from near its borders and so took its name for our team.

We played most of our games at Ginn Field, except when we were "on the road," playing the Goddus on the field across Highland avenue opposite their settlement, or the Yankee Youngsters on a field off Yale street, or the Highland School team on the open field in front of that little old red schoolhouse, long since torn down.

We played other teams, of course, but those mentioned were our regulars. There were a lot of teams around town. The Epiphany choirboys, the altar boys of St. Mary's, the nine from "the center," usually a very difficult team to defeat or "lick," in case the game deteriorated a bit toward the end. Remember, there were no adults around to insist upon good sportsmanship and to keep the peace in those days. Napoleon probably had something like our games in mind when he said, "God fights on the side that has the heaviest artillery!"

The umpire was usually a boy at least two years older than the average player and a good scrapper. This last was quite important in case his decisions were questioned, as they were sure to be if the play was at all close!

Our equipment, though adequate as the music critics like to say, was hardly plush! We have described the suits we had, and those who did have them did not wear them when we played "the Centers." The kids from that part of town didn't go at all for the more aesthetic facets of sports. We recall the garb they wore in a football game we had with them, and the terrific beating they gave us with their favorite "formation-A" with George Novell carrying the ball. Our ancient bones ache to think of it even now.

In baseball, we liked to have two balls for games. One, the starter, was a "junior leaguer," bought for a quarter at either The Paper Store or the Star Office, or Joe Donahue's. This ball, though seldom new, was generally in fair shape, and its leather cover usually lasted for most of the game, especially when "Ward" Goddus was pitching. No one did much heavy hitting against the Goddus' ace, and remember, there was no rule against "bean balls" in those days, at least in the younger circles. In reserve behind the good ball was one minus its cover and wound tightly with tire tape. If you think the tape balls were not hard, you never were hit with one!

Our bats were pretty nondescript, but they did have two real virtues; they were cheap, and tough! They were not very springy, and they wouldn't drive a ball very far, but they seldom broke, and when they did they were nailed together and taped. The family exchequer seldom stood for more than a bat a year, particularly for the deluxe model at 35c or 50c.

As we recall it, the Yankee Youngsters (we remember their battery, "June" Burton and Carol Mason), had real bases. Our particular team had flat home-made wooden bases, of approximately base size, and very hard if you timed your slide badly. There were of course no baselines. Fouls were decided by majority vote with the real deciding factor, noise!

But we did play ball, and we did have fun playing! And we learned, the hard way, if you will, certain baseball truths that only experience and the survival of the fittest teach a chap!

Would we have liked Little League ball? You bet! But we liked what we had; we had to in those days. That was all there was!

Only a short time ago the Star told about some boys who cut down some trees on Winning Farm as a public service. Our purpose in so doing was to praise the boys for helping a worthwhile charitable enterprise, and also to show that given the chance, the youth of this day and age is quite capable of doing a good deed just for the sake of doing it.

Now we have another fine example of good citizenship in the boy who personally conducted to the police station the much-wanted youths alleged to have severely beaten the blind Chester Locke of Ridge street after breaking into his home.

The boy claims he did not do it to help the police. He acted from a sense of outrage that anyone would beat a blind man. The feeling does him credit; so does his action in support of his outraged feelings.

If more of us adults would take the same positive action taken by this boy when our indignation is aroused by a case of flagrant wrongdoing, it wouldn't be to long before the criminally inclined thought twice before transgressing the law.

Public apathy is making its own contribution to crime, as well as to the unfortunate conditions we find in so many places, high and low; government, law enforcement, industrial relations and personal conduct. An outraged public opinion would do much to improve these conditions. Here in Winchester a boy got mad enough about an outrageous assault to take in those responsible when he found out who they were. He isn't a sissy, or a stool pigeon. We are told he has had his share of boyish trouble. But he evidently has a basic feeling for the right, and the courage to do something in support of that feeling. His action has set an excellent example for his elders.

Well, we didn't make it last week end at Amherst. After a great start with victories over the Vermont and New Hampshire regional teams, Winchester reached the end of the championship line on Sunday, dropping a heartbreaking final-round game to Stamford, Conn., by the score of 4-2.

Of course the boys were disappointed! You wouldn't give a nickel for them if they weren't, with a wonderful trip to Vancouver hanging in the balance; and it was also hard on the local followers of the team, especially the parents, who have gone all out to support their youngsters all the way.

And yet we will wager that every last Winchester rooster at Amherst last Sunday was as proud of his team in defeat as he could have been in victory.

The boys took their beating like men, and sportsmen. They gave full credit to the Stamford team, while admitting their own game was well below its best, as it undoubtedly was. Whether Winchester at its best could have beaten Stamford is a question, but the local boys can play better ball than they did in that championship bracket at Amherst.

Practically all the Winchester players had swallowed the bitter pill of defeat in Little League world series competition, and Sunday they were made to gulp down the same unpalatable dose again. You could have excused a bit of soreheadedness on the part of the local youngsters, but if there were soreheads, they were not apparent. Everyone from President Carl Morton down the line through the coaches and players to the Winchester fans took their defeat in good part.

One fan, arriving back in town, spoke for everyone when he said, "They are still champions in my book!" He is right! They are champions! They have had a great season, have learned a lot of baseball under some fine leaders, have benefited from their close association with their teammates and have learned to win, and to lose, like sportsmen. After all, you cannot ask for much more than that!

KINDNESS ALWAYS PAYS!

Editor of the Star:
From "Our Fourfooted Friends," a magazine published by the Animal Rescue League of Boston, a most interesting magazine published quarterly, I quote:

"There is an old adage which runs, 'Kindness always pays.' 'Kindness is king.' Kindness is a language the dumb can speak, and the deaf can hear and understand. 'Kindness in ourselves is the honey that blunts the sting of unkindness in another.' 'Kindness is wisdom; there is none in life but needs it, and may learn.' There are no charts to properly calculate the good that kindness can do.

Kindness goes beyond ordinary courtesies. It reaches out and above the expected call to duty. It is bound by no creeds, nor is it the possession of any one faith or religion. It costs little and pays great dividends.

It is a gift of God to be shared by men. Kind deeds cannot wisely be done tomorrow. The tomorrow may never come. Some one has said, 'You can never do a kindness too soon, because you never know how soon it will be too late.' Follow the injunction to 'Be kind to one another,' then to-day is the time to do it. Tomorrow may be too late.

BACK DOOR OPEN AT VACANT HOUSE

In cooperation with the police, a Sergeant resident called Saturday night to report that the back door was open at the house next door and the people who lived there were away.

Patrol Car 53 with Officer Douglas Martell was sent there and found that the back door of the house was wide open. He checked the house and reported that everything appeared to be in order. The family have been away for two weeks and the house had not been reported vacant to the police.

Police Chief Harold requests that persons leaving their homes for long periods of time report this to the police station. Unless this is done, there is no way that the police can check regularly on vacant homes.

LIGHT REPORTED IN VACANT HOUSE

The police received a call Wednesday evening from an alert resident of the Mystic Valley parkway reporting a light burning at the home of some neighbors who were away.

Officer Douglas Martell in patrol car 52 investigated and found that carpenters had been working at the house and had left the side door open and kitchen light burning. He closed the door and checked the house which appeared to be in order.

"FANNY" AT NORTH SHORE

"Fanny," a beguiling musical tale of love on the Marseilles waterfront, returns to Beverly's North Shore Music Theater next week two of its most popular stars from last year's hit season. They are Jerry LaZarre and Jet MacDonald, who became immediate favorites as Sid and Babe, the stars of "Pajama Game." Their stage romance, incidentally, led to an off-stage romance, and they are returning this season as Mr. and Mrs. Jerry LaZarre. In "Fanny," Jerry plays the role of Marius, a penniless lad with a yen for the sea, and Jet MacDonald is cast as Fanny, the girl he loves.

In the Ezio Pinza role of Cesar, Marius' father, the North Shore Music Theater has a leading New York City Opera baritone, Arthur Newman, who won acclaim from North Shore audiences for his rich voice and hearty portrayal of Ben Rumson in "Paint Your Wagon." Mickey Deems and Bob Eckles, comic hits in "Can-Can" and "Kiss Me, Kate," will also be in the cast. "Fanny" is playing for one week only, through August 23, and will be followed by "Damn Yankees," the last big musical of the season under Beverly's "hard top tent."

CACTI IN WINCHESTER

Shown above is one of the four cacti gardens at the home of Dr. James Jameson, 4 Robinson Park. All the gardens are located in front of his residence for easy photographing, and many have taken the opportunity to snap pictures of a scene that would seem to belong in Arizona rather than Winchester. Dr. Jameson has been collecting cacti for four years and now has more than 50 varieties, some attaining a height of seven feet and many 60 to 70 years old. Many have biblical names like Joseph's Coat, Star of David, The Old Man and Christ's Thorn. All plants grow in pots that are covered with washed beach sand to simulate their natural growing conditions. A "buried garden" indoors houses the cacti in Winchester and the plants have to be taken indoors relatively early. The indoor winter garden sinks 24 inches below floor level and has a height of eight feet to accommodate the large cacti. It is an integral part of the Jameson house.

DON'T ABANDON PETS!

Dr. Eric H. Hansen, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, noting the increase in the number of stray animals in the vicinity of beaches, lakes and resort areas, has issued an appeal to all vacationists not to abandon their pets when closing their summer homes for the season.

"Many well-meaning citizens," stated Dr. Hansen, "are likely to lose sight of the fact that these unfortunate creatures, left behind to forage for themselves, will ultimately starve or become diseased as a result of such unkind and inconsiderate treatment. We, therefore, cannot stress too strongly the importance of vacationists taking their pets with them when returning to the city, thereby eliminating untold suffering to the animal world."

As has been the Society's custom for many years, placards have been posted at various resorts throughout the Commonwealth, warning against abandoning animals by summer residents returning to their homes. Furthermore, a reward of twenty dollars is offered by the Society for the conviction of anyone guilty of such cruelty.

BERT P. STEVENS and JOAN M.
STEVENS, of Burlington, in the County of Middlesex and said Commonwealth;
WE COMMAND YOU, you intend to make any defense, that on the first Monday

HISTORY OF U. S. CAPITOL
PARALLELS NATION'S GROWTH

The United States Capitol is more than architectural sum of its parts.

Since George Washington laid its cornerstone in 1793, bits of American history have been built into each successive unit of the home of the nation's lawmakers.

Construction of the Capitol as it appears today dragged on for nearly three quarters of a century, says
the National Geographic Society.

As wings, rotunda, extensions, and dome gradually came into being,
the story of problems met and successes won paralleled—often interwoven with—the larger dramas of the growing country.

East Front Halfway Mark
The famous East Front—now spotlighted by debate over proposals to extend it by 30 odd feet—was the finishing touch to the "Old Capitol." With its sweeping steps, it was completed in the mid-1820's.

When Andrew Jackson took the presidential oath of office there in 1829, the building had finally been reconstructed and enlarged following its burning by the British during the War of 1812.

The Capitol of the 1830's stood about halfway between the present multiple structure and the original north wing, where Congress held its first joint session after moving from Philadelphia to Washington.

Actually, the small rectangular building was still a jumble of unpainted partitions and propped-up arches in November, 1800, when that historic session was addressed by President John Adams.

As the only available structure, the north wing was at first occupied not only by the Senate for which it was primarily intended, but by the House of Representatives, the Supreme Court, and the Library of Congress.

Before its own south wing was opened in 1807, the House also met in a preliminary oval-shaped building pointedly nicknamed "The Oven."

An open space separated the first two permanent units of the Capitol.
Crossed by a wooden walkway that protected the feet of lawmakers from soggy ground, it contained a public spring around which neighborhood housewives gathered to fill their buckets. It was not until the 1820's that the central rotunda linked north and south wings.

The rotunda was then topped by a low, copper-covered wooden dome, the forerunner of today's towering iron dome. The entrances were by way of the so-far unchanged East and West Porticoes.

Expanded with Nation
Meantime, more and more states were joining the Union. As congressional debate waxed hotter over issues leading to the Civil War, pressures grew for Capitol expansion.

In 1850, Congress voted funds for House and Senate extensions. The new southern wing was completed in 1857, the northern in 1859. When war came, the vastly enlarged Capitol served as barracks, military bakery, and general hospital for harried, overcrowded Washington.

But the building was still unin-fished. To symbolize Union strength, President Lincoln kept work going on the new east-iron dome that would rise 140 feet higher than the old one.

Its crowning feature was the 19 1/2 foot Statue of Freedom, a giant goddess in eagle-feathered helmet. As the figure was raised into place on December 2, 1863, the American flag was unfurled, a 35-gun salute was fired, and answers were roared in turn by the cannon of 12 forts then surrounding the city.

The last living dodo was reported seen in 1881. It was the survivor of the huge, flightless birds that roamed the ebony forests of Mauritius, a small island in the Indian Ocean, the National Geographic Magazine says. The dodo vanished so completely that its very existence came to be doubted until skeletal proof was found in 1865.

There is nothing like a savings account for giving you a feeling of security. You can get your funds without delay, without borrowing and without selling. Best of all, while your

AND BRIEFS

When Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, went to his workshop in Baddeck, Nova Scotia, to wrestle with scientific problems, he would usually stop by a towel around the telephone there so it could not ring and interrupt him,
the National Geographic Magazine says.

Plants have ingenious means of getting enough sunlight. Some mosses in dimly lit places grow a covering of clear cells that act as focusing lenses to gather the meager light and concentrate it in the chlorophyll.

Diamond Rock, a small steep island off the coast of Martinique, was at one time listed by the British Admiralty as a "man-o'- war," the National Geographic Magazine says. The appellation recognized British officers and sailors who hauled big guns up its sides and defended it against the French in 1803.

The Resolute weather station on icy Cornwallis Island greets visitors with a sign reading: "Welcome to Resolute, pronounced D-e-s-ol-a-t-e, in the heart of Canada's Northland, surrounded by miles and miles of nothing but miles and miles."

The world's largest natural arch soars across a dry creek in the canyon country of southern Utah,
the National Geographic Magazine says. Known as Rainbow Bridge, the arch is almost as long as a football field and wide enough to carry a two-lane highway. President Howard Taft in 1910 proclaimed it a national monument.

Both sea and lake sturgeons live in the fresh waters of the St. Lawrence River the year round. In spring dense schools drive into tributary streams to spawn, says
the National Geographic Magazine.

M. T. A. PROPOSED EXTENSION WOULD SERVICE WINCHESTER

State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley released a report this week predicting that the M.T.A. deficit this year would be more than $17 million. However, the report pointed up more than just the strangled transportation problems of Greater Boston for Mr. Buckley's chief recommendation was for the extension of the transportation system.

Mr. Buckley pointed out that it makes much more sense for taxpayers to pay a $6 million annual deficit on a modern mass transportation system carrying 300 million passengers a year than a $12 million deficit on an outdated system carrying fewer than 200 million passengers a year.

Earlier this year the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee, a group organized in 1957 which is broadly representative of commercial and industrial interests in the metropolitan area, recommended the extension of the M.T.A. over commuter railroad lines within a 30-mile radius of Boston. This same plan has been recommended by speakers at the Boston College Seminars and by Boston's Mayor John Hynes.

For the north suburban area, the Greater Boston Economic Study Committee recommends that a line be immediately constructed from Sullivan Square to Reading via Malden, Melrose and Wakefield. A supplementary line which is recommended as a subsequent addition is from Lechmere Square in Cambridge through Somerville, West Medford, Winchester to Woburn.

And along with the line would come the sharing of the M.T.A. deficit with all towns served by the system.

However, the problem is deeper than just a temporary tax saving situation. The committee states: "Although commuters in growing numbers find travel by automobile cheaper and more convenient than travel by railroad or rapid transit, the automobile has become to the economy of greater Boston a much more costly means of bringing people to work." These costs created by automobile commuting include new highways, parking facilities, the taking of valuable downtown land for non-productive use, plus traffic congestion.

Furthermore the Committee states: "Eventual bankruptcy faces the three railroads serving Boston, unless they can reduce their losses by reducing commuter traffic." Already the New Haven Railroad has asked for $900,000 from the legislature for the continuation of the Old Colony line.

The Committee believes that the deficit could be reduced by the extensions as revenue would probably surpass costs if riders could be attracted to this form of transportation. Other plans for reducing the deficit include repealing the law which permits children under 14 to ride for a five-cent fare and reducing the number of guards on the trains.

Miss Ruth Clay, younger daughter of Rev. and Mrs. H. Newton Clay of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, is at Camp Bonnie Brae in East Otis in the Berkshires for a two week period.

Two Hitter for Del Rossi

Winchester Wins Opener From Vermont, 8-2

Lefty Paul Del Rossi limited the Montpelier team, representing Vermont, to two hits last Friday afternoon as Winchester won its opening game in the Babe Ruth Regional Playoffs at Amherst, 8-2. Del Rossi set down 18 of the Vermont batters on strikes, while walking six.

The game was close enough for four frames, with Winchester having a 3-2 lead going into the fifth. Neither team was able to tally in the fifth, but Winchester landed on the Montpelier pitcher, Laflam, for five big runs and the ballgame in the sixth.

Carl Arlanson led the Winchester attack with a triple and a single. Timely hitting was also contributed by Paul Mulloy, Vandy French, Roger DeMinico and George Neville.

Del Rossi had the Indian sign on all the Montpelier batters with the exception of Pinnald, the Green Mountain catcher, who got both his team's hits.

Winchester Wins Second From Manchester, N.H., 4-2

Winchester won a 4-2 victory over Manchester, N. H., in a semi-final game of the Babe Ruth Regional Playoff series at Amherst last Saturday afternoon, beating the team that many thought the best team the locals had faced all year, including Stamford.

Vandy French went to the mound for Winchester and did a great job in holding the strong Manchester batters in check. French limited the opposition to three hits, fanned five and gave up five bases on balls. Kearns, New Hampshire catcher, got the game's only extra base blow, a double.

French made his contribution to his team's two run seventh, when he beat out a bunt with a fine burst of speed to advance Paul Mulloy to second.

Winchester and Manchester were deadlocked at 2 runs each when the final frame got under way.

Mulloy hit safely to start the top of the 7th, and French's safe bunt put men on second and third with no one out.

Carl Arlanson fouled out, but Mike Bellino drew a pass to fill the bases. Roger DeMinico's long fly brought in Mulloy, and French also scored when Kearns threw wildly to third trying to pick Vandy off the bag.

Two Run First Sinks Winchester

Stamford Wins Babe Ruth Regional Crown, 4-2

Winchester lost a heart-breaker to Stamford, Conn., 4-2, in the championship final of the Babe Ruth Regional Playoffs at Community Field in Amherst last Sunday afternoon, the local boys failing to pull up on even terms with their husky opponents after a two-run first inning deficit.

That nemesis of many a ball club, the lowly bunt, helped Stamford to its sixth Regional title in seven years. The big Connecticut boys tallied twice in the first inning to sew up the game as things turned out, and did not succeed in getting the ball out of the infield.

Paul Del Rossi, hero of the Regional opener, went back to the mound against Stamford, and did a fine job with only a day's rest, especially in view of pitching with a blister on his throwing hand developed in the first game.

Paul was finally forced out of action in the 6th, being replaced by Jack Brenner, who also pitched well. The damage however, was done in the first inning when Stamford scored the two runs that were enough to win.

Del Rossi walked the leadoff batter, Manfred, and both Karp and Gross bunted safely. A poor throw to first on one of these bunts hurt badly, and on the second Winchester froze and could make no play.

With three men on and no one out, Sabia rapped back to Del Rossi, whose throw to the plate forced Manfred. Sabia hit a Baltimore chop to Grinnell and Dale had no play at the plate, Karp scoring. Gross was over a bit later on an infield error.

Winchester had a great chance in the second with Bellino and DeMinico on base with no one out. Butare tried hard to bring in Bellino, but his best was a fly to Rende, Bellino holding up at third.

Grinnell then tried to Rende again, and Bellino tagged up and legged it in. Rende got this throw to the plate in time, but Bellino went into the plate hard and low, and all Winchester believed the catcher never did tag him. Coach Connors, the "old pro," was emphatic in his criticism of the call.

Losing this run really hurt, and later in the game a terrific Arlanson smash that looked like a sure enough homer turned out to be foul, breaking the windshield of "Joe" Cussen's car parked in the far reaches of the field.

Rende scored for Stamford in the 4th, hitting safely and stealing, to tally on another infield miscue.

Winchester scored both its runs in the fourth. Vandy French doubled to center, and Carl Arlanson was hit by a pitched ball.

Bellino forced Arlanson at second with French going to third. On an attempt to prevent Bellino's steal of second the Stamford catcher threw into centerfield and French tallied.

Bellino went to third on the toss and scored when Butare dumped a single in right.

Brenner gave up a run in the 6th, a Wilkes single, a sacrifice, a walk, a single and a sacrifice fly giving Stamford its final tally. The Connecticut boys got a break on this one. The sacrifice fly went to Arlanson in centerfield and Carl made what looked like a great throw home. The ball, however, hit the edge of the mound and angled away from the plate.

WINCHESTER POLICE TRANSPORT BLOOD TO MELROSE HOSPITAL

Late Friday afternoon the Winchester police were contacted by the State Police headquarters in Boston requesting that they transport a pint of O-negative blood from the Winchester Hospital to Melrose.

Officer Robert Baird took the blood over and it was picked up by a State Police cruiser and taken to the blood bank at the Salem Hospital.

HAPPY ENDING

Mrs. Howard P. Morrison, Jr., of 34 Glen road had the misfortune recently to lose her purse containing a sizeable sum of money. She immediately reported the loss to the police, but was given little encouragement that the money would be returned.

Fortunately an Arlington letter carrier, Roland Landry, who lives in Winchester at 5 Fairfield place, found the purse, and returned it to the delighted Mrs. Morrison. It was a real happy ending of what for a time looked pretty grim.

Winchester Girl with Smith Singers

Visited Radio Free Europe

Miss Catherine de Rivera of 417 Main street, with a group of college friends recently visited the studios of Radio Free Europe, the private American anti-Communist network in Munich, Germany.

Miss de Rivera is in Europe with the Smith College Singers. During their stay in Llangollen, Wales, the sixty Smith College students became the first Americans to receive top honors in the International Musical Festival.

Supported by American contributions to the Crusade for Freedom, Radio Free Europe broadcasts more than 2700 hours a week, bringing truth to the captive peoples in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

R. F. E. in 9th Year

Radio Free Europe, which President Eisenhower calls "an independent enterprise," with "hard hitting effectiveness," is now in its ninth year of sending undistorted broadcasts to the Soviet-dominated countries of East Europe.

Supported by donations from the American people to the Crusade for Freedom, Radio Free Europe is a network of 28 powerful transmitters broadcasting to five captive countries: Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. These are countries completely cut off from truth and freedom. There is no free radio or free press.

News broadcasts from the backbone of RFE's programming. Ten minutes of news every hour help fill the void left by Communist propaganda. In other programs—all of the type banned by the Soviets—subjects covered include religion, education, popular and traditional music, youth activities, politics, farming and medicine.

To prepare for these programs, RFE's staff in New York and in Munich, Germany, maintains one of the world's most complete information files on East Europe. Researchers are thoroughly informed on the history of each country, and up-to-date files are kept on political movements, leading Communists and Soviet thought.

So that RFE will be fully informed on what the Communists are doing, over 50 Communist radio stations are monitored daily. RFE also scans hundreds of Soviet newspapers and magazines, and RFE correspondents talk to thousands of refugees.

Although all operations are supervised by Americans, the persons who make the actual broadcasts are refugees from Soviet tyranny who speak to their homelands as fellow countrymen. Thus, the Czechs look upon the "Voice of Free Czechoslovakia" as "our own station."

People Are Listening

Do the captive people listen to RFE? One of the latest independent surveys was conducted by a leading Austrian public opinion and market research organization.

After depth interviews with refugees, the organization revealed that 96% of the Hungarians were RFE listeners.

Another indication of RFE's hard hitting effectiveness is the millions spent each year by the Soviets in efforts to jam RFE broadcasts. However, in spite of these frantic attempts to silence RFE, the broadcasts get through—largely because RFE uses several transmitters simultaneously on different frequencies.

Great Moral Support

What do RFE's listeners think about the broadcasts? This recent letter from a Polish woman is typical:

"In you find great moral support. You teach us to look into the future calmly and sensibly and prevent the world from forgetting that we are still waiting for full and real freedom. You are playing a great historic role, the importance of which no one today is able to sufficiently comprehend and appreciate."

BOYS STEAL NEWSPAPERS FROM WINCHESTER NEWS CO.

At 1:20 a. m. Saturday police officer George Stevenson called the station from Box 1 to report that some boys were running from the yard at the rear of the Winchester News Company on Thompson Street.

Police cars 52 and 53 were sent to assist and the police found 3 bundles of newspapers in the News Company's driveway and one on Thompson Street. The boys jumped into a car at the end of a back alley on Waterfield Road.

When Officer Stevenson got to Waterfield Road he caught a glimpse of a black and white Ford entering Church Street and turning left. The newspapers were evidently taken from the old garage at the back of the News Company.

TELEPHONE TOPICS

Change from one type of operation to another, especially if it is a major one, always involves many people. Changing from the present type of telephone operation to dial operation is no exception. To coordinate the many activities that ultimately lead to a successful dial conversion involves about 25 supervisory people from different departments within the telephone company.

These 25 people meet once a month to report progress on their part of the cut-over. Each person is charged with the responsibility of a certain phase of the conversion. The completion of one activity, of course, ties in with another until the final day when all the work is completed and the actual conversion takes place all in a matter of seconds.

Included in the necessary changes for example are: records, cables, telephones, buildings and the addition of thousands of pieces of new equipment. To insure business the keeping of accurate records is of vital importance. From records and services given, reserves are derived and without the collection of money, a business cannot of course remain healthy. To be doubly certain the records are accurate, a new system involving the use of IBM cards has been introduced for the Winchester and Woburn conversion.

Attention is given to customers with special types of equipment to be sure everything will be in perfect working order the day of conversion. At the conclusion of this "Four Way Check" each customer involved in the cut-over can be certain his equipment will be in top working form.

The physical end of changing instruments to dial telephones is still in progress. When the installer does the actual change, you have probably noticed he checks the ring and the ring by calling the test board, the same place you reach when calling repair service. It is planned to check these instruments again by a call to your house within a few days following the installer's visit.

The equipment used to check out the telephone is not much larger than an overnight suitcase but does tremendous things, mechanically. An interesting sight is that two local people, Charlie Hansen from Woburn and Edward Cullen from Winchester, are charged with the responsibility of this equipment check.

That's all the news we could dig up this week but watch for this column as we plan to keep you well informed of the coming dial system.

VOLCANIC OUTBURST BRINGS NEW TERROR TO AZORES ISLE

Even the children of Fayal, the Azores island that gave birth to a rampaging volcano less than a year ago, feared that the worst was yet to come.

The world's youngest and, for the moment, most violent volcano burst from the sea off western Fayal last September. It vanished a month later, then rose spectacularly again and attached itself to the parent island.

The volcano became silent in March but started erupting again in late May. Current reports are that part of Fayal, which is 12 by 8 miles, has been closed off and its inhabitants hurriedly evacuated.

Closer to a Nightmare

At the height of the volcano's activity, writer John Scofield and photographer Robert F. Sisson of the National Geographic Magazine visited the Portuguese island group. Their eyewitness account of the volcano's birth and the islanders' ordeal appears in the June issue.

Mr. Scofield found the young and old equally apprehensive, especially in Fayal's scorched village of Capelo and Norte Pequeno. Each outburst pushed them closer to a nightmare of homelessness and hunger.

"We have land but it is covered with ashes," said a tiny schoolgirl in Norte Pequeno. "We have enough corn for this year. After that..."

"And what do you think of the volcano?" a schoolboy was asked. "It might kill me," he replied with sudden emotion.

"He dreams that lava and stones are crushing him," the village school mistress explained. "So many of them are frightened. They think the whole island may blow up."

As fear has corroded the islanders' emotions, so has volcanic debris devastated the countryside. Fall-out of ash and salt-laden rain has turned green pastures and vineyards into heartbreaking wastelands. Mr. Scofield wrote: Dead cornstalks thrust up from fields covered by blankets of ash the color of stale chocolate. Houses and roads lie covered; only an occasional lime-washed wall punctuates the featureless countryside.

Thanks to surplus American food distributed by the Portuguese relief organization Caritas, people have been fed. In the new emergency, a shipment of food has been sent from New York by the Co-operative for American Remittances to Everywhere (CARE).

Thanks to surplus American food distributed by the Portuguese relief organization Caritas, people have been fed. In the new emergency, a shipment of food has been sent from New York by the Co-operative for American Remittances to Everywhere (CARE).

LOSING BATTLE

Prior to the latest outbursts, many islanders stuck to their homes. They battled the falling ash with brooms, cleared it from roof-tops, and reset scattered tiles. The deeply religious Fayalenses have sought spiritual help by prayers and pilgrimages. "When there are too many earthquakes," a Capelo housewife said, "we take the Lady of Fatima out of the church and walk with her; many of us, praying in the streets."

The volcano, which the Fayalenses call Ilha Nova (Portuguese for "new island"), is one of the world's 500 active volcanoes. It has added a square mile or so to the area of Portugal.

Many other volcanoes have swelled from the ocean floor in a similar manner. The famous Bogoslof, in the Bering Sea, has popped up and down half a dozen times since 1796. Myojin, 250 miles south of Tokyo, lifted its head three times in 1952-3.

GEOGRAPHIC ODDITIES AND BRIEFS

The highest inhabited town on earth is Garkot, a busy trading center in western Tibet, the National Geographic Magazine says. Garkot stands at 15,000 feet above sea level, an altitude higher than the tallest mountain in the United States.

Geese hatched in an incubator will attach themselves to birds of other species or even to human beings whom they follow about as if they were real parents. This so-called "imprinting" takes only a minute or so. But once it has happened, the geese will not switch over, even to their own parents.

About 400 "Cedars of Lebanon" still exist, guarded as a national treasure by the trading country on the eastern Mediterranean. Famed since Biblical times, the cedars provided wood for the Phoenician galleys. King Solomon built his Temple with Lebanese cedar. Egyptian pharaohs sought the timber for solar boats to transport their souls. Several remaining trees are believed to be more than 1,000 years old.

TAX REFUNDS AWAIT WINCHESTER RESIDENTS

Three in Winchester are listed among the 2300 taxpayers for whom refund checks for the year 1957 are being held by the Internal Revenue Service for delivery to their proper owners.

David Guarente of 20 Eaton street, Charles A. and Julia Lamarche of 400 Main street, and William Willoughby of "33 Concord avenue," are the Winchester taxpayers appearing in the list sent the Star this week. Since there is no Concord avenue in Winchester it is quite likely that Mr. Willoughby was placed erroneously in this town.

The 2300 checks being held represent a residue undelivered by the Postoffice Department from among 1,400,000 refund checks originally mailed to Federal taxpayers in Massachusetts.

Failure to make delivery has been due to changes in address by taxpayers and for other reasons beyond control of the postal service. It is not necessary for a taxpayer to consult or engage the services of a "locating" or "searching" service, or any one else, to obtain information with respect to his check.

All that is needed is to contact the District Director of Internal Revenue in whose office his return is filed and establish identity and right to receive the check. Social Security cards alone will not establish identity.

The complete list of persons for whom tax refunds are being held is unfortunately too long for publication in the Star. The list is, however, on file at the Star office and any one who for any reason may believe his or her name is on it is welcome to come in and have a look.

TO CELEBRATE ASSUMPTION FEAST

ITALIAN RESIDENTS TO HAVE PARADE, SPECIAL MASS

The annual celebration of the Feast of the Assumption by Winchester's residents of Italian origin will be held Sunday, August 24, commencing at 2 o'clock. Ordinarily this celebration is held on the Sunday nearest to the Feast Day, which is August 15, but this year it was impossible to secure music for the parade which is the big feature of the ceremonies here. The local celebration actually begins tomorrow when a special mass will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church.

On Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock the parade will form at St. Mary's Church and proceed through the principal streets of the Italian section of the town.

Feature of the parade will be the Madonna Statue of the Blessed Mary which will be carried at the head of the line of march on a specially constructed platform.

Two bands, the Napoli Band and the Roma Band, will be in line with colors and color guards, and a guard of honor for the statue composed of members of the Christopher Columbus Society. The Society's entire membership will participate in the parade with the women's auxiliary and many boys and girls, some in costume.

The parade will break ranks at St. Mary's Church after covering its usual route through the Plains.

The Assumption Associates are in charge of arrangements with Orazio Fiore as chairman and John Mercurio, secretary-treasurer.

J. H. WINN WEENIE ROAST

Approximately one hundred thirty employees displayed their skills from cooking to egg throwing at the J. H. Winn company sponsored weenie roast held last Tuesday night in the yard adjacent to the plant on Washington street. The event, starting at 5:30 and lasting for four and one-half fun-filled hours, was well organized by the committee and provided a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

After digging into hot dogs, hamburgers, potato salad, tonic, and coffee and topping off with watermelon and marshmallows, everyone settled back somewhat dubiously to jokes told by MC Nick Carter, as he singled out his victims by merely glancing around, and to community singing led by Nick and accompanied by Danny Noonan on his accordion.

Fellows and girls alike displayed their skill at horseshoes and badminton, while other arms were limbered up for the rolling pin throwing contest, won by Christine Mader. Although this was strictly a contest for the girls, all rules were broken when Creighton Horn chased Lennie Clark down Winn's driveway to Washington street, rolling pins in hand. Providing somewhat messy fun were the egg throwing contests won by Mae Harrold and Mary O'Melia and Irving Day and Norman Joyce. Unique roses and tumblers were taken by the losers of the Tugs-O-War, after which entertainment was provided for the on-lookers of the lifesaver passing contest, if not for the participants themselves. Also amusing to the on-lookers was the balloon breaking contest, as in spite of much effort the balloons refused to break.

The door prize, box seat tickets to Saturday's Red Sox game, was won by Marion Brookbank.

After exhausting themselves with square and ballroom dancing to records, everyone found his weary way home, grateful to the Company for making possible such a wonderful evening.

General chairman for this eventful occasion was Chet Kwiatkowski, assisted by the six featured men: Dick Higgins, the committee consisted of Maria Corsetti, Frank Deslongchamps, John Dietel, Mae Harrold, Don Harrold, Jackie Ingersoll, Betty Kelly, and Frances Sweeney.

TEEN-AGE GIRL ACCOSTED ON HIGHLAND AVENUE

The police were notified a week ago Thursday by a resident of Kenyon road that a teenage girl was accosted on Highland avenue at 1:30 p.m. while walking near her home. The accoster was a young man who was driving a black and white car.

The girl was unable to give the police a description of the man other than that he was between the ages of 16 and 18. He asked her if she would like a ride and when she refused to answer he followed her as she walked down the road and then drove off down Highland avenue.

The girl reported that the same man had also approached her on Highland avenue the previous Tuesday and that this time he drove a black convertible.

Because she didn't have a description of the man or the car or the car's license number, the police were unable to do anything but check the area. Parents are urged to tell their children to try to get out of the car if they are accosted in such cases and to promptly report to the police.

"FROM CAUSE TO EFFECT"

HUMANE SOCIETY OFFERS PAMPHLET TO ANIMAL OWNERS

"From Cause to Effect" is the title of a leaflet offered by The Humane Society of the United States to those owning dogs or cats. The folder explains that the uncontrolled breeding of puppies and kittens has resulted in an enormous nationwide surplus of animals. The Society says that even those who find homes for their litters of kittens or puppies contribute to the condition that causes more than 40 million cats and dogs to be homeless and unwanted.

The folder may be obtained, free, from the Humane Society of the United States, Washington 4, D. C.

OLD BILLS FOUND

While clearing up the town hall basement for the remodeling job to be done there a number of antique bills to the town were uncovered in a long unused cupboard. Among them were three from Theo. P. Wilson, founder of the Star and father of the late mayor, T. Price Wilson, dated in 1895, one for printing stamped envelopes, another for advertising a sewer connection, and the third for a box of pens.

The bills, printed in brown ink were done in decorated type and had a picture of the then big Star press, which was Mr. Wilson's pride and joy. It was located in the basement of Lyceum Building, the Star headquarters being there at that time.

HORACE FORD'S CHANGES HANDS

Rumors of the sale of Horace Ford's restaurant were confirmed this week with the announcement that the popular eating place in Winchester terrace of the Locatelli Building has been acquired by the owners of Carroll's Diner in Medford.

Horace Ford, former big league baseball player, told the Star that he was selling the restaurant to the brothers, sons of the late John Carroll, former owner of Carroll's Diner, who will probably take over Horace Ford's in three weeks and will run the local restaurant as well as the diner.

Jack Carroll, who will run the Ford restaurant, plans no immediate changes in the conduct of the business. Horace Ford is well known to many in Winchester and has been a favorite eating place for those who like a late snack after a show or basketball game.

Mr. Ford established Horace Ford's in Winchester in 1930, while he was playing baseball with the Cincinnati Reds of the National League. The restaurant was then located on Thompson street at the site now occupied by Ward's Market, and in those days a great part of its business was the sale of ice cream, candy and soda.

In 1938 the restaurant moved to its present location in the Locatelli Building and in recent years, emphasis has been on the restaurant end of the business, box and bulk candy having been discontinued. Employees have increased from five at the opening of the restaurant to a peak of 14.

The restaurant has been popular, alighted as much for its friendly homelike atmosphere as for its fine food. Mr. Ford has been assisted in conducting the business through the years by his uncle, Ben W. Hills, who had served as manager of the plant.

A native of Winchester, Mr. Morse was graduated from Winchester High School in 1913. He is married to the former Priscilla Laraway and they have three daughters, Mrs. Charles Phippen of East Hampton, Conn., Mrs. Robert Manning of North Weymouth and Mrs. Ralph Perkins of Winchester.

During the evening telegrams were received by Mrs. Murray from her son, former Police Officer John J. PLAYGROUND NOTES

Last week this column mentioned that the Beach Day to Crane Beach would probably be cancelled because of the slow response in receiving written permission from parents. On the same morning of the trip fifty-eight reported for the trip to the beach and a fine day was had by all. The group was one of the most cooperative and because of it all went perfectly. The youngsters certainly had a grand time and enjoyed most of all the dunking of all of the instructors. Ladies first! First to go was Betty Haggerty, followed by Mary Doherty, then Nancy Davis. After the girls felt the coldness of the water the "gang" then got Joel Peckham and director Frank Provinzano for their turns. It made a lot of fun and everyone certainly enjoyed the day. On the return trip ice cream and candy were given to all present. The "Sugar Daddy" certainly kept the youngsters busy and quiet.

Today is the last day for the summer playground program and all of the instructors, mentioned above, wish to thank all the youngsters participating in the whole summer recreation offered during the summer months and wish to also extend many thanks and appreciation to all the parents that cooperated with the leaders to make the program the success that it was. We certainly appreciated your presence at the various supervised fields and we hope that you enjoyed yourselves as much as we enjoyed having you with us.

Until next year, best of luck to all and very best wishes from all of the instructors.

Aquamodels and Dan Dailey

Two Winchester girls, Jan Keene Cooper and Sandy Mueller, pose with Dan Dailey, star of stage and screen, at the pool of the Colonial Country Club in Lynnfield. The girls swim with Danny White's Aquarama which will appear at the Topsfield fair from August 31 through September 6. The troupe practices at the Somerset Hotel in Boston and spends the summer touring New England.

Dan Dailey was at the Colonial for a drama critics affair on the same day the girls were swimming there; he was playing at the Carousel Theatre at the time.

Jan Cooper spends her winters conducting a dance studio in Melrose and Sandy Mueller is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry L. Mueller.

EDITORIALS

The publication in last week's Star of the amended Board of Health regulations governing the transporting and dumping of rubbish has apparently caused some confusion. Actually there has been only a change in the fee charged, this having been raised from 50¢ to $1.00, in accordance, we suppose, with the higher cost of living.

Winchester has long had by-laws governing the transportation of rubbish, waste and garbage of all kinds over the public and private ways of the town. There have been other provisions governing the dumping of such waste.

The provisions of the by-laws do not apply only to licensed rubbish collectors, but to all residents of the town who wish to take rubbish of all sorts to the town dump. If you want to take your lawn and shrub trimmings, ashes or waste papers to the dump, you have to have a license to do so. You always have, but the authorities haven't in the past been enforcing the law too strictly.

Now the regulations are to be strictly enforced and no vehicle will be permitted in the town disposal area to dump refuse without a sticker on the windshield indicating that the owner has a license to transport and dump rubbish.

Applications for licenses, now $1 instead of 50¢, are available at the Board of Health office over Randall's, and with the license goes the permissive sticker. You are going to have trouble with "Mingie" and his crew at the disposal area without one.

FIRES

August 19, a call at 12:17 p. m. reporting an Edison pole burning at the corner of Cross street and Loring avenue brought engine 4 with Lt. Michael Connolly, John Flaherty, and John Kimball to the scene. The fire was reported out at 12:30.

August 20, at 9:50 a. m. business people and shoppers in the center were startled to hear box 25 sounded from the station for a fire in the Cullen barn on Winchester place. Engine 2 with Capt. Ignatius Amico, and Henry O'Melia; engine 1 with John Flaherty and Lt. Michael Connolly; ladder 1 with Francis Welch and the rescue wagon with John Pearson all responded. The fire was on the wooden roof of the building and it is believed that some work men may have been careless with cigarettes. Recall sounded at 10:45.

See the Addictor, world's smallest adding machine at the Winchester Star. Perfect for adding checks, books, budgets, expense accounts, tax work and even for scoring bridge, canasta and golf. Only $3.98.

How selfishness is overcome through the acknowledgment and understanding of God as the only Mind is a topic to be dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the Bible passages to be read in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" is this admonition of Paul: "Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves. Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others. Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 2:3-5).

Also pointing out the way to overcome selfishness are correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including this one: "When we realize that there is one Mind, the divine law of loving our neighbor as ourselves is unfolded; whereas a belief in many ruling minds hinders man's normal drift towards the one Mind, one God, and leads human thought into opposite channels where selfishness reigns" (356-22).

He and his family have done more than 9,000 miles of driving since their arrival in England in June, have covered England, Ireland, Spain, and Italy, with visits in Pisa and Rome. They now go on to Venice, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Holland and the World's Fair in Belgium. It rained the entire eight days they were in Ireland.

NEEDS YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS

To the people who bring flowers and other gifts to the railroad station each Tuesday morning and to the faithful church chairmen who collect these things and pack the hamper, the Fruit and Flower Mission means a chance to bring cheer to shut-ins and elderly people in the poorer districts of Boston.

These Winchester people work hard to fill the two large hampers for Boston, and on the whole Winchester has made an excellent showing this summer. The committee in charge would be happy to have more contributors for the remaining Tuesdays of the summer.

There are many Winchester residents who realize the value of the hesitate to bring a small offering for the baskets. These are the people we need. No matter how Fruit and Flower Mission but who few and simple your flowers, they will meet with a warm welcome from the chairmen in charge of the hampers at the Winchester railroad station from 9:00 to 9:30 each Tuesday morning from now till

September 23. Do come and see for yourself the flowers, vegetables, jellies, candies, and cookies that are packed to go to the Rutland Street Settlement House in Boston's south end.

TELEPHONE TOPICS

"Fire—John Richardson's farm on Washington street with a horse was burned about 10:00 last evening. Loss $1150. Insured."

The above item was the first news story transmitted by telephone from Winchester to Woburn. It appeared in the Winchester section of the Woburn Advertiser on December 15, 1881. From that date on however the telephone has been one of the principal means of transmitting news. And of course as the newspaper business has grown so has the telephone business.

Locally, from a humble beginning with nine customers back in 1883 the telephone business has grown to 5500 customers in the town in 1958. Looking back we find that for a number of years Winchester telephone users were served from the Woburn Office until September of 1892 when a new Telephone Exchange was opened in the White Building on Main street. In those days it was not uncommon to have men as operators. With this new service of 1892 came long distance telephoning to Winchester customers and with but minor difficulties one could talk to friends and relatives as far away as New York.
In contrast, with the coming dial system you will be able to dial direct to California in a matter of seconds.

As the Town grew so did the Telephone Business. The year 1899 found a new section of switchboard added to the existing equipment in the White Bldg. In 1903 headquarters were at 175 Main street, now 551 Main street. Again in 1907 more space was required and a new building was built at 125 Washington street. With this new building in 1907 came the ultimate in Telephone equipment. To quote part of an article regarding the new system as it appeared in October 25, 1907 issue of the Winchester Star—

"There are a few defects yet to be overcome caused by the new method of call 'central'. The ringing of all bells on a party line when a subscriber calls up 'central' will be no signal apparent to the other persons on the line. This will cut off 'rubbering' to the extent of one half."

"When Central calls up a subscriber on a party line the bells will ring as heretofore, so that there is as yet an opportunity for any one to listen if they care to, but it will be known now on which line the curious person is. When this defect is remedied then conversations over the telephone will be private."

Winchester now has up-to-date telephone service and is now on the same footing with all the large Metropolitan offices. There is probably no town in the United States of the same population as Winchester that has so many subscribers to the telephone."

"Rubbering" of course has been a thing of the past for some time.
The method of calling "Central" was discontinued with the installation of a newer type of equipment in 1911.

As newer types of telephone equipment were developed they were added to the Winchester office.
In January 1932 a one story and basement addition was completed at 125 Washington street at the same time still newer automatic telephone equipment was installed.

Except for occasional additions and replacements of equipment the building remains the same and will be so until February 15, 1959 when the new office on Main street goes into operation.

That's all for this week, look in next week when we hope to be able to talk about the relocation of Winchester operators to other positions within the Company following dial conversion.

Very truly yours,
Joseph B. O'Kane

This order of events is subject to change at discussion of officials. Highlight of the afternoon is always the presentation of trophies for the season's accomplishments. The candidates for these trophies are selected according to definite standards. These trophies are:

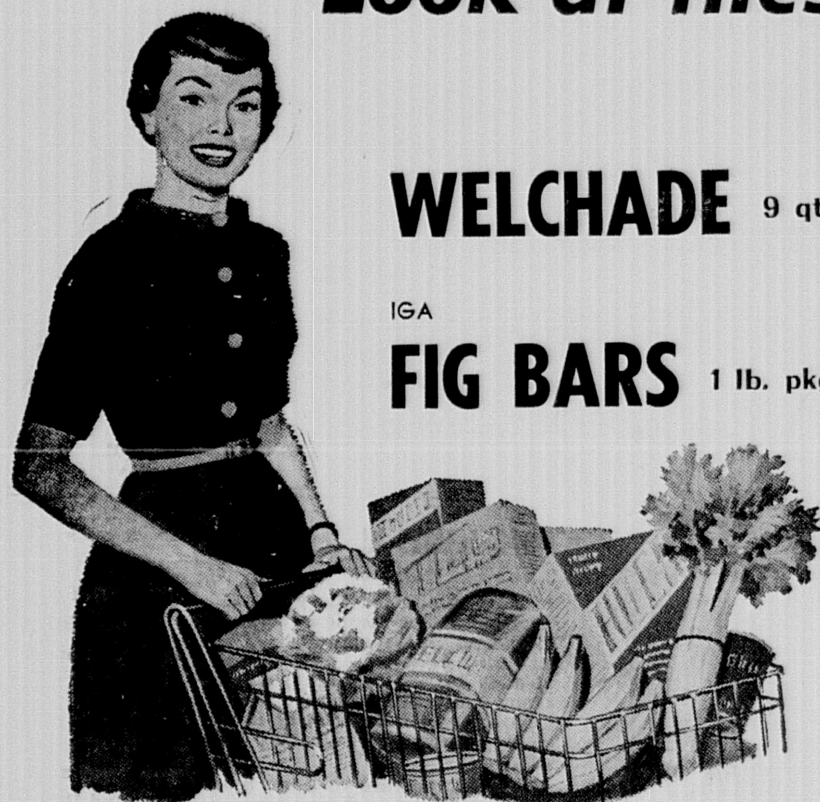

(1) The Gladys P. Dutting Memorial Trophy—awarded to the younger boy or girl who has made the most progress in the elementary swimming courses. This trophy is named for a former Executive Secretary of the Winchester Red Cross. Beloved by all who knew her, Mrs. Dutting's favorite Red Cross occupation was with the children she contacted in the swimming program.
The 1957 winner was Julie Devaney.
(2) The Red Cross Swimming Trophies—awarded to one boy and one girl for excellence in swimming. Interest and hard work are important requirements for these trophies. The 1957 winners were Patricia Murphy and Arthur Cunningham.
(3) The Thomas J. McGowan

Memorial Trophy—This is the top swimming award and is made to one boy swimmer and one girl swimmer. Excellence in swimming is a must but more strictly rated are the qualities of courtesy, cooperation and outstanding leadership ability. The McGowan trophy is named for the late highly esteemed former Park Department Superintendent, Thomas J. McGowan. The 1957 winners were Mollie Devaney and Robert Carroll.
Any Winchester boy or girl may enter the swimming races. There is no need for advance registration.

The only requirement is that he or she be close at hand when the desired event is called. The heats will be run off first and the contestants with the five best times will compete in the finals. Medals will be awarded for first, second and third places in the 8 and under age group. The older age group winners will receive first, second and third place trophies.
Ample seating capacity will be provided by the Winchester Park Department.

WINCHESTER GIRL WITH U. S. HOCKEY TEAM WRITES HOME

Livingstone
August 6, 1958

Dear Folks:

Well, we finally arrived here at Victoria Falls after almost 48 hours of travel on the train. It is not that the distance is so far, it's just that it stopped at every two house town and it has to be on the watch for wild animals, especially elephants.

It was quite an experience, especially, one stop where the natives came out to barter their carvings, headwork, and basketry. What an experience that was! We would lean out of the window and would try to knock down the price. They would pull a long face and say "please missus."

Besides these people there were also blind and lame begging and begging persistently. The children would ask for "sweets missus." That would mean anything. Young mothers were there with children strapped on their backs.

More often than not the child's eyes would be a mass of flies. I've never seen anything like it. Flies will crawl all over the natives and they never bother to flick them off.

The poverty of these people is something. They live way out in the middle of nowhere, apparently surviving on the occasional train that passes through. You should have seen Lee! Boy, did she barter them down. I think that she is going to open a curio shop when she gets home. I guess I worried too much as to how to get it home.

We arrived here at Livingstone Tuesday morning and went straight to the Rest Camp. It rather reminded me of the camp sites at Katashin only very African of course. Two people per shamba, a round white building with a thatched roof.

The toilets and showers are in a separate hut, and the wash basins reminded me of the old days at the farm. We have to walk about 500 yards to the tea house for our meals.

The beauty of the place is that it is right on the bank of the Zambesi River and only a short walk to the Falls. Yesterday we walked around the edge of them, then through what is called the Rain Forest.

The spray is so great from the falls that it rises up in great clouds and is blown over the land. As a result, tremendous rainbows are created and one has to wear a raincoat and boots to go through the area. At one point the rainbow was in a complete circle. The whole falls is 1 1/4 miles in breadth and they drop some 300 ft. It makes Niagara look like a puddle pot.

Pop, you wouldn't have enjoyed it much, I don't think, because of the tremendous drop off. There are no guard rails and at many of the edges it is just slippery grass. I think that it is very dangerous and I myself came closer to the edge than I like to think of now. Four people were killed there last year.

One of the girls I was with, Audrey Erierson, the one who was on television, was a riot. I don't think she's ever been off the sidewalk before this trip. She is fantastically naive and is having 1000 new experiences.

Yesterday she didn't bring any boots and right off she stepped into a big mud hole. Did we laugh! The poor girl though, I guess that she finally got most of it off. She ended up walking home bare foot.

When we got back to the tea house at four o'clock we had the usual tea, then we discovered the yummy banana splits, then after that we decided to have waffles. About that time Lee came back with another basket load of curios and carvings. I don't know how she is ever going to get them home.

A whole bunch of monkeys appeared and we fed them chocolate and bubble gum. Lee got a picture of me feeding one. Hope it comes out. I finally broke down and bought some things although I'm not the best barterer. Lee had to help several times.

Today we went up in a big plane for an aerial view of the falls. Fantastic! It looks like what I think the Grand Canyon must look like, deep canyons back and forth. The country is flat, flat. We flew up the river a way and saw a mother hippo with several babies and then four or five elephants on the way back.

Tomorrow we are taking a launch up the Zambesi. Thursday night we leave again for Bulawayo and our match with Southern Rhodesia on Saturday.

Then off to the coast. We can't wait. Just as long as the sharks don't get us. When I get to Bulawayo, I'll send a bunch of clippings and also the collection of pamphlets I've picked up.

Best love to all,
Alison

RED CROSS NOTES

On Monday, August 11, a group of people at the Red Cross Chapter House witnessed some fast and timely life saving work firsthand. An urgent call was received from the Winchester Hospital for two pints of type A Pos. blood. None could be found in the Boston area and a life was at stake.

Their call couldn't have been better timed, because at that very moment an emergency Blood Day was in progress at the Chapter House, with Winchester, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield pooling their efforts. One pint of this blood had already been given and another was being given. Within a few minutes of their call, the blood was on its way to the hospital and another lesson in the importance (and the ever-present shortage) of blood was driven home.

During the emergency Blood Day 133 people turned out to donate. Of these, 28 temporarily were rejected, so that 105 pints were actually collected. Those who took advantage of this opportunity not only helped to alleviate the critical shortage of blood, but also insured themselves and their families of the availability of blood, at no cost, should they need it anytime during the next year.

Winchester donors headed the list with 53 people turning out. The other three towns also contributed materially to the day's success, not only with donors, but in transportation, to and from Winchester as well as helping to staff canteen, staff aides, and nursing functions. Headquarters extend their thanks and appreciation to donors and workers for another successful Blood Day.

POLICE PLAY HOST TO CAPTURED RACCOON

Of all the different roles the police are asked to play, one of the strangest took place last Friday when they were called to baby-sit for a raccoon. Fred Conroy of 438 Highland avenue reported that he had a raccoon trapped in a cage and he would like police assistance.

The raccoons have been making a general nuisance of themselves this year in several parts of the town, tipping over garbage pails and stripping refuse over lawns. Officer Mario Buzzotta was sent to the Conroy home where he brought the raccoon to the station. Lacking facilities to house the coon on a permanent basis, the police transferred their captive to the Stoneham zoo.

RUNAWAY ARLINGTON GIRL TURNS UP IN WINCHESTER

A girl who was running away from her Arlington foster home turned up in Winchester last Saturday. The 9 year old girl had several bruises on her body.

James Riley of 10 Lockeland road came to the police station to report that the girl had come to his home and told him that she was running away from her home.

Officer Andrew Crawford investigated and found the girl was a state ward living with an Arlington family. She had a cut on her left ear and a large black and blue mark on her upper left arm which she told police were the result of a beating by her foster mother.

She was turned over to the juvenile officer in Arlington to have the case further investigated.

WHO'S WHO EXPLAINS

The Star received this week a copy of a letter sent a resident of the town who had written Marquis-Who's Who, Inc., publishers, to report that his name was not among those sent the Star as Winchester residents in the latest edition of Who's Who, though he is in fact listed.

The publishers say in explanation that the placement of names in the index was determined by office addresses wherever such addresses were included in the biographical sketches.

This accounted for the fact that the name of the particular person questioning the listing did not appear among those sent the Star for publication. He was listed under his office address which is out of town.

Others who have written in to correct the Star list will probably find a similar reason for their not being included in our story.

James A. Cullen

The weekend fishing expedition of Dr. E. T. Blanch of 16 Alden lane, John Morabito of 3 Indian Hill road and Charlie Koch, proprietor of the Winchester Sport Shop, resulted in the capture of a "pile" of fluke. The three fishermen went to Monomoy Point where they promptly lost the key to the car and after finally arriving home discovered they had three nice cases of sunburn.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

SOCIAL NOTES

On Saturday evening, August 9, more than 100 members enjoyed a cook-out on the lawn with each bringing and cooking their own food on charcoal grills with the Club furnishing dessert. Following the cook-out they enjoyed a fine moving picture show put on by a former Winchester Boat Club member, Mr. George E. Roghaar and his son George, Jr. Much of the success of this party was due to the efforts of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Harrington, Jr. (expert pie-cutters) and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Y. Josephson, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Chase who obtained the grills and "fired" them up for the cook-out.

The women's bridge parties, under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Walter Y. Josephson and Mrs. Ralph M. Swanson continue to be very popular and the Morning Coffee of August 11, Mrs. James T. Snow chairman, was quite successful. Although it hardly seems possible, by the time this is printed only one bridge party will be left in the schedule, that of September 3, Mrs. John H. Ivers, chairman.

With the Sailors
The Winchester Boat Club has every reason to be proud of its Snipe Fleet and we are especially pleased of the fine showing which was made by the two boats from this fleet at the National Snipe Championship Regatta held during the first week in August on Lake Chautauqua, New York. Out of 85 boats from all parts of the United States, and sailed by top-flight skippers, including prior national and world champions, Ken Cook in "Jinx" with his brother Dick Cook as crew, and Tommy Legere, Jr., in "Lexus" with Herbie Alderson as crew, qualified with 22 other boats for the five final championship races, taking 7th and 9th place, respectively, in the elimination races. In the final races Ken got a 6th with Tommy finishing in 17th place, a very creditable performance in such fast company.

Next weekend will see some eight or ten boats from our snipe fleet journeying to Westport, Conn., to participate in the Long Island Sound Championship Regatta to be held August 23 and 24 at the Cedar Point Yacht Club. We wish them the best of luck.

Here on the Mystic there will be plenty of activity with the sailing of the National Senior Championship Regatta, sponsored by our own Turnabout Fleet. This Regatta will open with a tune-up race at 11:00 a. m. on Saturday, August 23. Following a chowder luncheon served at noon, the real serious competition will start with two races at 1:30 and 3:00 p. m. respectively. A buffet supper will be served at 6:00 p. m. to the competing skippers and crews, Turnabout Fleet members and friends after which there will be entertainment. The final race will be sailed at 2:00 p. m. on Sunday, August 24, and the awarding of the Trophies will take place immediately thereafter on the club lawn.

In addition to these extra-mural activities, the Snipe and Turnabout Fleets have been conducting regularly scheduled races each week-end with evening races on Tuesday and Thursday. In last Sunday's race Tommy Legere led the Snipes with Herbie Alderson second and Dick Ivers third. Linda Chase in "Chaser" finished first in the Turnabout race followed by "Buzz" Hall in second place ahead of Dannenberg's "Jerome".

Labor Day Weekend
Plans for the Labor Day weekend, details of which have already been mailed to club members, include ladies' races (Snipe) at 10:30 a. m., Monday, September 1st. Water sports and swimming meet 2:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m., outdoor supper at 6:00 p. m. followed by dancing in the clubhouse at 8:15 p. m. On Saturday and Sunday, August 30 and 31, the Snipes will be racing as usual with the Turnabouts competing in the first Dillon Cup Open Regatta. All in all a busy and we hope a pleasant weekend.

SUSTAINED BADLY CUT FOOT WHILE SWIMMING

"Josh" Vernaglia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Vernaglia of 2 Robinson park, sustained a severely cut left foot while on a recent swimming expedition in Tewksbury with Robert D'Errico of Grove street.

"Josh" was taken to the Lawrence Memorial Hospital and treated for a deep cut nearly four inches long. He is now at home, but it will be probably two to three weeks before he is able to be active again.

Riding lessons in the 100 foot horse ring have been an important part of camp activity at Robin Hood. Many campers have become very proficient in riding which is under the direction of Miss Betty DeMar, assisted by Jan Merrill. The Arts and Crafts program under the direction of Mrs. Lillian McGaffigan had a display of art work painted by the campers. Parents were especially pleased to see their children rowing in the many boats used on the Robin Hood waterfront. Even the youngest campers were encouraged to row.

Fishing has been of great interest to a large number of campers. The largest catch of the week was a 12 inch-1 pound horn pout caught by Buddy McGrath. Buddy McGrath was the winner of the informal races in the pool. The races were free style and all of the boys who have passed beginners were eligible to compete.

SIGNS OF ATTEMPTED

HOUSEBREAKING FOUND

After a call Tuesday evening reporting suspicious marks on some entrances to the home of Dr. Howard J. Chidley at 4 Fernway, Sgt.

Edward Bowler and Officer John Farrell investigated and found that three doors had been jimmied at the house.

A screen door on a porch located at the west side of the house had two marks which were evidently made by an implement about 3/4 inches wide. Another door close by also had scrape marks where someone had tried unsuccessfully to remove the mauling. In addition, a cellar door on the east side of the house had several breaks in its mauling.

The police with the aid of Mrs. William Speers searched the house and reported that everything seemed to be in order.

CHURCH-FLETCHER STREET CRASH SCENE

The second recent auto accident at the intersection of Church and Fletcher streets occurred last Saturday at 5:20 p. m. Luckily no personal injuries were reported by either of the drivers.

Edward C. Jones of 3 Salisbury street was driving an Oldsmobile sedan on Fletcher street and while making the left turn onto Church street was in collision with a Chevrolet owned and operated by James

J. McFarland of Hopkins street, Wilmington which was coming from Bacon street across Church street and into Fletcher street.

The Jones car was struck on the right rear door and fender and both sides of the front fenders of the McFarland car were damaged.

The McFarland car was towed to Wilmington. Mrs. Lillian McFarland, a passenger in her husband's car, complained of an ankle injury and was to be treated by her own doctor.

According to the police report both cars had started from a stopped position on a green traffic light.

TO SERVE MEDFORD CHURCH

Richard L. Rush, son of Captain and Mrs. Richard M. Rush of Woodside road, has accepted a call to be associate minister of the West Medford Congregational Church. He will commence his new duties September 1 and will specialize in young people's work, though he will also do administrative work and preach.

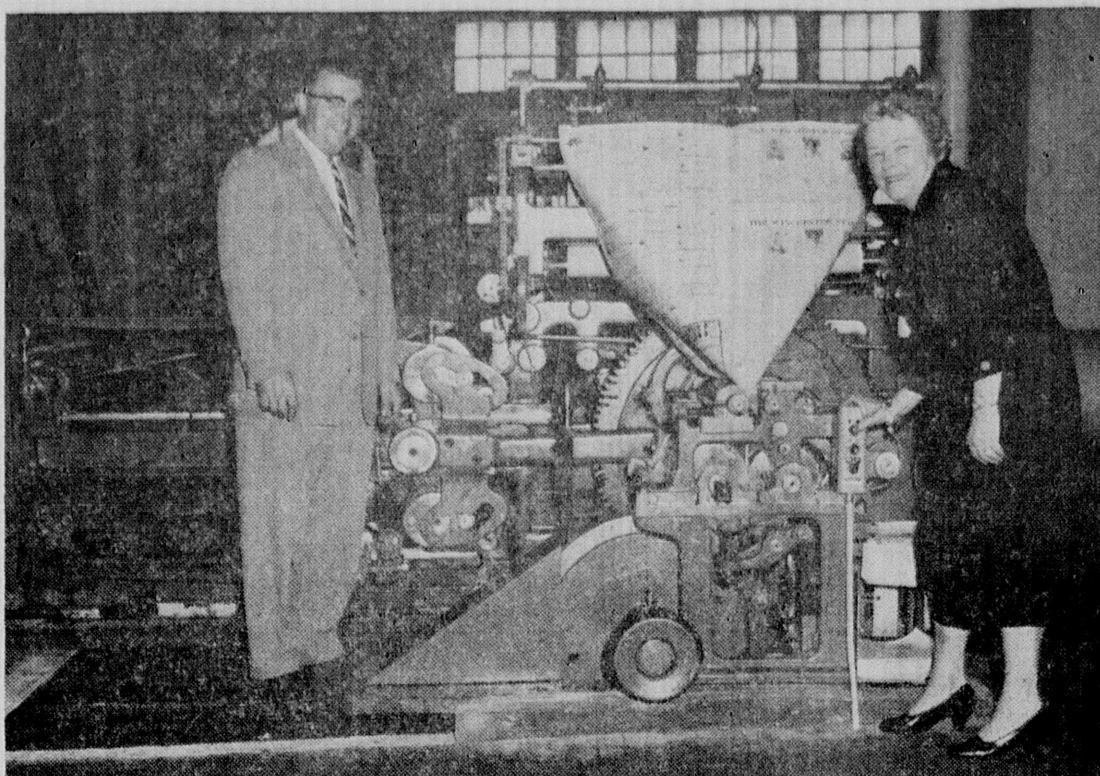

Mr. Rush and his wife have recently returned from Homet, Calif., where they visited Mrs. Rush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Miller and cared for their orange groves while the Millers were on vacation.

Mr. Rush graduated from Winchester High School in 1952 and received his A. B. from Oberlin College in 1956. He begins his senior year at Andover-Newton Theological School in the fall and will combine his studies there with his ministerial duties in West Medford.

POLICE SOFTBALL GAME FOR JIMMY FUND

A softball game has been arranged for the benefit of the Jimmy Fund this Friday night at 7:45 under the lights at Library Park, Woburn, between the Woburn Police Department and a team representing both the Police and Fire Departments of Winchester.

The Winchester and Woburn Police Departments have staged a softball game the past two years to benefit the Jimmy Fund, and each time the City police have been the winners. It is the thinking of Winchester Manager Jimmy Cogan that some fresh blood from the firefighters may just mean the difference this year.

It is doubtful if the veteran Archie O'Connell will be able to shake a bad charley horse in time for tonight's battle, and it is equally doubtful whether J. L. Nowell will be available for short, or long stopping. At last reports Manager Cogan had been unable to prevail upon the recently retired "Biscuit" Kimball to don the mask and shin guards again this year.

The game ought to be a dilly. Don't miss it and helping the Jimmy Fund by your contribution. Here is a double header that really has it!

JOHN COLLINS RETIRES FROM RENTON'S MARKET

John H. Collins of 20 Glenwood avenue will retire Saturday night from Renton's Market after a lifetime spent in the grocery business. In honor of his retirement, a party will be held Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Snow in Carlisle.

A well known figure to many longtime residents of Winchester, Mr. Collins has been at Renton's for 8 years. Previous to this job he worked at Richardson's Market which was situated on Mt. Vernon street in the space now occupied by Converse Market.

Mr. Collins must have been with Richardson's Market almost from the time he went to work, and his experience there and at Renton's has made him well known to local householders throughout town. His son, John F. Collins, a pharmacist, is one of the new owners of the old line Hevey's Pharmacy in the square.

In the last few weeks the following church representatives have served: Mrs. Bernard C. Hanley of St. Mary's Church; Mrs. Clarence R. Craft, Mrs. Ralph W. Hatch, and Mrs. Leonard V. Griffiths of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church; Mrs. Pasquale Colella of Immaculate Conception; and Mrs. Robinson Abbott and Miss Ruth Dustin of the First Congregational Church. Many of these chairmen had assistants too numerous to mention. Our thanks go to all these women for a wonderful service.

No Bid Within Appropriation

New Bids Asked For Town Hall Alterations

New bids have been asked by the Board of Selectmen for the job of remodeling the easterly end of the town hall to house the Planning Board and Town Accountant with accommodations for a small hearing hall requested by the Planning Board.

Bids were asked on the new layout designed by Jerome Bailey Foster, widely known local architect, and the bids were opened last week. The sum of $18,000 was appropriated by the town for the job, and none of the bids received was within, or at that figure.

1958 WINCHESTER TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Town of Winchester annual tennis championship tournament will be held at the Packer Courts on Palmer street commencing at 9 o'clock sharp on Saturday, September 6.

Both men's and women's singles will be held at this time, with men's doubles and mixed doubles commencing at 1:00 p. m. sharp on the same day. No concessions will be made and defaults will be entered in the case of players who do not report for their matches at the above times.

Depending upon the size of the draw, it is hoped that two rounds can be played in each event on both Saturday and Sunday, September 6 and 7.

Any resident or employee of the Town of Winchester is eligible, contestants must furnish their own balls, and there will be entry fees of 25c per person, per event for contestants under 18 years of age. Contestants over 17 pay 50c per person per event.

Written entries, accompanied by the correct fees should be mailed to Josiah E. Bacon, 40 Wildwood street, and must be received on or before Friday, September 5, at 6:00 p. m. No entries will be accepted without correct fees.

TOWN SPENDS $2 MILLION BETWEEN JAN. AND AUGUST

The Town of Winchester has spent over $2 million since the beginning of this year, according to James J. Costello, town accountant. The total figure for town payments amounts to $2,675,000.84.

In all, 21,657 checks have been issued in three major categories: payroll, 13,566; public assistance which includes welfare, old age assistance, etc., 2,454; and expenses and outlays, 5,637.

On the other side of the ledger, $1,629,007.47 has been received by the town as receipts. This figure includes $600,000 which was borrowed by the town temporarily in anticipation of taxes, motor vehicle receipts, receipts from the federal government for public assistance and similar receipts from the state, state receipts for such items as school lunches, veterans benefits and a distribution of corporation and income taxes, special assessments, departmental accounts such as rentals of buildings, etc., and water department receipts.

It had originally been planned to remodel the easterly area of the town hall to accommodate the Planning Board and Town Accountant, but the Planning Board advanced the need of an adequate hearing room for its use and also for the Board of Appeal, and the inclusion of such a hall in the area involves the necessity for another entrance and exit to accommodate those using such a meeting place.

There is little question that there is need for such a hall; and the Selectmen also feel that if a remodeling job involving an expense of $18,000 is to be undertaken, it should be done right, even though an additional $2,000 may be involved.

The remodeling of the easterly end of the town hall basement is the first of several steps planned to improve the facilities of the town hall. The Selectmen feel that what improvements are made should enhance not only the functioning of the hall as a center of town government but also should improve the appearance of the structure, so that eventually it can once again become a building in which the community can take pride.

PAUL FERGUSON RESCUES BOY FROM MILL POND

Nine year old Paul Ferguson of 102 Sylvester avenue was credited with fast thinking Wednesday when he jumped into the Mill Pond at the rear of the Winchester Laundry and rescued three year old David Rae who had fallen in.

A group of boys were feeding the ducks when David, who was in a stroller, went over the bank into the water. Paul carried the youngster to the fire station where firefighters wrapped him in a heavy coat.

Police Officer Thomas Parsons was contacted and helped the boy and David Franson of 216 Pond street who also helped with the rescue to their homes.

FIRE BOX 231 SOUNDS WEDNESDAY EVENING

An alarm at 8:29 p. m. Wednesday night brought firefighters and police officers Howard Goodrow and Douglas Martell to the home of Joseph Boucher at 11 Manchester road for a house fire.

Engine 2 with Henry O'Melia, Capt. Ignatius Amato, Lt. Michael Connolly, Walter Skerby and Herbert O'Donnell; ladder 1 with Francis Welch and the rescue wagon with John Pearson responded.

Upon arrival of the firefighters, the fire which was caused by an incinerator which ignited shingles on the house was out.

The annual reception for all Winchester teachers and administrative staff will be held at the Wyman School on Tuesday, September 2nd at 2:00 p. m.

The executive board of the Community School Association cordially invites all mothers to attend the reception and the tea that will follow.

W. HOWARD NIBLOCK

NAMED TO BOWDOIN POSTS

W. Howard Niblock, Principal of Winchester High School, has been named to two joint committees of the Governing Boards of Bowdoin College, Dr. James S. Coles, President of Bowdoin, announced today. They are the joint standing committee on Educational Policy and joint special committee on the Library.

Mr. Niblock, who has been principal at Winchester since 1956, was elected to the Bowdoin Board of Overseers at that group's June meeting, following his nomination by the alumni of the College on their annual ballot. A native of Lynn, Mass., he graduated from Lynn Classical High School in 1931 and received his bachelor of science degree from Bowdoin in 1935. At Bowdoin he was president of the Student Council, captain of the track team, president of his class, president of the Bowdoin Christian Association, and an assistant in the Department of Psychology. He still holds the college record in the 16 pound shot put and for many years was the record holder in that event in the Maine State Track Meet.

He began his teaching career at the Mount Hermon School, where he was director of guidance and instructor in history from 1936 to 1940 and again from 1941 to 1946. For the year 1940-41 he was director of guidance and testing and instructor in history at the Beaver Country Day School in Chestnut Hill. In 1946 he became principal of Maine Central Institute in Pittsfield, Maine, where he remained until he accepted the position in Winchester in 1956.

Mr. Niblock is married to the former Marion Gould, a graduate of Radcliffe College. They have three sons, William H., Jr., Edward G., and Thomas R. He holds master of arts and master of education degrees from Harvard University. Several years ago Nasson College in Springvale, Maine, awarded him an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in recognition of his outstanding contribution to secondary education in Maine.

TELEPHONE TOPICS

The voice that says "Number Please" when you pick up your telephone could very well be the voice of one of your neighbors. In going over personnel records for operators in the Winchester and Woburn offices, it was found that approximately 65% of the people employed in these offices are local residents.

Another study recently made found that in Winchester there are over 130 residents living in the Town who work for the Telephone Company and in the City of Woburn over 280 residents are Telephone Company employees.

These studies of telephone people living in Winchester and Woburn were made some time ago when it was decided to change these offices to the dial system. With the advent of dial telephone operation there is presented the problem of

CHAPIN COLGATE GRID CANDIDATE

John Chapin of Winchester will be one of approximately 50 Colgate University football players who will start practice here on September 1.

A sophomore quarterback prospect and a former Winchester high star, Chapin was on the sidelines with a leg injury all of last year but the Colgate coaching staff looks to him for valuable help in the passing department this year. Chapin sustained a knee injury in the Cambridge Latin game his senior year that ended his school-boy gridiron career. At that time it was considered doubtful that he would play football again. Chapin is an all around athlete, playing basketball and being an excellent pitching prospect.

The Red Raiders will open their 68th season on September 27 at Cornell. Other Ivy League foes include Princeton, Yale and Brown. The home slate brings in Rutgers on October 4 and Holy Cross on November 8 and road games also are carded with Army, Syracuse and Bucknell.

EDITORIALS

We had a visit this week from Mr. Quigley. A visit from "T. Q." is always interesting, even though he is a man of few words. He says a great deal in those few words, and he has been around town long enough to know a lot about a lot of things!

Mr. Quigley, prior to his visit to the Star, had taken a trip to the proposed new school site in the west side well field, and though in typical Quigley fashion he reserved his opinion of the site, he did say that if the school is to be placed there, the old proposed road north from Lake street to Woburn should now be constructed. There has been a layout of the street since the days when Mr. Quigley served on the Finance Committee, which was not last week by several years, and "T. Q." thinks as an access road it should now be built, if the new school is to go in the well field, which is the site the school and planning consultants believe by far the best of the various sites considered.

Originally the proposed road commenced on Lake street near Main street at the rear of the Blanchard Building and went north along the Horn Pond Brook past the new Park Dept. Building, Canal street, Sylvester avenue and Carter street to Lake avenue in Woburn, opposite Arlington road.

The town owns the land in question and has made an entrance at Lake street though that portion of the road has never been constructed. Further north from Canal street to a point 400 feet south the road has been paved, and from Sylvester avenue north to Carter street, though unpaved, the road is in use.

It is "T. Q.'s" belief that the construction of this old proposed road would be an advantage with a new junior high school in the well field. Such a road, more or less paralleling Main street, would pass within a couple of hundred feet or so of the school site.

We got our real estate tax bill this week! Of course we knew it would be higher with the new $59.60 rate, but it was still a shock when we opened the envelope and saw the new figures on the new bill made out in the new way on the new machines.

Our bill is exactly $29 more than it was last year. Two well informed members of our town government predicted this week a tax rate of $75 to $80 within ten years.

How does that prospect appeal to you? Have it in mind when you go down to town meeting next month. There are going to be some interesting proposals at this meeting, we understand. A well informed town official believes this special session will turn into a full scale town meeting that can well go more than a single evening.

There is no question that people are commencing to wonder about taxes, and more taxes, and more taxes, particularly with the school building program we face.

The final figures place the cost of renovating and remodeling our senior and junior high schools for their present use at $2,616,418.60. We are going to be asked, we are told, for $1,250,000 for a new junior high school at the special town meeting coming up. Now we have to have schools, of course, but the primary purpose of schools is to educate, and granted the sharp difference of opinion in what constitutes education today, the basic need in a school building is for class rooms. We never seem to have enough of them! Let's do something about this when we build our next school.

Last week Wednesday, August 20, Governor Furcolo signed the Old Colony bill, Chapter 541 of the Acts of 1958, which will guarantee rail transportation service for the commuters in Southeastern Massachusetts until next July at least.

The Governor also appointed five prominent citizens to serve on the Old Colony Area Transportation Commission which will negotiate an agreement with the New Haven Railroad to maintain commuter service. Unpaid, they are residents of the Old Colony area and will superintend for the State the performance of the contract with the railroad.

Under the contract Boston and the other 37 cities and towns in the area will pay the railroad a subsidy of $900,000, the first payment of which, $225,000, will be made October 1. Boston will contribute $225,000 to the railroad and the other 37 cities and towns in the area will pay $675,000.

Winchester commuters are wondering how soon it will be necessary to seek a subsidy for the Boston & Maine. Our once fine train service has dwindled year by year, with station closings and train stops discontinued until what we have now bears little resemblance to the old days when if you missed a train, there would be another in fifteen minutes.

You can not blame the railroads entirely for present day commuter conditions. They would, we imagine, still be glad to haul trains full of passengers to and from the North Station. The automobile decimated train traffic, so that those who do not drive cars to Boston have to pay for those who do, and unfortunately there has not been enough of them to prevent the railroads from operating in the red.

Recent legislation has removed some of the handicap under which the railroads have competed freightwise with other carriers, some of whom have been subsidized. Perhaps the direct subsidy is the answer to the railroads' passenger ills.

Those who contributed to the present plight of the railroads by driving their cars to the city, and who now no longer wish to do so because of the daily battle with traffic and the problem of parking, deserve little sympathy. It is the faithful commuter through the years, who now finds himself without direct access to his job through lack of railroad service for which we are sorry. He deserves a better shake than he is getting.

Last week's hearing in Boston made it abundantly plain that all those living around the Mystic Lakes are not heartily in favor of the Metropolitan District Commission's plans for improving the lake area.

Specifically residents of Medford living along the lower lake and Mystic River where it joins the lake are vehemently protesting the proposal to construct a motorboat launching area on a point of land jutting out into the water substantially at the confluence of the river and lake in West Medford. The Medford people have alerted their city government and representatives and presented some really formidable opposition to the Commission's plans at the recent hearing.

Protesting to the MDC about conditions at Mystic Lakes is old stuff to Winchester. It has been protesting, more or less in vain, ever since the days when the cove this side of Sandy Beach was filled in with the understanding that Bacon's Pond, or "Little Mystic," was to be dredged, deepened and generally improved. What was done then in the guise of improvement is an old story. Sufficient to say that much of the old beauty of "Little Mystic" went with the filling in of the cove and the resulting generally unkempt appearance of the m. de land since the job was done.

While it was being done lakeside dwellers couldn't sleep because of dredging machines working at night, and in recent years their nights and days have been made hideous by zooming motorboats and other carryings on even less pleasant. So Winchester has been protesting to the MDC about Mystic for some time.

The MDC has not been entirely deaf to the town's protests. The Mystic Lakes are neither town ponds nor great ponds, but because of supplying drinking water to Charlestown years ago fall in a special category that makes it impossible to take any action in connection with their restricted use except through the MDC.

As long ago as August in 1955 Captain Ward of the MDC held a public hearing on the motorboat nuisance at Mystic Lakes in the town hall with a goodly attendance of interested citizens who urged that something be done to curb the objectionable activities of motorboat enthusiasts. Since that time Winchester's Representative in the Great and General Court, Harrison Chadwick, has repeatedly filed legislation seeking the registration of motorboats and the improvement of the filled in area at Sandy Beach. This legislation failed of passage, largely because the MDC kept promising to do something about both problems.

The MDC has put officers into boats on the lakes to curb the speed and crazy maneuvering of the boats. This has of course bettered conditions, but has not stopped the late night and early morning motor boating nuisance, nor has it entirely eliminated the speeding and reckless driving of the boats.

The Star is told that one reason better results can not be secured is failure to legislate for the registration of motorboats. In this way it would be possible to revoke the registration of flagrant and repeated offenders where court action against them would be very doubtful of success.

Thus far all attempts to make the registration of motorboats compulsory has failed.

Aside from the motorboating angle there has been much complaint of the appearance of the lakes themselves and the lake shores, primarily because of excessive parking along grass plots beside the parkway and the indiscriminate disposal of refuse.

As a consequence the MDC secured the service of Prof. Charles Elliott of the Harvard School of Architecture to draw up a plan of improvement for the Mystic Lakes area from the iron bridge at Bacon's Pond to High street in Medford. The MDC admitted that the Parkway along the lakes was in poor condition and that the grounds had been generally seuffed up by unrestricted parking.

In February of 1957 Prof. Elliott showed his plans at a meeting attended by the Selectmen, Planning Board, Park Department and Rep. Chadwick. In broad terms those representing Winchester at the meeting felt that the plans were good and would make a big improvement over the conditions prevailing at that time.

Among the provisions of the plan was the construction of a parking lot on a part of the filled in area at Sandy Beach, the closing of that area to boat launching, the grading and landscaping the area and constructing a picnic area, a wading pool and softball diamond. At the protest of Mr. George Redding of the Selectmen Prof. Elliott agreed it would be better to change the softball diamond into an informal play area and this was decided upon. Prof. Elliott also agreed to the request to plant trees along the edge of the filled in area to hide the picnic parties and parked cars from the homes about the lake.

In place of the launching area now in use adjacent to Sandy Beach, Prof. Elliott proposed a launching area at the Tufts Boat Club near the dam between upper and lower Mystic Lakes. It was also proposed to make a parking lot out of the old gravel pit behind the Tufts boathouse. Limited in area, it was the thinking that such a parking lot would of necessity restrict users by its lack of space for their cars and trailers.

Prof. Elliott also felt that there should be another launching area below the dam at about the spot where the Mystic River joins the lower lake. The MDC has made a start on the Elliott Plan. They have put in the Sandy Beach parking area and have resurfaced the road from there to the new parking space at the Tufts Boat Club, though the actual parking space has not yet been constructed.

The Elliott Plan also calls for the construction along the lakes of suitable parking spaces and picnic areas with provisions for the disposal of refuse and other improvement. General parking and indiscriminate picnicking as it is known now was to be stopped.

The plan has been completed and is now in the MDC's hands with one of their engineers preparing the plan for bids. The plan had a hearing last spring, at which Winchester was represented by Rep. Chadwick, Chairman Dolan of the Selectmen, Mrs. Mahoney and Mr. Walter Redding. Arlington and Medford were also represented.

At that time the only objection voiced was that of a representative of the Medford Boat Club who feared that the new parking area might interfere with the free access of members to the club.

Since that time Medford has become aroused over the provision for the launching area at the junction of the lower lake with the Mystic River and at the hearing held last week voiced violent protest to this and the entire Elliott plan.

It is admitted that Medford has some problems in the wooded areas around the lake, such as drinking, necking and carousing. There has been drag-racing in their area and they now want conditions at the lake to remain as they are with Winchester retaining its present launching area.

Winchester is taking the attitude that it does not want to tell any one where the launching areas should be, that it does not want to foist on a neighboring community any thing in the nature of a public nuisance. It does feel that Bacon's Pond is not adaptable to motorboating, that the use of the old aqueduct for swimming poses a problem of very real danger with boats tearing through this narrow gut and that generally speaking the provisions of the Elliott Plan are good and should not be scrapped.

Rep. Chadwick has written the MDC to go ahead with the Elliott Plan. He believes Medford has every right to protest conditions as they reported them at the recent hearing, but feels that their problem is one of more police protection. It is Rep. Chadwick's opinion that the Elliott Plan is basically good and should be retained.

One factor that has perhaps worked against the too serious consideration of Winchester's motorboat protests has been the failure of those around the lake to show an united front in opposition. The same goes for Medford. Members of the Winchester Boat Club and Medford Boat Club have motorboats and several residents along the lake in Winchester and Arlington have, and use them.

The solution seems to be much more rigid control of the boats, many of which are operated by persons totally inexperienced in watermanship. As more of these motorboats come to be used on lakes as limited in size as Mystic there is bound to be a serious problem, not unattended by danger. It is Rep. Chadwick's opinion, which the Star supports, that the first step in the better control of motorboats is registration.

VICTIMS OF THEIR OWN PLOT

Editor of the Star:

Most citizens of this town are aware of conditions that exist on Sunset road. To refresh their memory, I refer to the private way at a point west of Grant road to east of Laurel Hill lane, adjoining the Rotondi property.

You will recall I inserted the layout of Sunset road in the Town Warrant, and the Selectmen after several years decided to place the matter before the town meeting. It was important, however, that abutters on this private way agree to have this way constructed. Signatures of abutters, Dattilo, Richburg, Penta and Rotondi were secured agreeing to have the road built, the lone dissenter being Farriey, a member of the Bund team.

Several days before the last town meeting the team organizer through misrepresentation, convinced the three abutters besides myself that if this road was put through, they would suffer to the end of time, for they believed that Rotondi would place some building on the property that would cause serious hardships.

Not one of these abutters approached me to find out if what they were told was true. The result was that I was double-crossed by three good young people who of course today are very sorry they listened to such propaganda. In order to have the neighbors realize how important Sunset road was to all of us I requested Mr. Richburg to block his road, which he did for several days. However the clamor was deafening and Mr. Richburg finally decided to let these several good neighbors pass.

You will recall the County Commissioners found that the Town acted unreasonably in not accepting this private way. What has the Town accomplished since? It was only natural that I should sit and wait, for it is a well established fact that righteousness will prevail.

For people to realize the importance of this private way, and how essential it is to the comfort and convenience of all neighbors in this community, one has only to put on his snowshoes and visit the area in a snowstorm. It is then that cries and howls are heard around the world.

Last winter the town bulldozer broke down, trucks and cars were bogged down, the reason of course being the condition of Laurel Hill lane, that reminds one of the ski slopes of New Hampshire.

Therefore it is with some regret that at times with sheer joy that shutter Richburg finally came to his senses last week and blocked off Sunset road completely.

I had absolutely nothing to do with this latest move by Mr. Richburg. Such a move seriously affects the welfare, security and progress of this neighborhood. In fact one of our tenants, Mrs. Sullivan, with a year and one-half old son can now be restricted from wheeling her baby to Washington street; it is also sad when it is known that she expects her second child.

However I have no sympathy for Mr. Richburg, who was one of the signers of the declaration of independence that we don't want a road, but if we get one, we want it constructed to Laurel Hill lane, so Messrs. Bund and Company can enjoy the same. Rotondi should be left out.

I understand that calls from the wild have been received by Richburg in regard to what the wolves will do when we are completely snowbound. Yes, dear citizens, victims of their own plot!

Apparently Mr. Richburg wants this road built, for without it he has no entrance to his garage. As a town meeting member for some past years, I feel that if he wants this road, why not organize

MRS. ROBERT M. ROMANCIER

ROMANCIER—ARMSTRONG

Miss Mary Lou Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Armstrong of 9 Winslow road, Stoneham, formerly of Winchester, was married at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church on Monday evening, August 25, to Robert Marshall Romancier of Franklin, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs.
John Romancier of Cushman. The Rev. Raymond N. Feeble of the Wesley Methodist Church in Amherst performed the candle light marriage ceremony at 7:30 o'clock, assisted by the pastor of the Crawford Church, the Rev. H. Newton Clay. The church was decorated with baskets of white gladiolus and snapdragons, and the soloist was Mrs. Raymond N. Feeble. A reception followed the ceremony in the church social hall.

Miss Armstrong was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white silk taffeta with point de Venice lace trimming the portrait neckline, short sleeves, and a fitted bodice. Her full skirt of unpressed pleats terminated in a chapel train, and her finger tip veil of silk illusion was caught to a matching halo. Her cascade bou-quet combined white carnations and stephanotis with ivy.

Miss Jane Topsfield of Amherst was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Williams of Natick, Miss Gail Stratton of Winchester and Miss Sharlene McConnell of Amherst.

All the bridal attendants wore princess style ballerina length dresses of opera green taffeta with scoop necklines, short sleeves and empire bodices having bow-back straps. They wore headbands of opera green leaves with circular veils and the honor maid carried a cascade bouquet of white and lavender asters with ivy. The bridesmaids bouquets combined ivy with white, yellow and lavender asters.

Mrs. Armstrong, mother of the bride, wore a Dior blue sheath of satin and crepe with matching hat and corsage of pink rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. B. Armstrong, wore a lace and crepe sheath of dusty rose with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses and stephanotis.

Arthur Niedeck of Amherst was best man for Mr. Romancier and ushering were Glenn Bennett, also of Amherst, John Romancier of Springfield, brother of the bridegroom, and John Becker of Winchester.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

By Charles Van Doren
Educational Consultant for NBC-TV and Columbia University instructor, who was a guest speaker at the launching of the 1958 Heart Fund drive in Massachusetts, ("Living With Your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

We live in an age of miracles. Sputniks fly about our heads, monstrous machines manipulate the tiniest particles of matter, and we dream of the existence of a hydrogen fire that will supply unlimited power to all mankind for a billion years. But not the least of modern miracles is the extraordinary progress that has been made in recent years in the understanding of the workings of the heart.

New drugs for high blood pressure have been discovered; major advances in heart surgery have been made; a "pacemaker" to restart arrested hearts has been discovered; rheumatic fever seems to be preventable through penicillin therapy; damaged arteries can, at least in some cases, now be replaced or rebored; techniques have been found for dissolving some blood clots by injections.

I dare say there are many more; I am no expert in heart research. But these are some of the recent discoveries of heart research in Massachusetts medical centers. It is all quite wonderful, all quite miraculous. And it is all based, more or less, on one fundamental assumption—a characteristic one for our time—the heart is a machine.

The human heart is also amazing for its reserve power. The work that the heart does during bodily rest is only a fraction of the work it can do. The heart of a human athlete during violent exercise can expel three times as much blood per minute as it does during bodily rest; the heart's oxygen consumption during such exercise is nearly equal to the oxygen usage of the entire body at rest.

There is something else about the heart besides its being a machine—a double muscular pump—which interests me. The heart is also a metaphor. The dictionary gives many meanings for "heart"; and though the first is, naturally enough, that the heart is a machine, the others are metaphorical. We start slowly staying close to the double pump—the heart is the bosom, the breast, the chest—where the heart is. But we leap quickly away: heart means any place or part like a heart, in that it is near the center; hearts of lettuce, for instance, or of cities—the latter adding a further meaning, vital, central, main.

That is all simple enough; but now we arrive at the heart of heart, its heart's core. Consider the heart as the seat or source of human emotions—the heartstring of them, perhaps. Heart means consciousness or conscience—the place of feeling, as opposed to the head (another wonderful machine), the place of thought.

Which leads to the last and greatest meaning of heart—it is the seat or source of individual emotions. And the heart is, finally, the seat of love. The greatest game is the game of heart.

But lest I seem ungrateful, I have one final thing to say. To all the distinguished physicians of my acquaintance I have a request to make: if something happens to my heart, please treat it as a machine, not as a metaphor.

See the Addiator, world's smallest adding machine at the Winchester Star. Perfect for adding checkbooks, budgets, expense accounts, tax work and even for scoring bridge, canasta and golf. Only $3.98.

ANOTHER MILESTONE IN STAR HISTORY

NEW COX-O-TYPE PRESS INSTALLED AND PUT IN USE

(All Shots by Star Photographer Bill Ryerson)

WELL, WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Left to right, Editor Jim Penalan and Publisher Dick Hakanson inspect paper from new press.

New Cox-O-Type Press Installed For Better Faster Service

One Thousand Parts

When unboxed it represented a thousand parts, large and small, to be assembled on the cement foundation prepared to receive the press in that section of the Star Building fronting on Park street and formerly occupied for many years by the Thrift Shop of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. Duca, a trained mechanic in his line, proved his dexterity and knowledge of his job by assembling the press in record time, allowing the Star to proceed without interruption.

The new press is driven by a specially designed variable speed motor which is controlled by push-button stations placed at convenient points around the press. Actual time required to manufacture this press, obtaining materials and shipment included, is approximately five months.

An expert in operating the press, Mr. Duca's last duty after assembling the parts was the instruction of Star Pressman John O'Leary in the operation of the press.

The Star hopes that with its new press and other modern equipment it can give its readers a much improved town newspaper. The days of the old flat-beds are past for publishers who need speed and added space to turn out a modern publication.

See The Press In Action

A cordial invitation is extended by the Star to all its readers and friends to visit its plant and watch its new press in operation. We are sure it is going to enable us to give the town a much improved newspaper.

A Star Recap

The Winchester Star observed its diamond jubilee in 1955, and in the more than 78 years of its existence as a newspaper it has been served by four presses, counting the new COX-O-TYPE just installed.

The Star goes back to 1880 and probably was published prior to that date, one source placing its inception in 1873. It was first published by Whittier Brothers, publishers of the Stoneham Independent, and in its original form differed only from the Independent in its name and front page, on which appeared Winchester news gathered by a Winchester correspondent.

For several years prior to 1889 Theodore P. Wilson was this Winchester correspondent, and in 1889 he bought the paper, moving it to Winchester. Mr. Wilson was born in Boston in 1851 of Scotch parentage and learned the printing business under his father in the composing room of the old Boston Evening Traveller.

After a thorough grounding in all phases of newspaper composition Mr. Wilson advanced to assistant foreman of the Traveller composing room before he left at the age of 38 to buy the Star.

From the first of his ownership he published the paper himself and operated a shop for job printing, and the experience he had at the Traveller proved invaluable to him in the formative years of his venture.

In 1876 Mr. Wilson married Ella K. Tupper of Cambridge, one of the first women newspaper reporters in Boston, and the assistance she brought the Star as a correspondent and proof reader can not be overestimated. She contributed to the columns of the paper regularly, and read proof until forced to retire because of poor health, some years after her husband's death.

The Star in its earliest days was a large paper, eight columns in width like the most recent editions. Usually of four pages, the Winchester news was carried on the inside and back pages while the front page was devoted to news of general interest and to fictional stories. Among the early day features of the paper was the publication each week of sheet music, a feature much appreciated by vocal and piano enthusiasts of the pre-radio and TV days.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had one son, Theodore P. Wilson, Jr., known throughout his lifetime as T. Price Wilson.

Born in Cambridge in 1879, he came to Winchester before he was a year old, living virtually all his life in the town he was to serve as editor of the Star for so many years.

After his graduation from Winchester High School in 1898, T. Price Wilson went to work at the Star and received from his father the same sort of introduction to newspaper publishing that Wilson the elder got under his father at the old Traveller.

There was no operation connected with the publication of the paper or job printing that Price Wilson could not and did not do, and his duties at the plant included sweeping up and the care of the fires. Those definitely were not the times of the eight-hour day and five-day week.

New Editor

Upon the death of his father in 1919 Price Wilson became editor and publisher of the Star, a post he filled with distinction until his own sudden death June 30, 1954. Known to many by his white cap that he wore in all weathers and his well-smoked briar-root pipe, Mr. Wilson continued the successful conduct of the Star plant, guiding the Star through a major depression and a world war.

Shortly before Mr. Wilson's death the Star incorporated, with Mr. Wilson as president, editor and publisher. After his death he was succeeded as president and publisher by his son-in-law, Richard A. Hakanson, who had been for several years foreman of the pressroom. Mr. Wilson's wife, Frances Gram Wilson, was elected vice president and the other corporation officers, Dorothy M. Lord, treasurer, and James H. Penalan, clerk, remained the same.

Mr. Penalan succeeded Mr. Wilson as editor. Born in West Somerville in 1895, he came to Winchester in 1899 and was graduated from Winchester High School and Tufts College. After reporting for the Boston Globe, he joined the Star as a reporter and cartoonist in 1923, following part time work with the business dating back to 1912.

Early Days of the Star

The Star was first published in Winchester on the top floor of the old Miller Block, now owned by Joseph M. Donahue and housing his Central Hardware Company. From there it moved to an old eight-sided building that had been a school and stood on a small hill at the site of Christie McDonald's Bake Shop. At both these locations the paper was printed on an old hand-turned press, many of the strong armed men about the center turning the press from time to time.

When the late George Fernald remodelled the building in the late 90s the senior Mr. Wilson moved the Star across the then Pleasant street (now Mt. Vernon) to Lyceum Building, the business office being located in the store now occupied by the Winchester Edison Shop.

The composing room and printing office were located on the second floor of the building and a new power press was installed in the basement, the page forms being lowered to the press through specially constructed chutes.

It was when the Star moved to Lyceum Building that Mr. Wilson added the stationer's store that has been a part of the business ever since.

Star Builds A Home

In 1914 Mr. Wilson acquired the property on which stood the late George E. Morrill's grocery store, and there erected the present home of the Star at 3 Church street.

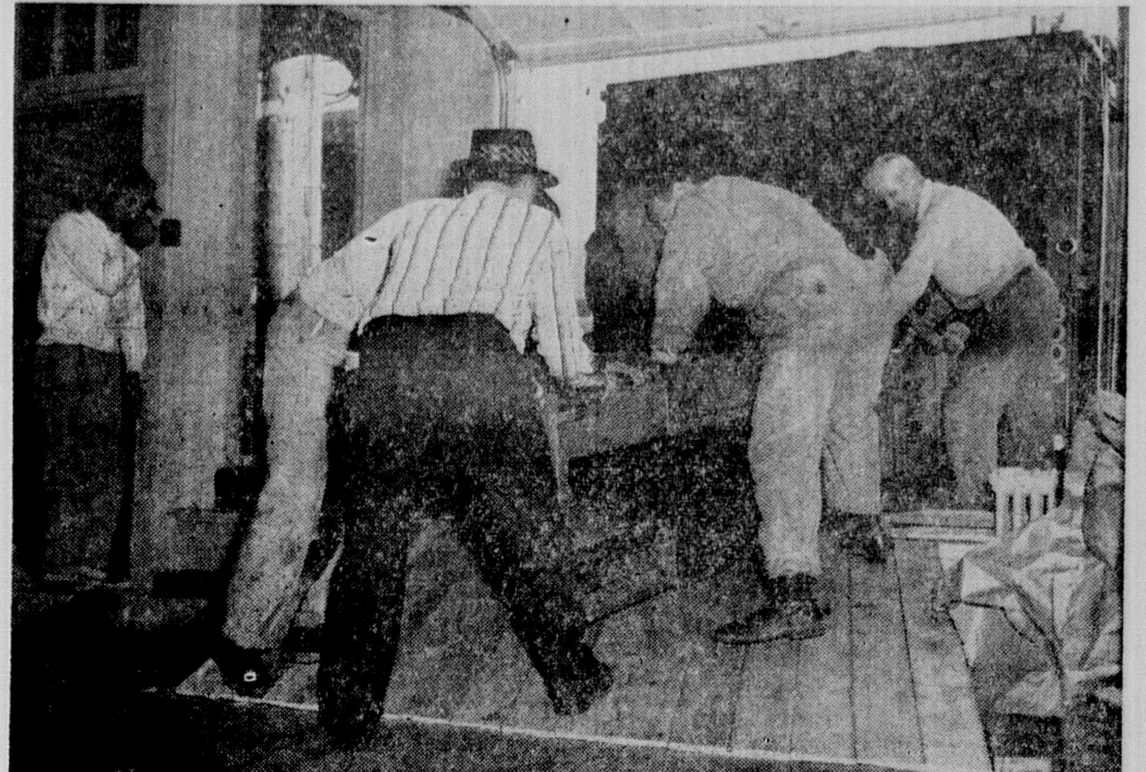

Of mill construction and completely sprinklered, the building, when opened, housed in addition to the Star press-room, office and store, other offices, a large store then occupied by Hersey Hardware and a bowling alley that later became a shooting range for the police department and auxiliary police.

In 1943 the Star acquired the big flat-bed Miehle press on which its paper has been printed until now. For many years the paper was six columns wide but in June 1952 the page size was enlarged to eight columns in an effort to gain space to accommodate the increased demands for news coverage and advertisements.

New Equipment Added

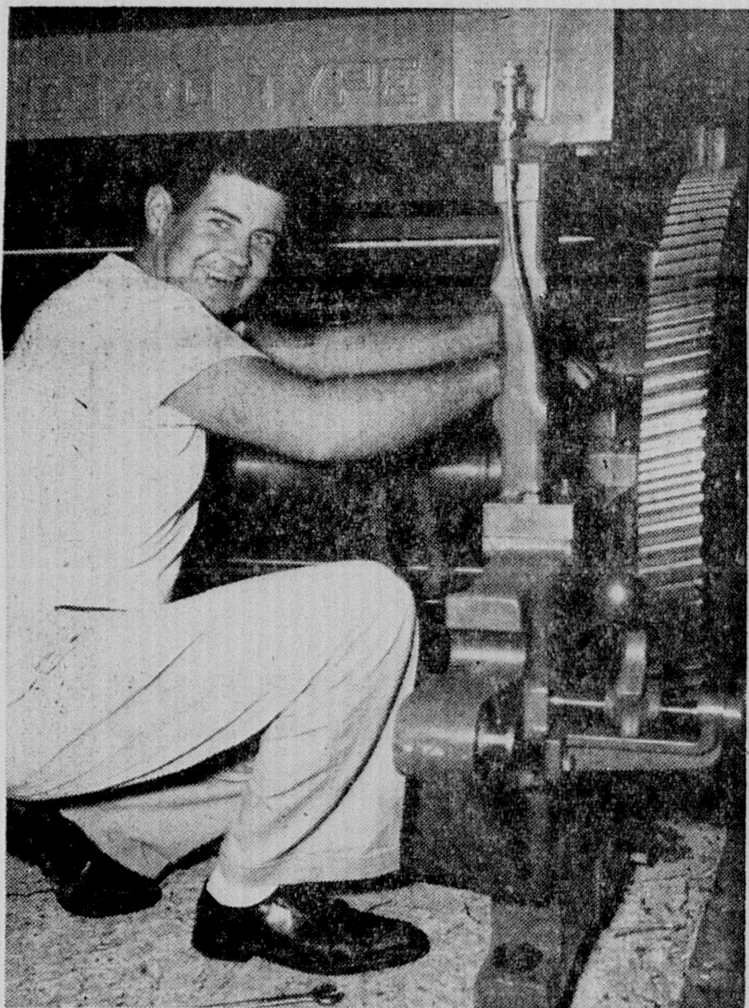

In recent years the Star has modernized much of its equipment, adding new linotypes, a Ludlow elcrod, router, saw and a big new steel-page caster. With the addition of the fine new press it is the Star's hope that its publication will reflect its sincere effort to give Winchester a better newspaper.

The policy of the paper will remain the same as when it was acquired by Mr. Wilson, senior, in 1889. "Winchester news for Winchester people" has been the Star's workday gospel and it will continue to guide its efforts. The paper has grown and changed inevitably with the times, but it still is at heart, and will continue to be primarily a hometown paper.

DR. JOHN A. WALLACE CABIN AT WINNING FARM

This cabin was constructed and presented to Winning Farm by Winchester Rotary as a Memorial to its late member, Dr. John A. Wallace. It is one of many improvements made by the Rotary at the Farm, which is a charitable and recreational spot for needy Boston children.

W. ALLAN WILDE ROOM AT WINNING FARM

This room, constructed and presented to Winning Farm by Winchester Rotary as a Memorial to its late member, W. Allan Wilde, is in the main farm building, adjacent to the dining room. It will be used as a living room and for recreational purposes.

New Facilities at Winning Farm

Rotary Names Cabin And Room For Deceased Members

Every one at all familiar with Winning Farm knows the great interest the Winchester Rotary has taken in this summer home for needy Boston girls, and the club's many additions and improvements to the farm property.

Once each year the Rotary holds a luncheon meeting at the Farm, and this year's recent meeting was doubly significant since it marked the dedication of the club's latest gifts to the Farm, the Dr. John R. Wallace memorial cabin and the W. Allan Wilde memorial room. Both men memorialized were active members of Winchester Rotary and particularly interested in the club's assistance to Winning Farm.

The club president, Dr. Richard W. Sheehy, presided at the brief business meeting that followed the usual delicious luncheon prepared by the Farm kitchen, and served the Rotarians by the girls at the Farm. In the absence of a clergyman the invocation was made by Rotary Past President Alfred D. Elliott.

Dr. Sheehy called upon the President of Winning Farm, Nicholas H. Fitzgerald, also a member of Winchester Rotary, to conduct the simple, but effective dedication ceremony. During the meeting the Camp Director, Miss Madeline White, was given a purse by Dr. Sheehy on behalf of those present, which she assured the Rotarians was greatly appreciated and would be used for some improvement of the camp facilities.

After the meeting and dedication the Rotarians and their guests were conducted on a tour of the camp and inspection of the most recent improvements there.

Guests included Rep. Harrison Chadwick of the 29th Middlesex District, James H. Coon, chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners; Anthony Puzo, John Collins and Howard Nichols, Winchester men who have assisted the Rotary Club with its improvement projects at the Farm; Robert Jones, electrician, and Robert Black, vice president, Woburn-men who have aided the projects; Albert J. Wall, Woburn Superintendent of Public Works, also a vice president, and William F. Sullivan, representing the Woburn Daily Times.

Through the years the Winchester Rotary has constructed four cabins at the Farm, all as memorials to deceased Rotarians. They are the T. Price Wilson, George T. Davidson and William H. Hevey cabins, and now the Dr. John R. Wallace cabin.

In addition there has been constructed a separate cabin with toilets and lavatories in the camp cabin area. The Rotarians have also constructed a laundry on the ground level in the breezeway between the barn and the main farm building equipped with every modern facility. The remodelled kitchen, also the gift of the Rotary.

known as "Winning Home" for the purpose of administering the trust created in the Winning will. At the first meeting of the corporation John W. Johnson was elected president, Howard M. Munroe was elected vice president and Daniel W. Pratt, treasurer. Members of the Johnson and Munroe families have been identified with the Home throughout its existence.

Up until 1949 the camp accommodated both boys and girls but a change in that policy was brought about on the suggestion of Judge John J. Connolly of the Boston Juvenile Court, a member of the Winning Home Corporation who thought that the girls benefited more than the boys.

Miss Madeline White of the South End House in Boston is Camp Director. Miss White supervises all the things at the camp daily throughout the nine week summer program.

Mr. William Roche is the caretaker of the property and also assists in the conduct of the camp.

The camp is conducted in cooperation with the South End House of Boston, and has been for the past 5 years. Thus far it has been conducted only during the summer months. However, serious consideration is being given to installing a central heating plant that would make the camp an all-year round project.

In this way it is believed it will be possible for local youngsters to get the benefit of the camp.

As Thomas J. Turley, Chairman of the Youth Service Board at one time said: "Instead of merely talking about curbing Juvenile Delinquency, the Winchester Rotary Club has taken affirmative action to help prevent juvenile delinquency before it occurs. The Winchester Rotarians are to be complimented for their splendid community service. Places like the Winning Home Farm Camp for Girls deserve all the support that the public can give them."

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting: President Nicholas H. Fitzgerald of Winchester; First Vice President John J. Black of Woburn; Second Vice President Albert J. Wall of Woburn; Treasurer George L. Billman of Winchester; and Clerk Kendall L. Johnson of Woburn.

DON'T FORGET TRAFFIC INJURIES!

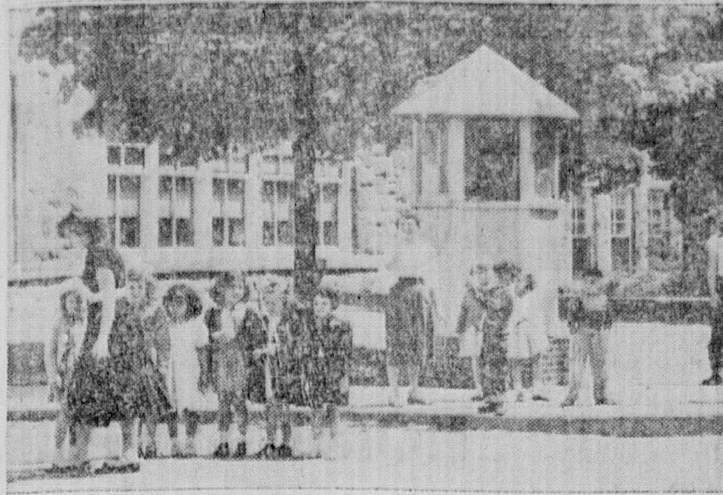

"With all the emphasis that has been placed on traffic deaths as predicted for the Labor Day week-end ahead," according to Police Chief Charles J. Harrold of Winchester, "most folks just haven't given proper consideration to the appalling toll of the injured."

"Records of the Massachusetts Safety Council," said Chief Harrold, "indicate that nearly 500 men, women and children in Massachusetts alone will be badly hurt in traffic accidents during the coming three-day holiday. And the dollar loss in these accidents will run into the millions."

Four principal causes of Labor Day weekend traffic accidents were cited by Chief Harrold: Driving too fast for road conditions; drinking, careless driving at the start of the holiday, and lack of proper attention during evening hours. "Most accidents," the Chief added, "involve only one vehicle and the victims are usually the drivers."

MASTER'S DEGREE TO MURPHY

Among those receiving degrees at Boston University's summer commencement, August 23, was Francis X. Murphy of Hartford, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Murphy of 67 Church street, Mr. Murphy received a Master's degree in Education. He also holds a B. S. degree in Education from Gorham (Maine) State Teachers College. He is a member of the Wethersfield, Conn., junior high school faculty.

FIRST DAY AT SCHOOL

Each year the opening of school poses new problems for thousands of mothers and fathers, school and public officials, teachers and auto drivers.

All of the kindergarten and first graders must be taught to get from home to school and back home again safely. It's their first school experience and all of the dangers should be pointed out to them as well as the best and correct way to cross streets, to stay on the sidewalk, not to run out into the road, safe way to get on and off the school bus. Most of this big task is in the hands of the mothers.

The older children must be reminded that they are back at school and cannot enjoy the freedom they have had all summer but must again observe the good travel rules of the Junior Safety Patrol.

National Child Safety Week brings to our attention the need of active cooperation of the P.T.A. and all groups interested in making our highways safe for our children by greater publicity and more drastic law enforcement.

We would have no problem if each and every autoist would be courteous, considerate and careful, especially in school zones, at crosswalks and any place where children are likely to be.

LOOK OUT FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

His Excellency Governor Foster Furcolo and Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley today urged Massachusetts citizens to be constantly alert to traffic hazards in regard to children.

"More than one million boys and girls will travel to and from classrooms with the opening of schools immediately after the Labor Day holiday week-end. This year, about 175,000 'tiny-tots' will, for the first time, leave the protection of home and parents and be exposed to the hazards of streets and highways."

"School authorities, safety officers, traffic police, and Registry Inspectors will work diligently to prevent child accidents. Vehicle drivers and pedestrians are expected to contribute their share."

"While motorists bear the brunt of responsibility toward children when in or around school areas, the duty of parents and guardians of children of all ages is equally clear and equally demanding. Supervision is a must. No child should be left to his own devices without the first being properly instructed in safety and safe walking procedures," said Governor Furcolo and Registrar Riley.

"We must have the complete cooperation and support of everyone if we are to be successful. Remember, the child you save may be your own."

KEEP PETS AT HOME

As the fall term approaches and schools reopen, Dr. Eric H. Hansen, president of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, Longwood avenue, Boston, again strongly appeals to all dog owners to keep their pets away from school grounds. The Society picks up an average of 50 dogs a month from property surrounding schools.

"The danger of dog bites can be eliminated by keeping your pets at home when children leave for school," states Dr. Hansen. "Protect a child and keep your dog out of trouble," he urges.

ANTIBIOTICS AND THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Since 1952 doctors have written more prescriptions for antibiotics than for any other category of ethical drugs, according to the Health News Institute of New York. Whereas these products represented an estimated 1.5 per cent of all prescriptions written in 1948, they accounted for one of every eight prescriptions in 1955.

These facts are brought out in the economic report of antibiotic manufacture recently released by the Federal Trade Commission. The report traces the development of an industry which did not exist in 1941, but whose net sales reached $344 million ten years later. Output of antibiotics doubled from 1951 to 1955, although lower prices for some products and in new markets kept dollar sales below the 1951 peak.

The history of the antibiotic industry, the FTC's report shows, has been one of expansion at home and abroad to meet rapidly increasing demand, and heavy reliance on laboratory research for new products and product improvements.

According to the Health News Institute the Commission's report outlines how antibiotics have made their contribution to public health both in treating infections and contagious diseases of bacterial origin and in preventing complications that may follow illnesses (such as colds, influenza, measles, and other viral infections) which themselves are unresponsive to antibiotic therapy.

The importance of antibiotics among the factors at work in reducing disease and death rates is illustrated by the declining number of reported cases in the United States of the group of illnesses whose bacteria can be controlled by their use. There were approximately 1.2 million such cases in both 1946 and 1947. The number dropped to one million in 1948. Beginning in 1951 there were less than 800,000 in each year. Antibiotics have unquestionably contributed to sharp reductions in the death rates from such important causes of death as tuberculosis and venereal diseases.

Antibiotics have proved particularly effective in saving the lives of children and young persons. The sheer economic value of these lives, measured by future productivity, is substantial.

A decline of several days in the average time spent by patients in hospitals is due in part to the use of antibiotics, the report notes, although it is also due to other factors such as changed medical practice.

Yet the manufacture of antibiotics is not, in fact, a separate industry, the HNI said. It is part of the ethical drug segment of the pharmaceutical industry. Sales of antibiotics from domestic production were about 40 per cent of the consolidated 1956 sales of one manufacturer, but 20 per cent or less for eleven others.

LOCAL UNIT TO VIE FOR DRUM CORPS TITLE

The Immaculate Conception Queens Cadettes will be seeking one of four divisional titles in the Championships Finals of the Eastern Massachusetts Jr. Drum and Bugle Corps Association at Legion Field, Weymouth, September 21.

The local corps will field a strong unit in its quest for top class honors, matching its marching and maneuvering skill against units from various sections of the state. The Queens Cadettes are reported razor-sharp for this contest following extensive rehearsals.

Known as "Drumorama," this championship event will crown three drum corps divisional titleholders and a leader in the Drill Team ranks. Comprised of more than 35 units, the Eastern Massachusetts Junior Drum and Bugle Corps Association will provide viewers with the longest show in its history. It is expected that nearly nine hours will be required to allow each participating entry its prescribed time for its routine including straight marching and the more difficult but colorful marching and maneuvering.

WIN B.U. DEGREES

Winchester residents were among the 888 students who received degrees at Boston University's annual Summer Commencement exercises at Symphony Hall, Boston, on Saturday, August 23. Dr. Harold C. Case, president of Boston University, delivered the principal address at the ceremonies, entitled "Galaxies in Profits."

The exercises marked the close of the University's 1958 Summer Session, which offered more than 300 courses on both graduate and undergraduate levels.

Included among Winchester graduates were: Dominick Anthony Marabelli of 20 Florence street, Master of Education from the School of Education; Alfred Russell Mearns of 48 Winthrop street, Master of Education from the School of Education; Joseph Lee Mullen of 846 Main street, Bachelor of Arts from the College of Liberal Arts; Patricia Leslie Stevens of 6 York road, Associate in Arts from the Junior College; and Mary Patricia Walsh of 188 Mystic Valley Parkway, Bachelor of Science from the School of Education.

WINCHESTER HOME BUILDING KEEPS STEADY PACE IN '57

(By Ralph W. Hatch, Treasurer, Winchester Savings Bank.)

In July, home building in Winchester showed an improvement over the same month a year ago with $165,000 against $157,000 in July 1957. This is the third month to post a gain in the seven-month period and it brought the seven-month total to $1,252,500 against $1,175,500 at this time last year. Additions, alterations and repairs amounted to $26,225 compared with $24,825 a year ago in July with a seven-month total of $193,950 against $209,650 through July 1957. Real estate deed transfers came to 91 in July 1958 compared with 55 for the period a year ago with the seven month totals 367 against 291 a year ago. For purposes of comparison, home building to date is ahead in such points as Malden, Woburn, Wilmington, Haverhill and Gloucester, and behind in Newton, Wellesley, Needham, Burlington, Lawrence, Andover and Beverly.

Home Building at Year's High
The month of July, nationally, saw the highest total of home building in over 2½ years. Private housing starts reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1,160,000, the largest volume since January 1956. Construction began on 107,300 private dwelling units in July 1958 according to the Labor Department. This compares with 104,500 in June 1958 and 93,900 in July 1957.

DRASTIC TRAFFIC ENFORCEMENT HOLIDAY WEEK-END

His Excellency, Governor Foster Furcolo, Honorary Chairman, Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee and Registrar Clement A. Riley, Chairman, today alerted the motoring public that all enforcement officials will work as a team in a drastic traffic enforcement program to reduce highway accidents and save lives this Labor Day week-end.

Last year we had eleven (11) traffic fatalities during the 72 hour period from 6 p. m. Friday through midnight on Labor Day. More than 6,000 State, Metropolitan District Commission, and Community Police will work with Registry Inspectors to remove from our highways unreasonable drivers in an attempt to reduce this tragic death toll.

Governor Furcolo and Registrar Riley have declared a "No Fix" policy. Drinking drivers will be locked up. They will lose their licenses. Speeders and all flagrant violators of traffic rules and regulations will lose their driving privileges.

Police officials are giving up their holiday to make the highways safe for you. Registrar Riley says, "It is your life that we are trying to save!"

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With Your Heart" is a public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

Will it ever be possible to "turn back the clock" in aging lungs?

A study is under way at Beth Israel Hospital, Boston, under Heart Fund sponsorship in which medications affecting the blood vessels, muscles, air tubes and heart will be used to discover whether any of them can slow down—perhaps even reverse—the normal aging process in the human lung.

Dr. Myron Stein's research, still in its early stages, has produced two findings to date:

With Dr. Herbert Ravin, he has devised a promising technique to measure carbon dioxide in the lungs, through the use of a plastic chamber fitted with valves and a manometer (an apparatus to measure the pressure or tension of gases). The ingenious chamber is designed to accomplish in rapid, repeatable bedside operation a vital medical chore which up to now has been time-consuming and often expensive.

It has also been found that in persons with overactive thyroid glands, there is tremendous blood flow through the lungs, which meanwhile lose their normal elasticity and become stiff and difficult to move. After recovery, they return to the normal state.

One object of the project is to learn how the muscles of the chest and lungs work together, and to study the pressures necessary to expand the lung and how they change with age.

Still another facet of this research is the traditional shortness of breath which can accompany aging. The respiratory muscles may use more oxygen to do their tasks as a person grows older; and this may interfere with normal function of other organs, including the heart.

Research of this nature brings home to us the vital interrelation of our heart with the body's other organs, and the necessity for broad range studies which may benefit not only the miraculous muscle in our chests but other phases of our medical well-being as well.

Research, a famed expert has said, is like a witness who will tell the truth, but not the whole truth. The secrets still to be learned behind the diseases of the heart and circulation lead medical scientists in many directions as they work to bring us longer life and better health.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAM FOR WINCHESTER FIRE LIEUT.

The Massachusetts civil service examination for promotion to fire lieutenant at the Winchester fire department will be held on November 1. Salary for this post runs from $4,676 to $5,178 a year.

Application blanks may be obtained from the selectmen's office or the fire station and when completed should be sent to the Division of Civil Service, Room 148, State House, Boston. Applications must be on file not later than Tuesday, October 14.

This examination is open to the permanent firefighters in the Winchester fire department who have been employed in this grade, after certification, for at least one year prior to the date of the examination.

One who is far away is never alone if loved ones remember to keep in touch. A phone call costs so little, brings so much cheer.

You can call coast-to-coast for $2.00 or less for the first 3 minutes — station-to-station, nights and Sundays, excluding federal excise tax.

Winchester Boys Left Sunday

Bellino And Dattilo Report For Navy Football

Joe Bellino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michelle Bellino of Swanton street, and Frank Dattilo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dattilo of Park road, left town Sunday to return to the Naval Academy at Annapolis where on Monday they reported for the first pre-season practice of the Navy varsity football team. Both boys participated in spring practice at the Academy, Joe on a somewhat limited basis, and both saw enough to realize that they will be playing in a big league this fall.

Bellino, much the more publicized of the two boys, is a halfback touted by coaches, press and fans as one of the best Navy prospects in years. One veteran New York sports writer, has already predicted All American honors for him, in advance of the college season, and Washington sports writers have been almost equally enthusiastic.

Joe has taken all these raves very much in stride. He hasn't liked a lot of them! He is frank to say that he will be satisfied to "play some ball" with the Navy varsity this year, and is quick to admit that it is a long step from prep-school and plebe football to the Navy first team.

Expects Third Team Berth
He figures he will be starting with the third team at Navy, even though the Middies lost a lot of backfield strength by graduation. His own version of the raves over his spring practice showing is that he did go very well against the second and third lines, but found the first team line a whole lot harder to run against.

Joe isn't trying to establish an alibi. He expects to play some varsity ball this season, but he isn't kidding himself about the competition. It is going to be keen.

Won Sprint Title
When he returned home from his Navy cruise this summer Bellino weighed 188 pounds, his heaviest weight yet. He was by no means slowed down to a walk by the extra poundage for he ran 100 yards in 9.9s to win the sprint championship of Portugal during his cruise. He was also caught in 10.9s for the 100 meters, which is real good going, even for one specializing in track.

While at home this summer Joe has played some baseball in New Hampshire with the Hebron-Groton team, and has played a lot of softball with the Sons of Italy in the Park League. He also worked a while for Mirak Chevrolet, where Lew Warsky is and has always been one of his greatest boosters.

As the result of this activity Joe has pared off three pounds and will report for football at Annapolis weighing about 185. He figures his best playing weight to be about 180 or 181.

Fine Baseball Prospect
Joe played baseball for the Navy plebes last spring, and in spite of missing the first four games because of spring football, he batted .330 and drove out seven home runs, three in one game.

There have been fantastic stories about offers Joe has had to play big league ball, and there is no doubt he is an excellent prospect, being a fine catcher, who can hit and who has these rarest of all catching attributes, excessive speed and agility.

Joe doesn't say much about the possibility of playing big league baseball but those close to him seem to think he will complete his course at Annapolis.

Dattilo Putting on Weight
His buddy and team mate at Winchester High, Columbian Prep and on the Navy Plebes, Frank Dattilo, has been taking it easy while at home after his Navy cruise. Frank played Lacrosse last spring at Navy and the violent exercise in the broiling Maryland sun pared his weight down to a sub-175. He put on five pounds on the cruise, and the old home cooking added another ten during his vacation.

He will report to Coach Eddie Erdelatz weighing about 190 with about five pounds to lose to get down to his best playing weight, 185. Frank is optimistic about his chances to play some varsity ball this year, though he also admits Navy football is a big step up from any he has played.

End Competition Tough

He has some real tough competition since there are three letter ends back from last year's team, two seniors and a junior. On his left end side of the line there is a junior letter man available and two juniors who played last year. Frank is on the small size for an end in big time college football, but he is very smart, has good speed, is a good defensive end and can catch passes well.

Both Frank and Joe will have the whole-hearted best wishes of every sports follower in town in their effort to make the Navy team. One thing is for sure, there will be no finer boys or better sportsmen on the squad.

BARNARD NEW POSTAL FOREMAN

Alfred W. Barnard of 52 Middlesex street has been appointed foreman at the Winchester Postoffice, filling the vacancy caused by the promotion of Carl E. Morse to superintendent of mails. His appointment became effective August 23.

Mr. Barnard entered the postal service here in 1941 as a substitute carrier. He was appointed a regular clerk in 1946 and had since served in that capacity, being well known and popular with patrons of the postoffice generally.

In recent years he has been prominent in fraternal circles and is past exalted ruler of Winchester Lodge of Elks and past grand knight of Winchester Council, Knights of Columbus.

He and Mrs. Barnard have six daughters, Mrs. Philip Dresser, Mrs. William MacDonald, and the Misses Judith, Joyce, Jayne and Jill Barnard, all of Winchester.

MARCHING ALONG!

Children in parade celebrating Feast of the Assumption march along Washington street at Winchester Arms.

BIKE HINTS

The following suggestions from The Medical Foundation are as applicable to adult bicycle riders as they are to youngsters. If possible, avoid heavy traffic, and obey all signs and rules. Ride on the right hand side of the road. Use signals. Walk your bicycle when crossing busy streets. Ride carefully, yield the right of way, always ride single file, and park off the road.

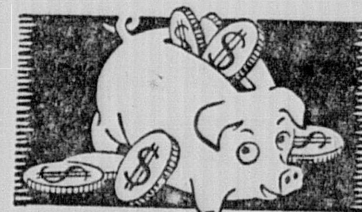

When riding at night, use a headlight and rear reflector and wear light colored clothes.

Three "Don'ts": Don't ride in bad weather; don't indulge in "trick" riding, and don't take on passengers.

Be sure your brakes are good. Use a rack or basket for parcels, and have a horn or bell attached to your bicycle. Keep running parts greased, nuts and screws tight, tires well filled and your bicycle clean.

CAR SKIDS ON TURN COLLIDES WITH TREE

A car carrying two women skidded while making a turn on Brookside avenue early Monday morning and smashed into a tree. The accident took place at 1:40 a. m. in front of the home of George Murphy at 55 Brookside avenue.

Mrs. Geraldine C. Cox of 4 Hillside street, Stoneham was the driver of the 1953 Ford convertible and was headed east on Brookside avenue when she skidded while making a left turn around a sharp curve and hit the tree. Mrs. Catherine Winn of 22 Water street, Woburn, was a passenger in the car.

Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Winn were taken to the Winchester Hospital by Police Officers Mario Buzzotta and John Farrell. Mrs. Cox was given first aid by the night supervisor for scalp lacerations, a bump on the forehead and a cut on her right knee. Mrs. Winn was treated by Dr. Paul Kelleher for a laceration over the right eye.

PARKED CAR LOOTED

Maurice Le Blanc of 39 Maple road, Woburn reported to the police that 4 hub caps and two fender skirts were stolen from his car while it was parked in the Winchester Theater parking lot. The car was in the lot Friday evening between 8:15 and 11:10 p. m.

Mr. Le Blanc said that the fender skirts were brown and were from his 1952 Chevrolet sedan. The hub caps were of the spinner type.

Football Men Start Work

High School Grid Hopefuls Condition Themselves On Manchester Field

Though regulations of the Head Masters Association forbid actual practice prior to September, many of the boys who will be candidates for the 1958 football team at Winchester High School have been busy for the past two weeks on Manchester Field gradually conditioning themselves for the hard practice sessions to come.

Each year Head Coach Henry Knowlton sends out a letter to all known candidates for football honors, suggesting that they start conditioning exercises well in advance of school opening so that they will have the kinks pretty much out of their muscles before strenuous practice gets under way.

Coach Knowlton lays out a conditioning regimen for the players, and the plan has worked to advantage, many of the boys reporting ready for hard work because of the running and calisthenics they have had in advance of the actual season.

It is a bit soon yet to prognosticate on the coming season. Coach Knowlton, an incurable optimist, believes he will have a pretty fair team. Certainly there looks to be quite a lot of size among the boys who have been working out while waiting the start of the season.

Winchester won seven of nine games last year, finishing second to Wakefield in the Middlesex League, the championship being decided by the game between these two schools, won by Wakefield, 6-0.

The Indians' other loss was to Woburn, 27-13, and in this game Winchester was simply outclassed by a much better team, all around, though the locals threw a bad scare into the Orange with a passing attack from a spread that tallied two touchdowns in the waning minutes and might have had another if the ball had been thrown to Doug Thomson, all alone in the clear within easy scoring distance. All this is water over the dam, and Winchester fans are now looking forward to the coming season. What are the prospects. Reasonably good we would say, but only time can tell how these prospects materialize.

Of those playing against Woburn, Winchester lost by graduation Morton, ends Serratore and Macdonald, tackles; Wakefield, Needham and Erl, guards; Stavridis and Watson, centers; and Flaherty, Paonessa, Bartlett, Longworth, Peckham and Stark-weather, backs.

Stavridis and Serratore leave the biggest holes to fill on the line, but generally speaking last year's line was weak and should not be too hard to replace.

Behind the line, Flaherty and Paonessa were good two-way players with Bartlett very effective on defense. Longworth did practically all the quarterbacking and was a courageous player, who was however too short to be an effective passer. Opponents were able to defend much more effectively against good running backs like

Thomson and Paonessa because they didn't have to worry too much about passes.

Winchester has seven lettermen back this fall, headed by Captain Houghton, '60; Dan Vespucci, '59; Chris Stavridis, '60; and Paul White, '60; linemen: and John Horn, '60; Roger DeMinico, '60; and John Hosmer, '60; ends: Among the more promising sophomore candidates are Eric Bradlee, John and Peter Clifford, Wayne Gherardini and Gerry Sarano, guards; Mike Brink and John Reardon, ends; and John Flaherty, Jim McDonald, Paul Mulloy and George Neville, backs.

On the line, Pete Graham, a guard with a nose for the ball; Pete Morgan and Fran Murphy, ends; and Bob Peluso, center, won letters last year as juniors and should be better this season. Sophomore lettermen returning are Brian Culien and Richie Winn, guards.

With this nucleus of letter players Winchester should field a good club this year, allowing for normal development and for the arrival of several second stringers at varsity status.

Coach Knowlton has sent out 92 letters to known candidates, and by school opening there will probably be a squad of more than 100 working out regularly.

Among the more promising candidates returning this year are Harold Bosselman, '59; Tony Bruno, '59; John Curtis, '59; Don McGee, '59; Jim Migliaccio, '59; Tony

CAMP NOKOMIS CHATTER

Camp Nokomis on Bear Island in New Hampshire's Lake Winnepesaukee has just concluded another successful season. A large number of Winchester girls were registered for each camping period and the record they made was outstanding.

Five Winchester girls, Carol Kingston, Janie Rich, Sue Martensen, Gail Hegarty, and Nancy Colony, were elected to the Camp Council by their cabin mates. That select group aids the staff in planning the final banquet and other activities.

Other Winchester girls were honored at campfires during the season. Singled out for their enthusiasm were the following: Debbie Gay and Carol Kingston. Cited for outstanding cooperation were Janet Herrmann and Lynne Goodwin. The highlight of the campfire ceremony is the crowning of a Princess for the preceding week. That girl, selected by the staff, represents the outstanding camper of the week, one who was thoughtful, cooperative, and enthusiastic. Four Winchester girls earned this award: Sue Ellen Chase, Alice Dunn, Marilyn Hall, and Cindy Stewart.

The busy camp season featured opportunities for developing skills in many activities such as archery, riflery, sailing, tennis, ceramics, water skiing, and swimming. The canoeing program culminated in a three day trip down the Connecticut River for specially qualified seniors. Sue Ellen Chase, Sally Clark, Shirley Bingham, and Janie Rich were on this trip. Kitten Eldred, formerly of Winchester and now of Talladega, Alabama, also participated.

The climax of the tennis season was reached when the three tournaments reached the finals. In the junior tournament, Debbie Gay became the champion after a close match with Gail Hegarty. Ros Webster of Concord defeated Gail Towner of Winchester in the senior tournament. In the doubles tournament Lynne Goodwin and Paula Collins played brilliant tennis to defeat Shirley Bingham of Winchester and Betsy Webster of Dedham.

Outstanding shots in riflery were Sue Martensen and Gail Towner who earned their Sharpshooter qualification in accordance with National Rifle Association requirements.

ST. MARY'S C.Y.O. IN GOLF TOURNEY

Golfers are gamblers. So here's a fair warning. These days never underestimate the par of this three-some: Kevin Kelley, Hank Kiley, and Paul Myron. These boys have been sharpening their game to represent St. Mary's in the 17th annual C.Y.O. Open Golf Championship at Ponkapog Golf Course in Canton from Tuesday, September 2, through Friday, September 5. Let's hope that they are at their best and that the nearest they get to a hole-in-one is not 6. For golf can be a funny game even though it isn't meant to be. One day you might get a hole-in-one and the next day you need a caddy for the north, south, east, and west.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

TURNABOUT FLEET

The National Senior Turnabout Championship Crown goes to Winchester's Ted Shidler.

Last Saturday and Sunday the Winchester Boat Club hosted the National Turnabout Association Senior Championship Regatta. Eighteen boats participated, including ten local skippers. Our Winchester skippers did themselves proud by placing in five of the first ten places in the two-day regatta, including the new champion, Ted Shidler and runner-up Warren Dannenberg.

The regatta started with a tune-up race Saturday morning to acquaint the visiting skippers with the lake and marks. Chowder was enjoyed by participants and guests at noon, followed by two races in the afternoon, in which the local skippers swept four of the six places. A buffet dinner prepared by the Broders was enjoyed Saturday evening and was followed with musical selections on the harp by Mrs. Robert Anderson and a most enjoyable and humorous demonstration of the art of stage make-up presented by Paul and Madeline Planchett of the Medford Boat Club.

The final race of the regatta was sailed under excellent wind conditions on Sunday afternoon.

Following are final standings of the two-day regatta:

HELPFUL HINT

For painting your garden and porch furniture, don't be tempted to use left-over house paint. It's often formulated so that it chalks in such a manner that it cleans itself. This quality is desirable in the coating for a house, but you don't want paint rubbing off on your clothing. Use enamel especially prepared for outdoor furniture.

to a certain amount of discipline, of playing games with others, and, most important of all, of sensing the real meaning of companionship for the first time in their lives, has meant, in the truest sense of the phrase, "heaven on earth" to them.

Any one who ever doubted the capacity of a retarded child to enjoy to the fullest extent, the benefits of a day camp, should have stopped by the snow fence surrounding the play area at the rear of the church, any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday morning. There he would have seen, in action, one of the finest examples of human understanding; and, as he watched he would also have sensed what the EMARC is striving to accomplish in their effort to help these youngsters find a degree of happiness. He would, undoubtedly, have observed that, in the name of human dignity, EMARC is determined that these children, however handicapped, be given the opportunity to find their niche in the life God intended for them.

This Summer Day Camp is but one of the many projects sponsored by EMARC, a non-profit organization made up of parents and friends of retarded children from nine towns, including Winchester, Woburn, Wilmington, Burlington, Reading, North Reading, Melrose and Wakefield. It was designed and instigated for the sole purpose of helping retarded children. With this high motive, EMARC will continue to function as long as there is one child in the entire area, who, handicapped by any degree of retardation, finds it difficult to gain a foothold on the ladder of life.

School Building Committee Explains Choice Of Site

Last March the town directed this committee to recommend a site for a new junior high school. To assist us we engaged Smith and Sellow, a well-known firm of architects who have received national recognition for their work on school site problems, and we again made use of the experience of Cambridge Consultants, Inc. The League of Women Voters aided us by preparing a house-to-house analysis of pupil density. The Planning Board generously offered to have their consultant, Mr. Allen Benjamin, make an independent appraisal of several of the more likely sites; his outstanding study has been most helpful to us.

Of the possible sites for such a school, study of their location and characteristics showed that only three were worth intensive and detailed study. These three sites were:

1. Some 18 acres formerly owned by Clarence Pond on the south side of High street across from Marycliff Academy;

2. An area of well over 20 acres, mostly owned by the Mahoney family, and located north of Johnson road and northwest of the Wildwood street playground;

3. Some 25 acres, on the boundary line between Precincts 5 and 6, owned by the Town and presently used by the Water Department as a wellfield.

In evaluating these sites four basic factors were considered: Size, Topography, Accessibility and Centrality. In Size it is necessary to provide sufficient useable area for buildings, service roads, parking space, outdoor activities and expansion. The customary standard for junior high schools is 10 acres plus an additional acre for each 100 students. In view of the possible growth of secondary school enrollment, we considered a site of at least 20 useable acres desirable.

The topography of the land affects both the useable area and the cost of construction. Steep ledge or swampy land not only reduces the useable area, but also increases materially the development cost of the site and the cost of building construction. The Accessibility factor includes a study not only of the existing street pattern, but of access roads and the proximity to the site of necessary utilities such as water and sewer lines.

Centrality takes into account the location of the pupils' homes and involved a study of the distance students will have to travel to reach the school. Connected with this is the problem of how many students will have to be transported to the school.

In terms of size and topography, the High street site is the least desirable. Not only is it less than 20 acres, but of the available land only the western seven or eight acres are useable without exceedingly expensive earth moving, and, because of the surrounding homes, the eastern end is almost detached from the main part of the site. The most favorable site topographically is the Wellfield, with the greater part being relatively flat hard packed gravel.

Study of accessibility reveals that none of these sites has an ideal automotive traffic pattern and that the Johnson road site would be exceedingly expensive to develop in terms of access roads, water and sewers. Because of probable road work outside the Wellfield, the High street site would be the cheapest to service, but the steep grade of High street would make access from east of Cambridge street difficult and hazardous in the winter.

Mr. Benjamin's study shows that the three sites are practically equivalent when evaluated for centrality. This is because of the high density residential areas which are east and west of the Wellfield and because of the limited capacity of the present Junior High School. He concludes, "centrality should not be the determinant in making final site selection—at least between the Mahoney Land and the Wellfield Lot, which otherwise have the best general site characteristics."

On the factors within their scope, Smith and Sellow said, "Our first choice is the Wellfield site because we believe the total cost of building and site development will be far less than on the Mahoney property. In other words, in the end there will be more to show for the money expended."

Mr. Donald Mitchell of Cambridge Consultants, Inc., has stated "I would prefer the Wellfield site for the following reasons, in order of importance: 1. Centrality of service to present and probable future students as determined by Mr. Benjamin's analysis; 2. Size and shape offer easy development and provide a margin of safety should future additions be required; 3. The existing access and the possibility of providing additional access is the best of the potential sites; 4. No expensive development costs are evident in the topography or surface characteristics; 5. Easily obtainable at no present cost to the town."

In addition to the considerations already discussed, the Wellfield has the further advantage of allowing flexibility in the planning and economical construction of additional secondary school facilities when and if such become necessary.

STOLEN LAWN DECORATIONS FOUND ON HIGH SCHOOL LAWN

Several lawn decorations and some property of the Winchester Country Club were found Wednesday night by Police Officers Archie O'Connell, George MacMillan and Mario Buzzotta on the lawn of the Winchester High School. Apparently the thoughts of returning to school were too much for some Winchester "students."

Among the collection which is currently at the police station are 4 pink flamingos, 1 donkey, 1 turnip, 1 nymph statue, 3 ducks and 8 ducklings, 1 golf flag, 1 house sign, 1 real estate sign and pieces of a broken globe.

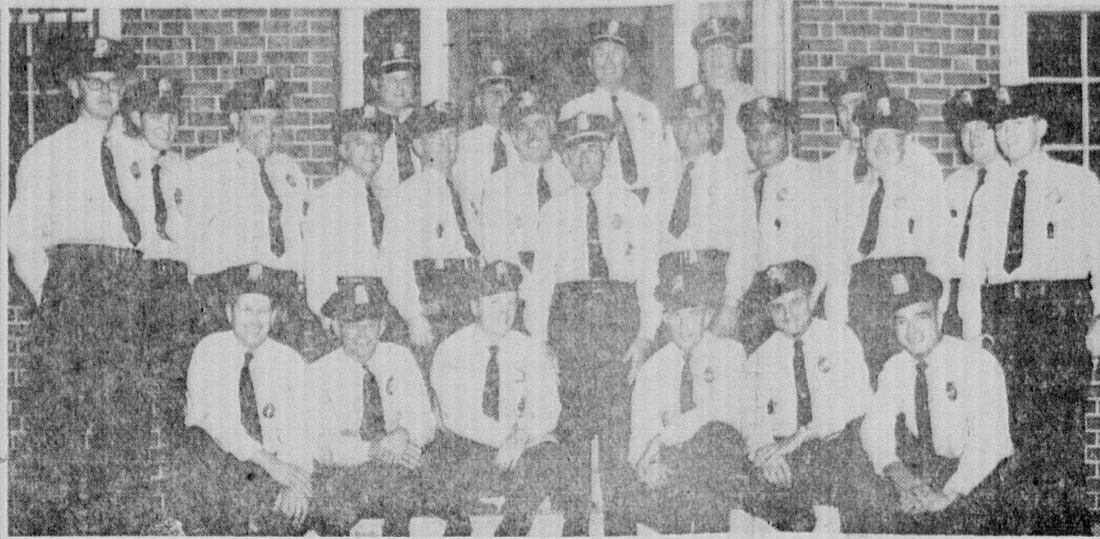

As the Star went to press the police were making every effort to locate the owners of the statuary and signs. None of the persons responsible were located.

WINCHESTER POLICE HUNT ESCAPED MENTAL PATIENTS

The Winchester police joined in the search Friday night for three escaped patients from the State Mental Hospital. The men were Donald Bryan, 28, Joseph Feneck, 34, and Robert Taylor, 18.

Ronald Bryan's address was listed as Winchester, but a check by the police showed that he had lived with his mother in Woburn and that his father who formerly lived on Irving street resided in West Medford.

The Woburn police apprehended one of the men on the Woburn parkway but Bryan eluded them and ran into the woods near Horn Pond Mountain. The Woburn police asked Winchester for help and Sgt. John Dolan in patrol car 52, Officer John Boyle in car 53 and Auxiliaries Joseph Callahan and Richard McIntire in the radio car went to help.

The others eluded the efforts of the local police and were returned to the Hospital on Sunday.

WINCHESTER WON JIMMY FUND GAME

Winchester police, with the assistance of some members of the fire department, finally broke the Woburn Police Department's victory streak in the annual softball games for the Jimmy Fund, beating the Tanning City team, 20-19, last Friday night under the lights at Library Park, Woburn.

Winchester had a fairly comfortable 19-11 lead in the game when suddenly they went back on again Woburn had pulled up to a 19-19 tie, though how, no one but the Woburn sewer seemed to know and he would not tell, pleading the Fifth Amendment.

Winchester finally won the game, 20-19, but Sgt. Ken Murphy of Woburn refuses to accept defeat and says a return game is definitely in the making.

Mgr. Jim Cogan of Woburn had only one stipulation in the event a return game is arranged. He will insist that a Winchester police officer guard the lights!

CHILDREN'S THEATRE PLANS

The Children's Theatre School has produced to date, "Peter Pan," "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," scenes from "Tom Sawyer," "Little Women," "The Stolen Prince," "Cinderella" and "The Wizard of Oz." The plays were presented by the Winchester Community Theatre Inc., as part of their program. The Unit Set and pieces of scenery and platforms have been used on occasions by them for a One Act Play, the Junior-Senior Play, "Lilliom," and the Winchester Community Theatre Opera Night as well as the Children's Plays.

Many children have enjoyed the fun of seeing the children's performances, artistically and charmingly presented, with so much enthusiasm and creative talent in evidence. They have lived through the parts being played on stage by their contemporaries, perhaps more eagerly and completely, as the child to child communication is so strong.

The director and founder of the Children's Theatre School, Carlene Samoiloff has just returned home with her husband, Mr. Alexander Samoiloff. Mr. Samoiloff is with the Badger Manufacturing Co., and his work on their job in the Hague was terminated earlier than expected. He is now back in the Cambridge office, after seven months in Europe.

Mrs. Samoiloff, upon learning last November of her husband's job in Europe, engaged a director to take over her children's group and the production of "Cinderella." Mrs. Young, the director although agreeing to the plan of having the children's designs and painting used, which has been one of the creative and outstandingly artistic facets of the theatre school, preferred to rent the scenery and costumes—and two performances of "Cinderella" delighted two big audiences.

To direct the April production Mrs. Samoiloff secured Miss Maureen Denny, assistant to Betty Boop of the Harwich Jr. Theatre. The play was decided on with the children, Miss Denny, Mrs. Samoiloff, with the Board of Directors of the Winchester Community Theatre agreeing to present the play as usual, and with Mrs. Samoiloff away, the Community Theatre was to handle the matter of promotion, tickets and publicity. There was some difficulty with the piling up of dates for the Junior High and Senior High School, and vacation time, and a children's feature at the movies, so alas! few children attended the "Wizard of Oz," which was utterly delightful, and up to the fine reputation the Children's Theatre has established.

Thanks to the cooperation of mothers and board members, news of this performance reached Mrs. Samoiloff in the Hague, and delighted her, whose "life blood" has gone into the development of both the Children's Theatre School and the Winchester Community Theatre Inc.

While in the Hague, Mrs. Samoiloff was engaged as a staff member by the director of the International School to teach acting and dancing during school hours this '58 and '59 season, so enthusiastic was the director and the Parents Organization.

She also spoke on Theatre for Children at both the International and the American Schools; and was in conference with Dutch, French, and English directors and leaders of children's theatre, and professional theatre.

Now the Fall term is about to begin in Winchester. The Community Theatre directors, not expecting Mrs. Samoiloff back, have made plans for a director of the first children's production. The young lady was interviewed by Mrs. Doris Stone, board member and director of last year's W.C.T. "Kiss Me Kate."

Mrs. Todd is an ardent worker and staff member for Children's Theatre. But Mrs. Samoiloff remains the over-all director of the Children's Theatre School.

Mrs. W. Raymond Chase and Mrs. Charles Newton represent Children's Theatre on the W.C.T. Theatre Board of directors, and Mrs. Hiram Smith is the treasurer for the third season.

Mrs. Samoiloff plans to direct the spring production, and will continue the development of design of scenery and props and painting by the children. She announces that the Winchester Children's Theatre School has become a group member of the Children's Theatre Division of the New England Theatre Conference.

Watch the next issues of the Star for registration addresses and dates for Children's Theatre School.

BIG SOFTBALL GAME AT LEONARD

Winchester softball fans have a real attraction coming up this Sunday afternoon when the Johnny Melvain O-H All Stars, managed by Winchester's Howard Kirby, tangle at Leonard Field with the strong Leather Workers Union Team of Peabody commencing at 2 o'clock.

The Leather Workers play regularly in the Salem Chamber of Commerce League and are favorites to win the circuit championship. They are also presently tied for first place in the Lynn Recreational League.

Composed of college and semi-professional ball players, the Leather Workers boast a strong lineup that features exceptional pitching. Among the hurlers is "Jungle Jim" Luscutt, famed defense star of the Boston Celtics who alone should be worth a trip to Leonard Field to see.

The Melvain O-H Club is one of the leading colored softball teams in greater Boston. Composed of former greats from high school and college, it plays in the Cambridge Barnyard League and has met the best in New England.

Highly rated for its showing in the New England Tournament of Softball, the O-H Club was recently edged by the Macarelli Club of Somerville featuring the sensational Rolfe Welchell, the "Harvard Great."

With two teams like these squaring away against each other the resulting game is sure to be a corker. Plan to see it Sunday at 2 at Leonard Field.

Much Ado About School

By Jack Chitel

School doors are swinging open for millions of kids, young at six and old at twenty. Some are as green as the grass on the campus outside.

Generally, it is a new experience, with a million new things to learn and come up against. Some kids will face up bravely to most new situations. Others will have difficulty meeting these new developments.

One thing, though, no child today has to have the extra worry on his mind that poor clothes might give him. Not in this country, anyway.

Today's crop of kids wear just about anything. Their garments are a far cry from the knickers and long black-ribbed stockings of yesteryear. If the knickers weren't falling down, then the stockings were at half-mast.

Instructors and teachers all over the land are looking at freshly-scrubbed kids wearing a variety of clothes—flannel or gabardine slacks, sweaters, ivy-striped, button-down shirts, campus or car coats. And most of them wear an eager look—they're eager to learn, in some cases eager to pull a fast one on the teacher, and possibly eager to meet that good-looking doll with the laughing blue eyes.

School-opening time is fraught with many feelings. For the mothers, it may mean a little relaxation during the late morning hours. For kids and instructors, it means the end of a summer vacation, knocking down to the textbooks and keen hopes for future achievements. It's a great time of year.

EDITORIALS

The Star received a call this week from an officer of the Winchester Boat Club commending the work of the Auxiliary Police during the traffic safety campaign over the holiday week end. He was especially pleased with the handling of traffic at the intersections of Everett avenue and Church street with Cambridge street, two places where, to quote our informant, "you generally take your life in your hands if you try to cross the street on a Saturday afternoon or Sunday."

According to the Boat Club officer the Auxies had traffic at those places moving at a reasonable speed and well under control. They actually stopped few cars, but they permitted no fancy driving or cutting out of line, and there was no excessive speed.

The Star has heard other comments, equally complimentary, of the work of the Auxies over the past week end. They were stationed at strategic traffic danger spots about town and did their work so well that there was no major accident reported in town over a particularly fine week end for driving.

Winchester's Auxiliary Police were on duty last week end from 7 until 11 p.m. Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday nights. That's 16 hours of unpaid duty contributed to the safety of local and through motorists by these community-minded men.

You will find elsewhere in this issue a photo of the Auxies starting out for traffic duty. Take a look at it and see how many of your neighbors and friends are serving in this organization. You've seen them at the En Ka Street Fair and at football games and other places where extra policing was needed.

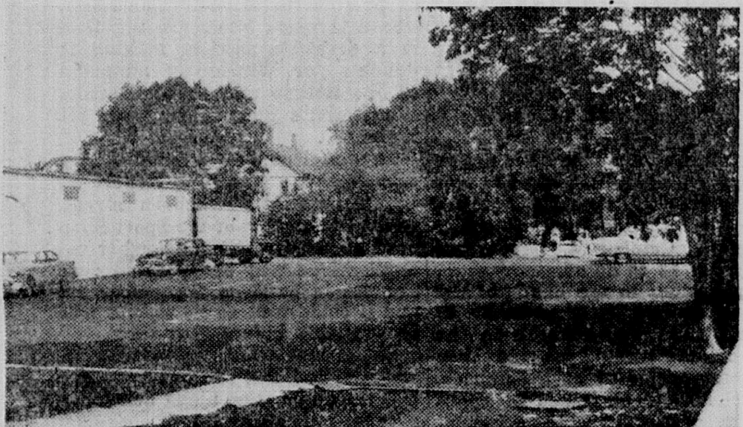

Last year the Auxies contributed 870 hours to traffic duty alone. This year they will serve 1700 hours in this capacity. Chief Moffett is proud of his men and the service they render. He is also pleased with the cooperation his amateurs get from the regular police force. "The regulars are always very helpful," says "Joe." That's the way it should be!

We mean no disrespect to our neighbor, "Charlie" Gibbons, an indefatigable worker for the Republican Party, when we say that a good many people in Winchester of all political parties would have welcomed the opportunity to vote for John Volpe for Governor. Mr. Volpe is a man who appeals to a lot of people for a lot of reasons, but primarily because he has always done a good job with any piece of public work entrusted to him. He is very personable, of unquestioned integrity and has won himself many friends at all levels through his continued dedication to good works. He would have made a strong standard bearer for the G.O.P.

We urge our readers to go carefully through the report of the School Building Committee in this issue. Other reports will follow before the public hearing on September 23 and the special town meeting two nights later.

Town meeting members should take the trouble necessary to inform themselves thoroughly on the committee's plans and proposals, which are said to involve an expenditure of $1,700,000.

In fairness to the committee it should be understood that this is an outside figure, and chosen by the committee so that the final amount will be less than the estimate, rather than a good deal more. We think most people will endorse this reasoning, and will hope that the final figure will shave the estimate by plenty!

NEW PARKING LOT AT NENO'S MARKET

The photo above shows the new giant parking lot which was completed last week at Neno's Market at 32 Swanton street. The market was started by Anthony Marchesi, who built it up from a horse-drawn delivery wagon through a bus to the busy market it is now. The Car-roll lot next door was purchased and with the building moved back, there was room for the new parking lot.

Mr. Marchesi has had to lay low since his operation on April 18, but this has not dimmed his ambition and progress is still his watchword. In fact, he still plans more changes.

CARL K. SMALL

Carl K. Small of 51 Myrtle terrace, a Mayflower descendant, died at noon on Wednesday, September 3, at the Winchester Hospital, following a brief illness.

Mr. Small was the son of John W. and Marietta G. (Kendall) Small. He was born August 22, 1886, in Provincetown and was the sixth generation of Smalls, being a direct descendant of the Pilgrim, Stephen Hopkins, who came to this country in the Mayflower.

At the age of 18 Mr. Small came with his mother from Provincetown to make his home with his sister, Miss Bessie M. Small, in Winchester. He was until his retirement a metal worker with the heating supply firm of Waverly Company. He first lived on Washington street, but for more than 35 years he had lived on Myrtle terrace, being genuinely beloved by all who knew him.

Besides his sister, Mr. Small leaves a first cousin, Mrs. F. W. Stockbridge of South Weymouth.

Private funeral services were held today at the late residence with the Rev. Wesley A. Mallory, associate minister of the First Congregational Church, officiating. Interment was in the family lot in the Old North Burying Ground in North Truro.

FOOTBALL SQUAD REPORTS

Seventy-five candidates for the 1958 football team at Winchester High School reported Tuesday to Head Coach Henry Knowlton for physical examinations and the first formal practice sessions of the fall season. Squad Doctor William D. Barone made the examinations and Trainer Lou Goddu was on hand to lend assistance where needed.

Coach Knowlton reported that generally the candidates reported in excellent shape. The squad was increased to ninety on Wednesday with a few additions expected with the opening of school yesterday.

The opening practice sessions have been devoted to fundamentals and position tryouts in an effort to get a line on who is likely to play where. It is too early to predict anything, but the squad has size and more depth than some of the past years.

Doug Thomson, veteran back, is captaining this year's team with Pete Mahoney as senior manager. Returning lettermen are Captain Thomson and Danny Serjeka, backs; Bob Peltuso, center; Fran Murphy and Pete Morgan, ends, and linemen Pete Graham, Bob Winn and Brian Cullen.

Coach Knowlton has arranged scrimmages with Watertown, Medford, Somerville and Arlington to aid him in picking a starting lineup for the opening game with Concord on September 27.

SOME FISHING!

Mike Roy Penta, president and treasurer of the Star Lumber Company, and Jack Vespucci are back in town after a week's fishing trip in the Laurentian Mountains of Canada.

This was no easy-access fishing trip. Mike and Jack drove to St. Jovite, Quebec, and from there were flown by seaplane 75 miles into the Canadian wilderness. The two disciples of Isaac Walton had no regrets. The fishing was well worth the trip.

Their guide, an Indian old timer, introduced them to speckled trout, northern pike and walleyes of tremendous size and apparently irreducible quantities. Vespucci won the "friendly" wager for the largest fish, hooking a northern pike weighing 13½ pounds and measuring 42 inches long.

Mike and Jack are planning another trip for salmon and lake trout, this time at East Grand Isle, Maine, later in the fall. It is reported that C. Patrick Tofuri, the well-known gas station operator in East Woburn, will go along for the ride.

HILLTOP NEWS

Winchester Lodge of Elks is staging another of its popular Chicken Dinner and Dancing parties on Saturday evening, September 13, at 7:30 at the Home on Elmwood avenue. Paul Sellitto chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements announces that Fiore's Orchestra will play for the dancing which is from 9 o'clock until midnight.

Elks are reminded to save Tuesday, September 16, and attend the annual District Deputy's visitation to Winchester.

The big annual Charity Prize Award will be made at the Dancing Party to be held at the Home on Saturday evening, October 11. Save the date and plan to attend this red letter event.

It's not too early to start thinking about Christmas cards. Pick them leisurely from books at the Winchester Star, 3 Church street.

Despite Long Waiting Lists

New England Colleges Have Over 2,000 Places For Freshmen

Although most of New England's colleges and universities have filled their freshman classes and many have long waiting lists, over 2,000 places are still available in the region for qualified freshmen.

Of 175 institutions queried in a recent survey by the New England Board of Higher Education, 61 have openings totaling 2,357. A majority of these are small colleges, forty-two of them enrolling fewer than 500 students.

Most of the available places are for commuting students, but 27 colleges have a total of 597 dormitory spaces.

The following institutions report they can enroll additional qualified freshmen this fall.

In Connecticut a total of 322 places are available at the following colleges: Danbury and Williamamantic Teachers; Albertus Magnus; Amherst; Berkeley Divinity; Mitchell; St. Basil's; St. Joseph's and the University of Bridgeport. In Maine there are 235 places. These openings are at Aroostook, Farmington and Washington Teachers; Hason; Nason; Ricker; and Westbrook. Dormitory spaces totaling 147 are available at all except Westbrook.

In Massachusetts the following schools have room for 1,470 additional freshmen: Framingham Teachers (home economics program only); Newton Junior; American International; Assumption; Archbishop Cushing; Assumption; Babson; Becker; Boston College (must have completed College Boards); Boston Conservatory; Boston University (few spaces in several divisions of the university); Cambridge Junior; Curry; Emerson; Franklin Tech; Gordon; Hebrew Teachers; Leicester; Mass. There are dormitory places totaling 80 at all but Providence College and Roger Williams.

In Vermont the following institutions have a total of 145 vacancies: Johnson and Lyndon Teachers; St. Michael's; Trinity; and Champlain.

Dormitory spaces, totaling 85, are available except at Johnson. Qualified students are advised by the New England Board of Higher Education to write immediately to the Directors of Admissions of the colleges.

TELEPHONE TOPICS

When the dial system goes into effect next February, you will be able to dial not only local points but many cities and towns across the country.

Because of this expanded dialing area, it has been necessary to develop a group of telephone names that will differ from the names of cities and towns in which they are used. For example, WELLS in Woburn and PARKVIEW in Winchester.

The names Wells and Parkview have a pedigree. They were carefully picked from a list of about 350 names that measure up to telephone company requirements.

Telephone names are no longer only of local importance. Today telephone operators dial calls direct to telephones across the nation. And, by the same token, operators in many different parts of the country are able to dial calls direct to telephones here in Woburn and Winchester. Misdialing the first two letters of the name will send a call astray and means time lost placing it over again.

Therefore, the name assigned to telephone numbers in one locality is of importance to operators through the country and if we are to change the name of one town to a telephonic name, such as Wells and Parkview, we must do it in all towns so that we may have a uniform national pattern.

That's why the approved list is limited to about 350 names. Keeping the list short makes it easy for operators and telephone users everywhere to become familiar with all of the names, therefore, cutting the chances of misdialing the first two letters to an absolute minimum. All of which adds up to better service for telephone customers.

Perhaps you're thinking that being limited to 350 choices must lead to frequent duplication. It does but no confusion will arise thanks to the system of dividing the country and parts of Canada into about one hundred numbering areas.

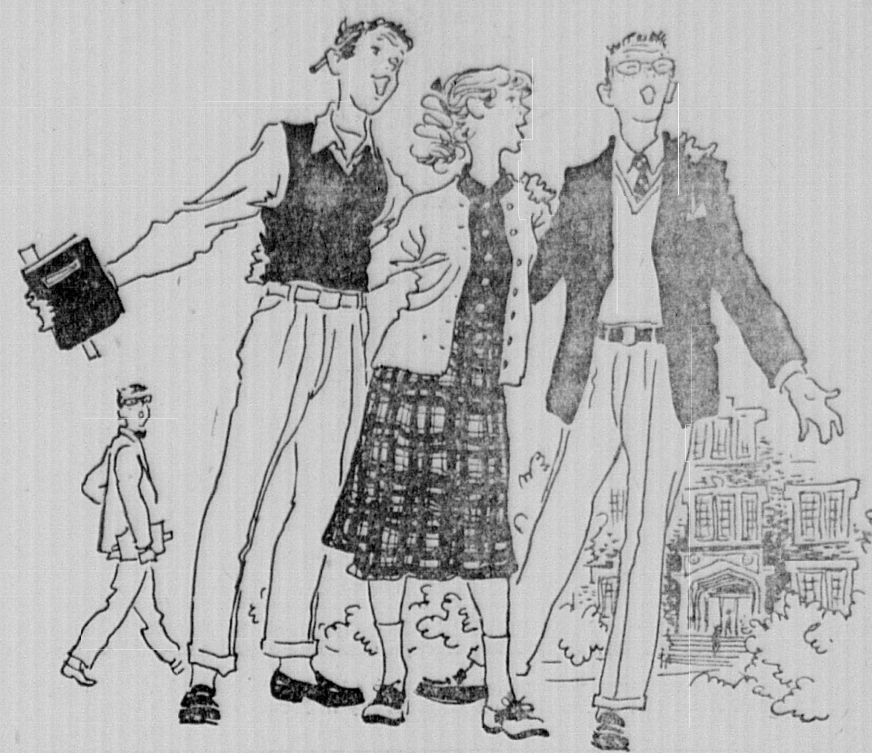

A numbering area comprises a state or part of a state. In other words, each state in the nation is identified by a number, or code. Massachusetts, for instance, is split into two areas, the western half being numbered 413, the eastern half 617.

Eventually telephone subscribers themselves, will be able to dial direct to almost any telephone in the United States, simply by turning the dial wheel around ten times, dialing first the three digit area code and then the usual two letters and five digits.

Will have more news for you next week—happy telephoning till then.

BOAT CLUB NEWS

Last weekend saw a full round of sailing and social activities at the Boat Club.

Turnabout Fleet

Rob Dannenberg with his sister Jean, sailed their "Jerocobar" to triumph in the Dillon Cup series by winning all three races, two on Saturday and one Sunday. Runner-up was Bob Durfee who placed second in all three races. Linda Chase placed third for the series when Ted Shidler was disqualified in the third race on a technicality.

The Dillon Cup series produced somewhat of a novelty in racing results when the first four boats finished in the same order in each of the three races: R. Dannenberg, R. Durfee, T. Shidler and L. Chase. Monday afternoon the ladies of the fleet sailed their first race of the season. It was a close race with the finish in the following order.

1st. Betty Josephson, Linda Chase, crew.

2nd. Marie Dannenberg, Jean Dannenberg, crew.

3rd. Dorothy Durfee, Judy Durfee, crew.

4th. Natalie Burchstead, Marguerite Morey, crew.

Snipe Fleet

The fleet held a skipper's race Monday morning. Roddy Long was the winner with T. Legere and Cook finishing second and third respectively.

The swimming races which had been scheduled for Monday afternoon were called off, but the younger set held a lively ping-pong tournament, won by P. J. Legere, with Dickie Montminy and Diane Graziano second and third.

A barbecued chicken dinner which was attended by 180 rounded out the weekend activities on Monday evening. Dinner was served on the lawn and was followed by dancing in the club house lounge.

S. S. AMENDMENTS PROVIDE INCREASED BENEFITS

The Social Security Amendments of 1958 will provide increased monthly payments to all beneficiaries beginning with the checks which are due early in February 1959, according to E. Francis O'Day, social security district manager in Cambridge.

The amount of the increase will be about 7 percent, although the increase in some checks will be slightly more than 7 percent and it will be slightly less than 7 percent in some others.

People who are already getting social security payments do not need to apply for the increase. It will be automatically added to the checks for January, which will be mailed out early in February.

Another principal change in the law permits payment to dependents of people who are 50 or over who are now getting disability insurance benefits (children under 18 or disabled; a wife of any age who has a child in her care who is entitled to benefits; a wife 62 or over; or a dependent husband 65 or over).

These people must file application at a social security district office before payment can start. The first month for which these new payments are made is September 1958.

FIRE

September 2, firefighters were called out at 10:20 a. m. for a reported smell of wires burning at 20 Wildwood street, the home of Adolph Hermann.

The rescue truck with Henry Heitz, Jr., and Joseph Connolly; engine 4 with John Nash and Robert Sullivan, Jr., responded. Upon arrival, it was found that defective wiring was the trouble and the main switch was shut off.

MOODY'S INVESTORS SERVICE RATES WINCHESTER TOPS

According to word received this week from James J. Costello, town accountant, Winchester is rated in the top group by Moody's Investors Service, an organization which lists credit ratings of governmental units as well as other investment possibilities.

In all, 4600 governmental units were evaluated throughout the United States and of these 129 received the top AA rating. Of the 129, 116 were below the state level and twelve of these were in Massachusetts. The Massachusetts towns, other than Winchester, were Newton, Northampton, Salem, Springfield, Swampscott, Weymouth, and Worcester. In addition, Essex, Norfolk and Worcester counties received the same rating.

Of course, like any credit rating, money must be borrowed and thus some towns could not qualify. However, Accountant Costello says that in one instance an AAA city and an AA town both asked for a loan on the same day and the AAA interest rate was set 2 1/2% lower than the other one.

TELETHON
FOR CEREBRAL PALSY

United Cerebral Palsy Association Inc., for the benefit of palsied children and adults throughout this area, will stage its third annual New England Telethon September 20 and 21, it was announced today.

Mrs. Dorothy Singer, of West Newton, president of the Mass. Cerebral Palsy Association, said the mammoth 17-hour-long program will be beamed over WNAC-TV, Channel 7, beginning at 9:00 p. m. Saturday, the 20th.

"We'll be on the TV screens of homes in five states from then until 8:00 p. m. the following day," she said. "It will really be an enjoyable 'stay-up'."

Four or five nationally known stars of radio, TV and motion pictures will headline the show, including one who should be a big favorite with the youngsters," said Mrs. Singer. "He'll be on briefly Saturday night, and then again Sunday after church. That's when he'll really take over. He'll chat with them and have lots of surprises and souvenirs to give them."

The telethon will be staged at the Mechanics Building, Huntington avenue, Boston, and the public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

A high point of the video crusade should be the religious program planned for Sunday morning. "We're hoping clergymen of all three major faiths will be represented," she said, "to add their prayers to those of the viewers."

Mrs. Singer said an overall telethon chairman would be named within the next few days.

WINCHESTER SCOUTS
RETURN FROM SUMMER CAMPS

While the Red Cross trophy winners pictured in last week's Star enjoyed the Water Safety Program at Leonard Field along with many youngsters of all ages and abilities, other young people went further afield for their swimming programs.

Through your United Fund, both Red Cross and Red Feather are able to offer many youth services during the summer vacation.

The Winchester Girl Scouts, a Red Feather agency, holds a day camp at their cabin off Border road in the Fells which is open to all registered Winchester Brownies and Girl Scouts. During the four-week period which begins the week after school closes, the campers enjoy campcraft, crafts, singing, sports and games, and dramatics. Intermediate Scouts work on proficiency badges. This summer, over 100 girls attended.

The overnight Girl Scout camps drawing Winchester girls were: Camp Helen Storrow; Camp Four Winds; Buzzard's Bay; Camp Wynona, the senior scout camp; Camp Westmore, Ossipee, N. H.; and Vineyard Sailing Camp, at which Dorothy March, Sue Fox, Lynn Watson, and Sandra Dantonio participated in the Counselor-in-Training program.

The Fellsland Council, Boy Scouts of America, another Red Feather agency, owns and operates Camp Fellsland in Amesbury, Mass., which was attended by the following: Wayne just recently returned for the opening of school this week.

WHATMOUGHS AROUND THE WORLD IN 150 DAYS

(Written for the Star by Verona Taylor Whatmough.)

September 1, 1958
Professor and Mrs. Joshua Whatmough of 17 Central street arrived in Winchester on August 28, returning from travels which started at the beginning of April last, and took them 'round the world and below the equator. This they crossed four times in all, for they covered both the southern and northern hemispheres.

From Boston, Mr. and Mrs.
Whatmough flew to and stayed in San Francisco, Hawaii, Fiji, New Zealand, both the North and South islands, Australia, and the Philippines; on to Japan, where, in addition to visiting three university cities, they went, for a pleasant week-end rest, to Ito Shima, a beautiful peninsula famous for its pearl farms.

Then on to Hong Kong, Bangkok (where in the parlor of the royal palace the tea-scene in "The King and I" was staged), Rangoon, Delhi and Bombay in India, Karachi in Pakistan; and from there to Nairobi (Kenya Colony), Johannesburg (Transvaal), Cape Town (Cape Province, South Africa); then, in one flight (with brief stops of an hour in Johannesburg and Khartoum) some 5500 miles, starting at Cape Town, to Athens;
on to Munich, back to New York,
Boston and Winchester.

The trip, taken during a Sabbatical leave which Professor Whatmough was enjoying from Harvard University, was not only to collect knowledge and information about world conditions (especially linguistic), but was also a world-wide lecturing tour for him. Starting with the University of Hawaii at Honolulu, he spoke successively at Universities in Auckland, Wellington, Christchurch, and Dunedin in New Zealand, at Melbourne, Adelaide, and Sydney in Australia—participating by invitation as chief speaker in the inauguration of linguistic societies in both of those countries. He lectured also at the Universities of Tokyo, Kyoto, and Osaka (all in Japan). Universities of Bombay, Karachi, and Cape Town; and was the guest speaker at the Congress on Onomastics (proper names) at Munich.

Interviewed by leading newspapers in every city where he spoke, and photographed for them in many, he was also asked by the New Zealand Broadcasting Company to give two radio talks, and by the Australian Broadcasting System for two interviews.

These, together with his public and University lectures, all had to do with his own particular field, Linguistics, the Mathematical theory of communication, and his own Theory of Selective Variation in Language.

Mrs. Whatmough, a lawyer, was interviewed and photographed by newspaper women reporters in New Zealand, Australia, Japan, India, and South Africa, and was entertained not only by the Women's Law Associations, but also by the Bar Associations in many countries, from whom she learned of law and practice in each country or province and state.

One particularly outstanding entertainment, from the point of view of international affairs, was a dinner party given for her as guest of honor by the President of the Australian-American Association in Adelaide, Mrs. (Dr.) Malcolm Miller.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Whatmough were entertained extensively and lavishly. A Japanese dinner for twenty, given by the Dean of the University of Kyoto in their honor, took place in the beautiful summer pavilion in what was formerly an estate of a Shogun, but now belongs by bequest of his family to the University.

The dinner lasted close to three hours, it was served from and at floor level on small individual tables. This was particularly novel, as was a reception given them in Karachi by the Pakistan Committee for Cultural Freedom.

Memorable days were those in Cape Town, where Professor and Mrs. Whatmough were the house guests of Principal and Mrs. Duminy in their beautiful residence Genara, near the old Cecil Rhodes estate and present Memorial at Rondebosch. These were a fitting climax to a trip which climbed from height to height in enjoyment and interest, levelling off and staying at that peak in the Munich congress, with a reception held in the beautiful Schleissheim Castle, and a dinner in the famous Munich Rathauskeller. This year Munich is celebrating the eight-hundredth anniversary of the founding of the city in 1158.

Of all countries visited Greece and Burma proved the most difficult for visitors. Under their present regimes, both show many characteristics in common, namely those of a petty autonomy, including language, and rejection of world languages even for international use.

It was a journey difficult to improve upon, and perhaps impossible to repeat, world conditions being in a state of flux, and unlikely to be established for decades to come. It is true to say also, that, after such a tour, there is, on the part of both Professor and Mrs.
Whatmough, a definite conviction that, for finer conditions of human living, it is just as impossible to improve upon the amenities of Winchester, Massachusetts and of its surroundings.

HELPFUL HINT

Have you ever tried to devise a method of hanging pennants or other light things on a wall without marking the wallpaper or the paint? How about ordinary rubber cement, available at stationery and variety stores? You can rub the cement off when you have no further use for it and the wallpaper or paint will show no evidence of it.

WE GOOFED: We missed the deadline for the Winches-

LETTERS FROM ALISON

WINCHESTER GIRL ON TOUR
WITH U. S. HOCKEY TEAM
WRITES HOME

August 13, 1958

Dear Folks:

I shall start this letter now and hope to finish today. We just have been kept so busy and it is impossible to write on the train. We arrived here in Pietermaritzburg yesterday afternoon after being on the train since Sunday morning. We came all the way down from Bulawayo, South Rhodesia. It takes the train twice as long as the car and to top it off the engine could not get up enough steam so we had to wait for a new engine.

We had great fun though as the Bokies were travelling with us. We would go out while waiting for the train to move again and play everything from keep away to red light. They really are a great bunch and full of life. At least five of them are married and have children at home. One is 29 and has three at home. It really is something to see husbands at the station with children in their arms waiting for mama.

While in Bulawayo we played Southern Rhodesia and were beaten 2-1. One of our goals they did not recognize but the ball was pushed over the end line into the goal's pads. Second half we swarmed all over them but could only get the ball in once. One of their goals was a penalty bully. That game we had a man umpiring. It was close and we should have tied if not won. The game today against Natal is just over. I sat this one out. We went down 2-1. Our next game is against the Springboks. We are going to have to improve 100% to beat them. They'll be out to get us. I hope that we can shape up. We are now enroute to Durban on the sea coast.

Up in Livingstone we took a boat trip up the Zambezi. Although we didn't see any adult crocodiles we did see two elephants bathing and two herds of hippos. We stopped on an island for tea and the bunch of us discovered the vines and began swinging like Tarzan. The one I picked broke but luckily I was only a little way off the ground. You should have seen Haussie and Lee though. They looked like baboons themselves. We all were very sad to leave such a beautiful spot. It was nice to be away from the duties of reception, teas, etc.

In Pietermaritzburg where we played Natal, we stayed with our first families. Jane Mayer and I were with Mrs. Douglas and her two children Wendy and Anthony, ages 15 and 11. It was a small middle class home but still complete with servants who did all of our washing for us. Besides the children, there was also a cocker, a talking parrot who never shut up the whole time, a kitten and hamsters. A really wonderful and happy family. The father had died just 19 months before.

Wednesday night there was a dance "laid on" and each of us was assigned a partner. Mine arrived, brush mustache and all, but really very nice. His name was Graeme Harrison. It really was a great party. They had an intermission entertainment of men dressed up in a fashion show. Really hilarious, right down to the bras, girdles and bikinis.

I am in Durban now and am at a very lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Stacey. They have two children Barbara and Olive, ages 16 and 18. Stephanie you would really like Olive. A huge brute of a rugby player. He looks and acts much older than 18. We are going to have a great time here.

Sunday we are going to spend the whole day at the beach swimming in the Indian Ocean. Big dance on Saturday.

Much love,
Alison

DAMON PLANT MANAGER

Harry Damon, Jr., former plant superintendent and tanner at Beggs & Cobb Company at Winchester, has been appointed plant manager and tanner of the Hartnett Tanning Company of Ayer, it has been announced by Kivie Kaplan, president and general manager of the firm. Mr. Damon makes his home at 70 Arlington street.

The Ayer tannery, which is nationally known for its profit sharing plan, employs a number of Woburn area residents.

AUXILIARY POLICE NOTES

Operation "Slow-Down" went into effect Friday evening and touched off one of the most intensive programs of road safety ever sponsored by the Commonwealth. Regular and auxiliary police forces worked in conjunction with registry officials to reduce accident fatalities. Our own auxiliary department was represented on the heavily traveled approaches to Winchester every night of the long week end. Hearty thanks to the public for their cooperation in helping to make this effort such a success.

August 24 marked the day of the annual Feast of the Assumption procession. Spectators were pleasantly surprised to see a contingent of auxiliary police in the line of march. This established a new phase in auxiliary police activities. If any recognized organization wishes auxiliary police participation in a public demonstration contact Chief of Police Harold or Auxiliary Chief Moffett.

IT'S HAY FEVER TIME

The annual hay fever visitation has got its second wind, to the sorrow of some five million Americans, and the scourge will be with us from mid-August until first frost. Oddly enough, hay, roses and goldenrod are not the causes thereof; airborne ragweed pollen and mold spores from decomposing vegetation are the responsible villains, says The Medical Foundation.

Hay fever, which is one of the most common allergic diseases, may attack at any time during the pollen seasons and at any age. The symptoms are sneezing, itchy, weepy eyes, burning palate and throat, stuffy, running nose and general head congestion. Untreated, hay fever may lead to asthma which can be a serious complication. The sooner it is recognized, the better.

The management of hay fever, as with other allergic diseases, must be according to the particular patient. Immunization may take several years, and the complete cooperation of the patient is necessary. Self medication being dangerous, advice and treatment should be given only by a qualified physician. The Medical Foundation adds.

UNITED FUND SETS GOAL
OF $10,000,000

A goal of ten million dollars for the second United Fund Campaign was announced today by Richard P. Chapman, general chairman of this fall's drive which gets underway October 5.

The money raised in this single, once-a-year campaign is used to benefit 288 essential local services in the health and welfare fields and to underwrite extensive research and patient treatment in the majority of dread diseases.

Despite the fact that this year's goal is nearly three-quarters of a million dollars more than was raised last year, Mr. Chapman seemed confident that the sum could be reached before the drive ends in mid-November.

"Once the people of Greater Boston become aware of the useful and necessary work being accomplished here by the 288 United Fund services," Mr. Chapman said, "I feel sure they will not fail to recognize their responsibility to support this fund drive."

In stressing the importance of research work accomplished by United Fund agencies, Mr. Chapman referred in particular to the Medical Foundation of Metropolitan Boston.

This organization, he said, works in behalf of general medical research, without being limited to any specific, categorical disease. Thus, he explained, it has become concerned with the latest development and research in neuro-muscular diseases, degenerative diseases, and other malignant conditions. These include such killers and cripples as multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, cerebral apoplexy, leukemia, cancers, hepatitis, and skin diseases.

As a typical example of how United Fund dollars benefit child health, Chairman Chapman cited the case of Kerry Ann and Kim Marie Remick, two-year-old twins chosen as living symbols of this second annual United Fund campaign.

Kim Marie, he explained, was born with a glandular abnormality that retarded her growth. As a result, she was only half the size of her twin sister, until studies were conducted at the Red Feather's Children's Hospital. Here, through were conducted at the Red Feather endocrine clinic, Kim's condition was corrected.

"Today," Mr. Chapman emphasized, "she is as beautiful and healthy as her sister, Kerry Ann—both of whom are truly symbolic of what the United Fund means to the people of Greater Boston."

Mr. Chapman added that a grant of more than $20,000 was recently made to Children's Hospital by the United Fund's Medical Foundation to further the study of this type of hormone treatment in child growth and development.

Many other agencies that benefit from the United Fund also have extensive health programs. Red

Even More Wonderful in Fact than Fame!

If you number just one Cadillac owner among your acquaintances, then we would wager that you've heard the wonderful Cadillac story for 1958.

In all probability you've been told of its brilliant performance . . . and of its marvelous Fleetwood luxury . . . and of its great practicality.

And perhaps you've wondered if any motor car could embody so many virtues—in such abundant measure—in a single year.

Well, what an eloquent answer the magnificent new Cadillac could give to that conjecture!

In fact, a single hour at its wheel would tell you, beyond any doubt, that this "car of cars" is even more wonderful in fact than in fame!

Surely, there is no adequate way to describe the way a new Cadillac rides and handles—so smooth and quiet and effortless that even the longest journey is an occasion for rest and relaxation.

And certainly, only the experience itself can reveal the pleasure of commanding a motor car that is so respected by the world's motorists.

Those discoveries are reserved for the man who takes the wheel for himself. And if you have not already done so, then you should delay no longer.

Your Cadillac dealer will be happy to acquaint you with all the facts about the many Cadillac models, including the distinguished Eldorado Brougham.

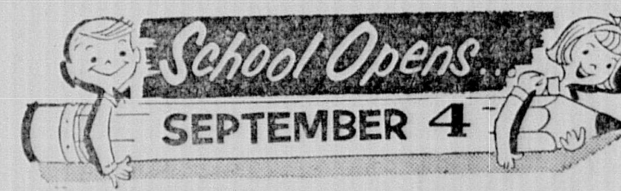

Why not pay him a visit tomorrow?

MARY CORBETT BURNS SCHOOL OPENS SEPTEMBER 8

Registration has begun for the new season at the Mary Corbett Burns School of Ballet, it has been announced. The school, at 118 Pleasant street, Arlington, starts classes on September 8.

The school year consists of 36 weeks of instruction. Courses are offered for beginners, intermediate and advanced students in ballet (from elementary technique through advanced classical toe), character, including national dances and pantomime.

We cannot stress too often or too forcefully the importance of proper training from the beginning. It is difficult, almost impossible, to eradicate a bad habit once acquired. The director of this school feels there should not be any place in ballet for mediocre instruction since everything depends on the elementary grounding.

Mary Corbett Burns, director of the school, is recognized by outstanding ballet masters of our day as one of their own. They have full knowledge of her training and abilities, and constant awareness of her talents since her pupils are numbered among the members of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, the Grand Ballet du Marquis de Cuevas and the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and as teachers in many schools throughout the country.

Miss Jean Wiener of Winchester has been awarded the first "Improvement Award Scholarship" for the Winchester Conservatory of Dance and Related Arts, 15 Waterfield road, Winchester. Miss Wiener appeared in an excerpt from the "Nutcracker Ballet" and in the "Ebbtide" modern ballet at the final concert of the past season presented by the students of both the Newton and Winchester Conservatories of Dance and Related Arts.

MISS VIVIAN BOLD

WINCHESTER CONSERVATORY OF DANCE HOLDS FALL TERM REGISTRATION

Miss Vivian Bold, director of the Winchester Conservatory of Dance and Related Arts, has announced the opening of the Fall term registration Monday, September 8, through Friday, September 12, from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m. at the Conservatory, 15 Waterfield road. Registrations will also be accepted by phone, Winchester 6-2697 or Bigelow 4-1534. Classes will begin the week of September 15.

Miss Bold spent the entire summer furthering her study and research of ballet and modern creative dance. She was one of the few American dancers invited to participate in a concentrated study program under the direction of Igor Moisseiev, director of the famed Russian Ballet Company. She also took part in a program of advanced ballet technique with Jean Cebron of the Joos Ballet Company, and continued her study of modern dance with Hanya Holm, world-famed choreographer for "My Fair Lady" and other Broadway shows.

Appearing professionally this summer in several shows in the New York and New England area, Miss Bold also created original choreography for a number of the contestants in the Miss America Pageant, and for a variety of TV shows emanating from New York. Her extensive background in the field of dance also include study with Margaret Craske of the Metropolitan Opera Ballet; Ted Shawn, known as the father of Modern Dance in this country; Martha Graham, and many other greats in the dance world.

The Conservatory Fall Program includes classes in Ballet, Modern Creative, Modern Jazz, Calypso, Tap and Ballroom Dancing. In addition, there will be special classes in Dance Fundamentals for pre-school children, consisting of personalized training to acquaint the young child with various elements of dancing, and to develop coordination and freedom of expression through rhythmic dance movement. Also, classes in Adult Dance Technique and Body Conditioning will be offered for the homemaker and career girl. These consist of dance exercises designed to teach fundamental techniques while toning the body. Morning and evening classes will be offered.

There is a brochure available outlining each course in detail which may be obtained by writing or phoning Miss Bold at the Conservatory, Winchester 6-2697 or Bigelow 4-1534.

Those who saw the '58 Vaudeville Show might recall the French Apache Dance "The Double-Cross" and "The Ball Dancers", routines for which Miss Bold created the choreography.

Dr. Watkins Physical Medicine Pioneer

Gold Key Award To Winchester Physician

Dr. Arthur L. Watkins of 47 Swan road, chief of physical medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital and assistant clinical professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School, was awarded the Gold Key of the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation during the convention of the Congress September 3 at Philadelphia.

Physical medicine is the treatment of physical illness by physical means. Such troubles as nerve injury, neurological disturbances, cerebral hemorrhages, polio and paralysis fall within its scope. Light, heat, water and massage are some of the therapeutic agents employed, and the physician's role is largely concerned with diagnosis and the prescribing of the most effective physical means of correcting the particular ailment at hand.

Dr. Watkins is one of the pioneers in the field of physical medicine, entering it after his internship at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital which followed his graduation from Harvard Medical School in 1935. He received his Bachelor's Degree from Harvard in 1931.

Past president of the American Congress of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, Dr. Watkins is the author or co-author of more than 100 books and scientific articles. In 1957 he was given a Presidential Award for outstanding service in rehabilitating poliomyelitis patients.

Married and the father of five children, John, Robert, Linda, Nancy and Cynthia, the 49-year-old physician has made his home in Winchester for the past 10 years.

APARTMENT HOUSE PROPOSED FOR RANGELY

Elsewhere in this issue is an advertisement by the Planning Board, announcing a hearing on proposed changes of the town's zoning laws.

Among the proposed changes is the creation of a new zone in addition to the single and general residence, business and industrial zones.

The new zone is to be known as an apartment house zone, and if it is accepted by the town it is reported that apartment houses will be built on the Quigley property on Lake street and the former Marchant property in Rangely.

The Marchant property, exclusive of the residences, has been bought by Nicholas H. Fitzgerald of Washington street, who proposes to erect thereon an apartment house of the garden type. Mr. Fitzgerald contends that nearly all of the land surrounding the Marchant property is used by professional men, and aside from this professional use the property is adjacent to a business zone and the B & M Railroad. He believes the erection of such an apartment as he proposes will not only improve the present property status of the neighborhood, but will also act as a buffer against a possible expansion of the nearby business zone into Rangely.

Residents of Rangely immediately surrounding the Marchant property oppose the erection of the proposed apartment house. Nothing definite has been heard for or against the reported proposed erection of an apartment house on the Quigley property on Lake street.

John J. Blake, Jr., International representative, and John R. Kennedy, vice president of Local 14-481, are directing the strike.

HOME FROM GERMANY

Jim Cusack, former high school football star and son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Cusack of Lakeview road, arrived home August 29, after completing his tour of Army duty in Germany.

Jim arrived just an hour before his German bride who followed him via commercial transportation to New York and accompanied him to his parents home in Winchester. The Cusacks spent the holiday week-end on the Cape, and Jim is now at Fort Dix for final separation from the service.

He will enter Boston University this fall, and he and his bride will temporarily make their home with Jim's parents on Lakeview road. Eventually they plan to live nearer his classes at college.

NOT RESPONSIBLE

The Star was notified Saturday that a part of its report of the three mental patients who escaped recently from the State Mental Health Hospital gave an incorrect impression. From the police the Star learned, and printed, that one of the escaped patients in the search, for whom the Winchester police were aiding, had formerly lived in Winchester and has a father living in West Medford.

The father in question asked the Star to make clear that he had been separated from his son by court decree in 1938, and that since that time he has in no way been connected with, or responsible for, him.

TELEPHONE TOPICS

Last week we talked about the use of telephonic names such as Wells and Parkview and their association with direct distance dialing. Still a further step in direct distance dialing is the method of billing known as automatic message accounting.

"Automatic Message Accounting" places some of the more tedious work in the telephone business in an automatic system for recording information customer long distance dialing, the next big step toward better telephone service, could not be taken.

The operation of AMA has proved extremely accurate and completely dependable under the most severe tests that could be devised. At present, it is available for use only with one and two-party service on a station-to-station basis.

AMA operates very much like a room clerk in a hotel. To bill a hotel guest correctly, the room clerk needs to know the record and name and address of the guest, the time the guests check in, all services ordered by the guest and charged to his name, and the time he guest checks out.

Similarly, on a message unit call or toll call, to bill the calling party correctly, AMA needs to know from what telephone the call was made, at what time the call was made, the destination of the call and the length of the call.

AMA records this information on tape and at the beginning of each day these tapes are sent to the accounting office. At this point, the tapes are run through various machines until ultimately, we have the charges for each call daily.

Of course, the busiest hotel in the world isn't nearly so busy as a telephone exchange. In a telephone exchange, there are hundreds of thousands of "guests" checking in all the time, many of them at the same instant. It would take scores of room clerks to handle the details and keep them straight.

In about the same way a hotel clerk keeps a guest's room charges straight, we keep the details of each call. Just as in a hotel where each room has a number, each AMA circuit in a telephone exchange has a number assigned to it. Each numbered circuit can be used by only one party at a given time. From the start to the finish of an AMA recorded call, the details of the call are associated with the number of the circuit used for that particular call. Thus, it's as easy to gather the details of any given AMA call as it is to assemble the room charges incurred by the registered occupants of the rooms at a hotel. So you see automation is a necessary part of our business in order to keep costs down.

That's all for this week. Look in again next week when we hope to have more news about the conversion to dial operation.

TOWN DUMP PERMIT SALES NEARLY SIX TIMES MORE

The Board of Health reported this week that nearly six times as many permits for the town disposal area have been issued this year than in 1957. From September 1 through 9 last year 154 permits were given out, compared with 866 in the same period this year.

According to the amendment to the Board of Health regulations made on July 21, 1958, the license fee and identification sticker were cut to cost $1.00. The license runs from September to September. The stickers are given with the permit and cars using the dumping area must be identified with it. This new regulation went into effect on September 1.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEMBER RESIGNS

In a letter to the Board of Health, dated September 8, Mrs. Harlow Russell, a member of the Board for the past two years, submitted her resignation.

Submitted with regret, her resignation was promoted by the fact that she and Mr. Russell are leaving town, making her resignation mandatory.

BELLINO MOVES UP AT NAVY

When Joe Bellino left town to return to Annapolis late in August he figured he would be running with the Navy third team until well after the opening of the football season. He expected to see varsity service in the first few games but felt he would remain on the third team, at least until he became more familiar with the Navy offensive pattern.

Experts figured it would be mid-October before Winchester's Giuseppe moved up to first-team status, but reports out of Annapolis have the former Indian star well ahead of schedule.

Navy held its first full-scale scrimmage last Saturday afternoon and Joey was moved to the No. 1 left halfback slot for that workout, passing Dick Zembrusk of Brooklyn, N. Y., a senior halfback letter winner good enough to average 6.6 yards per carry as a reserve back last year. Bob Correll, a junior speedster, who shone as a sophomore at early season last year, also had to make way for Joe.

Bellino moved up to the number one slot because of his impressive work in the Navy drills to date. You don't make starting lineups on schoolboy press notices at Annapolis, but Joey has really shown the Navy coaches that his 11.4 yards a carry as a piebald last season was no accident. In 92 carries the Winchester boy rolled up the fantastic total of 1053 yards and scored ten touchdowns during the brief piebald schedule.

Joey had to miss all but the last six days of spring practice because he was concentrating on the local, but in those six days he moved up from the sixth to the third team.

Now he has worked up to the first team from the third on his practice showing, and possibly the deciding factor has been his ability to break away and score.

Navy has had many fine backs in recent years who have rolled up plenty of yardage, but have lacked the ability to go all the way. Joey has had this ability through his schoolboy and pre-school career. He apparently is retaining it in varsity competition.

ADULT EDUCATION

Registration for Adult Education classes will be held Monday evening, September 29, in the Senior High School from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. It is also possible to register by mail from September 12 to 29. Application blanks, which may be found on the last page of the descriptive pamphlets, should be sent to the Director of Adult Education, 426 Main street. The fee for each course is seven dollars.

Two classes in sewing offer women an opportunity to learn how to make attractive and economical clothing. Sewing I, a course designed for beginners, will be again taught by Mrs. James Loftus, Jr., a graduate of Simmons College now living in Winchester. Sewing II is open to experienced sewers. The instructor is Mrs. Alfred Whitman who graduated from Wesleyan University and has taught in several Adult Education programs.

Both men and women may enjoy learning to re-do an old chair in the upholstery class, taught by Mr. Raymond Allen of Woburn. The typing class, also open to both men and women, will be given by Mrs. Andrew Kehoe of Winchester. Mrs. Kehoe teaches commercial subjects in a private school. Registration for two successive terms in typing is necessary so that the student can gain sufficient mastery of the keyboard.

These and other courses are described in pamphlets available through the schools, many stores and the library. For further information call Mrs. Howard Aiken at Winchester 6-0007.

DISASTER NURSING COURSE AVAILABLE

The Billerica Civil Defense Agency is sponsoring a Basic Course in Disaster Nursing for professional nurses to be held Tuesdays from 7 to 9 p. m. at the Billerica High School from September 16 through December 9. "Preparation in Disaster Nursing" is the topic.

Registered nurses in nearby communities are invited to take advantage of this opportunity to prepare themselves to be of the greatest possible help in time of any natural or war-caused disaster. Mrs. Mary A. O'Brien, R.N., is the nurse instructor.

PARKING IS LIMITED NEAR ST. MARY'S SCHOOL

Police Chief Charles J. Harrold told the Star this week that the curbing in front of St. Mary's School on Washington street has been painted red and that a sign which reads no parking from noon to 3:00 p. m. has been installed.

This action was taken because of the traffic jams which developed on the rather narrow street. Since the area has stores and doctors' offices, there is just not enough parking space available for the school buses.

This new regulation is enforced only when schools are in session.

Senior-Junior High School Report

II - The Site - Development; Wellfield Recommended

The Wellfield presently consists of 21.95 acres west of Horn Pond Brook and 6.46 acres east of the brook. It is proposed, as shown on the site map, that the Water and Sewer Board retain 3.38 acres west of the brook and transfer the rest of the land to the School Committee.

The land remaining under control of the Water and Sewer Board is that on which the pumping station, wells and other equipment are located. This area will be sufficient for present and future water needs, while the land to be transferred will provide ample room for a new junior high school and for its expansion, if and when necessary. To protect the Town's investment, the wells and pumping station would be fenced off.

The new Junior High School building would be located south of the land kept by the Water Board; athletic and recreational areas would be on the north side. Our studies to date do not indicate that it will be necessary to use any of the land east of Horn Pond Brook at the present time, but if the school is enlarged, certain playfields would probably be put on this easterly portion. The south part of the site is covered with pine trees, and there are several large oak trees elsewhere; as many of these would be kept as possible.

The school would face east, toward Horn Pond Brook, and the primary vehicular access would be Horn Pond Brook road. The brook would be crossed opposite Royal and Porter streets by culverts. If it may be economically done, it would add substantially to the efficiency and effectiveness of the front of the school to cover over the Brook between these culverts. School buses would unload and visitors would park at the front of the school.

Parking for faculty would be on the north side of the school which also would be the delivery area; there would be a small parking area near the gymnasium, with access from Brantwood road near Pond street. Additional pedestrian access would be provided from the bicycle path which crosses the south end of the lot. The layout is such that there is no need to have an automobile road cross the site.

A map showing the location of the proposed site and the placement of the school appears on page 4.

MRS. LILLIAN P. SMITH

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian P. Smith, wife of Rev. Henry Francis Smith of 22 Lakeview road, were held last week Thursday afternoon, August 4, at the Congregational Church of West Medford, where Mr. Smith had his last pastorate.

The minister of the church, Rev. Gordon K. Washburn, officiated with Rev. Robert Rasche, minister of the North Church, Beverly, where Mr. Smith had his first pastorate. Burial was in North Beverly Cemetery.

Mrs. Smith died Sunday, August 31, at the Winchester Hospital following several months' illness.

Born January 3, 1872, in Mason City, Iowa, Mrs. Smith was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Parker. She was graduated from Grinnell College in the Class of 1897, and taught for a time in the schools of Marshalltown, Iowa; later teaching English and German at Spencer High School in Spencer, Iowa.

It was while teaching in Spencer that she met her husband, who was also a member of the high school faculty, teaching mathematics and science. The Smiths were married June 14, 1902, while Mr. Smith was completing his senior year at Yale Divinity School. After his graduation they went to Yankton, S. D., where Mr. Smith taught Latin and Biblical Literature at Yankton College.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith went from Yankton to Colorado Springs where Mrs. Smith taught English in Colorado College while her husband taught public speaking and Biblical Literature. Then in 1910 they went to Beverly where Mr. Smith was pastor of the Beverly North Church from 1910 to 1913.

Following this pastorate the Smiths made their home in West Medford for 34 years while Mr. Smith was pastor of the Congregational Church of West Medford. It was from Medford that they came to Winchester upon Mr. Smith's retirement in 1947.

Mrs. Smith, in addition to her duties as a minister's wife, was active in religious circles in her own right, serving for 30 years as president of the Woman's Home Mission Union and winning a wide circle of friends through her administration of that office. She was a member of the West Medford Reading Club and a member and past officer of the Women's Association of the First Congregational Church.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Smith leaves a daughter, Mrs. Arnold R. Williams of Burlington, N. C.; a grandchild and a sister, Mrs. Lorraine Dingman of Long Beach, Calif.

Much Ado About College

By Jack Chitel

So, it's off to college to gain a little knowledge? With hopes for four-oh marks and pleasant times in non-curricular hours, eh?

Well, there are no short-cut methods for achieving both aims, but a Big-Man-on-the-Campus distinction is within the reach of any man—through the proper selection of a studied college wardrobe.

And college clothes of a smart, Phi Beta Kappa look can be had by anyone using good taste and putting the right things together. The word "togetherness" has meaning in the men's apparel picture, too. Some call it "coordination."

No need of horrifying too many of our classmates through the use of clashing colors, wearing argyle socks with a dark business suit, or combining a striped shirt with a striped tie. Such will jar the nerves of innocent bystanders!

A basic wardrobe for every college lad should include a dark worsted suit of either navy or charcoal, with the solid color spiced by variable weave effects such as fine herringbones or thin-line stripes.

And perhaps even more important at the knowledge factories are combinations of sport coats and slacks. Shetlands and tweeds in a variety of weaves and shades head up the three-button sport coats. Dark-toned and medium-shade slacks feature no pleats and are leaning heavily to flapped back pockets. Remember to color-harmonize in the selection of neckties, socks and sweaters.

Besides cut-and-sewn and knit sport shirts, the basic college shirt wardrobe is still built around button-down white and blue oxfords. Also moving into the picture are round-point, pin-through collars.

But let your retailer make some of the decisions on what to buy and how to wear it. He's schooled in this sort of thing, and anyway, it'll make him mighty happy as the years crowd heavily upon him.

WINCHESTER GIRLS AT ENDICOTT

Several Winchester girls are among those enrolling this year at Endicott Junior College in Beverly.

Seniors returning are Miss Jean Manimon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Manimon of 58 Bacon street, and Miss Elaine Vargis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Vargis of 47 Bacon street. Both girls will participate in a week of senior academic and internship conferences and senior seminars, as well as assisting in the freshman orientation week before classes begin September 20. They also meet their "freshman sisters," whom they adopt for the college year.

Freshmen entering Endicott include Miss Marcia Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall A. Brown of 7 Ainsworth road, Miss Janice Krysto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter V. Krysto of 84 Bacon street, and Miss Suzanne Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Franklin Simpson of 119 Wildwood street.

It's not too early to start thinking about Christmas cards. Pick them leisurely from books at the Winchester Star, 3 Church street.

ENTERS GRACELAND COLLEGE

Stephen Fisher of 6 Bacon street began classes this week at Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa, where he is a member of the freshman class.

This is the church college of his denomination, and his parents, aunts and uncles on both sides of the family, all his cousins, and his brother have been graduated from it. In the space on the application blank asking for the names of relatives who have attended the college he had tried to crowd in 26 names, but gave up and listed them on a separate sheet of paper.

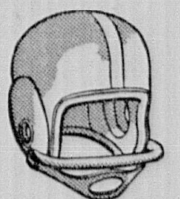

Lamoni is mid-way between Des Moines, Iowa, and St. Joseph, Missouri, just three miles north of the Missouri border, and Graceland has students from most of the 48 states, three from Alaska, many from Hawaii, and many foreign students, even from Korea and Japan in its student body of over 600. Announcement that the Knights of Columbus have entered into an agreement with the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester for the purchase of the church property on Mt. Vernon street recalls to older residents of the town the little brown church which served the Episcopians of the town as the Church of the Epiphany.

After vicarious beginnings in Winchester with meetings in Lyceum and Harmony Halls and the old Methodist Church on Mt. Vernon street, the Church of the Epiphany was established in 1883 as the Mission of the Epiphany. The late Samuel W. McCall, former Congressman and Governor of Massachusetts, was a vestryman.

The next year sentiment for a church home became so strong that funds were raised and construction began that same year at the site on what was then Pleasant street loaned by David Nelson Skillings, Jr., a distinguished citizen of Winchester and prominent member of the Unitarian Church, whose own home was nearby.

Plans for the little church were the gift of the architect, George D. Rand, and the church held its first service January 25, 1885. The following May 29, the church being paid for, it was consecrated by Bishop Benjamin H. Paddock.

From the first the Mission prospered, and Mr. Addison was succeeded in 1885 by the Rev. John W. Suter, a recently ordained deacon, studying at the Episcopal Theological School in Cambridge.

Mr. Suter became minister in charge of the Mission, which continued to flourish until, in 1887, the Mission voluntarily withdrew from all financial aid from the diocese. The following year the Mission reorganized as the Church of the Epiphany with Mr. Suter, then an ordained priest, as its first rector.

Under Mr. Suter's leadership the new parish grew and in 1892 consideration was given to larger quarters. In 1893 the land at the corner of Church and Central streets was purchased and on October 4, 1904, the cornerstone of the present Church of the Epiphany was laid. The first service in the new church was held October 8, 1905.

So since 1885 the Knights of Columbus' new home has served as a church, from that year until 1905 as the Church of the Epiphany and since as the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester. Many pleasant memories twine around the little old structure which now enters upon a new chapter in its career.

Whatever became of the parking lot the town was going to construct at the rear of the block of stores on Church street at Waterfield road. From the beginning this project, urged as an aid to off-street parking in the business center, has been held up by failure to get a right of way over railroad land to the proposed parking lot.

The railroad's excuse has been that until its station at Winchester is finally completed it cannot grant the access requested. Just what the railroad means by "completed" seems to be anyone's guess, but the road must have some idea because it has itself commenced this week the construction of a railroad parking lot at the station.

It must be three years or more that the town has been negotiating for the right of way to its proposed parking lot. Apparently we are nearer getting the necessary access than ever.

TIME FOR ANOTHER DECISION!

Editor of the Star:

It is time again for us to make a decision. The School Building Committee report is about in.

Are we to spend several millions of dollars again on buildings and be rewarded with a lowering of the passing grades, as so recently was the case in our educational system?

The plans so far arrived at by the committee and the School Department will be sugar coated but the bitter pill of higher taxes is inevitable. Or is it?

When will these committees accept suggestions and ideas based on sound logical educational standards, aimed at preparing some of our students with vocational instruction to meet the challenge and need in the technical and electronic industry.

The School Building Committee invited me to participate in one of their meetings. I submitted the attached statement as my suggestion for a solution, reasonable and constructive. I was then and am still available for further discussion on this program.

To some this will appear to be repeating statements I have made only four or five years ago prior to the last Senior, Junior High reconstruction program, but, sadly the repeated increase in your real estate tax to pay for the bond issues is harder to bear.

We were only partially successful at that time in getting the School Committee to add the Industrial Arts subjects to the study courses.

If a vocational course as I have outlined using Wadleigh can be made available to the students it would cost less than one-quarter the estimated cost of the present plans.

Does that warrant a better fate than to be placed on file?

Should members of this committee use the weak argument that the town meeting affirmative vote the past two years was a mandate to bring in a recommendation for a new site?

Is there any foundation in fact for a statement from one member of the committee that industry does not want schools to train young people in the skilled apprenticeship trades?

Is it necessary or required by any law that a school should have ten acres for one hundred pupils and an additional acre for each additional one hundred pupils? More especially should we consider this land buying idea when cost runs about five to six thousand dollars per acre, in the undeveloped areas?

Will the estimated cost of a building on the proposed site include the cost of the several roads needed for this so called "centrally located site, to make it accessible?"

What is the distance over present roads from Sawmill Hill and Grand road of Precinct One? From Dunster lane?

How many additional pupils will have to be transported, added to the thousands of dollars already being spent for transportation?

Some of the answers will be late in coming, but the parents and taxpayers have a right to know not after the town has spent $10,000 to $50,000 on plans engineering, etc. The time for them to tell the town meeting members is now, before the vote.

The voters of Precinct One can have their discussion at the Washington School, Thursday, September 18 at 7:30. The Town Meeting Members will be there and of course as always in Precinct One—it's open discussion—to all.

It would be interesting to hear from the School Guidance Department as to the encouragement of lack of same it gives to pupils that might be aided by the program suggested. My recent experience with them led me to believe they had never heard of vocational schools at all.

I hope this program will stir the public into a more active participation whatever the resulting vote, so long as it is openly arrived at and understood.

Sincerely,
Arthur J. Hewis, Jr.

Precinct One

Ed. Note: Mr. Hewis' solution of the secondary school problem follows:

The School Problem
(Submitted to the School Building Committee, April, '58.)

The importance of the problem of education should not be minimized in effort to "sell" or "put over" this or that idea. The effect on the taxpayer and parent of the cost and location and type of construction have seemed to overshadow the basic reason for the education of our children.

We have 3813 school-age children and are required by law and desire to supply a standard literate population. This is reasonably possible on the elementary level by locating the school buildings, with regard to the population to be served. The type and standards which we should try to attain will be covered I believe, as we begin the second stage of the educational system.

The secondary school it seems is the molding and directional area of adult life and it is on this phase that our determined attention must be centered.

We know from past experience that at this point we have three not necessarily equal, groups of people: (a) Arts and letters-college bound, teachers, doctors, lawyers, etc.

(b) Technical-advanced training, engineers, chemists, electronics.

(c) Commercial and industrial-working force in office and factory.

Setting up and conducting this educational program is and should continue to be the function for the School Committee and its professional staff and therefore my suggestions must end with the thought that when and if such a program were set up the students latitude in selection could be limited only by lack of aptitude or economic considerations.

Based on the above idea on programming, if accepted, this Building Committee could more reasonably approach their duties—to suggest space needs and locations and costs of the same.

With this pattern, I would suggest that your committee could recommend the renovation of Wadleigh, and on these points—

1. An Industrial Training course as mentioned above would draw about 30 to 50 pupils per year, exclusively boys, and continuing the present 6-2-4 system, Wadleigh an accommodate over 200. Facilities could be arranged for shop work in the basement and light work areas (drafting electronics) in the first floor. The six other rooms can be used for academic subjects.

2. Location—

(a) The special emphasis placed in this type of training if located in town would encourage broader participation. Five to fifteen students in present and past years have transferred to other schools, Medford, Somerville) and a larger number have taken a general course with the present Industrial Arts subjects. Reasons for not leaving W.H.S. are loss of identity, athletic participation, etc.

(b) Use of present building as a travel distance, proximity to library, research) gyms, athletic field.

3. Cost.
Renovation estimate under $200,000 compared to new construction and costs and transportation estimated to be $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 in several proposed areas.

It is my thought that to go into a 6-3-3 system with two junior high buildings would encourage the "so called" east-west side gossip and rivalry to a point that would seriously affect the children and dangerously damage the unity of purpose and objects of the town government.

In conclusion I would say that I want very much to make available to our children the best possible education to fit them for their future, in an environment of unity and within the means financially, if the tax payer and parent. These things can be accomplished, I think, with the suggestions I have offered.

PROTEST PROPOSED RANGELEY APARTMENT

Editor of the Star:

The undersigned residents of Rangeley road wish to call to the attention of the townspeople the fact that a member of the Planning Board has recently bought some 10,000 feet of land on Rangeley road, and proposes an article in the warrant for the coming special town meeting to re-zone the land so that he can build a 20 unit apartment house. We urge that such an article be rejected.

The following issue is clearly raised by this proposal:

Should one of the best residential neighborhoods of the town be down-graded and subjected to nuisances and dangers by the construction of an apartment house, having only a single access on a private way, when a number of better locations for such an apartment now exist, some without any re-zoning being necessary?

The area in question is a secluded section of fine homes, gardens, wooded and open areas, and private ways. It is an unique bit of countrified residential land of which Winchester can be proud. The streets are narrow, several unpaved. There are many children in the area.

A 20 unit apartment house would mean 20 cars, plus visitors' cars, plus delivery trucks—milk, rubbish and garbage trucks, coming and going at all hours. There are 24 children, all under 15, and 19 under 5. This new traffic would create considerable danger for these children, and the children in turn could be quite an annoyance to apartment dwellers.

The abutters might soon seek to have their land similarly re-zoned, leading to a gradual erosion and down-grading of this fine section of town. Is this necessary?

Land presently zoned for apartment houses such as the Old Christian Science Church land, the Telephone building, and land next to the Senior Hall, would be far better located than Rangeley. In addition one can easily think of locations in the town such as the M.D.C. land along Mystic Lakes. This location offers pleasant surroundings, good views, and should not encroach on any existing residential area.

The tract in Rangeley would not be particularly attractive for the occupants of an apartment. A large part of the land is very low. There is a danger that such an apartment might become a railroad hotel with low rents and undesirable tenants. If we are to have apartment houses at all, and certainly Winchester does not want too many apartments; let us have good ones in proper locations.

There is to be an article on the warrant for the next town meeting to re-zone land on Lake street across from the cemetery and overlooking Wedge Pond for an apartment house. This site seems ideal. The area is open and pleasant and commands an attractive view. Yet it does not disrupt any existing residential areas; nor offer any traffic problems.

Caution words to be waited and seen how the Lake street apartments work out before indulging in wholesale re-zoning for apartments. If the experience with the other apartments is good, then mature consideration can be given to other similarly desirable and proper locations. Let us not hastily re-zone Rangeley and perhaps regret it later on.

The plot of land under consideration would make an ideal setting for 3 to 5 substantial homes which would be a credit to the area and to the town. Such homes would create none of the nuisances or dangers which an apartment house would involve and would bring to the town, not transients, but permanent residents who could be expected to take part fully in the various activities which make Winchester outstanding among the better suburban towns.

While it may be argued that the tax income to the town would be greater from an apartment house, it should be noted that the 30 unit Winchester Arms is assessed for only $82,000.

We urge you to attend the public hearing to be held on this article (watch for the notice in the Star) and the special town meeting on September 26, and to vote against this proposal.

CUT OUT THE FRILLS!

Editor of the Star:

As I am no longer a resident of Winchester, what I am about to say regarding school building in Winchester cannot be regarded as "sour grapes."

I just finished reading the editorial in the Star of August 22, part of which dealt with the town facing the need of more school buildings soon.

It also pointed out the rising taxes faced by all of us.

While I was a Winchester resident, I was in the millwork supply business and thus knew intimately the specifications called for on new school houses for the town.

In every case the architects went

"all out" each and every time in requiring great ornateness in exterior appearances as well as to call for the most expensive types of such items as doors, windows and window frames and all trim material.

I am quite sure that the specifications were just as costly in many other items that go into a school building.

Down here where I live now, the problems are even greater in our fast growing area but the folks who run things here schoolwise do not permit frills such as we see in Winchester.

The per square foot cost here is drastically lower than in many places in and near Winchester. In your editorial you stressed the need for classrooms above all else save good teachers of course.

That is just the point I am trying to make.

Down here we all stress the need for as many classrooms as possible within the budgeted allotment for a school. All frills are cut out as well as expensive types of materials of all kinds. The result isn't always a beautiful building but we do have the school rooms needed (or more nearly so) and are helping hold down costs in order to hold down taxes.

With the tax rate where it is in Winchester today, I should think most people would be glad to settle for less glamour in order to hold the line on taxes.

Yours truly,
H. E. Ayer
Miami, Fla.

IT COULD HAPPEN HERE!

Editor of the Star:

The enclosed editorial from the Belmont Citizen points out the reason that eternal vigilance on our Mystic Lakes is necessary. The heading could read:

It could happen here and probably will unless . . .

J. F. Fitzsimmons
4 Robinson circle
Explain It!

"One of Belmont's most attractive and busy young girls is now lying in a Gloucester hospital, the victim of a stupid boating accident. Her right hip and leg are badly cut . . . some of her toes have been cut off."

"Charlotte Thomson, only 18, is the same as most other vivacious girls. She likes sports, is a champion swimmer, and studied ballet for a number of years. Will she be able to continue to do this when she recovers? We certainly hope so."

"Swimming in the Annisquam River 200 yards from her mother's summer place, a speeding motor boat struck Charlotte and apparently the propeller chewed up her right side, from the waist down."

"Accidents can happen, we know, but explain this? Why was a 17-year-old boy allowed to run a big motor boat capable of doing 40 miles per hour? Maybe his parents don't care what might happen when a kid gets his hand on the throttle of a 90 h.p. motor boat."

Maybe our legislators, who have been fumbling around for the past couple of years or so just talking about some continue regulations for the operation of power boats, are to blame.

"We are sorry for Charlotte and her mother . . . and perhaps the kid who struck her, too, because he is too young to realize that he's not old enough to operate a boat with such tremendous power."

"Safety agencies have long asked that something be done about the proper regulation of boating. How long do we have to wait?"

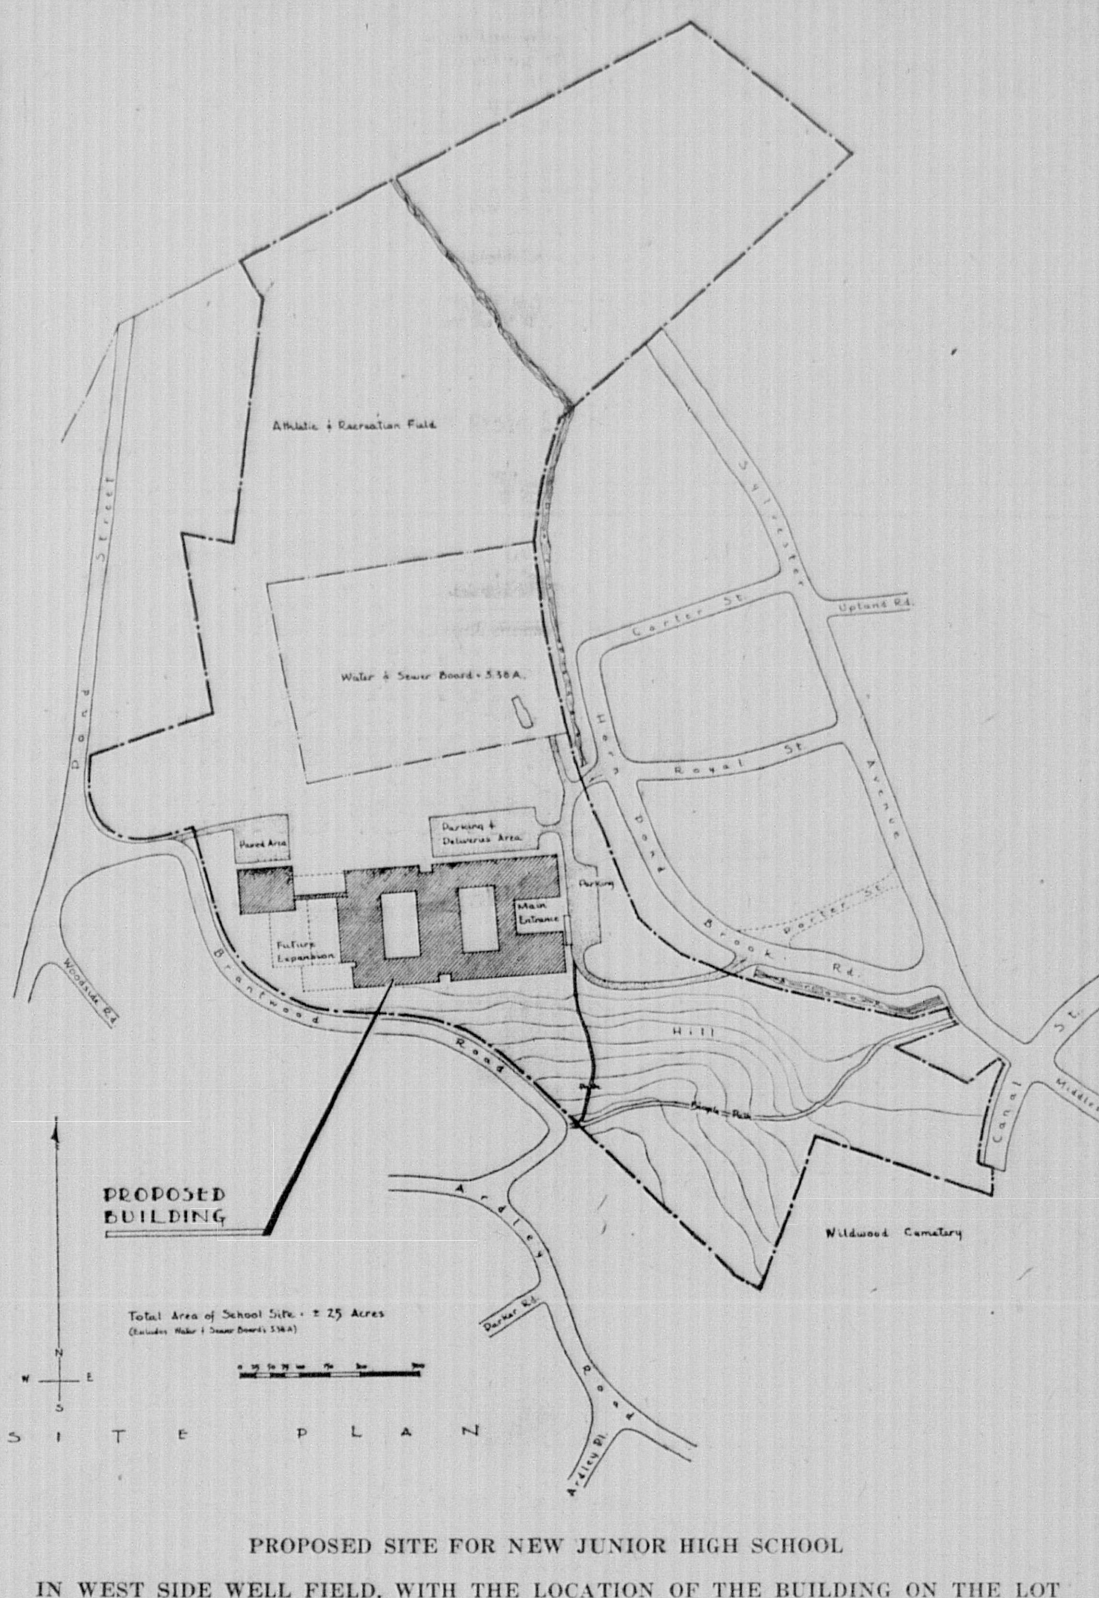

INTERESTING THOUGH CONFUSING

Editor of the Star:

The third meeting of the School Building Committee is interesting though confusing. I'll wager that not one resident in a thousand can visualize the well field site from the location description, "Some 25 acres, on the boundary line between Precinct 5 and 6 owned by the town, etc."

The site description of the alternate locations was clear and the committee probably didn't intend to leave the average citizen in doubt, or did they?

The Star would perform a distinct public service if it published a map showing the proposed sites. A word description, unless well done, is usually confusing. "A picture is worth 10,000 words."

Sincerely,
Robert F. Lybeck
9 Everett road
Ed. Note—Mr. Lybeck is a former chairman of the School Committee.

THANKS FROM MORGAN

Editor of the Star:

I want you to know how much we here at Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries appreciate the help that the Star and the Converse Super Market are giving to our "Help the Handicapped Project."

On May 22, 1958, Morgan Memorial installed a collection box at the Converse Super Market to receive donations of useable clothing, shoes and toys. The favorable publicity that your paper gave this event, coupled with the excellent cooperation of the Converse Super Market, stimulated the generous response of our good friends far beyond our fondest hopes.

I am sure that you would like to know that the public response in Winchester has enabled Morgan Memorial to keep two (2) handicapped workers employed for twelve (12) weeks, repairing and making saleable the household discards contributed to us through this collection box.

This wonderful participation in our practical plan to give the disabled, "Not Charity but a Chance," is most encouraging. I want you and all of our friends to know personally how deeply grateful we are for all of your assistance.

Sincerely,
Henry E. Helms
Executive Director

LETTERS FROM ALISON

(Winchester Girl With U. S.
Hockey Team Writes Home.)East London,
South Africa,
August 24, 1958

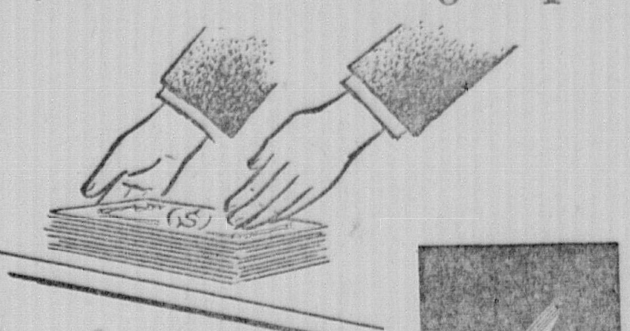

Dear Folks:

It seems strange that Stephanie leaves to-day for hockey camp and that your summer is almost over.
The time element is so divorced here from what is going on at home, and most of the kids on tour should be back at work in a week.
It just seems hard to believe that the summer is over because the people here are getting ready for spring and green grass.I often think of you all and wonder just what you are doing away up there. Pop, have you been eating the sundae for me at the drug store? I think I miss the trees the most. They certainly have the spaciousness and vastness here but it is nothing compared to the beauty of Maine's forests.It is also disconcerting to have to plan a week ahead, which reminds me, how long will you be in Maine? A ridiculous question!— because two weeks will have passed before you could answer and then it will be too late.Anyway, to get back to me and my present, we arrived in East London pretty nearly on time for a change. I stayed with Lee on that stop-over as the guests of the Pooles. They have a son 18, not quite so attractive as Clive in Durban. They have two dogs, one a fox terrier, Joly, the other a massive bulldog, Kenyon. Did Lee have fun with them?The Pooles were really terrific people, very easy to be with. They took us to some American neighbors who have been here 14 years and whose daughter is applying to Mount Holyoke College. They wanted me to tell them all about it and of course I was only too pleased to comply.Unfortunately, or fortunately,
Lee (Smith) was there to moderate.
We really had a great time in East London, even though we weren't allowed to do much activity wise. I bought Stephanie a Kwili record but I still haven't learned how to dance it yet.Friday night we went out to supper and had a planked T-bone steak for 10/6 which is about $1.40.
It wasn't quite as good as Great Meat's though.Saturday, the day of our last game with the Springboks, it poured, our first day of rain. There were two games before ours so you can imagine the field. It was as bad, if not worse, than the fields at Nationals last year. The second half, part of the field was completely under water.The Bokkies scored two quick ones and then we got one it. Later they put in two more. There was no score in the second half. It was too bad that the game had to be played under such conditions, because, I really think we might have made a good show of it.We left on Sunday after a wonderful farewell luncheon with the Bokkies. We said goodbye to the Scots in Bloemfontein and we had to leave the Bokkies in East London. It was very sad to leave for we had made such good friends with them. Some we will meet again in Holland next year and maybe even some of them will come to the United States in '63. It always leaves room for hope. They really were a tremendous bunch.We drove to Grahamstown, the city of Saints, by car and passed through the Xosa Reservation.
These natives farm mostly and was interesting to see their various customs.They paint their faces white when they are pregnant and their faces red when they've been on a beer party with the boys. They are much more broad-minded about these things than the whites are.
Each man owns 2 or 3 huts according to the number of wives, the younger wives working for the head wife. Each man also has his kraal in which he keeps the animals at night and in which he also has his beer parties away from the evil spirits. It was all very fascinating. This is also the pineapple country, pineapple like you've never tasted before, sweet and juicy, yum!Just remembered, I didn't tellyou about the Braai, the pronounced Brif, which we had the last night in Bloemfontein. A Braai is the South African barbecue—lamb chops, potatoes, hamburgers, long rolls, tomatoes—all the works! All the teams were there and what a high time we had!
Next to being rowdy.Back to Grahamstown, a beautiful town of churches and schools.
We visited a pottery factory, buying a few things, and also the physical education department of Rhodes University. We finally won a game, beating Albany 2-1.See you September 18, at 6:10
a. m.Love to you all,
AlisonP. S.: Forgot to say we tied Orange Free State 2-2.Port Elizabeth,
South Africa,
August 28, 1958

Dear Folks:

Tuesday we left Grahamstown for Port Elizabeth, an hour and a half away by car, an over night trip by train. It was a tremendous trip, stopping at every station to the tune of clank-milk cans. Finally we arrived at Port Elizabeth at 6:20 in the morning.Lee and I and three others had the honor of going off to the American Consulate to stay. How about that! We were driven in chauffeured cars marked "American Consulate." Not too swank! The go. The record so far—5 wins, 8 losses and 2 ties. Not outstanding but brilliant in spots. The last game is supposed to be rather rough. Hape we can take it.We are on the train now for Cape Town, have just passed through Ostrich land and through some beautiful mountains, right up in the clouds. We head back for the coast and then along the famous garden route. We only have two short days in Cape Town, which will be confused by the late Prime Minister Strijdom's funeral.Will try to get one more letter out.

Love to all,
AlisonTHE PONDS LEAVE TOWNMr. and Mrs. Kenneth P. Pond

stead on Prospect street to Walter S. Forberg of Lockland road, and last Saturday left Winchester to commodation in any of the town's apartment houses made the move necessary.Many in town will share the Ponds' regret at leaving Winchestime in Winchester, and has been prominent civicly, serving the town as chairman of the Board of Selectmen and as chairman of the Cemetery Commissioners. He told

BANKING HOURS — MONDAY THRU FRIDAY

8 A. M. to 2 P. M.
Closed SaturdaysTomlinsons are terrific people and extremely interesting. Their last post was Beirut.He is leaving shortly for the States and the United Nations to be in the American Delegation as a liaison with all the African Delegations. Their next post is the Belgian Congo. Mrs. Tomlinson is a Smith graduate and their only daughter is a senior at Northwestern University.Stephie, I have vaguely learned to Kwili. I learned from the native servants at the Tomlinsons.
Has the Kwili hit the States yet?
It's really terrific.All day Tuesday we shopped for last minute things and I tried to get my black heels fixed. I broke both heels in half doing the Kwili at East London. I don't think I ever told you about that night.It was the first unsatisfactory date. His name was John du Plessis and I saw him about three times the whole evening in between his going off to have a chat with the boys. We were doubling with Haussie and her date who was 10 years younger. They took us to the local hangout for a hamburger.Well, they left us in the car at the drive-in for half an hour, then John came back with two humber-gers for us and left us again for another 20 minutes. By this time Haussie and I were really giggly.To top it off, John came back with a cup of bean soup, which I promptly threw out the window.
We finally had to ask them to take us home. Oh brother, what a night!
I really can't complain, seeing it's the first bad one of the whole tour.Well, back to Port Elizabeth. I had another terrific cold on Tuesday. It had been going all through the team. However, it didn't keep me from shopping and buying my last (I hope) curio. I also had the lot
I bought in Livingstone sent off. I haven't decided what I am going to with all I have bought but I am tempted to keep it all myself and just "lend" it out.Probably the best thing to do is to line it all up and have each person choose. Mom, I think you will want most of it. I really think that I have some terrific stuff and I hope it all eventually arrives home.Stephie, I really got the most terrific thing for you. I couldn't resist it but I can hear Mom now saying that it's impractical and the moths will get in it. Enough clues! You'll never guess anyway
I don't think.I'll tell you one thing I got—an impala skin for my room at college.
How's that for being impractical!
The impala is one of the deer here in South Africa, it has a white ridge of tufted hair which sticks up when it runs. It's really terrific.Haussie bought 2 of them.
At least I didn't end up with a full sized skin shield, spears, etc., like one of the girls did. Finally we got everything done and sent.The game on Wednesday against Eastern Province threatened to be a repeat of the last Bokkie game but the rain stopped in time and they called off the two curtain raiser games. They patched the field with sod and sawdust so that one part of the field was a mound and rather deep in sawdust.We won 3-2 in a good game. Lee and I played the wings. Joan Edemorn got hit in the mouth and played the last few minutes of the game in a state of shock. She had been hit there twice before playing.
She didn't lose any teeth but knocked off the caps on her front teeth.Well, we have one more game to go. The record so far—5 wins, 8OUR PRESCRIPTION

FOOTBALL LEADERS AT WINCHESTER HIGH

Head-Coach Henry Knowlton and his 1958 Captain, Fullback Doug Thomson.

GRIDDERS IMPRESSIVE
IN SCRIMMAGE

Winchester High held its first scrimmage of the new season Tuesday afternoon at Manchester Field, making an impressive showing against an admittedly weak appearing Watertown High squad.

Coach Knowlton was generally pleased with his squad's showing against Class A Watertown, and feels that with the improvement to be expected with more work and experience, the Indians from the Heights above the Aberjona will give a good account of themselves this season.

Starting on the line against Watertown were Bob Peluso, center; Brian Cullen and Fran Murphy, guards; Pete Graham and Dick Winn, tackles; and Peter Morgan and Danie Vespucci, ends. A second line had John Hoarner, Roger DeMinico, ends; Paul White and Pete Luitwieler, tackles; Lin Olmstead, Mike Houghton and John Miller, guards; and Chris Stavridis, center.

Backs were Captain Doug Thomson, Danny Serieka, Carl Arlanson, Dana Kelly, Jim Migliacci, Tony Tofuri, John Curtis, Tommy Cox, Joe Capone, Harold Bosselman and Danny McGee.

Several on both the line and in the backfield looked especially good, but it is a little early in the season to enthuse too much, especially in view of the opposition.

On defense both Winchester teams looked very good, and the boys showed ability to move the ball. Next Tuesday the Indians will travel to Medford for a scrimmage with Medford High, and after this one the local coaches should have a better idea of who is likely to be in a real running for varsity positions.

ASSEMBLIES CHAIRMEN MET

Mr. Russell Curry, of the Curry School of Dancing, held a series of meetings on Wednesday for the chairmen of the assemblies, which start on September 26. After a pleasant coffee hour plans were made and dates set for the classes.

Young people in junior high and the ninth grade, new to town, are welcome, although the lessons started in grade school. For detailed information, please get in touch with Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth, 15 Norwood street, or Mrs. William McClintock, 8 Orient street, chairmen of the seventh and eighth grade, respectively.

Peter M. Quine of Winchester, has been admitted to the Freshman class at Nichols Jr. College in Dudley, Mass., as announced by James L. Conrad, Jr., Registrar. Quine formerly attended Huntington School for Boys and Winchester High School. He is the son of Mr. Francis Quine of 26 Lawson road.

HI, HI SCHOOLERS!

by Betsy Schaefer

September 4, warm and humid, was too much like a perfect summer vacation day to invite much enthusiasm for the first day of school. But no summer holiday, or any good thing for that matter, can last forever so it was back to school for Winchester.

One thousand and eighty-two students — freshmen, new pupils, seasoned sophomores, and superior juniors and seniors, crowded into Winchester High Thursday morning.

Changes greeted us everywhere. First there was the 8:10 final bell, five minutes earlier than last year. Secondly, there was the new rotating block system, with major subjects meeting only four times per week. This system allows for more classroom space and also provides for an interesting diversion from day to day. In the early 1950's

Winchester High temporarily suspended working on a rotation basis, so history is merely repeating itself.

A third change is the switch to three lunch periods. By eliminating one lunch we now have twenty-four minutes for eating, compared to last year's eighteen. This is one change everyone approves of.

Madame Martha Genicot is the new head of the language department. She is taking over the duties of Mr. David F. Kotkov, who resigned last spring. Just exactly what Mr. Kotkov is doing this year is not known. It is rumored that he is teaching at the newly opened Lincoln-Sudbury School. Mr. Kiosses, new this year, has taken over Mr. Kotkov's Spanish classes.

Other new faculty faces include Mr. Watson, history; Mr. Hartwig, who will be here until mid-year; Mr. Silva, mathematics; Miss Peek, chemistry; who was a practice teacher at the high school last year; and Mrs. Dow, home economics.

Freshmen boys will be singing with the Mixed Glee Club this year. A new ruling allows boys coming into high school from the eighth grade to join the club on the recommendation of their Junior High music teacher. We're glad to have you, boys, last year's man power was pretty weak.

Chris King and Sharon Nyere are accompanists for Girls and Mixed Glee Clubs respectively. Their help will give Mr. Withington opportunity to concentrate completely on direction and supervising.

The school parking lot is in use again for student parking. Numbered stickers will be issued shortly. Let's see if we can hang on to this privilege for good. No more monkey-shines!

Get out your glasses girls, the rest of this column is for you. It has been suggested that space be given over to the coverage of girls' sports activities. So swell up and act important, females, here are four big paragraphs devoted to you.

Many new activities are being considered this year. Miss Barnes hopes to have badminton, table tennis, and shuffleboard tournaments started. She would like to scare up a little competition with other schools in these fields if possible. More information about these activities will be in this column as plans progress.

A riding club may be formed. Are you interested? A meeting will be held in the near future, so be sure to attend and help make plans. Riders of all ability would be eligible, since riding instruction

MARC KICKOFF DINNER SATURDAY

Mr. Harold E. Trekle, president of the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, will lead a delegation of key campaign workers to the Kick-Off Dinner of the 1958 Crusade of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children, to be held Saturday evening, September 13, at Bishop O'Leary Center in Springfield.

Nationally famous TV and film stars, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, will be among the prominent guests headlining the Kick-Off Dinner. Governor Foster Furcolo will bring the greetings of the Commonwealth to the 500 representatives attending this statewide event when the 1958 Crusade of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children officially begins.

High point of the campaign will be a gigantic door-to-door canvass for funds on Sunday, October 5, which has been proclaimed as "A Day for Donnie." "Donnie," a ten year old Newton, Massachusetts boy, who has been selected to represent the 140,000 mentally retarded individuals in the Commonwealth, will be among the guests at the Kick-Off Dinner.

Funds raised in the 1958 Campaign will be used for sponsorship of diagnostic centers, nursery centers, recreation programs, parent counseling, sheltered workshops, scholarship grants for professional workers entering the field of mental retardation, and research grants designed to seek the causes and prevention of retardation.

VISITOR FROM MAINE

"Ben" Lloyd, former well-known Winchester boy, now living in Rumford, Me., was in town last week looking up old friends and marveling at the change in the old home town since he left in 1938. "Ben" now runs a general store in Rumford and was in Boston last week on a business trip. He had a few hours free on Thursday and came out to Winchester, visiting the Editor of the Star and "Pat" Foley, among others around the square.

3 TYPES of PLUMBING SERVICE for your benefit

1. Regular, high-quality installations and repairs on plumbing and heating.

2. Repairs on small jobs, pipe cut to measure, threaded, etc., in our new shop while you wait.

3. Supplies and instructions for "do-it-yourselfers."

Save money by doing your own small repair jobs.

A dripping faucet, "running" toilet tank, or wobbly radiator handle is easy to repair. Probably all you need is a screwdriver, pair of pliers, and small wrench plus a new washer, "lift wire," or handle. As for doing it, you can learn how because we'll show you.

When you have a small plumbing repair problem, phone us — better still, come in and tell us what it is. In our new shop you'll find we've combined the advantages of an efficient retail plumbing-parts store with those of a professional plumbing counsel. On actual equipment we'll explain how easily you can make your own repairs. You can get the necessary parts from us—tools, too, if you wish.

As a result you'll save the cost of labor which is often greater than the cost of parts on such easy jobs as:

Adjusting Toilet Tank Balls
Replacing Toilet Tank Lift Wires
Releasing Toilet Stoppages
Repairing Faucets - Cleaning Boilers
Replacing Radiator Handles and Valves
Try it and see!

OPPRESSED BUT NOT DEFEATED

We read in the book of Exodus, that when the children of Israel were persecuted by the Egyptians, "the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew." (Exodus 1:12).

It takes faith sometimes to see it, but the more we are oppressed by spiritual and temporal enemies, the more our souls prosper. When dangers distress us, when burdens lie heavily upon us, then it is that God hastens to our aid, and makes the very adversity an occasion of our growth. The ways of God are truly wonderful.

I suppose that if we could have our own way, we would choose to avoid discomfort and suffering, for it is human to rebel against them. But who are the great souls that we have known? Not those whose lives were easy, but those whose lives had been tempered upon the anvil of adversity.

Gold is not much good in its natural form. The ore has to be smelted. Diamonds are made of the same material as coal, so we are told. But the carbon in the coal has been transmuted by a lightning flash.

Let us not forget—when the pressure is greatest, when our need is most desperate, then God is nearest. If we believe, He will deliver us, even as He delivered the children of Israel in their extremity.

MISNOMER

Strolling along the other day Near Sandy Beach (by way of sport)
I noted it had been transformed
Into a modern beach resort,
Where speed boats scurried to and fro.

And hordes of folk from far and near
Were taking full enjoyment of This swarming, miniature Revere!

And lo! where stood the wooden shack
That I in far-off childhood knew
A modern building, large and clean,
Well-staffed and thronging, came to view.

And at its portals there appeared,
In letters etched with skill and pride,
The standard code of rules by which
An eager bather must abide;
Where now and then a single word
Stood out in letters bold and clear,
Designed to catch the roving eye
Of every bather who came near:

Bathouse

(In nearly every line occurred
This novel and intriguing word).

And so in curiosity
I stood there on that sandy shore
Gazing upon this house, the like
Of which I'd never seen before;
And as a frequenter of zoos
Was, I admit, a bit surprised
To note how, in this modern world,
Even a zoo was specialized!

Now, having led you to this point,
It's only fair to mention that I went inside and looked about
And never saw a single bat!

DRIVE RELIGIOUSLY

Recently it was reported in the press that Pope Pius XII, at an audience in Rome for two hundred and seventy mission preachers who were to go out as special evangelists, urged that they bring to the attention of their hearers the wickedness and sin of reckless driving. He spoke of the high rate of "gasoline suicide" throughout the world. He went on to point out that, not only is there "gasoline suicide," but also "gasoline murder," for in most cases, someone other than the driver is killed. To take one's own life is serious enough, but to involve the lives of others compounds the guilt.

That is certainly a needed emphasis. Not long ago, a group of teen-agers, joy-riding on Saturday night, ran off the road near our Salvation Army camp, and four of them were killed. To understand the meaning of a tragedy like this, one should not go to look at the remains of the car, as many did, but should go to talk with the families of those left behind.

We should paste upon the dashboard of every automobile a sign bearing the words: "Thou shalt not kill."

One of the strange facts about our modern civilization is that so many people, who are honorable and kind and generous, undergo a complete transformation when they get behind the wheel of an automobile.

We must learn to drive religiously. For it is truly a "life and death matter."

SAMUEL KRAKOW
RED CROSS TO HEAR
HIGH NATIONAL OFFICIAL

Samuel Krakow has been secured as guest speaker at the meeting of Red Cross Volunteers and friends to be held at the Music Hall on Bacon street on Thursday, September 18, commencing with a coffee hour at 7:45. The program will commence at 8:15.

Mr. Krakow is the International Relations Assistant to the Executive Vice President of the American National Red Cross. He is responsible for liaison with Red Cross societies in countries all over the world.

Mr. Krakow joined the American Red Cross early in 1943 and served as an assistant field director at Fort Niagara, New York, for 1 year. He was then sent overseas as a field representative in the Civilian War Relief Branch of the American Red Cross. He served for a year in Italy and was attached to both the British 8th Army and the American 5th Army in charge of health and welfare activities in various occupied zones.
Shortly after the liberation of Norway, Mr. Krakow was sent to that country as a special representative to handle American Red Cross relief operations. Late in 1945 he was sent to Finland as regional supervisor of the American Red Cross relief program in that country, and in 1946 was named regional supervisor for Scandinavian operations, which included American Red Cross programs in Norway and Finland as well as liaison with the Swedish Red Cross Society. Mr.
Krakow returned to the United States in the summer of 1947.

Mr. Krakow has represented the American Red Cross at many national and international conferences and also served as secretary to the American Red Cross delegation to the Vth Inter-American Red Cross Conference in Mexico in October, 1951. In October 1953, Mr. Krakow went to Korea and Okinawa on a special 4-month mission in connection with the American National Red Cross international program in those two countries.

Prior to coming to the American Red Cross, Mr. Krakow spent four years with the New York City Department of Welfare as chief of the employment section. Before that he was on the staff of the United States Department of Labor. He had also previously worked with the Associated Press, on their cable desk in New York.

Mr. Krakow holds a degree of B.S.S. and has studied at the City College of New York and at Georgetown University. He was born in New York in 1909. He is married and has one son. He resides in Bladensburg, Maryland.

William H. Edgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Edgar of 21
Oxford street, will enter Dartmouth College this month. Bill was graduated from Hebron Academy in June. While at the Academy Bill won letters in football and

HOME FROM SINGING TOUR ABROAD

Catherine deRivera, daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. H. Leland deRivera of 417 Main street, was among the Smith College Singers who returned by air to the United States September 5, from Amsterdam after a triumphal singing tour of Europe.
Climax of their visit, the fifth since 1951, was a performance in the United States pavilion at the World's Fair September 1.

The 60 students, under the direction of Miss Iva Dee Hiatt, choral conductor at Smith, began their tour in July by winning first prize at an international choral festival in Llangollen, North Wales, where 25 countries from both sides of the Iron Curtain participated. The students, several of whom are of Welsh ancestry, stayed with families in the area and their first night there gave a concert in the town square. When they left at 7
a. m. the next day for the competition the whole town turned out to wish them luck. When the townspeople heard over the radio later that they had won they gathered in the square to await and cheer the singers on their return that evening.

High Praise for Concerts

The Singers won high praise for later concerts in Venice, where they sang in the Doges Palace and were honor guests at a reception given by the mayor, in Vienna, where they took part in a choral festival; and in Germany, where they sang at a festival at the Nymphenburg Palace commemorating the 300th anniversary of the founding of the city of Munich.

They flew to Greece at the invitation of the Greek government for two concerts in Athens and Salonika, proceeds of which went to local charities, and were received by Archbishop Makrios of Cyprus who is living in exile in Athens. They were accorded warm receptions at music festivals also in Yugoslavia, where they went from Greece, and in Geneva and Paris.

Pay Own Way

The students, who pay their own way, have earned more than $15-000 for these singing trips in summer jobs since the tours began. The Smith College Singers were the first group from any American college to tour Europe after the last world war and the first women's group to sing in Canterbury and St.
Paul's Cathedrals in England and Chartres Cathedral in France.

Prior to their final concert at the World's Fair September 1, they took part in an international festival at Charleroi, Belgium one of only three student singing groups in the country to be invited by the State Department to represent the United States. The festival, in which choral groups from Russia and other communist countries participated, was held in connection with the World's Fair.

Recognition that true substance is spiritual forces in the mind and progress — this fact will be stressed at Christian Science services Sunday.

Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Substance" will include the following (1 John 2:15-17): "Love the world, neither the things that are in the world, neither the things that will be in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

A correlative passage from Science and Health includes this (259:18-19): "To ascertain our progress, we must learn where our affections are placed and whom we acknowledge and obey as God."

The objects we pursue and the spirit we manifest reveal our standpoint and show what we are winning.

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (4:18): "The things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal."

JIMMY FUND SOFTBALL GAME

Winchester's Town Softball League All-Stars will play the Melrose Witches and the Foley Gents of Cambridge and managed by our own Howard Kirby. The All-Stars have been selected by Fran Allen, manager of the champion Holy Name Society team and Hokie Procopio, manager of the Sons of Italy, the runners up this past season. The games are for the benefit of the Jimmy Fund and are to be played on Sunday, September 14, at Ginn Field starting at 2:00 p. m.

In the All-Star line-up will be such stars as Don Kenton, Lou Farrell, Johnny Farrell, Johnny Field, Bill Fiore, Rich Giacalone, Bob Smith, Bob Merenda, Ken Donaghey, Sam Bellino, Pete Provanzano, Joe Berardi, Henry Quill, Anthony Barbaro, Patsy O'Brien, Non Cogan, Paul Amico and many others. You may recall some of these mentioned as former star athletes in the high school of a few years gone by.

The Melrose Witches will bring a strong club to town because it has been the champions in the strong Melrose Municipal Softball League for the past three successive years. It is a classy uniformed outfit and present a strong brother battery in Tony and Al Lucci. Al is the strongest hitter in the league and Tony is one of the fastest pitchers in the same league of eight teams. Tom Leary played fast ball while in the service at Ft. Knox, B. Hackett played at Malden Catholic and Bentley. R. Gulla played at Providence College and was an all-scholastic at Malden Catholic as a third baseman. M. McDonough was a team-mate of R. Gulla at Providence and Joe Reboullet was an outfielder on Boston College nine. These are just to mention a few.

The Foley Gents plays out of Cambridge but has several players from our own town and Woburn. It takes part in a softball league made up of some sharp teams from Cambridge, Arlington, Somerville and Medford. It is a strong unit and Howard Kirby of Winchester is the man behind the reins. This team has played many games on Sunday afternoons at Leonard Field and it had the fans walking away after the game talking about them. They are tricky and play some excellent ball.

The program is an exciting one so be down at Ginn Field at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 14. The cause of the game is one that you will want to back up and you have heard your star, Ted Williams root for it.—The Jimmy Fund.

Do your share and at the same time come down and see some good ball and have a good time.

See you at 2:00 p. m. at Ginn Field Sunday!

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

Research aimed at learning whether rheumatic heart disease patients over 35 can be freed from lifetime dependence upon penicillin is under way at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Dr. Joseph M. Miller, in a Massachusetts Heart Association supported project at the hospital's outpatient clinic, is working with a group of adults ranging from their 30's to old age—all of whom have rheumatic heart disease and none of them is receiving penicillin "insurance."

If blood tests and throat cultures taken over a long period show these nature adults do not develop the "strep" recurrences which can trigger rheumatic fever without penicillin prevention, it will be, at least, preliminary evidence that in later life exposure to streptococcal infections tapers off to the point where the daily drudgery of penicillin administration may be unnecessary. If the results are positive, it will indicate that regular penicillin remains vital over long periods.

Other phases of research have produced further developments. For instance, Dr. Benedict F. Massell's studies at the House of Good Samaritan have shown that in the strange world of rheumatic fever the patient, in a sense, is getting sick and getting well at the same time.

Heart damage starts off slowly, while the inflammation is at its height and later, as the fever is subsiding and the inflammation accompanying rheumatic fever starts healing, those whose hearts are going to form scars will start doing so: the healing process itself creates the fibrosis which affects valve valves and brings on eventual heart damage.

While the inflammation curve goes down the heart-damage curve rises. It usually reaches a peak and levels off at about the time when the inflammation has gone.

Most heart murmurs begin in the first week of a rheumatic fever bout, before any permanent damage begins, and can be easily found with a stethoscope, furnishing valuable clues to doctors treating the disease. It was further found that the rheumatic process tends to be self-limiting in first attacks; 80 per cent of the initial illnesses burned themselves out in about 12 weeks, regardless of the type of therapy used.

Nevertheless, half of all first rheumatic fever attacks leave the patient with heart damage.

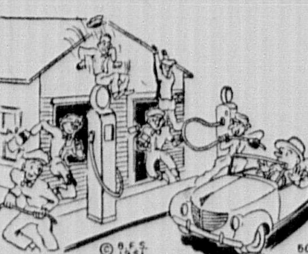

One of the most interesting of the Heart Fund rheumatic fever projects is the search for Substance X—the mysterious factor which turns strep throat into rheumatic fever.

Rheumatic fever occurs when hemolytic streptococcus infection in the respiratory tract produces a substance which reacts to the heart or other body tissues and produces inflammation. Long-term research by Dr. Melvin Kaplan at the House of the Good Samaritan suggests that Substance X causes the development of an auto-immune antibody.

Using fluorescein as a tracer, Dr. Kaplan is exposing heart tissues to strep infection in the test tube and injecting the altered tissue into rabbits, thus producing antibodies. A second test involves the mixing of tissues from a human heart auricle with the blood serum of rheumatic fever patients to learn as much as possible about the processes through which Substance X is formed. The work suggests that the rheumatic fever mechanism produced by streptococcus infection alters the nature of tissues in the heart, leading in many cases to eventual valve damage.

In 1956, the last recorded year, 708 persons died of rheumatic fever or rheumatic heart disease in Massachusetts. Many more were invalidated for long periods and face the possibility of recurrence unless major research strides—such as are being undertaken by the Massachusetts Heart Association—are made.

COMPLETES COURSE IN ATOMIC ENERGY

John L. Finneran, science teacher and member of the faculty of Winchester High School, has completed a course in the fundamentals of atomic energy at the Argonne National Laboratory, Lemont, Ill.

The two and one half week course at Argonne, the nation's senior atomic energy research and development center, was designed to acquaint teachers with the highlights of recent developments in science and to bring them up-to-date in the most recent additions to scientific knowledge.

Keystone of the program was laboratory work illustrating fundamental scientific phenomena, with Argonne scientists serving as instructors.

Experiments were of a type which can be duplicated in a school laboratory, with typical school laboratory equipment and readily available materials.

The teachers had a look at nuclear research methods and apparatus through attending 10 units of lectures and laboratory experiments.

Subjects included: atomic structure and energetics; radio-activity and radiations; induced nuclear reactions; nuclear structure and sub-nuclear particles; fission chain reactors; radiation effects in solids and liquids; radiation effects in biology; chemistry and nuclear physics.

In tours of Argonne National Laboratory facilities, the high school and junior college teachers saw nuclear reactors for research and power production; the gamma irradiation facility where food is irradiated for preservation; atomic particle accelerators; and mass spectrometers.

Alvin Glassner, 206 Fir street, Park Forest, Ill., of Argonne Laboratory's Technical Information Division, is the director of the 1958 summer sessions for teachers.

The courses are under the auspices of the Argonne chapter of the Scientific Research Society of America (RESA). The program was initiated last year.

Fifty-eight teachers registered for the three classes held this summer.

Argonne National Laboratory is operated by the University of Chicago under contract to the Atomic Energy Commission.

FORGIVE OUR SIN

A recent address by a prominent Jewish leader calls attention to the suggestion made by a Christian clergyman that all the world join the Jewish people in observance of Yom Kippur.

What a change there might be in the world if this could be done: if on one day during the year all men would unite in heart-felt, sincere confession of sin. How much it could mean if such a manifestation of sin and repentance should be truly meaningful.

Suppose we could hear, in the United Nations, leaders of nation after nation pray, "O Lord, forgive us for the sin we have committed in favoring the strong over the weak." Suppose we could hear the leaders of the Kremlin say, "Forgive our sin in debasing the lives of millions of innocent human beings." Imagine hearing the leaders of the South say, "Forgive us for the sin we have committed."

We can say that we would welcome such prayers as this at Yom Kippur.

But have you noticed anything significant in the above list? It is made up (and it could be extended endlessly) of a list of the sins of others. What about our own sins? We always welcome an appeal for others to repent their sins, but when it is our own sin that is brought out into the light, what then?

So long as human nature remains as it is, we shall be willing to confess the sins of everyone else, but not ourselves.

But the promise, the one promise, of God's Word, is that when we repent, and confess our own sins and only then, may we find forgiveness.

September means "back to school" for many youngsters of this state. Whether the children travel to school in rural areas or congested cities, their safety is largely the responsibility of the American motorist. So says Miss Carol Lane, noted traffic safety lecturer and women's travel director of Shell Oil Company. Last year, according to Miss Lane, motor vehicle accidents killed 2600 children in the 5-14 age group, and injured 150,000 others. "This year," says Shell's safety expert, "these deplorable figures can be drastically reduced—if each motorist will practice extra caution wherever children are likely to be. When approaching school zones, slow down, stay alert, expect the unexpected."

A PEN RESTS ON BLACK VELVET

The season opened early for the Winchester Auxiliary of the M.S.P.C.A. which met last Monday to hear Mr. John MacFarlane, Catle Conservation Director, tell of the trials and tribulations of an educational animal TV show. His "Critic Corner" currently appears as a part of Boom Town.

Once a teacher presented her class of 35 pupils in a demonstration of the teaching of geography and arithmetic. Along with the students came two pigeons, Adam and Eve, to be used in putting certain points across. Seems Eve proceeded to unobtrusively lay an egg right then and there, but the camera-man never would believe that Mr. MacFarlane had not performed amazingly clever sleight-of-hand!

For years all branches of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have worked toward less brutal methods of killing meat animals. Now the pen used by President Eisenhower to sign the "Humane Slaughter" Bill into law has been presented to Mr. MacFarlane of the Massachusetts S.P.C.A. It is properly mounted on black velvet, signifying the end of an era of horrible and needless cruelty.

A social hour followed the entertaining and enlightening lecture. Mrs. Fred Cardin of Copley street, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Lyle Longworth, Mrs. A. M. Duquette, Mrs. Robert Baylies, Mrs. Warren Wells and Mrs. John Boland, formerly of Sheffield road, served variety tea sandwiches and coffee.

Francis X. Haggerty of 251 Swanton street received head injuries when he rode his bike out of the V.F.W. yard into the left side of a Cadillac convertible coupe driven by Leonard Sortino of 10 Buttrick road, Woburn. Mr. Sortino was driving south on White street.

Mr. Sortino took the boy and his mother to the office of Dr. Charles Rooney where he was treated for a head laceration.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With Your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

Our history books, a hundred years hence, undoubtedly will record the achievements of the Soviet scientists who were the first to fling a sputnik into outer space. In these same volumes many pages will be devoted to the developers of nuclear weapons. One may further surmise that those who have pioneered in inter-continental ballistic missiles, and other counter measures capable of intercepting them, also will have liberal representation.

Without minimizing the importance of the work that is going forward to advance our national security, I should like to suggest that somewhere in these United States—at this very moment—there may be an underpaid and unsung medical scientist who in time will have as valid a claim to enduring fame as any of those just mentioned. He is the individual—or perhaps the individuals—who will someday supply the answers to one or both of these vital questions:

1. What are the precise mechanisms responsible for high blood pressure?

2. What are the precise mechanisms responsible for hardening, thickening and narrowing of the arteries in the human body?

In other words, he will identify for us the basic and underlying causes of hypertension and atherosclerosis, disorders responsible for about 90 per cent of all heart disease.

Once we know the causes, the way will be open to filling in the remaining gaps—methods of prevention, effective treatment, control or even cures. The achievements of this medical scientist will be reflected in the savings of millions of human lives, rather than in the perfection of methods of mass destruction.

Recent developments have brought into the public eye more prominently than ever before the necessity for such "basic" research which holds the key to the further advances in all fields.

The process of investigating all aspects of our world, through the biological as well as the physical sciences, must not be warped by an insistence on immediate results. We must get new knowledge first; results will come later. If we neglect basic research, we shall find ourselves seriously behind in a field on which the health and survival of our people depend. But if we truly acknowledge the importance of basic research and give it the financial encouragement it needs, we shall maintain our world leadership in medicine and in health.

SIMMONS CLUB TO MEET

The Arlington-Winchester Simmons Club will hold its first meeting of the season on Tuesday, September 16, at 6:30 p. m. at the First Congregational Church.

THE DISTANT DRUMMER

A recent news story in the daily press tells of "Sullivan the Tailor" of Cambridge. He learned early in his career that the customer is always right. Some one came in to order a suit, with a strange-shaped collar. "But nobody wears collars like that now," the tailor exclaimed.

"Don't tell me what people are wearing. You tell them what I'm wearing."

It isn't easy to be different, to think for yourself, to set your own pattern, in an age of conformity. Almost all of the advertising on television and in the daily press has this one theme: "You must do what everyone else is doing."

It takes courage to be different. But now and then, we find a person who is willing to. Those rare individuals are the hope of the world.

A century ago, there lived upon the shore of Walden Pond such a man. His name was Henry David Thoreau. He was constantly out of step with the rest of the community. Once, in exasperation, Emerson asked him, "Henry, what is wrong with you?"

Thoreau answered at once, "It is only because I am marching to the beat of another and a distant drummer."

It is not easy to do that—to keep your head, when all about you are losing theirs. But it can be done.

HOSPITAL AIDE COURSE AT WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

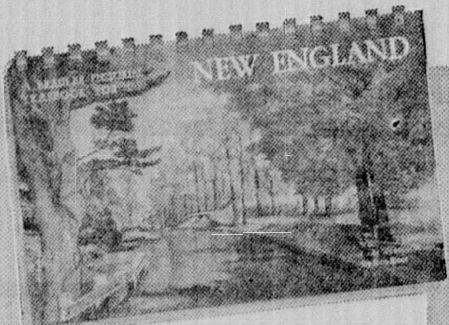

The Winchester Hospital, starting October 20, will train another class of Hospital Aides, according to Miss Marjorie F. Snyder, R.N., Director of Nursing. The instructor will again be Mrs. Bertie Donaghy, R.N., who has so successfully trained previous classes of aides at the hospital.

The course, which lasts six weeks, will be limited to eighteen students. The students, who must be at least eighteen years of age, will receive a salary while undergoing training, and upon their successful graduation will be employed as Hospital Aides, assisting in the care of patients.

According to Miss Snyder, the students will receive an invaluable education in the bedside care of the sick, which, in addition to providing them with an interesting career as Hospital Aides, will be of importance in their everyday life. Those interested in investigating this opportunity should contact the Nursing Office at the Winchester Hospital immediately.

NEW VISION REQUIREMENTS FOR DRIVER LICENSE EXAMS

In another drastic move to reduce highway traffic accidents for the protection of citizens of the Commonwealth, Registrar Clement A. Riley, chairman of the Massachusetts Highway Safety Committee, has approved a change in the vision test for driver license examinations.

He has ordered his Examiners to require applicants for a license to pass a minimum 20/40 visual acuity test.

Visual acuity as it relates to the automobile driver, simply means that applicants must be able to read signs and see people or objects at a safe distance.

The new minimum standard means that an applicant must have 40 per cent better eyesight than previously required. Any applicant who fails to meet this new standard will not be issued a license until his vision has been investigated and any defects remedied.

Twenty-eight states have adopted this 20/40 minimum standard as recommended by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators and the Motorists Vision Committee of the American Optometric Association.

WINCHESTER TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Play started last Saturday in the annual Winchester Tennis Championships and weather permitting, will be concluded this weekend, September 13 and 14, with the semi-finals being played at Packer Court on Saturday and the finals on Sunday in both men's singles and doubles.

From a field of 10, Adolph Alla, Jr., and Ruth Murray won the mixed doubles championships for the second consecutive year, beating Ed Williams and Mrs. Phillipa Young in the finals. As Adolph puts it, the secret of success in mixed doubles is to "get a good partner."

Among the more notable matches was a quarter-final between Jim Riley and Mrs. Silvia Campbell and Dr. Lawrence Quigley and "Wee G." Coon. This titanic struggle, which took three sets and two hours to resolve, was enlivened by Jim Riley's explanation of the rules regarding hitting the net with one's racket while the ball is in play. Jim, who bows to no one in his knowledge of these rules, apparently "made his point."

A field of 31 entries in men's singles produced only one upset among the four seeded players on the way to the semi-finals. Newcomer to town F. Sheppard Holt accounted for the blond scalp of Horne, last year's runner-up, in a long three set match that could have gone either way.

Shep, who moved to Winchester from Lexington last fall, learned his tennis at Kenyon College in Ohio, which also produced former National Champion Don MacNeil. Although universally liked and respected by all factions among coveting tennis players, the one notable blot on his escutcheon is his occupation as a professor of mathematics at a nearby institution generally known for its ability to attract football players who annually trample over Colby College.

From a field of 21 teams in men's doubles there were no upsets ahead of the march of the first four seeded teams to the semi-finals, although there was one awfully near miss.

The number one seed and defending champions, Robert Horne and Josiah Bacon ran into a hornet's nest in the quarter finals in the form of former Interscholastic Champion Dick Emerson and his son Billy.

Playing the kind of tennis that can only lead to golf or curling, and against a combination that just wouldn't err, Bobby and Joe managed to drop the first set brilliantly by a score of 6-1. It is difficult to say who played worse in this set, but at least Bobby had the excuse of having just played a tough three set singles match, whereas, the not so humble president attributed his troubles to having just watched Whit Gray hit forehands with both feet off the ground.

In any event Bobby and Joe somehow managed to pull out the second set and then by the very simple expedient of hitting the ball into the net or over the baseline, found themselves looking down the mouth of the cannon at 0-3 in the third and final set.

Each point thereafter was a struggle and the issue was always in doubt right down to the wire where after two or three match points and a half a dozen deuces, the team of Horne and Bacon staggered to victory.

There seems little doubt that Holt and Gray will romp easily against this team in the semi-finals in straight sets, unless foot faults are called or some other miracle comes to pass. In fact, rumor hath it that Horne and Bacon may not even show up for this match.

The schedule of matches for this weekend is as follows:

Saturday, September 13
9:15 a. m. F. Sheppard Holt vs. Robert Renetto; David Moore vs. Charles Watson; Boys' 15 and under singles finals.
11:00 a. m. Boys' 15 and under doubles finals.
1:30 p. m. Adolph Alla, Jr., David Moore vs. Charles Watson, Robert Apsey; Robert Horne, Josiah Bacon vs. Sheppard Holt, E. Whitney Gray.

Sunday, September 14
10:00 a. m. Finals men's singles (three out of five sets).
1:30 p. m. Finals men's doubles (three out of five sets).

AUXILIARY POLICE NOTES

On last Friday, September 5, the regular scheduled meeting of the Auxiliary Police was held in the guard room of police headquarters. The men present were encouraged to attend two forthcoming functions, one the Mass. meeting of the Regional Auxiliary Police in Lawrence, on Monday evening, September 15, and second the Regional Auxiliary Police Communion breakfast to be held in Somerville, September 28. After the regular business meeting a critique was held to determine the correct procedures of an auxiliary officer in regard to traffic control. We are hoping to have one of the regular police officers present at our next monthly meeting to help us establish a more concrete basis for our volunteer duties.

In the very near future Sgt. Joe Callahan will again conduct his short wave radio classes for the benefit of the new members. Under his guidance we expect to see many new radio men complete with licenses.

KNEE INJURY SIDELINES CULLEN

Big Jim Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cullen of Bacon street, is confined to the infirmary at West Point with a wrenched knee, the result of a football injury.

Cullen, who played both tackle and guard at Winchester High during his undergraduate days, played regularly in the line for the West Point pebbles last year, and with his weight, strength and speed was considered to have good varsity potential.

Whether his injured knee will prevent his playing football this fall will be decided by how the knee responds to treatment. Jim, himself, is looking ahead to the hockey season and hopes to be a candidate for the Cadets' sextet this winter.

Miss Catherine E. Tonon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tonon, Lawson road, will resume her studies as a senior at Centenary College for Women, Hackettstown, New Jersey on September 22.

MIKE MURPHY

MURPHY REPORTS AT ST. JOE'S

Big "Mike" Murphy, devastating fullback at Winchester High School during the seasons of 1954, '55 and '56, has reported for football at St. Joseph's College in Collegeville, Ind., where he made his letter as a freshman last fall.

St. Joseph's won the Indiana Collegiate Conference title for the past three years, and "Big Mike" contributed in no small measure to last year's championship. A legitimate 200 pound-plus fullback with plenty of speed, he was a consistent ground gainer last season and Coach Bob Jaaron expects him to be the backbone of St. Joe's offense this fall.

St. Joe's opens Sunday, September 14, under the lights with Xavier at Xavier at 8:00 p. m., and this game should hold great interest for local football peacocks. Murphy will be playing for St. Joseph's and in the Xavier backfield will be one of Winchester's great all time backs, "Jockey" Serieka, who is one of the returning veterans and standouts of the Ohio college squad.

PEE WEES START

LOCALS IN ELEVEN-PLAYER GAME THIS SEASON

Last Thursday 73 boys answered the call for squad berths on Winchester's Pop Warner football team for boys 12 years and under at West Side field.

Coaches Scott Parrot and Bob Johnson report the competition is very strong for the respective positions. Weight-lifts, drills, calisthenics and fundamentals have been the feature of three drills to date.

In the first turn-out 23 veterans of last year's team are included. To-date these boys have given the most promise based on their experience. However, there are some newcomers who will be heard from.

The backfield looks much like veterans Paul Grady, speed merchant Dick Rowe, hard hitting Dan Winn and Vic Lawson. Other promising backs are Pete Berg and Richard Lindsay.

On the line V Papandinis, Peter Cunningham, Kent Parrot, Roddy Wild, Dan Brink, Barry Johns and Bob Doane are veterans who have much work to do to keep in front of newcomers. Tim Root, Sparkie Connor, Bob Foley, Larry Dalton, Butch Luongo and Bill Gaffney.

The word now is that rather than 49 boys of all ages, arrangements are being made to turn these lesser experienced boys into a farm league, consisting of four squads of 12 players each, to play six man football.

These boys will have the opportunity to play on appointed days against each other, forming a small league to develop young players for next year's varsity.

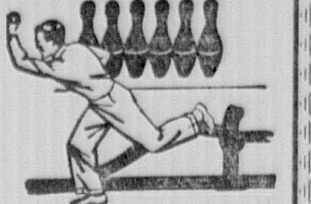

BAPTIST CHURCH SCHOOL OPENS

William R. Sorenson, Superintendent of the First Baptist Church School announces that the opening day will be Sunday, September 14, at 9:45 o'clock.

The entire church school will meet in the Social Hall for a worship service lead by the Superintendent.

New teachers will then be introduced and all will go to their respective class rooms for registration and orientation.

SONS OF ITALY Bowling News

S. O. I. BOWLING LEAGUE

On September 4, another season of bowling commenced for the S.O.I. bowlers. What a roster of bowlers signed up as we are able to put 10 teams on the alleys this year which represents 60 bowlers.

After the tremendously successful banquet this past spring everyone will be looking forward to such another gala affair especially the fair sex.

Fresh off the softball season, of which we ran second to that young and vibrant team of St. Mary's, we roll into the bowling season with 15 new bowlers whom we would like to introduce to the public. Paul Carpenter, Ben Subrizio, Joe Flaherty, Joe Marrone, Bucky Morgan, Richard Bucci, Jake Jacobellis, Angelo Amico, Ed Murphy, Lester Brooks, Arthur Dunbar, Andrew Buzzotta, Tony Penta, Mario Mascoli and the 15th bowler is far from new by a long shot. He was recently discharged from the Don Orione Home for the Aged Italians.

The older folks of the town will remember him in his youth as he was quite an athlete in the early 20's. Wearing the latest supports our one and only Hokie Procopio strolled up to bowl and received a most tremendous ovation ever accorded a bowler. His first string totaled a colossal 65. Nuff said.

Tony Saraco is the captain of the team. Nuff said. The results and standings of the opening night were as follows:

Team Standings W L PF
Navy 4 0 1,580
California 4 0 1,470
Bates 3 1 1,562

Also: Judy Dunn, George Ellis, John Ellis, Deborah Ericson, Austin Garvey, Robert Guarente, Peter Harvey, Rebecca Irwin, Stephen Kane, Valerie Kelbley, Winifred Kelbley, Betty Kennedy, Phyllis Kennedy and Judy Lane.

Others: Barbara LaTorre, Lois Lenz, Elizabeth Manzie, Francis Mawn, Joan Mongiello, Elizabeth Moran, Ruth Moran, Kathleen Morris, Linda Nelson, David Norris, Robert Nuttle, Karen O'Donnell, Norman Pheneey, Mike Puma, Jane Shanley, John Shanahan, Diane Stamatauros and Katheline Woodward.

Henry A. Schumacher of 350 Highland avenue, is one of two hundred and twenty-four members of the Class of 1962 who will arrive in Brunswick during the coming week end to begin their freshman year at Bowdoin College. Schumacher graduated from Winchester High School, was captain of basketball and a member of the track team.

For opening night there were not many 300 bowlers but there were a fortunate few that there were as follows: Richard Bucci, 342; Bob Fiore, 329; Choppers Gangi, 321; A. P. Tofuri, 308; and Tony Saraco, 304.

TOM LEGERE TOPS WINCHESTER SHIPE FLEET

Tom Legere, by winning the Winchester Boat Club Shipe Fleet Championship for the third consecutive year has done something no other sailor has ever been able to do. Illustrious predecessors like Don Simonds, Dick Morrow, George Wiswell, Jr., and Rodney Long all tried and failed. Yet Tommy and his top-notch crew and sister, Anne, accomplished the trick with a comfortable margin to spare. And did it the hard way.

Kenneth Cook started the season with four straight victories and it looked as though he would wrap up the title before Legere even got his boat into the water.

Then Herby Alderson, the pre-season choice to beat Legere launched his boat and ran up an impressive string of victories.

However, the minute Tommy got into the swing of things, he started to take over and won the title going away.

Actually, Alderson finished third for the season in the point score standing, but it won't be counted because he didn't sail the required 15 races.

Third place in the final standings went to Dick Ivers who looms as a real threat to win the title next year. Dawson Blamire was a good fourth, wallowing his arch rival Carl Freyer by a healthy margin. Listed below are the final standings for the 1958 season:

THE WINCHESTER STAR

VOL. LXXVIII NO. 2

THE WINCHESTER, MASS., STAR, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1958

PRICE TEN CENTS

No Motion to be Introduced

Not To Press For Rangeley Apartment House

The Star learned yesterday that Nicholas Fitzgerald will not introduce a motion under Article 10 of next Thursday's special town meeting to rezone the former Marchant land he recently purchased in Rangeley so that he could construct an apartment house there.

News that Mr. Fitzgerald proposed to erect an apartment house in the Rangeley section of the town was made public last week. It was followed by vigorous protest from residents of Rangeley, who have been busy since the announcement organizing opposition to the plan. The Planning Board has inserted in the warrant for the coming meeting articles proposing a change in the Zoning By-Laws to include a new district to be known as an apartment house district, and it was contingent upon the acceptance by the town meeting of this zoning law change that Mr. Fitzgerald was to seek the rezoning of the land he had purchased in Rangeley from residential to the new apartment house district.

Mr. Fitzgerald told the Star that when he first approached residents of Rangeley proposing to erect an apartment house on the former Marchant land he found several who favored such a move.

His decision to go ahead with his plan was predicated, he said, upon this resident approval and upon his own conviction that an apartment house of the garden type, which he proposed to erect, would be beneficial to the neighborhood and would act as a buffer against any possible future encroachment on Rangeley by the contiguous business district. Since his original talks with residents of Rangeley Mr. Fitzgerald has found that sentiment has changed so drastically in opposition to his apartment house plans that he has decided to let the enabling article he has inserted in the warrant go by default.

He told the Star he would not have gone ahead with the project at all had he met at first the opposition that eventually developed to the plan.

TOWN MEETING SEPTEMBER 25

Warrants have been delivered for the special town meeting to be held Thursday evening, September 25, at the Winchester High School at 7:45.

Twelve articles are included in the warrant, several of which could prove highly controversial and result in a meeting stretching into two or more sessions.

Included in the proposals to be debated and decided upon is that of the School Building Committee to transfer from the Water and Sewer Board to the School Committee certain parcels of land near the Winchester-Voburn line substantially in the location of the West Side well field as a site for a new junior high school. The School Building Committee also asks the transfer of funds from the Excess and Deficiency Account to secure bids for the construction of a junior high school on the well field site.

The Planning Board also has several articles in the warrant, briefly to change the zoning by-laws to include a new apartment house district, and to alter the zoning map to include in the new district land in Rangeley and on Lake street in the location of the Quigley property for the purpose of erecting apartment houses.

The Board of Selectmen, School Committee and School Building Committee join in asking a transfer from the Excess and Deficiency Account to prepare plans, specifications and working drawings for the alteration of the exterior of the town hall to make it "suitable for school administration offices, auditorium and for any other municipal use."

Approval of the meeting is also sought for the transfer of money from the Excess and Deficiency Account to be added to a previous appropriation for the purpose of making repairs and improvements at the town hall, it having been found impossible to do the desired work for the amount appropriated under Article 20 of the 1958 meeting.

It is also asked that the town instruct the Selectmen not to acquire the land for parking purposes situated off Waterfield road at the rear of Waterfield Building land which the town has been unable to acquire for parking purposes as voted in 1955 because of the refusal of the B & M Railroad to grant a right of way to reach it.

Monro New Dean, McDonald Aid Director

Winchester Men Win Harvard Promotions

President Nathan M. Pusey announced on Wednesday the appointment of John U. Monro of 24 Park road as Dean of Harvard College, effective December 1, and of Wallace McDonald of 8 Norwood street as director of the Financial Aid Office, succeeding Mr. Monro.

As Dean of Harvard College, Mr. Monro will serve under the faculty of Arts and Sciences. He will work closely with house masters and student and faculty groups in assisting the development of educational programs. He has directed Harvard's growing program of financial aid for students since 1950. For the past four years, he also has been secretary of the Overseas committee, headed by David Rockefeller, which studied the needs of the college.

President Pusey commenting on Mr. Monro's appointment as Dean of Harvard College said: "All those who know Harvard will rejoice in the news that John Usher Monro is to be Dean of Harvard College."

Has Played Major Role Mr. Monro has played a major role, both at Harvard and nationally, in the development of new student aid programs combining loans with scholarships and part-time work. He was a founder and first chairman of the College Scholarship Service, in which some 170 colleges cooperate, and has been a scholarship consultant to the General Motors and National Merit Scholarship programs. He serves on the executive committee of the Massachusetts Higher Education Assistance Corporation, and is a director of the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students.

At Harvard, he has taken a major part in framing new financial aid programs. The latest, effective this fall, provides loans and monthly tuition payments for middle-income students as well as help for those with small resources. In addition to advising students on their financial problems, Mr. Monro has been teaching writing to freshmen as Lecturer on General Education. He is a member of the faculty committee on athletics.

Native of Andover A native of Andover, Mass., now 35, he was a scholarship student and worked his way through Phillips Andover Academy and Harvard College, receiving the A.B. degree in 1935. As an undergraduate, he was editorial chairman of the Harvard Crimson, and president of the Harvard Journal, both student newspapers. After graduation, he covered university events for the Harvard News Office until World War II. He served as first lieutenant and damage control officer on the Aircraft Carrier Enterprise in engagements in the Pacific. After the war, he helped advise veterans returning to college under the "G. I. Bill," served as assistant provost Paul H. Buck, and in 1950 became director of the Financial Aid Office.

McDonald Moves Up Mr. McDonald, who is 35, takes over an office which annually helps more than 1,500 students to meet financial needs through loans and part-time work. The Financial Aid Office is the administrative center of a program involving some $2,400,000 of aid in scholarships, loans and employment.

ADULT EDUCATION

A workshop in Interior Decorating is being offered for the first time in the Adult Education program. Mrs. John Holmes of Winchester is planning a very practical course for those women who are thinking of doing over a room or house. By studying the basic principles of color, space, the blending of old and new, the class will learn what can be done to make the most of furniture and room space. Members may bring their problems to be discussed. Mrs. Holmes, a professional consultant, graduated from Boston Teachers' College, and obtained her special training at the Christie School of Interior Decorating.

The art and skills for braiding or hooking rugs will be taught by Mrs. Frank Gallagher, who has given a similar course in Woburn for seven years. She is a graduate of the Rug Teachers' School of Rhode Island.

Two of our Winchester High School teachers will again give courses in the evening. Miss Pauline Goodrich will have charge of the Jewelry class. She is a graduate of the Mass. School of Arts, and received her Master's Degree in teaching from Harvard. Mr. George Robertie welcomes men and women to his class in woodworking. Both the beginning and experienced students will receive individual instruction as they learn by working on their special projects. Mr. Robertie has had experience teaching adults in other towns.

Applications by mail are being received at the Superintendent of Schools' office until September 20. Registration in person will take place Monday evening, September 22. Mrs. Howard Aiken, director, will answer questions if you call her at Winchester 6-0007.

TOUGH SCRIMMAGE WITH ARLINGTON

Winchester High's budding football team scrimmaged Medford last Friday at Medford and really jolted the big blue, outscoring the Class A team and even without two first string performers showing a commendable ability to bottle up the Medford attack.

Tuesday the Indians were up against a far different ball club in Class A Arlington, the Menotomy towners being pretty much a veteran outfit with lots of size and aggressiveness.

Coach Knowlton was generally pleased with his charges showing against the rugged Arlington team, praising the work of Captain "Doug" Thomson, Johnny Curtis and Dana Kelly in the backfield, his junior ends, Johnny Hosmer and Roger DeMinico, and tackle, Paul White.

The Arlington scrimmage showed plenty of work necessary to fit the Indians for the formal games to come, and with this in mind Winchester will scrimmage Somerville here this afternoon. This should really separate the men from the boys, give the coaches a good idea of their starting lineup for Concord September 27.

Classes for the first term will begin the week of September 29. Parents with children in first through eighth grades who are interested, may call Mrs. Hiram Smith at Winchester 6-0376, for registration and further information. See registration ad in this issue.

VOTERS SERVICE IN ACTION

Voter apathy is "Public Enemy Number One" to the Voters Service Committee of the Winchester League of Women Voters. This active group has spent months preparing to alert the local citizenry to register and to vote in the fall primaries and elections.

A number of public-spirited merchants have cooperated by allowing the League to place posters in their windows prior to the September primaries. These attractive placards are the chief d'oeuvre of Mrs. Gilbert L. Morse, Jr. Look for them again before Election Day, November 4.

Mrs. Malcolm H. Masters, chairman, and her committee are currently busy preparing reminders to register before October 3. These notices, embellished with drawings by Mrs. Oleott L. Hooper, will be sent to all twenty-one year olds and to all new residents of the town.

Another facet of the Voters Service program is the publishing of non-partisan information on candidates. Questionnaires are mailed to all candidates who appear on the ballot in the primary, November, and March elections. The candidate replies to questions regarding his qualifications.

These replies are printed in the Star about ten days before each election. The questionnaires give the voter a chance to compare factual background information on the candidates that is usually neglected in political slogans and posters. Mrs. R. W. Freeman, Jr., has been in charge of gathering this welcome information.

Other members of the Voters Service Committee are Mrs. Richard B. Cannon, Mrs. Dean W. Carleton, Mrs. John M. Lee, Mrs. Carl A. Pitha, and Mrs. Norman Stafford. Their purpose is to see that every person in Winchester who is eligible to vote registers at the Town Hall and goes to the polls on election day.

Committee Asks Three Year School

Recommended Junior High School Will Accommodate 750 Students

III — The School (Layout on Page 4)

The Committee recommends that construction of a new three-year junior high school be undertaken as soon as possible. As will be recalled from our second report, we estimate the junior and senior high enrollments in 1967 will be between 2200 and 2300. Since the efficient capacity of these schools is now 1600, and the conversion to a three-year junior high program may well reduce the capacity of the present junior high school, by 1967 the town will need housing for 600-750 additional pupils in grades 7-12.

NEWS OF THE WOLSEYS

The Star had a visit this week from "Bill" Wolsey, formerly of Lawson road extension, and now of Maitland, Fla., near Winter Park. "Bill" came north to drive his daughter, Gretchen to Durham, N. H., where she entered University of New Hampshire as a freshman.

Gretchen and her mother spent six weeks in the north this summer, coming in June so Gretchen could attend the graduation exercises of her former class at Winchester High School.

While in Winchester Gretchen and her mother made their headquarters at the home of Mrs. Reginald Bradlee on Ledgewood road. They also spent some time with Gretchen's older sister, Mrs. Richard Jebb, in Nashua, N. H. Gretchen's younger sister, Sandra, is now a junior at Winter Park High School in Florida.

SCHOOL HEARING SEPTEMBER 23

The School Building Committee will hold a hearing in advance of next week's special town meeting at the high school on Tuesday evening, September 23, commencing at 8:00 o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend the meeting and town meeting members are especially urged to be present to ask questions and hear the committee's explanation of questions which may have been puzzling.

Chairman Robert Bigelow of the Building Committee has announced that the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, School Committee, Finance Committee, Water and Sewer Board, and the Johnson Rd.-Ridge St. Building Committee will be represented at the meeting.

The Committee has decided to recommend that the new junior high school be built to accommodate 750 students. The reasons for these recommendations are:

1. The classrooms which are not immediately used by junior high students will be available to alleviate the crowded conditions of the elementary schools. The use of junior high classrooms on a temporary basis would postpone additional elementary school construction.

2. If the school were built for substantially less than 750, it would be necessary to construct additional facilities within a few years after the school opens. Since 1950 construction costs in Massachusetts have increased over 40%; there is sound reason to believe this climb will continue. Therefore, it would be economical to build in one step what we know we will need, and can use, rather than build now and build again soon at a higher price.

With the opening of the new school, both the present and proposed junior high schools would offer seventh, eighth and ninth grade courses. Concurrently, the program of studies would be improved, the most noticeable changes being the introduction of biology and typing in the ninth grade and the commencement of foreign language study at the seventh grade.

A preliminary sketch of the proposed building showing the general layout is included with this report. Present studies indicate the building would contain 34 classrooms of the following types:

Academic	20
Science	5
Industrial Arts	2
Home-making	2
Commercial	1
Art	2
Music	2

In addition there would be a multi-purpose assembly hall, a cafeteria, a gymnasium, a library and administrative office. Further study by the Committee with its architectural and educational consultants may permit combining some of these facilities.

The Committee believes that the new junior high school could open in the Fall of 1960. To accomplish this, it will be necessary to adhere as closely as possible to this schedule:

September 25, 1958 — Appropriate funds for preliminary plans, working drawings and specifications.

February 1, 1959 — Working drawings and specifications put out for bids.

March 1, 1959 — Bids received. Early March, 1959 — Appropriation to build school.

April 1, 1959 — Construction starts.

August 1, 1960 — Building complete.

Substantial delay in any part of this schedule would result in the school not being ready when classes start in September 1960. Delay in the planning stage may also result in higher cost, since bids for construction work are generally lowest in the early spring.

In order that the Committee may complete the planning stage and obtain bids, we are requesting that $80,000, earmarked for this purpose, be transferred from the Excess and Deficiency Account to the Committee. The Committee will then complete plans and report to the Town at a special Town meeting with a firm price for the construction of a new junior high school.

MRS. ANNA WINN LOCHMAN

Mrs. Anna Winn Lochman, widow of former Postmaster George H. Lochman and a member of the family at the Home for Aged people, died Tuesday morning, September 16, at the Winchester Hospital. She had been confined to the hospital for five weeks and had undergone an operation there.

Mrs. Lochman was a life-long resident of Winchester. She was born April 28, 1873, in Winchester, daughter of James Henry, and Julia (Cummings) Winn, her father having been the founder of the Winn Dial Hand Company, one of the town's oldest businesses.

Mrs. Lochman grew up in Winchester, attending the public schools and Winchester High School. As a girl she studied the organ and for 67 years she was a church organist, being the first organist to play in the Unitarian Church after the present building replaced the former church which was destroyed by fire.

For 18 years Mrs. Lochman was organist of the Unitarian Church, after which she played in churches in Woburn, Stoneham and Arlington. She last was organist at the Second Congregational Church, serving there for several years until she retired.

An accomplished musician, she was well known as a pianist and accompanist, playing as a soloist and in ensembles. Late in her career she studied harp and became a proficient performer on this instrument.

She and her late husband, possessor of a pleasing tenor voice, were among the regular contributors to the programs of the Music Garden, local musical group, and she was always ready to assist with any musical project.

Mrs. Lochman took an active part in the social and fraternal life of the community. She was a member of the Fortnightly Woman's Club, the Winchester Emblem Club, Winchester Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, the Roundabout Club, Women's Republican Club, the Bethany Society of the Second Congregational Church and the Committee of Safety Chapter, D. A. R.

Mrs. Lochman was married September 9, 1896, she and her husband living much of their married life on Kenwin road. Mr. Lochman died March 20, 1940, and his widow entered the Home on February 13, 1954.

Active to the end, always cheerful and friendly, Mrs. Lochman had many friends among persons of all walks in life. She leaves a sister, Mrs. Helen Winn Smith of Wakefield and a brother, Rev. Arthur L. Winn of Readville.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Second Congregational Church with the pastor, Rev. Norman L. Smith, officiating. Burial was in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

MISS MARGARET F. MULLIGAN

Miss Margaret F. Mulligan, a former widely known resident of Winchester, died Saturday, September 13, in Lawrence, where she had been living with cousins for the past four years. She was 86 years old.

A native of Ireland, Miss Mulligan came to this country and to Winchester as a young girl. She grew up in town and was for many years housekeeper for the late Mrs. John W. Skillings of Rangeley. Later she was with the family of the late C. H. Symmes in a similar capacity. She was a member of St. Mary's Sodality during her residence in Winchester. She leaves no immediate family.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the M. G. Moffett Funeral Home with requiem high mass celebrated at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Charles E. Anadore. Burial was in Calvary Cemetery.

PHILATHEAS FETE MRS. BAILEY

In honor of her fourteen years as a member of the Philathea organization of the First Baptist Church, and because of the impending retirement of Rev. Walter Lee Bailey as pastor of the church, the Philatheas gathered en masse on the lawn of the home of the Philathea president, Mrs. Leon E. Leavitt, in the evening of September 9, to pay tribute to Mrs. Walter L. Bailey.

A delicious fried chicken supper was enjoyed in a gay atmosphere with not even a breeze or a bug to mar the festivities.

A string of cultured pearls with matching earrings was presented to the guest of honor with the best wishes of the group for happiness in her new life and home in New Hampshire.

LOGSDON — McLATCHY

Miss Barbara Anne McLatchy, daughter of Mrs. Ruth E. McLatchy of 38 Cross street, and James Nelson Logsdon, son of Mrs. Josephine E. Logsdon of 103 North Walnut street, Paha, Ill., were married on Sunday afternoon, September 17, at the First Baptist Church by the pastor, Rev. Walter Lee Bailey. Cameron Rylance played the music for the ceremony which took place at 3:30 in a setting of tall candles and white gladioli.

Mr. Bruce A. Brace of Billerica, uncle of the bride, gave Miss McLatchy in marriage. She wore a princess style street length gown of white starched lace over white taffeta with a sweetheart neckline and small cap sleeves. Her shoulder veil was caught to a crown of net leaves and she carried a white bible, the gift of her mother.

Mrs. Linda Laing of Winchester was matron of honor and Miss Marsha McLatchy of Winchester, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. The matron of honor wore a street length dress of pink nylon chiffon with matching net headband and brocade shoes. MARY PROVIZANO Little Mary Provizano, daughter of Frank J. and Emma H. (Giuliani) Provizano of 31 Lebanon street, died early Saturday morning, September 13, at the Children's Hospital in Boston. She would have been four years old on September 26.

Mary was born with a heart condition that caused great discomfort and required constant medical attention. She entered the Children's Hospital last April 7 and on May 8 underwent extensive heart surgery which it was hoped would improve her condition.

She returned home June 19, but had to be taken to the hospital regularly for checks. It was during one of these routine examinations last Friday that the hospital authorities discovered a condition that prompted them to retain her at the hospital, where she died at 2:30 the following morning.

Besides her parents, Mary leaves a brother, Peter, 10; and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Giuliani and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Provizano, all of Winchester. Her father, a science teacher at the Junior High School, is coach of varsity baseball at Winchester High School and is also an assistant coach of football. For several years he has been supervisor of the town's playgrounds.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the Lane Funeral Home with a Mass of the Angels celebrated at St. Mary's Church by Rev. Charles E. Anadore. Burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

EDITORIALS

Elsewhere in this issue is a letter from Mrs. Barone which we believe expresses the general opinion of the recent resurfacing of a number of the town's streets. Mrs. Barone's letter is much more temperate than many of the vocal comments made to the Star, but there can be no doubt that the lady did not like the dust raised by the resurfacing job any more than those whose criticism has been more vituperative.

There are two ways to keep streets in good condition. One is by the surface treatment, used by the town this year, and the other by the bituminous concrete system, which consists of laying sheets of bituminous concrete on the road. The comparative costs are 60c per square foot for the bituminous concrete as against 8 to 10 cents a square foot for the surface treatment. In addition, the bituminous concrete method raises the level of the street with each coat until it becomes necessary to dig up the street and restore it to grade.

The Star is informed that the treatment used this year, bank gravel spread on road oil, was used on Bacon street and Highland avenue in 1957, and that at that time there were but two complaints on Bacon street and virtually none on Highland avenue.

With this in mind it was determined to resurface Church and Main streets, among others, this year by the same method. A new company was the low bidder for the bank gravel, and apparently the joker in the whole deal is that the town did not get the washed gravel which was the basis for the bid.

Some of the gravel was good, we are told, some not so good, and some must have been terrible.

At all events the suggestion has been made that in the future the town protect its interests by having a representative at the gravel pits to reject any gravel not according to specification.

Meantime folks and business houses along the resurfaced streets are plying the dust cloths and vacuums, washing windows and cars and wondering whether they really won't have to repaint.

However it came to happen this year, we are sure that no one wants an encore!

Now that Mr. Fitzgerald has announced that he will not seek to change the zoning map to erect an apartment house in Rangeley it is the Star's hope that there will be a sober consideration of the Planning Board's proposal to create a new apartment house district in Winchester.

The heat engendered by the Rangeley proposition ought not to kill summarily all action on a proposal that can work to the advantage of the town.

The Star does not favor the indiscriminate erection of apartment houses in Winchester. We do believe, however, that one or two, or possibly three such buildings, of pleasing design and properly placed would prove a boon to many of our older residents and provide taxable property unencumbered by the need for providing school accommodations for child residents.

Let us have by all means a calm discussion of the apartment house zone proposal. It should not be judged good or bad by one hotbed of opposition.

There have been few more important town meetings, either annual or special, than the special session of next Thursday evening, September 25.

DUST STORM HITS WINCHESTER!

Editor of the Star:

Dust! If, by some freak of nature, Winchester had been the victim of a Texas dust storm, the residents might well be scanning their insurance policies to see if they were covered for property damage or the town itself might be seeking state or national aid to clean up the stricken area. It was incredible then, to witness a similar man-made situation such as occurred recently on Church, Main and Swanton streets, to name a few.

Without exaggeration, the so-called "resurfacing" of these streets created just such a situation, as any of the residents can verify. The excess quantities of gravel and stone dust deposited promiscuously over the entire street, resulted in rising clouds of fine dust which covered, indiscriminately, homes, streets, and sidewalks, even seeping through closed windows and doors to settle throughout our homes. The "resurfacing" was complete, down to every last leaf, flower and blade of grass within 175 feet of each side of the highway! This was probably most prevalent on the main streets where traffic was heaviest but even less traveled streets must have had their share of dust.

Though the taxpayers themselves, who are paying for the work, called and pleaded that it be discontinued, the dust still flew! Even without these protests, it seemed that the Department heads and the Selectmen should have observed the unfortunate results and stopped it immediately, applying themselves to rectifying the damage already done. Sweeping up the excess or wetting it down would have done much to help both the streets and the morale of all who used the streets.

If each resident were to estimate and submit to the town the expense of cleaning up after this prolonged period, i.e., washing windows, brushing off and washing walks, washing or repainting all wood surfaces, washing cars, cleaning drapes, venetian blinds and rugs, as well as expense for any personal medical treatment for resultant asthmatic attacks, sinus and other respiratory conditions; and the cleaning of stock in the business area, etc., the town would indeed be confronted with a startling bill.

If this is a result of a "new method" let us go back to the archaic way! I have lived in Winchester all of my life but can't remember incidents of "dust storms" in my childhood.

If it is a result of inferior gravel or other such thing to save money for the town, it is surely false economy if we save a few cents on taxes only to pay much larger sums, individually, for clean-up jobs.

If it is supposed to make superior streets, the old ones, arrived at by a cleaner process, were certainly more welcome.

It is too late to remedy Church street so I am not writing this for any personal gain, but I do hope the protests of the people already afflicted will put a stop to this process, so residents of other streets will not have to go through the same thing.

Sincerely yours,
Cynthia A. Barone

CHILDREN NEXT

Editor of the Star:

Last Tuesday morning a dog was struck and killed by a speeding hit-and-run driver on Manomet road. Although the driver of the vehicle didn't have the decency to stop and identify himself, it made me stop and think.

Almost two years ago there was a very serious accident on this same stretch of road, yet it continues to be a speedway. Manomet road is one of the main arteries to the Parkhurst school and it is only a matter of time when, what was a dog, now will be a young child. This dog's death will not have been in vain if it can prevent the inevitable death or injury to a young child.

I hope that residents of the area will take note of this incident and request the proper protection which their children deserve.

MR. AND MRS. CLUB

The first five years of accomplishments of the St. Mary's Mr. and Mrs. Club were evaluated at a recent meeting of officers and committee chairmen conducted by Mr. and Mrs. John J. Griffin, presidents for 1958-59.

Dr. and Mrs. William Kermont are chairmen of the all-important Catholic committee for the coming year. Rev. John M. Manion is the club's Spiritual Director.

PATENT TO WINCHESTER MAN

Francis D. Doherty of Winchester, and Bert E. Sells, Hamilton, Ohio, were the recipients on August 19, of U. S. patent No. 2,848,193, entitled "Air Cooled Turbomachine Blading."

Gas turbines and similar equipment include a rotor with blades thereon that are subjected to the action of high temperature gases. These machines operate at high speeds, with the result that undesirable centrifugal stresses are set up in the blades. To reduce these stresses, it has been proposed that the blades be made of sheet metal shaped and fabricated to a hollow form.

These turbomachines also operate at temperatures of 1500 degrees Fahrenheit or higher, thus creating conditions in which the blades may fail or cease to function properly due to the decrease in their strength with rising temperatures. This situation may be alleviated somewhat by cooling the blades and thus raising the maximum allowable operating temperature of the turbine. Furthermore, by making the blades with thin walls, it is possible to obtain a more uniform distribution of temperature within them, with less internal stressing and warping of the walls of the blade and with increased economy in the use of high temperature steel alloys.

However, according to Messrs. Doherty and Sells, difficulty has been encountered in properly securing these hollow blades to the rotor of the turbine.

To provide an improvement over the prior practice, Messrs. Doherty and Sells have devised a novel construction of hollow turbomachine blade which is fastened to the rotor of the turbine in the required way and is cooled in such a manner that it is capable of sustained operation at high temperatures. The blade structure comprises a base of special design with a cut-out portion which, in conjunction with a similar cut-out portion in the rotor, forms a cooling chamber. The upper section of the blade includes partitions which provide localized cooling passages. The parts of the structure may be welded together, and the arrangement is such that the amount of vibration during use is decreased and there is a reduced possibility of fatigue failure of the blade.

Messrs. Doherty and Sells have assigned this patent to General Electric Company.

Latest Automatic Equipment

Winchester Bowladrome Opens Six New Alleys; Total Now Fourteen

On Monday night the Winchester Bowladrome at 259 Swanton street opened six new bowling alleys which brought the total alleys to fourteen. All of the alleys have the latest in candle pin bowling equipment and all are equipped with automatic pinsetters which eliminate the long delay while waiting for a pin boy.

The new alleys are in a building which was constructed on Swanton street by Ralph Marchesi, who is the brother of Anthony Marchesi who operates Nemo's Market which is also located on Swanton street.

Mr. Marchesi proudly announces that the new alleys are "a bowler's dream."

Mr. Marchesi has been in Winchester for 23 years and during that time has been a successful barber. He opened the bowling alleys in 1939. The building which houses the alleys was built by him and he did much of the work on the new addition. The alleys were put in by Harold Johnson of Stoneham, who was formerly with Brunswick, but Marchesi personally supervised every bit of the work.

Ground for the new alleys was broken in April and since then work steadily progressed on the building. The building is on the street level and was built especially to house the alleys.

Although the Bowladrome is usually very busy, Mr. Marchesi says that there is still room for others to bowl and he recommends that persons interested in bowling contact him and reserve a space.

Senior High Department, Mr. William Sorenson; Teachers, 9th and 10th, Mr. Gerald Hibbard; 11th and 12th, Mrs. Sargis Matson. Adult Study Group, Mrs. H. Stanley Kinsley; Men's Brotherhood Bible Class, Mr. A. R. Brink. Rev. Bailey's Sermon: "I Charge You" will pay tribute to the consecrated workers and will inspire all to work for the furthering of the Kingdom of God locally and throughout the world.

Nursery and Kindergarten age children will be cared for during the Sanctuary Service. A warm welcome awaits all newcomers to Winchester who have no church home.

Applications Ready for December 13 Exam.

Navy Competition For College Training

Applications are now available for the Navy's thirteenth annual competitive examination for its nation-wide Regular NROTC college training program, according to a recent announcement by the Navy Department. The mental examination is scheduled for December 13, 1958, and is open to all high school seniors and graduates who can qualify.

The deadline date for receipt of all applications is November 15, 1958, the Navy stated.

Male citizens of the United States between the ages of 17 and 21 are eligible to apply for the Navy College Aptitude Test. Persons attaining a qualifying score will be given the Navy's rigid midshipman physical examination next February. From the pool of qualified candidates remaining in competition, approximately 1800 young men will be selected for appointment as midshipmen and will enroll in one of the 52 colleges of their choice where a Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit is located.

The Regular NROTC is maintained for one purpose, to train and educate young men for ultimate commissioning as career officers in the Navy and Marine Corps. Successful candidates will start their Naval Careers in colleges and universities across the country in 1959. After a normal college education and substantial Navy training, graduates will be commissioned as regular officers in the Navy or Marine Corps, for active duty with the United States Fleets, throughout the world. For those who qualify and apply, assignment to flight training will open new careers in naval aviation.

In addition to the normal college curriculum, midshipmen, in the Regular NROTC will study a planned course in naval science. All tuition, fees, and books will be furnished by the Navy, plus an annual retainer pay of $600 for a maximum of four years. Regular NROTC midshipmen will spend part of three successive summers on training cruises with various Fleet units.

Applications for this program leading to a career in the naval service are available from Mr. Silva, dean of Winchester High School.

Mr. Silva has been provided with specific information concerning the NROTC program and will furnish information bulletins to any interested student.

"SO THAT'S THE WAY IT'S GOING TO LOOK!"

Rev. Leo P. O'Keefe, S.J. (right), Superior of Campion Hall, the Jesuit Retreat House in North Andover, looks over plans for an addition with Benedict Maggioro, Winchester member of the firm of Joseph Maggioro & Sons of Medford, general contractors for the construction.

Enlarging Campion Hall

Winchester Man's Firm Builds Retreat House Addition

To the many in Winchester who have experienced the benefit of retreats at Campion Hall the news that the well-known Jesuit Retreat House in North Andover is being enlarged will prove of interest. Local interest in the addition is intensified by the fact that the addition is to be built by Joseph Maggioro & Sons, Inc., of Medford, general contractors, of which firm Benedict S. Maggioro of 11 North Gateway is a member.

Ground has already been broken for the addition which Mr. Maggioro hopes will be ready for use by next summer.

The new wing, which is to cost $300,000, will provide 62 additional rooms, a lounge, new private dining room, and a new pantry and serving room for the more than 3,000 men who make week-end retreats each year at Campion Hall. Need for the new quarters is pinpointed by the growth from 300 men who used the hall in its first year to the present 3,000 yearly retreatants.

The new structure which will be joined to the present building will make it possible for each retreatant to have a private room in order properly to make spiritual reflection and to withdraw from the preoccupations of everyday life.

The building will be constructed with money raised by the men who make their annual spiritual reflection at Campion Hall. An appeal to each of the 3,000 retreatants has produced pledges which will meet the cost of new construction. The appeal was commenced in 1957 when plans for a new addition were announced by the superior.

Campion Hall was founded in 1937 on the former Kunhardt estate. There were 18 men in the first retreat conducted there and the 26 rooms in the house were adequate.

Now with 3,000 yearly retreatants and a weekly average of 65 men at the hall the old quarters have simply been outgrown. Men from all walks in life go to Campion Hall for retreats, and priests from the New Hampshire diocese business, Anthony as president and Benedict as treasurer.

The elder Maggioro migrated to this country from Sicily in 1921. After four years in Boston, he moved to Medford and the next year founded the contracting business bearing his name. He is now retired, leaving the running of the prosperous business to his two sons.

Benedict, who makes his home at 11 North Gateway, has been a resident of Winchester for the past seven years. Born in Sicily, he was one of seven children who came to this country with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maggioro, in 1921. He attended Lincoln Junior High, and Medford High Schools, and was studying nights at Boston University when he joined the Armed Forces in 1941.

He was in the service through 1945, serving in the South Pacific Area with Censorship and later with Intelligence.

Following his separation from the service in the fall of 1945, he joined his father's contracting firm, and has been associated with it ever since. He has been attending retreats at Campion Hall for the past six years with King the Christ Guild, and recently was awarded the contract for enlarging the retreat house.

In addition to his association with the Joseph Maggioro company, Benedict Maggioro is treasurer of the Bowen Realty Corp., and of the Parkside Corporation, both of Medford. He is a member of the Massachusetts Building Congress, Inc., of the Elks and of the Knights of Columbus. The Maggioro company has expanded its organization and is moving this week to new and larger quarters at 101 Hicks avenue, Medford.

ENGINE STOLEN FROM DeVRIES COMPANY

Officer Thomas Parsons investigated and found that the engine was taken from behind a new house the company was building on Fairlane terrace.

HI, HI SCHOOLERS

By Betsy Schaefer

Were you sixteen and a half as of last week? No? Missed by twenty-three days? Sorry, no full Driver-ed lectures for you.

A new lecture system for the Driver-ed training course caused the above statements. Seniors, licensed juniors, and juniors sixteen and a half or over, are the only students allowed to attend lectures this fall. A second series of lectures will be held this winter for juniors only.

Mr. Frank Weaver has taken over Mr. William Branley's duties as lecturer. Students will be required to attend twenty-seven out of thirty lectures as compared with sixteen out of eighteen last year.

The lectures are being held on Monday, Tuesday, and Friday in the cafeteria, and will run for ten weeks.

Have you met our exchange student, Wolfgang Pflhar? Wolfgang's native country is Austria. He is making his home here in the U. S. A. with Commander and Mrs. H. L. DeLivers of 417 Main street.

Seniors are busy signing with Benrimo for year book pictures. Passersby can look into Benrimo's store window almost any afternoon and see several W. H. S. students waiting for their turn to be "next."

The Oetette had its first meeting of the year last Thursday. The girls will be meeting each Thursday activity period for the rest of the year.

The G. I. C., the Athletic Association, and the Student Council have also had meetings to start off the new school year.

Girls interested in forming a Riding Club met during Tuesday's activity period to make plans. About 100 girls attended. This number is far too many for the club, so some plan for restricting members will have to be decided on.

Girls who have Miss Keady for a gym teacher are shaking their heads. The name sounds familiar, but the face doesn't look familiar.

The answer to the puzzle is simple. Miss Roberta Keady, who was a gym teacher at the Junior High and High School last year, got married this summer. Her sister, Miss Eleanor Keady, has taken over part of the high school gym classes and is also coach of the girls' field hockey team. Miss Keady with Miss Barnes was a member of the U. S. Lacrosse team which toured Europe last year.

Hockey cheerleading practices were held on Thursday and Friday of last week, and Monday of this week. This year's captains, Francis Besselman and Carol Poor, were closely watching the group for outstanding prospects.

The girls had one half hour of practice time on the ice at Lynn Arena, Tuesday afternoon, September sixteenth. After the practice period, try-outs were held. Mr. Burns, Mr. Morse, and Miss Barnes were the faculty judges.

During all of last week, try-outs were held for Varsity and Junior Varsity field hockey. Monday a list of the 1958 team members was posted in the girls' locker room.

The following are the girls who made the two teams: Sue Mucera, Elaine Golden, Regina Nuttle, Sherrie McNeil, Judy Donovan, Marcia Scott, Roberta Mulford, Sue Scott, Donna Violante, April Godwin, Barb Stewart, and Sue Fox.

Also Joan Denton, Joanna Hill, Betsy Schaefer, Cindy Deans, Sue Fisher, Marsha Smith, Carol Bond, Carolyn Kirk, Connie Marshall, Betsy Root, Paula Collins, Peggy

Padelford, Karen Kollegian, Carolyn Davis, Sue MacDonald, and Janice Davidson.

Girls who did not make the team are being urged to attend B-Squad practice on Monday and Thursday afternoons.

Freshmen interested in field hockey for both instruction and practice should also plan on attending the B-Squad sessions. Miss Barnes is supervising the B-Squad.

There is plenty of opportunity for every girl to participate in Winchester High School girls' athletics. Pick the one or ones you are interested in, attend practices and meetings, and you're in for a great deal of wholesome exercise and good fun.

TROOP 7 NOTES

Troop 7 Boys Scout of America has commenced weekly meetings at the First Baptist Church. The new scoutmaster is Mr. Francis Carlson of Mt. Pleasant street and is assisted by Mr. Eugene Dyson, also of Mt. Pleasant street.

Troop 7 has for many years been one of the leading troops in Fellsland Council, and this year should be no exception. Camping will be a major part of this year's program under Mr. Carlson, who is an officer in the Army Reserve and also a member of the Appalachian Mountain Club.

Meetings are held on Mondays from 7-9 at the First Baptist Church. All boys of scout age (11 and over) who are interested are urged to inquire at the next meeting.

HOSPITAL FRIENDS WALTZ EVENING

Friday night, October 17, will see the Friends of the Winchester Hospital and their friends enthusiastically gathering to enjoy the eighth annual Waltz Evening. The popularity of this fall event ensures that it will once again be an early sell-out, so do make your reservations as soon as possible. Since last year's available tickets were gone within one week, you can't be too prompt! Mrs. Richard B. Small, chairman of the dance, and her committee are planning to make this year's "Moonlight Ball" the best ever. All proceeds are for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital.

Dancing will begin in the town hall at 9:00 p.m., to the popular music of Herbie Sulkin and his orchestra and will continue until 1:00. No Waltz Evening would be complete without the Waltz Contest, which will be judged this year by Dick Champagne, of the Champagne Studios in Boston. Mr. Champagne, whose name is familiar to all, will also demonstrate the perfect waltz, assisted by Mrs. Winthrop S. Knox, Jr., the winner of last year's contest.

Stunning prizes have been donated by various interested local merchants, so do waltz along and join the fun. The committee regrets that no telephone reservations may be accepted.

Mrs. Small's enthusiastic committee includes: Mrs. Harold J. Wheeler, treasurer; Mrs. Malcolm S. Burr, music; Mrs. Henry K. Porter, tickets; Mrs. John Sexton and Mrs. William H. Gustin, flowers and ushers; Mrs. Galen Vincent and Mrs. A. Lane McGovern are in charge of refreshments; and Mrs. Frederick C. Rozelle, clean-up. Mrs. Francis Hinnendael of Reading is head of services, and Mrs. Sumner R. Andrews shares publicity with Mrs. Duncan Mullins of Reading. Mrs. Frank B. Kelley, Jr., president of the Friends, and Mrs. Robert Kroepsch will act in an advisory capacity.

HONORED BY RED FEATHER

Among Greater Boston students who are being honored September 19 for their summer work as Red Feather Junior Volunteers are Cody Meissner of Samoset road, a student at Winchester High School, and Penelope Borden, MacDuffie School, Springfield.

During the summer 714 students from public, parochial and private schools worked a total of 55,000 hours as volunteers in hospitals, neighborhood houses, homes for the aged and other social agencies. The program was supervised by the School Bureau of United Community Services. Cooperating in the project were school principals and volunteer service directors of the various Red Feather health and welfare organizations.

Some of the teen agers worked as hospital messengers, some as laboratory workers, others brought gifts and books to hospital patients, while still others worked as day camp counselors, nursery and playground teachers. They received their agency assignments from Robert B. McCreech, director of the UCS School Bureau.

For their volunteer work the students also received a Citizenship Commendation, signed by principals of their schools.

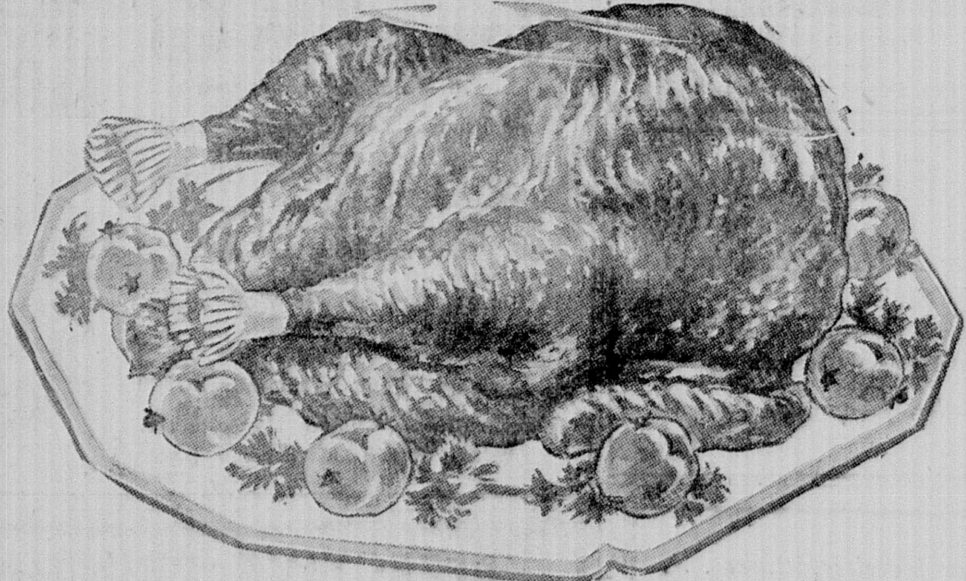

The American Automobile Association reports that youngsters in the 5-15 year old age group have the highest injury rate. Parents who are aware of this will warn their children of traffic hazards on the way to and from school.

BISHOP, PEABODY TAKE MEMBER-GUEST MEDAL

Leon Bishop of Thorny Lea, vice president of the Massachusetts Golf Association, paired with Ed Peabody of the home club to win medalist honors in the qualifying round of the annual Member-Guest gold tournament at the Winchester Country Club last Thursday.

Bishop turned in a 72 as he and Peabody carded a 35-36-71 on their betterball. Tom King of Motherwell, Glasgow, Scotland, was a stroke higher than Bishop with a 73, which his Winchester partner, Bob Zirkle, former B.C. star, lowered to a 72 for runner-up honors. Chauncey Steel, Essex Country Club champion, playing with Jim Wilcox, was third with a 73.

The sharp drop in the temperature during the afternoon didn't make for ideal weather conditions, but seemed to have little effect on the tournament leaders.

Peters and Cannon Bow, 1 Up

Member-Guest Honors To Bishop And Peabody

Ed Peabody of Winchester and his guest, Leon Bishop of Thorny Lea, confirmed their ranking as medalists in last Thursday's qualifying round of the Winchester Country Club's annual member-guest better ball tournament by coming from behind to defeat Bill Cannon and guest, Doug Peters of Charles River, in the championship bracket of the first-flight competition on Sunday, 1 up.

Peters and Cannon were two up at the turn, and Cannon's birdie on the 12th made their advantage three.

Their advantage was short lived. Peabody's net four gave his team the 13th, and Bishop's deuce on an eight-foot putt cut the lead to one.

Peabody was on the green in two at the 15th for a par four and the hole when Cannon rimmed the cup with a 20 footer in a desperate attempt to keep his team in the lead.

Peabody sank a downhill 30-foot birdie putt on the 16th to send his duo into the lead for the first time in the match. Cannon and Peters failed to square the match at the 17th, and saw Bishop make a fine approach at the 18th to set up a par-four.

This proved the clincher, for Peters' bid for a net birdie three from seven feet away missed the cup.

In the second flight Bob Mara, Oakley, and Earl Adams beat Sam Abbott, Nashua, and Stanley Neill, 2 and 1. Art Ross, Jr., Charles River, and Joe Monahan, Jr., won third flight honors from Paul Collins, Vesper, and Tom Stirling, 3 and 2.

Dr. H. Ward Christopher of Lakeview, Va., and Dr. Harry Mueller won the fourth flight competition from Jay Lillis, Wolfboro, N. H., and Brad Bentley, 2 and 1.

Ben Freitas, Marlboro, and Walter Welch, Jr., were 2 up over William Shea, Worcester, and P. J. Mullane in the fifth flight. Sixth flight honors went to Ervin Pietz, Bear Hill, and Vance Holdam, who won 3 and 1, over Robert Fletcher, Woodbury, Conn., and William Speers.

In the seventh flight Charles Kimball of Charles River and Al Martini beat Ray Smith, Kenosha, Wis., and Jay Wilcox, 3 and 1.

Eight flight victors were Lewis Day of Bear Hill and Richard Hintlian.

Following are the preliminary rounds played Friday and Saturday.

S. O. I. BOWLING LEAGUE

We roll into the second night of bowling and the soreness and stiffness of the lazy summer is slowly leaving the boys.

Each captain is maneuvering to get his team ship shape for an early jump. The old pro, Captain Mushy Tofuri of Bates has climbed on top as you will note below but the cry from the rest of the captains is, "We are just starting to flex our muscles!"

Good old Navy took the team pinfall total this evening with 1392. Captain Richard Bucci, one of our finest bowlers, is their leader.

Supporting cast includes "Sir Livingston" Ralph Tauri, better known in town as the Safari Kid, Arca Amica, the well liked grandpappy, Jake Jacobellis, the whistle tooting assistant custodian of the T. D. A., Al Di Minico, one of our most conscientious bowlers, and lastly our new member of the Board of Directors who won by a landslide, the "40 yard kid" Sammy Bellino.

All we could scrape up were four 300 bowlers this evening. Once again scoutmaster Bob Fiore, a fire arm expert and distance runner, led the pack with 325; M. J. Saraco, 316; Richard Bucci, 303, and Tony Saraco, 300.

There isn't much to report as they are still slipping and sliding all over the alleys. For such greats as "Sir Livingston" of Army bowled a mere 239. He was overheard to say as his team was soundly defeated, (quote) "We must have an immediate strategic withdrawal, re-group and advance forward!"

Also overheard, but not for publication was his opinion that his own bowling, which has been everything but good, has been affected by his increased weight, which has made him look like one of General Patton's Sherman tanks, but you take little stock in hearsay!

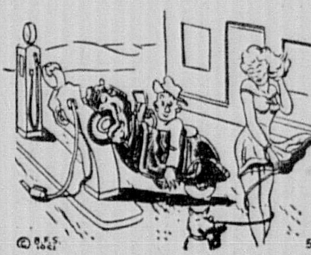

"SILLY SOPHOMORES"

Miss Phyllis Ann Parziale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Parziale of Oxford st., returned to Wheaton College on Sunday, Sept. 14. A sophomore this year and a member of the Dramatic Association, Phyllis was asked to return early by the dean of students to help with the incoming freshmen during orientation.

To celebrate being "silly, silly sophomores," Phyllis had a buffet supper at her home for some Wheaton and local friends. Those who were able to come were: Miss Carmencita Smith, Wheaton; Miss Carol Leverone, Wheaton; Miss Cynthia Ahlfors, Barnard; Miss Yola DiCecce, BU; Miss Elaine Damiano, Jackson; Miss Mary Elisabeth Jackson, Jackson; Miss Vanessa Ahlfors, NYU; Miss Sue Stearns, Wheaton, and Miss Valerie Kallivas, Wheaton.

SPONSOR of WELCOME WAGON

Many a newcomer to Winchester has had her approach to a knowledge of the town smoothed appreciably by the Welcome Wagon representative.

She is who calls on newly arrived housewives, answers their questions about churches, schools, where to get what, and most important from our angle, gives them a complimentary copy of the Winchester Star.

The Welcome Wagon representative makes a real effort to visit all newcomers to Winchester, but it is hard to keep track of all arrivals, especially those who rent houses. She, and we know the newcomers, would appreciate residents of any neighborhood in which there are newly arrived families, giving her a ring at Winchester 6-3431 so that she can get in touch with them and be of help if possible.

You will be helping her and your new neighbors if you do!

Safety Bonus: The AAA reports that Moline, Illinois, is trying a new approach to reduce traffic fatalities—a bonus for its motorists. Motorists will be given one day of free parking for every 90 days in which there is no traffic fatality in the city. The bonus is patterned after one in effect in Jackson, Mich. On "giveaway" days, paper bags are placed over the parking meters.

Little League Season Ends

Last Saturday, September 13, the Winchester Little League held the first annual cook-out at Ginn Field.

The weather was perfect, the food plentiful, and everyone had a good time.

Relay races pitting team against team opened the festivities. Owing to the time taken it was impossible to complete the eliminations in order to find a champion. However, in the trials the following teams were victorious: Red Sox, Dodgers, Bears, Tigers, Yankees, Reds and Panthers.

A tug-of-war elimination was completed, to the enthusiastic approval of more than 200 Little Leaguers and many interested and generous parents and friends. The Red Sox beat the Reds in the major league final after a very spirited battle. The losers went down fighting. The Rams beat the Panthers in the minor league final, in another knock-down, drag-out battle. What these boys lack in size they make up for in spirit.

Babe Ruth scouts, watch out! Two extra tickets per boy on the winning teams were the prizes.

MASS. YOUNGSTERS SERVE ON SAFETY PATROLS

A total of 15,250 boys and girls are serving as members of the School Safety Patrols throughout Massachusetts helping to protect the lives of schoolmates at street crossings during the current school year, according to Richard W. Hoover, Safety Director for Massachusetts Division American Automobile Association.

Over the nation as a whole, the membership of the Patrol totals more than 660,000 boys and girls, he said.

The AAA club official said that a safety poster illustrating the theme, "Help Your Safety Patrol," is now being distributed to Bay State schools as part of the regular monthly safety education program.

Paying tribute to the Patrols, Hoover pointed out that since 1922 when the program was inaugurated, the traffic death rate of school-age children has dropped nearly one-half, while the death rate of all other age groups has doubled.

The AAA club official urged all children to respect and take advantage of the guidance of Safety Patrols, and called on parents to so advise their youngsters.

"Safety Patrols are performing one of the most outstanding jobs in the entire traffic safety field," Hoover said. "Their influence on other children has been the most constructive step in reducing accidents involving school-age children."

The new poster was designed by Helen Mary Wood, 17, a 12th grade student at Notre Dame High School, Moylan, Pa. It was a first place award in the American Automobile Association's 1958 National Traffic Safety Poster Contest.

Selected by a board of nationally-known judges, the poster has been reproduced for distribution by AAA clubs throughout the nation.

ACCIDENT REPEATER RESEARCH PROJECT

Continuing his strong enforcement campaign to remove from the highways improper motor vehicle operators, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Clement A. Riley today announced a firm policy with respect to accident repeaters.

All accidents reported to the Registry of Motor Vehicles, whether or not personal injury or property damage or both, will be carefully examined by a specially trained group of Accident Review Hearings Officers to determine whether or not the operators involved are accident-prone as indicated by a series of accidents. Such repeaters may expect to be notified of a hearing before a special Accident Review Officer to determine whatever action may be necessary.

The Registrar hopes that this activity will be helpful in removing from the highways operators who may be able to pass an examination but nevertheless constitute a menace to themselves and other highway users.

GRADY AND MAGUIRE CHAIRMEN

John T. Grady of 17 Sheridan Circle, and Richard Maguire of 20 Ridgely Road will be the Chairmen of the Annual Harvest in the greater Winchester area. Scores of volunteers will be recruited to help the Catholic Guild for the Blind, Archdiocese of Boston, to raise the necessary funds to continue its work.

The Catholic Guild for the Blind is not a member of any fund, public or private, therefore it is at this time of the year that it must raise the necessary money which will permit the Guild to continue its program.

The Catholic Guild for the Blind services more than 7500 blind persons in the state and does not restrict its activities to any particular group. The Guild offers its services on a consultant basis to any organization for the blind and at its rehabilitation center all blind adults of the New England area are eligible for training.

St. Paul's Rehabilitation Center for the newly blind in Newton has in the past four years trained more than 150 persons who have returned home to take their rightful place in their community as active and participating citizens.

Annual Harvest contributions may be made directly to the Guild headquarters by addressing your donations to "Annual Harvest," Boston, or to the friend or neighbor who will approach you.

MYSTIC VALLEY INSTALLS

On Thursday, September 11, Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., held their annual installation of officers. Following an official visitation by the District Deputy, Warren P. Eldridge, of Winslow road. The installing Master, John Caruthers, of Birch lane, took charge. Unfortunately, the incoming Master, Harry W. Wood, of Oneida road was unable to be present due to illness. The other officers, however, were installed. The retirement of the chaplain, Rev. Walter Lee Bailey of the First Baptist Church, who has filled the post of chaplain for some fourteen years, was a moving occasion, although the installation of the new chaplain, Rev. H. Newton Clay of the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church did much to relieve the tension.

Fred Cameron Jr. of Fletcher street, who will continue as Master until health permits Wood to be installed, was presented a Past Master's medal by his father, Fred Cameron Sr., also of Fletcher st. The meeting was followed by a collation served by the new Jr. Warden, Floyd Horn, and the new Stewards, Wesley Swanson and Eugene Chase.

Courtesy plays an important part in everyday life — particularly on the road. The American Automobile Association says that driving your car will be even more enjoyable — and much safer — if you do it courteously. Give the other fellow a break!

George P. Sutton, of Winchester, Manager of the Advance Design Section at Rocketdyne, and one of the nation's leading research engineers in the field of space flight and rocket propulsion, has been named next year's Hunsaker Professor of Aeronautical Engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, according to an announcement made today by Dr. J. A. Stratton, acting president of M.I.T.

First man from industry to be selected for the endowed visiting professorship, Mr. Sutton will conduct a course in rocket engine propulsion at the Institute and will also engage in research on the design and development of rocket engines. During the year he will deliver the Minta Martin lecture to scientific audiences throughout the nation.

Mr. Sutton joined North American Aviation in 1946 and since has been actively engaged on all phases of Navaho, Redstone, Thor, Jupiter and Atlas engine development work conducted at the company's Rocketdyne division at Canoga Park, Calif. Scientists at Canoga Park, working under his direction, have designed extremely high-thrust liquid propellant rocket engines for ballistic missile applications and conducted extensive studies of nuclear rocket engines and ion rocket engines for exploratory space efforts to the moon and beyond.

During the past year Mr. Sutton has served as president of the American Rocket Society. One of his many technical publications is a textbook, "Rocket Propulsion Elements."

Sutton, with his wife, Yvonne, and two daughters, Christine, 13, and Marilyn, 11, has moved from Woodland Hills, Calif., to 15 Lawrence st. in Winchester.

His position as Manager of the Advance Design Section at Rocketdyne will be filled during his absence by Douglas W. Hege, who lives in the same community and who, since 1954, has been Program Manager of the Atlas engine development effort at Rocketdyne.

LETTERS FROM ALISON

(Winchester Girl With U. S. Hockey Team Writes Home.)

En Route from Cape Town to Johannesburg, South Africa, Sept. 1, 1958.

Dear Folks:

En route to Johannesburg on our last train ride. We left four behind in Cape Town—Joan Edembo, "Haussie" Carol Haussermann, Chickie Geraci and Anne Le Duc. It was very sad to leave Cape Town. It was just beautiful down there and it did mark the end of the tour.

We arrived there Friday morning. I got my hair cut and then puttered around until lunch. After lunch we motored around the Cape Peninsula, the most beautiful scenery we have yet seen. For one thing there were forests, mostly gum mesquite but some pines. It was so good to be back with the trees again!

We drove all the way around the peninsula, stopping for tea at the farm of an old time hockey person. Her husband was a retired minister and the two of them worked this Jersey farm which was nestled against Table Mountain and looked out the sea.

She must have been half the night baking for us. Boy, was it delicious! I've tried to be careful about my weight but I'm afraid I slipped a little. Actually, I've lost about five lbs. I hope you're impressed because most everyone has gained. One girl has gained 14 lbs. and others just aren't telling.

After we left the tea, we drove on to the Cape of Good Hope, down along the Indian Coast and back along the Atlantic. How about that! I think that the Cape was one of the most impressive sights of the trip—just to think that you were standing on the most southern part of Africa with nothing but water for 4,000 miles to Antarctica.

To reach it you had to drive along a table land of stunted trees and bushes, reminding me of Katahdin's table land. The land went down to cliffs on both sides. It was just too beautiful. I could have stayed there half the day watching the sea. The way back was equally beautiful. The road was cut from the side of the cliffs and twisted and wound along the coast. We saw a beautiful sunset and got back just after twilight.

Saturday we were still lucky with the weather and were able to go up the cable car to the top of Table Mountain. What a view from there! Again, on one side was the Atlantic and on the other, the Indian. I felt as though I was on top of the world. The only wild life on the mountain is what they call rock rabbits but they don't have the long ears and powder puff tails and look more like Mrs. Tiggy Winkle.

We played our last game on a brand new pitch in a brand new stadium. This country is very sports minded and new fields and stadiums are cropping up everywhere.

At the start of the game it looked as though we were going to clobber them. We got two quick goals, then they scored before the half. As they were the only ones to score in the second half, the final score was 2-2. It could have been won by either side as each had its share of close calls.

If there is one thing I have learned on tour, it is what kind of passes a left wing wants. The weakness of the team lay in the left inner and center positions. We just didn't have what it took in there. I don't know if I could have been any help as left inner but I would have given a lot to have tried it.

How about you, Steph, did you play left wing at hockey camp. I've really been thinking about Hampshire next year and hockey at college and what the two of us can work out together. There is no defense in the world that can stop a good inner wing combination. It's really going to be neat!

It was sad to put away my tunic for the last time and to hand in my number and badge. Everyone is already thinking of the International Conference in Holland next year. If I were to go, I'd have to quit college at the end of the semester and finish next year. It could be done possibly but I'd be sacrificing a lot. It would mean, though, that we would tour all through Europe playing hockey from March to June. I guess it's crazy to even think about it but the touring bug is catching. I'd probably have to make U. S. or U. S. Reserves this year to make it.

Tomorrow we leave at 11:30 a. m. for Rome. Ten Lee, Jane Mavor and I take off in our rented Volkswagen for parts unknown. We hope to be in Mayrhofen, Austria, by September 10. We fly from Brussels, September 17, arriving in Boston 6:10 a. m. Sept. 18 on flight 55 BOAC from London. Better check on the promptness of the plane before coming in. Lee's parents will pick her up in Winchester.

Our last night in South Africa was celebrated by a party and braais. All the same eligible present and accounted for. Five of us are staying together in a huge house alone, except for three big dogs. Our host and hostess had to leave for Rhodesia and so left the house to us. Rather luxurious! Farewell South Africa! Europe here we come!

Much love to all,
Alison

WOMEN'S CLUBS MEET AT YORK HARBOR, MAINE

The New England Conference of State Federation of Women's Clubs at the Marshall House, York Harbor, Maine was attended by members of the Fortnightly of Winchester.

Mrs. Paul Atwood, Mrs. William E. Priest, Mrs. Marshall Symmes, and Mrs. Walter W. Winship attended the meetings. They were held Sept. 8-9-10.

The Maine Federation was the hostess group. The keynote speaker was Gardner A. Caverly, ex-president of the N. E. Council and former president of the Rutland Railway Corp.

Also addressing the group was Marion Martin, Maine Comm. of Labor and Industry. Miss Martin has just returned from Europe where she was an advisor to U. S. Secretary of Labor, Mitchell. The principal speaker at the Tuesday session was Mrs. May Craig, Washington newspaper columnist. Her topic was Washington and the World.

Maine Senator Margaret Chase Smith was the speaker at the banquet meeting.

The closing session for the 390 women was addressed by the Rev. Frederick H. Thompson, minister of the Woodford Congregational Church of Portland. "Learn to carry out your commitments and do not put them aside. They will not be done."

RETURN FROM TRAVEL IN EUROPE

Professor and Mrs. Norman J. Padelford have recently returned from a summer of travel in Europe which ranged from Turkey to above the Arctic Circle. Leaving Winchester in May, they stopped briefly in Rome and Athens before meeting their daughter Carolyn in Turkey. While visiting in Izmir, Professor Padelford had business with the Command Headquarters of NATO for Southeast Europe. They also attended a festival in the ancient city of Bergama, near Izmir. In Istanbul they enjoyed a week of seeing that historic and beautiful city, and visiting their daughter who is teaching English to Turkish girls in the American school in Uskudar on the Asian side of the city.

After flying from Istanbul to Copenhagen, Professor Padelford spent several weeks on special assignments interviewing the top leaders of the political parties and other government representatives in Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland. It was a special pleasure to see some of his former students now in advanced positions in American embassies and foreign governments.

When Carolyn's school ended, she joined her parents in Scandinavia for six weeks. During their stay in Sweden the Padelfords flew to the city of Kiruna north of the Arctic Circle, the site of Europe's largest iron mines. This all-night excursion flight to the land of the midnight sun, and the celebration of Midsummer's Day in Stockholm were highlights in Sweden. In Helsinki, Finland, they had an opportunity to observe the national elections held there in July. Carolyn also made a trip into central Finland for a music festival.

A brief visit to the Brussels Fair, and some days in England preceded the homeward trip. Carolyn, meanwhile, went to southern Germany to attend a 3-weeks international Church-sponsored conference of young teachers, German, Swiss, and American. At the close she visited Janet Easton Wallis in Germany then returned via Zurich, and Rome, to Istanbul for her final year of teaching there. She sends greetings to all of her friends in Winchester.

ATTENDED KIWANIS CONVENTION

President James Loftus of the Winchester Kiwanis, with Mrs. Loftus, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cullen, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson represented Winchester at the 1958 convention of the New England District of Kiwanis International at Bretton Woods, N. H., September 10-14.

Delegates from 220 clubs, representing more than 12,000 business and professional leaders, participated in the various sessions with Roy H. Silver, governor of the New England Kiwanis District, presiding.

I. R. Witthuhn, a vice president of Kiwanis International, past president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce and a trustee of the Milwaukee County Kiwanis Foundation, was the featured speaker at the convention.

Erskine N. White of Rangeley, president of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., was guest speaker at the convention's business session last Saturday.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

("Living With Your Heart" is a public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

Not so long ago, life ended when the heart stopped beating. Today, life sometimes can be restored and the victim returned to normal function.

To do this, drastic measures are required, and they are constantly being refined.

The most recent development in this field has come from a Heart Fund project at Beth Israel Hospital where Dr. Paul M. Zoll has blueprinted a way to tame one of our most powerful drugs from a sometimes-lethal lash to a lifesaving nudge.

Safer and more effective doses and methods of administering epinephrine, a last-ditch drug used to whip failing hearts into new life, have been found in this project.

Epinephrine is the most powerful heart stimulant known; it is the substance released by the body when it prepares to battle for its life. It excites many parts of the human system, and has been used for some time to shock a heart into motion.

Dr. Zoll's study has established that, used in a dilute solution with graded increases and injected into the vein, as few as 40 micrograms of this potent material will do the work formerly accomplished by 500 administered intramuscularly and all at once—a David-sized dose doing a Goliath-sized job.

An artificial Pacemaker, which has saved a great number of lives by starting arrested hearts through electrical impulses, was first developed by Dr. Zoll. It has kept patients alive as long as six days while doctors re-established a spontaneous heartbeat.

The Pacemaker's use has enabled researchers to glean new knowledge on the practical nature of epinephrine and related drugs in the treatment of arrested hearts and of low blood pressure induced by coronary thrombosis or shock. While it stimulates the heart, experimentation with mild, safe doses of these medications has been possible. It was in these studies that the dilute-solution methods of epinephrine administration was found useful.

Other heart restorers found by Dr. Zoll include the use of drastic counter-shock to regulate the hearts of patients with uncontrolled heartbeat (ventricular fibrillation) and a monitor which signals instantly when a heart stops. All have been vital in the fight against heart and cardiovascular disease.

Expulsion for Non-Conformance

Uncooperative Pupils Face

Stricter School Standards

The Winchester School Committee, acting on the recommendation of the superintendent and the administrative staff of the secondary schools, has strengthened its policy governing pupil conduct. The effect of this change is to make exclusion from school the penalty for repeated failure to conform to accepted school standards of behavior and attendance.

In the future, any pupil whose conduct is judged by the school authorities to be such that his presence is detrimental to the welfare of the other pupils will be suspended by the school principal who may recommend his expulsion. The School Committee will then provide an opportunity for the pupil and his parents to be heard before reaching a decision on his permanent exclusion from school. School officials emphasize that no pupil will be expelled unless and until every reasonable effort to secure his cooperation has failed.

Demands for higher educational standards and the pressures of heavier enrollments make it impossible for the schools to serve as custodial institutions for children and youths who refuse to cooperate with school officials. Pupils whose problems require treatment and services the schools are not equipped to provide represent community problems—and rehabilitation must be a community responsibility involving the joint cooperation of the home, the Church, law enforcement agencies, family welfare agencies, and the schools.

Ninety-Fifth Birthday

Mrs. Jennie H. Thomas observed her 95th birthday, Sunday, September 21, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur J. Marchant, 9 Emerson road.

The daughters entertained their mother with a cook-out at which all members of the immediate family were present including four generations.

Mrs. Thomas has two daughters, Mrs. Arthur J. Marchant and Miss Helen G. Wilder. Two grandchildren, Donald F. Marchant of Stoneham and Mrs. Shirley E. Alger of Maynard. Five great grandchildren, Susan, Donald and Diane Marchant and Stephen and Jocelyn Alger.

Firefighters Rush Oxygen to Child on Emerson Road

The fast work Sunday night by the fire department in rushing oxygen to a baby having convulsions proves again that our local firefighters are always alert and ready to serve wherever and however they are needed.

At 10:35 p.m. the night supervisor at the Winchester Hospital, called to report that a baby at 37 Emerson road was having convulsions. The rescue truck, with Lt. Michael Connolly, and firefighters John Pearson and Hubert O'Donnell, responded. They used one tank of oxygen to help John Grenier to breathe.

Dr. Harold Wheeler responded and took charge of the child.

Sizeable Sum of Money

Stolen from Filene's Safe

Over Week End

A sizeable sum of money was taken sometime last week end from one of the two safes at Filene's, Winchester. The money was taken between closing time Saturday night and 7:38 a. m. Monday when the janitor reported work.

Monday morning, Herbert Nickerson went to the police and reported that someone had been in the store over the week end. Sgt. Irving Boardman and Officer William Nash were sent to the Main street store to investigate.

They found that entrance to the store had been gained through a door on the back side of the river, near the fire room which led to the upper part of the store and down to the basement. Entrance to the basement was made through a panel door which had been drilled. The catch on the door was opened by reaching through the drilled panel.

After drilling through the door and opening it, the intruders forced a heavy mesh door and entered the area with the safe. The 200-pound steel safe, which was on casters, was wheeled out into a hallway and the combination was knocked off with a hammer of some kind.

The contents of the safe were strewn around and a sizeable sum of money was taken from a strong box. Fortunately, a second safe was not touched.

Until recently when he died, William W. Parker, who was building custodian, lived in an upper section of the building. After he died several weeks ago there was no one living in the building in a supervisory capacity. The building is regularly checked by the local police, but the work was of such professional quality that it would have taken a man there at the very moment of entry to have caught them.

The police are making every effort to apprehend the persons whom they believe to be at least two men. It is believed that the intruders knew where the safe was located.

League Undertakes School Study

The study and evaluation of conflicting pressures acting on the Winchester Elementary Schools: What ambitious group could be undertaking this worthy project? Answer: the League of Women Voters of Winchester, in cooperation with the school administration. Why the project? Every year the League has on its agenda a local condition or problem to which the membership wishes to devote considerable time and effort. It is hoped that League study and action on this urgent agenda item will be of benefit to the community. Past items have included the public adult education survey and the publication of the booklet, "Inside Winchester."

However, items for study and action do not constitute the entire share of the League's contribution to the community. The work of the Voters' Service Committee is well known. Posters and letters remind people to register and vote; candidates questionnaires help the prospective voter to become well-informed; published attendance records of Town Meeting Members aid in insuring more active local representation. These services are all provided by the Voters' Service Committee of the Winchester League.

Obviously, League community service projects require more than just enthusiasm and hard work. The local budget for the year is $1,625. Dues and contributions from members provide about three quarters of these funds. The remainder is solicited from civic-minded citizens of the town who have shown an interest in the League. Today, twenty-five members will meet at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Kelley, finance chairman, to discuss the solicitation which will be made during the next ten days. These ladies earnestly feel that an organization which serves the community may ask for financial support from interested citizens. They are most grateful to those who contribute to help carry on the work of the League.

Several Favor Proposal

Apartment Plan Discussed

at Zoning Hearing

More than 60 persons attended Monday evening's hearing in the small town hall before the Planning Board for the purpose of discussing the Board's proposed changes in the Zoning By-Laws to establish a new apartment house district in Winchester. Further discussion was centered in the proposal, if such an apartment house district is established to rezone land on Lake street owned by Thomas Quigley, placing it in the new district so that an apartment house can be erected there.

Commencing about 8:15 the hearing continued until 10:30, with really little strong opinion expressed for or against the Planning Board's proposals. Of those who expressed opinions, a majority favored the creation of the new zone.

Mr. Redding of the Planning Board presided and explained the Board's purpose in the proposed zoning change, stating that the only way an apartment house can now be erected in town is to rezone the land on which it is to be built for business. It is the Board's feeling, he said, that the creation of a new apartment house district would obviate this rather dangerous practice, by removing the possibility of using the land for business in the event an apartment house is not finally erected.

Mr. Redding called upon the Board's Planning Consultant, Allen Benjamin, who explained that the new zoning provisions are very similar to the old, except that the old provisions it was necessary to get the approval of the Board of Appeal in order to build an apartment house in a general residence district.

The new law, Mr. Benjamin explained, requires 3,750 sq. ft. for each dwelling unit for low buildings, but provisions are made to lower the unit areas for higher buildings going down to 1,500 sq. ft. per unit for houses of more than five stories. Areas of 1,000 sq. ft. per unit were adopted for apartment houses in the business district last year.

Mr. Benjamin explained that according to the Planning Board's provision for an apartment house district does not establish an actual district in which apartment houses can be erected at will. Subsequent action is necessary to place any land in the newly rezoned apartment house district before such a building can be erected.

Prof. Whatmough was the first speaker, and prefaced his remarks by stating that it is the long-range view of any proposed zoning change that should be taken. The construction of apartment houses in Winchester means, he said, the end of Winchester as it now is, and we must ask ourselves whether we like the town as it is, or whether we are willing to have it changed for the worse.

Mr. Nieuwenhuis was emphatic in his opposition to apartment houses in residential areas. He felt that residents of such houses reap the benefits of the community without sharing in the expense burden with the taxpayers. Winchester's excellent reputation for being a fine place to live was built on single residences, not apartment houses, and he personally came to Winchester because apartments have not been built here. He did not care, he said, to look across the lake (Wedge Pond) and see a six-story apartment house in his line of vision.

Mr. Speers explained he was speaking professionally as counsel for Mr. Quigley, but added that his personal opinion is, apartments and business are aids to a community, if properly restricted. He said that fiscal problems beset communities that permit only single residence buildings, stating that any single home with two children, assessed for less than $27,000, does not actually pay its way.

Apartment houses can add to a community's receipts without adding to its expenses, and the one proposed to be erected on the Quigley land would be such, since it would be too expensive a home for young people with children.

Dollar for dollar, Mr. Speers said, it is better to have apartment housing than to exclude them entirely. In response to a question, Mr. Speers said that the apartment house planned for the Quigley property will cost in excess of $1,000,000, and added that Winchester can not stand still, and cannot maintain a country town, being too near Boston.

Dr. Quigley wondered how fast apartment houses could be erected before Winchester would deteriorate into an apartment house community, and also what happens if we create an apartment house district, grant a permit to erect an apartment house, on land so zoned, and no apartment house is erected. Would it be possible, he wondered, to erect then anything permitted in a general residence zone, like a nursery school, or sanatorium, or clubhouse?

Mr. Redding said it would be possible and in reply to the Doctor's question admitted this phase of the law might need further study and revision.

In response to Dr. Quigley's question as to how fast apartment houses are likely to be erected, Mr. Benjamin said "slowly", not because of zoning but because of financing. He stressed Winchester's requirement of 85 percent open land on apartment house property as a deterrent to the undesirable apartment structures erected where

DONALD HEATH

Tax Collector Resigns

Donald Heath of Marshall road, collector of taxes for the past ten years and since 1935 in public life in Winchester, is resigning from office to take effect December 1. Impaired health has prompted his resignation.

A resident of Winchester for nearly 30 years, Mr. Heath was for 20 years a town meeting member in Precinct 3. He served on the Finance Committee from 1935 to 1937, being vice chairman of the committee in the latter year.

He was elected Selectman in 1938, serving for three years, and followed with service on the Board of Public Works in 1942-43. In 1944 he served as acting Selectman to fill a vacancy, and in that same year was appointed Town Treasurer, again to fill a vacancy.

He was elected Town Treasurer in 1945, and Collector of Taxes in 1948, serving in that capacity ever since. His present term of office does not expire until 1959.

Mr. Heath has been active civically, aside from holding town office. He was vice chairman of the Winchester Civilian Defense and director of the Evacuation Division of that organization in 1942. He was also in '42 chairman of the Disaster Preparedness and Relief Committee of the Winchester Red Cross.

He was chairman of the special committee on the purchase of the Skillings property in 1943, chairman of the Winchester War Veterans' Advisory Committee the next year, and chairman of the North Metropolitan Area of the Greater Boston United Way fund campaign in 1945. In 1946 he was chairman of the Winchester Unit of the Massachusetts Division of the American Cancer Society Campaign.

Careers for Teenagers

Radio Program Starts Sept. 30

at Winchester High

A thirty-four-week series of 30-minute programs about careers open to high school graduates begins on WEEI, Tuesday, September 30, at 9:30 p.m., in the auditorium of the Winchester High School. The series has been developed through the cooperation of Arthur C. King, director of news and public affairs for WEEI, and Roland R. Darling, staff specialist in occupational information, at Northeastern University. The series will be titled "Careers for Teenagers" and will be concerned with education after graduation from high school, jobs available to high school graduates, and occupations of high school students during the 1958-1959 school year.

The series is of special interest now because of the sudden explosion in the number of high school graduates. During the 1958-1959 school year, for instance, the junior class at Weymouth High School, which graduates in 1960, totals 710. Comparatively, the class of 1954 at Weymouth totaled 285. Hence it becomes manifestly obvious that competition for college entrance and for jobs becomes more sharp as high school graduating classes succeed each other.

The present series will enlist the cooperation of 80 guidance counselors and directors from high schools in 67 cities and towns near Boston. Four of the programs will originate directly from the auditoriums of high schools, the first, on September 30, coming from the auditorium of the Winchester High School. Participating in this first program will be Miss Barbara Ziegler, Director of Admissions, Wheaton College; Rev. Edmund D. Walsh, Director of Admissions for Boston College; Dr. Gilbert C. Garland, Director of Admissions, Northeastern University; Prof. B. A. Thresher, Director of Admissions, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Mr. Howard Niblock, Principal, Winchester High School; Mr. Bernard Silva, Dean of Boys, Winchester High School; and two seniors at Winchester High School, Miss Jean Gross and Mr. Philip Fox.

Winchester Tennis

With the exception of the Girls' Fifteen and Under finals which was scheduled to be played on Tuesday, September 16, between Betty Bixler and Candy McConnell, all events in the Town Tennis Championships were concluded the week-end of September 13-14.

Miss Bixler eventually won in the final bracket, beating Miss McConnell in two lone sets.

Saturday morning, Charles Watson defeated Harvard student and former high school tennis captain, David Moore, 6-1, 6-3 and Robert Repetto beat F. Sheppard Holt 7-5, 6-3. In the afternoon, Watson and Robert Aspey defeated Adolph Alla and David Moore 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

In the other semi-finals the reign of Robert Horne and Josiah Bacon as town champions, was brought to an abrupt end by F. Sheppard Holt and Everett Whitney Gray, Colby 29', Harvard 98' by the scores of 6-1, 8-6. Although Holt was his usual steady self, perhaps the star of this match was Whitney Gray, who played fine tennis and even if he does hit forehands with both feet off the ground, at least gets the ball over the net.

Benedict Bobby and ever veteran (of the battle of the bulge) Joe, just couldn't recapture the spark that swept them to the title in last year's town championships, although there were fleeting moments in the second set when Joe was able to hit as many as two consecutive balls without error.

The old order changed and Joe can now look forward either to retirement or hiring someone like Vic Seixas to carry him.

In the Finals of the Junior Boys' 15 and Under Championships Benny Bacon became the first two-time winner by repeating over last year's runner-up, Parker Gray by the scores of 6-1, 6-3.

The finals of the Boys' Doubles produced some interesting spectacle right up to the last point in the third set which saw Parker Gray and David Money winning over Benny Bacon and Winkie Bacon by scores of 7-5, 3-6, 9-7.

All of these boys are capable of playing fine tennis on occasion and we predict that it won't be too long before any of them are giving the cigar smoking old codgers a run for their money.

On Sunday morning, Charley Watson locked horns with Robert

Repetto and this match produced fine tennis in spots which saw Charley outlast Harvard Basketball Captain and former Belmont Hill three sport athlete by the scores of 6-0, 6-2, 8-10, 9-7. At one point in the fourth set Charley suffered a severe leg cramp, but thanks to the aid of his opponent and Jim Riley, he was up and about in jig time.

Due to the length of the Men's Singles final and in fairness to Charley Watson, who was also involved, the Men's Doubles Finals was postponed from 1:30 to 3:30.

Charley Watson and Robert Aspey, Jr., became the new Town Champions by defeating F. Sheppard Holt and Everett Whitney Gray 6-2, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4. Although the losers got off to a slow start, once Whit took his cap off in the third set and blinded his opponents, the match was much closer.

Through the advent of wonderful weather the Town Championships have been completed on two consecutive week-ends. On behalf of the WTA acknowledgment is made with thanks to Mrs. Bacon, who took charge of the adult receipts and performed the bookkeeping which the Chairman so relishes.

In addition to these tedious functions she also ran the entire Junior Championships which with the exception of the finals was played entirely during the week so that no courts were tied up.

Once again, through the kindness of James Coon, the courts were re-lined on both Saturdays and Sundays which added much to the enjoyment of their use.

Wee Sachems Open at Wakefield

Sunday, September 28 marks the opening of the season for the Winchester Pee Wee Football team. The game will be played at Moulton Field, Albion street, Wakefield. Kick-off time is 2:30 p.m.

The Wee Sachem schedule is:
Sept. 28—At Wakefield 2:30
Oct. 5—Open date
Oct. 12—Swampscott 2:00

Oct. 26—Wellesley 2:00
Nov. 2—At Working Boys 2:00 (of Newton)

*Home games.
The Pee Wees journeyed to Wellesley last Sunday and while they had a very slight edge on the Wellesley team the closeness of the formal scrimmage served notice that the newly formed Pop Warner League is going to provide stiff competition for the local juniors. No one seems to know what Wakefield has to offer but a scout's report has it that Wakefield is the team to beat.

The Wee Sachems hope that as many fans as possible will travel to Wakefield Sunday to cheer the boys on.

Wakefield's Moulton Field is newly set up and three ticketed officials will run the game. The boys will take care of guaranteeing that the game will be a thriller to watch. Elsewhere in this paper is a report on the Pee Wee farm teams and their schedule.

Hi, Hi Schoolers

BY BETSY SCHAEFER

First football game of the season tomorrow! Captain Doug Thompson and Company versus Concord High School. Starting time is 1:30 p.m. W.H.S.R. will be carrying the play by play description of the game for any unfortunate who won't be able to attend in person.

Tryouts were held for sports announcers on W.H.S.R. Head announcer Teddy Wier will be picking boys to assist him from those who attended tryouts.

New students will be able to ask questions and advice of the Student Council in an up-coming meeting.

Council officers Phil Dreyer, Shirley Bingham, Janet Monro, and Paul DelRossi, plus a student committee of Juniors and Seniors, will be present to help the new-comers with their problems.

Red Cross home-room representatives were elected last week. These 15 students, plus officers Al Thorne, Binky Clark, Jane Overacker, and Roger Deminico, and the Student Directory Committee including Carl Masi, Francis Dodge, Bonnie Campbell, Gayle Porter, Marcia Eaton, Paul White, Linda Kibbe, Sue Nanry, Dianne Doten, Ann Rittenhouse, and Suzanne Koch, will be meeting shortly to discuss plans for the annual October fund drive.

The new driver-ed training cars are equipped with an automatic shift. How is this going to affect your license classification? All students are going to be issued a restricted license.

This status will not alter the reduced insurance rate in any way. A student who wishes to obtain an unrestricted license may do so by filing an application form after he has received his pink trial license. The Registry will assign a time and date for the test drive to remove the restriction. This process should not take more than a month after the application is filed.

Congratulations to Leslie Sanger, Patricia Buros, Martha Preston, Martha Dodge, Carol Lawson, Debby Nichols, Patricia Sexton, Janet Rich, and Maida Ulig, our new freshman cheerleaders.

Also to Frances Bosselman, Carol Poor, Gail Pettingell, Ronalee Fairfield, Betty Cuff, Janet Cussen, Diane Doten, June Van Dyke, Linda Cantella, Jean Chase, and Nancy Brown, on making hockey cheering. Miss Pauline Goodrich, art instructor at W. H. S., is going to be the Riding Club faculty advisor. Miss Goodrich has had vast experience in this field, as she has worked at summer camps for 18 years teaching riding.

Because of the huge turn-out at the preliminary meeting the club may be limited to Juniors and Seniors. The cost will be $2.00 per hour, and the West Medford Stables will supply the horses.

English saddles only will be used. The stables have both indoor and outdoor rings for training, plus trails for the more advanced riders. The club will probably meet once a month.

Last Saturday, Sue Fisher, Sue Scott, Donna Violante, Sherrie McNeil, Sue MacDonald, Connie Marshall, Joan Denton, Elaine Golden, Marsha Smith, Carol Bond, and Marcia Smith attended a Field Hockey Clinic at Wellesley College.

The clinic began at 9:30 a.m. and continued until 4:00 p.m. The morning was spent in instruction and training for all girls. After lunch, supervised games were played.

Girls from twelve schools were present at the clinic, so the girls had an excellent opportunity to get a preliminary view of their opponents.

The training received in all basic hockey skills will undoubtedly prove to be valuable assistance to the 1958 varsity team.

Janet Kessler and Paula Colclough were elected sophomore and senior hockey managers.

First field hockey game of the season is October 7, against Woburn. All home games will be played at Ginn Field. The girls would love some student support. Why don't you plan on watching them play if you have a free afternoon.

EDITORIALS

In a recent editorial column we told something of the early days of the little church on Mt. Vernon street, recently sold to the Knights of Columbus by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Winchester.

The church originally housed the Episcopalians of Winchester and was in fact the predecessor of the Church of the Epiphany.

The Episcopalians moved into their present church at Church and Central streets in the fall of 1955, and in our editorial comment last week we said that the church they left was used by the Christian Scientists from that time.

We find this statement was not accurate. It was not until 1907 that the Christian Scientists held their first service in the church, and not until 1923 that they bought the building.

The Star has an open mind on apartment houses in Winchester. There does, however, seem to be a rather general misconception of what happens if the town creates a new apartment house district under its Zoning By-Laws.

The creation of an apartment house district is simply an enabling act, it does not of itself guarantee that anyone can build an apartment house anywhere in town.

With an apartment house district on the books, anyone wanting to build an apartment house, other than in the business district, must insert an article in the warrant for a town meeting, seeking to rezone the area where the building is to be erected.

Previous to the meeting at which the proposed rezoning is considered the Planning Board holds a hearing, at which proponents and opponents can be heard. Subsequent to that hearing the Planning Board makes a recommendation to the town meeting, for or against the proposal to rezone.

The actual rezoning is the prerogative of the town meeting, and a two-thirds vote is necessary to alter the zoning map. If an affirmative vote is secured and the area in question is rezoned for an apartment house, then, and only then, can an application for a permit to build one be made.

Whether Winchester is to have an apartment house anywhere, except in the business district, where they can now be erected, subject to our building laws, is strictly up to the town meeting, and it should be remembered that town meeting action is subject to referendum by all the voters.

Need Town Fathers' Help!

Editor of the Star:

The home owners along Main street are most appreciative of Mrs. Barone's letter in the Star last week, and of your helpful editorial. We are now in our third week of the "dust bowl"—it isn't as bad now as it was, thank goodness, but we are still unable to have windows open, and we are shovelling dust and grime from our window sills and rugs.

We know that there isn't much we can do about the type of street-paving job we have just had on Main street, but we hope most earnestly that this same thing will not be repeated in another year or two, when this "lick and promise" surface wears off.

People who live on a main road know that they have to accept certain nuisances—noise, traffic, dirt. In spite of this, some of us deliberately buy a house on such a street, and try hard to keep it looking trim and attractive. It doesn't seem fair that the town fathers will not help us more when we are faced with the problem of trucks that beat along Main street, day after day, hundreds of them in a single day—overloaded to the point where great stones and loads of sand tumble from the trucks as they go along, dust blowing terribly all along the way, and great clouds of exhaust making a smell that is often unbearable.

Street paving dirt is bad enough; that will pass. But we seem to have the trucks with their sand and gravel loads with us eternally! They come from one town, make use of our streets, headed to another town—all they contribute here seems to be dirt, and wear and tear on the streets.

Would it not be possible for these sand and gravel trucks to be forced to keep their load at truck top level? Would it be possible to take some of them off the road a while and get them overhauled and cleaned, motor-wise? And when they come in from the road, have them stop passing each other? Then perhaps, with such help from the town, we people on Main street might have more courage to dig in and clean up the front of our homes and yards after the combined "dust bowl" and truck dirt.

After all, there are hundreds of cars that pass along this way, and visitors see only Main and Church streets, and they still go on thinking "what a beautiful town." And it is a beautiful town, and people on these streets work hard to keep it so, but we do need a little more help from our town fathers! We can't keep neat and tidy when we have to fight this kind of dirt year after year!

Time to Think Carefully!

Editor of the Star:

I am writing this letter on the assumption that school business will consume the Thursday night Town Meeting and that there will still be time to bring before town representatives and residents the dangers inherent in Article 7 in the warrant.

By noting in favor of this article, we are making Winchester vulnerable ground for large apartment structures, for by reducing to 1500 square feet the area necessary for dwellings of five or more floors we are taking a first step toward a gradual process of height in structures, of apartment building which could in time mar the beauty of our charming town.

It is true that we need apartment space badly for our own retired residents, single residents who are elderly and single residents, such as our fine school teachers.

Let us provide low apartments of 25-30 units and do it soon; we do not wish to see the character of this town change gradually to the one hundred unit (family) apartments such as the one proposed for the Lake street site referred to in Article 8 and 9 of this warrant.

Now is the time to prevent this first wedge toward large apartments that any fringe community to a large city must guard against.

Having lived in Pelham Manor and the New York City suburban area, I feel strongly on this subject. Many residents of Pelham, Larchmont, Rye, in Westchester County and along beautiful Long Island Sound, rue the day that they let the barriers, because apartments grew up like mushrooms, and New York City's crowds spilled into them.

The investment paid off well financially to the owners, but the people of the town's involved, let the barriers down little by little until they could hardly recognize their towns.

It is time to think carefully about what we want and work toward keeping our community the charming place that it is.

Mrs. Henry B. Harris

Injustice Is Injustice

Editor of the Star:

At a Precinct 1 meeting in the George Washington School which I attended on last Thursday evening, I remained after the business meeting to be present at a protest session concerning conditions at the Town dump.

Forty or fifty residents of the area bounded by Swanton street, riving street and the dump itself, had in a body, gone to the school to voice their grief, unhappiness, and dissatisfaction in two of our elected Boardmen.

One by one, irate fathers and earnest young mothers related the hardships and sufferings they have endured since the adoption by the Town of the process known as controlled burning.

They told of a smoke nuisance which is, I understand, contrary to law. An outstanding Town meeting member of that precinct, Leon Leavitt, told of the strict restrictions that are enforced by the State on smoke from the chimney in the establishment where he works.

The young mothers at the meeting spoke of sleeping with bedroom windows closed; of washed clothes that have to be dried in the attics or upstairs bedrooms; and the impossibility of having babies sleep outdoors due to the large repulsive insects (of the cockroach family) which descend all over the neighborhood like the plague of the locusts in the olden days.

Now, you ask have they done nothing to correct this situation? Yes, they have labored unceasingly with no success; they have signed petitions, written letters, and telephoned appeals, with no satisfactory reaction.

Feeling that the whole unfortunate situation was, fundamentally, a health measure, they appealed to the Board of Health, to the Agent of the Board of Health, and to the Selectmen.

It was reported at the meeting that the Agent of the Board of Health says that a letter that they sent to him was forwarded to the Selectmen; the Selectmen say they did not receive it. Incompetence somewhere.

After listening to the whole pathetic, disgusting recital, I feel that the Board of Health should have tackled the problem, even though the control of the dump had been transferred to the Selectmen. After all, health measures, infestation by rats and bugs, and any situation which poses a threat to the health of a whole neighborhood, is a matter which should engage the serious study of the Health Board members whom we elect to handle that part of our community problems.

A section of fine families and pretty, well-kept homes in our own has had the kind of treatment that one ordinarily connects with Skid Row. Would they dare to mete out this kind of treatment to any other section of our Town?

Injustice is injustice, no matter which taxpayers are the victims.

Elizabeth C. McDonald

Apartment House Scare Not Over!

Editor of the Star:

Many of your readers are pleased to see that the proposal to build an apartment house on Rangely Circle has been dropped. Unfortunately, however, there seems to be an impression that the apartment-house scare is all over. This is not so, for, the warrant of the present selectmen meeting contains an article to amend the zoning laws by providing for the creation of an apartment-house district (Art. 7) and another for the creation of an apartment-house zone on the north side of Wedge Pond (Art. 8).

It seems that if the town meeting members vote in favor of these changes they will be violating a trust which the citizens of this town have imposed upon them. Any further erosion of areas restricted to one-family dwellings is not looked upon with favor for the following reasons:

1. Experience in almost every suburban location has proven apartment-house promoters generally pick choice locations, i.e., among fine homes or overlooking some beautiful lake or park to make sure their apartments command a pleasing view and otherwise are attractive to prospective tenants. These spot locations spoil the character of the remaining one-family homes around them.

2. Large multi-family buildings create additional traffic and the place becomes cluttered by automobiles owned by tenants and also delivery trucks and vehicles incidental to the concentration of many families in a small area.

3. It is a well-established fact that apartment-house tenants in suburban areas do not pay their just and equitable share of the cost of operating the town. The chief drawing point of an apartment in Winchester is to enjoy the benefits of the good schools, churches, and the prestige of living in a town without assuming the responsibility and obligations incidental to home ownership.

4. While your paper contained an editorial with words to the effect that another one or two additional apartment houses would be nice for older people, it must be remembered there are not too many older people that can afford to pay $75.00 a month for a room. On the contrary, it seems that an apartment north of Wedge Pond, convenient to Palmer Beach, the tennis courts, etc. would prove very attractive to married couples with children.

5. A proposal to crowd people into such a small area seems to be going exactly in reverse to previous efforts made in this town not too long ago which resulted in building restrictions of 10,000 sq. ft. for single-family houses in some areas and 20,000 sq. ft. in other areas.

To conclude, I believe all of us, particularly the town meeting members, should remember that Winchester's reputation of being a nice place to live is founded upon its well built and nicely maintained single-family homes and not upon apartment houses.

Very truly yours,
A. S. Nieuwenhuis

Where the Fault Lies!

Editor of the Star:

At a senior assembly on Thursday morning, September 18, Mr. Niblock, our principal, stressed the outstanding reputation exhibited by the former students at Winchester High School. We, as members of the senior class, are deeply concerned as to the present actions exhibited by a minority group of students.

When boys and girls, sixteen and seventeen years old, turn to drinking for entertainment—somewhere something went wrong. Who is to blame for this lack of moral standards, we can only surmise. Is it the parents, friends, the school, or their church? Does every parent reading this honestly know where his child was on any Saturday night, whom he was with, and at what time he arrived home? Is, possibly, the "crowd" the only dominating factor regulating his life? To some these questions may seem insignificant, but to us this seems to be where the fault lies.

In writing this we are trying to alert enough people so that action may be taken to prevent more serious difficulties.

Concerned Seniors

Casualty, If No Complaints!

Editor of the Star:

I wish to add to the points made in Mrs. Barone's letter about resurfacing and to your pertinent editorial, both of which appeared in the Star, September 19.

In 1957 the same method of resurfacing was used in front of my home on Highland avenue. When vehicles rode over the new surface the wheels caused the so-called gravel to be dispersed which raised considerable dust. Also, they caused the gravel to find a new resting place, which proved to be the sides of Highland avenue.

During the darkness of the night of September 20, 1957, Mrs. McNally (my wife), on her way to the Mission at St. Mary's Church, stepped into accumulated gravel when seeking to cross Highland avenue. Her ankle turned and she fell into the street. The results were a fractured ankle, crutches, walking cast, months of being painfully incapacitated, and expenses. As a matter of fact, there is still a question as to whether the ankle may have to be operated on, one whole year after the original accident.

The complaints from Highland avenue may have been "virtually none" as stated in the Star editorial, BUT, at least, there was one human casualty on Highland avenue, if anyone is interested.

Sincerely yours,
Frank J. McNally

THANKS TO THE RED CROSS AND THE RED TORCH
After being transported for three years by the Red Cross to the Children's Hospital for treatment, Valerie Russell happily turns in her crutches to Mr. Royce Randlett, Chapter chairman, as Mrs. William Cusack, executive director, looks on.

The Red Cross functions through the United Fund, symbolized by the flaming torch below.

Because of You

You may not be acquainted with a slipped femoral epiphysis, but you helped to cure one. Known to the layman as a dislocated hip, it kept Valerie Russell from school and a normal life. Today, through treatment at Children's Hospital, to which she was transported by Red Cross Motor Corps volunteers, she begins a normal senior year at Winchester High School.

Valerie is one of 39 Winchester young people admitted in the last year to Children's Hospital, a Red Feather agency supported by your United Fund. Because of you and your contributions, both Red Cross and Red Feather hospitals are able to offer such help.

You are all familiar with the many humanitarian services of the Red Cross throughout the world to the armed forces, to disaster victims, and to the general public in safety and blood programs. However, Valerie Russell's success story personalizes the Red Cross here in your midst. Perhaps your neighbor drove her to Boston! The local chapter's motor corps includes:

How About That!

With schools opening this month to crowded classrooms and soaring costs educators have been set on their ears by a "half price" school built at Brookfield, Mass. In Massachusetts average building cost per pupil is $1,600 to $1,700. Brookfield did it for $300.

This was accomplished through a unique design worked out by Newton, Mass., architect A. Bella Salillas. The steel-framed structure, which cost only $294,950, has two five-sided wings, each housing a group of five-sided rooms.

Dramatic conservation of space is the keynote. Corridors are eliminated; each room has two sides of glass to bring in huge quantities of natural light; the "cafetorium" is a combined assembly hall, theater, dining room and gymnasium; and there are many other economies.

Yet no facilities are lacking, from fluorescent lighting to built-in bookcases in all the pastel-colored rooms. [New Englander, No. 414, September, 1958]

Adult Art Class
Starts Wednesday

"Winchester certainly has a number of people who are not only interested in art, but have been willing to study over a period of years.
When I came to Winchester to teach the adult class for the Winchester Art Association, six years ago, I had no idea that I would be here as long, or have so many students return year after year. In fact, at the students' insistence, we have had two extra sessions: one which met twice a week last June, and one this fall, which has been meeting outdoors on Saturday afternoon. The students are serious, work hard, and have made tremendous progress in painting."

So said Mr. King Coffin, graduate of the Boston Museum School, who is returning to teach the adult art class sponsored by the Winchester Art Association. The class will meet for the first two-hour session on Wednesday evening, October 1, at 7 p. m. at the Winchester High School. Mr. Coffin is a well-known teacher who feels that painting need not be confined to the professional artist; anyone who is willing to learn and work can learn to paint, and will gain a tremendous amount of pleasure from it.

Among those who have worked with Mr. Coffin for more than a year are Mrs. Charles DuToit, 6
Perkins road; Miss Mary J. King, 501 Main street; Mrs. Francis A.
McClellan, 47 Pond street; Miss Ellen Wood, 98 Hillcrest Parkway;
Mrs. Richard King, 10 Winslow road; and Miss Dorothy Reynolds, 12 Madison avenue west.

For further information concerning the adult classes, telephone Mrs. John E. McCarthy, Winchester 6-1014, evenings.

"Ali Baba"
October 24

"Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves," the most fascinating of all the famous stories from the Arabian Nights, is coming to Winchester on October 24th. Presented by the Rockefeller Players, the performance will be held at 3:30 at the Winchester High School Auditorium. Sponsored by the Winchester Community School Association, his play promises young theatre goers a full measure of fun and adventure.

Miss Massachusetts

Patricia Nordling, Miss Massachusetts, will draw the winning names at the Grand Drawing which will highlight a gala Open House at Bayburn

The beautiful Miss Massachusetts is a former Arlington resident who now lives in Lexington. She was recently voted Miss Little America.

Also present will be Ed Penney, Billy Dale, Ken Wayne and Len Libman of WTAO who will broadcast directly from Bayburn, at One Broadway on Friday and Saturday.

Prizes to be awarded include a television set and 14 other valuable prizes.

Bayburn will offer a 15 percent discount on all household

Openings in All Evening Courses

Registration in person for courses in Winchester's Adult Education program will be held Monday evening, September 29, at the senior high school from 7:30 to 9 o'clock.
There are openings available in all courses. Applications by mail will be accepted through September 29.
About half of the expected number of enrollees have taken advantage of our new mailing service.

Those people concerned about world affairs and the role of the United States will find interesting and valuable the course in "The African World." The instructor, Mr. Hans Florin, is now connected with the African Studies program at Boston University. A native of Germany, Mr. Florin has studied at the Universities of Heidelberg and Hamburg, as well as in two American universities. His English is excellent. He plans to go eventually to Africa as teacher and chaplain. Guest lecturers and moving pictures will add interest to the lectures and discussions.

If you are one of the "back-yard prospector," you will enjoy the course in elementary mineralogy to be given by Mr. Joseph Giaco-lone, who has recently returned to Winchester to live. He is a member of the staff in the science department of his Alma Mater, Boston University. His course will cover the occurrence and identification of minerals found locally, and also the geologic history of New England.
To quote the Saturday Evening Post, "Hunting for colorful, rare or odd-shaped rocks and minerals has reportedly become the country's fastest growing hobby."

The course, science for the Layman, was planned for the people who would like to understand more about our modern inventions and what they mean to our civilization.
Suggested topics for discussion are jets, rockets, satellites and nuclear energy.

Ceramics is offered for the first time here and will be taught by Mrs. Dean Gauntlett of Newton.
Students will learn to pour moulds and to apply glazes. Original decorative designs will be encouraged.
Since the junior high has but one potter's wheel, it is not possible at this time to offer a course in pottery.

For further information about the program, call Mrs. Howard Aiken at Winchester 6-0007. The Star carries an advertisement on page 13.

En Ka Exchange

Open letter to mothers:
Sorting over the fall clothes?
Having problems? Did Junior grow three inches instead of the one you expected? Did his sister add on ten pounds instead of five? Has Dad added a few inches around the middle? And how about the twelve pounds you lost? If those clothes are still good but just plain don't fit, you're in luck.

On Wednesday, October 15, the En Ka Society will inaugurate a new service for its members and friends in Winchester. At 10 o'clock on that morning the door of the En Ka Clothing Exchange at 45 Church street will be opened for business.

If you have men's, women's or children's clothing that your family has outgrown, don't pack them away. Sell them through the En Ka Exchange. If the clothes are up-to-date, clean, and in excellent condition, the Exchange will sell them for you at the price you set, with 66 2/3% of the profit going to you and 33 1/3% to En Ka.

During the week of October 6, Monday through Friday, the Exchange will be open from 10 to 4 to receive the articles you have to sell. October 15 will be the day the Exchange opens for business, and thereafter each Wednesday and Friday from 10 until 4 you will have the opportunity to earn money from the clothing your family can no longer wear and to find good bargains for yourself.

Remember the dates: October 6 - 10, for collecting; October 15, opening day.

Holyoke Club
News

Members of the Mt. Holyoke Club of Winchester are busy this fall working on arrangements for the fifth annual tour of Winchester homes. Funds raised by this popular event will once again go towards establishing scholarships to aid Winchester High School graduates in attending Mount Holyoke College.

Mrs. Martin Swanson is chairman of the tour committee.
Committee members are: Co-
chairman, Mrs. Joseph Dolben; Hostesses, Mrs. James S. Allen and Mrs. Harold A. Smith; Flowers,
Mrs. Charles E. Greene; Flyers,
Mrs. Howard A. Morrison and Mrs.
Frederick S. Hatch; Posters, Mrs. P.
Russell Thompson; and Publicity,
Mrs. Emmons S. Ellis.

At a recent tour committee meeting held at her home, Mrs. Swanson announced that the following hostesses have generously offered their homes for the tour:
Mrs. Andrew Alford
Mrs. H. Gardner Bradlee
Mrs. Leo H. Cass
Mrs. Ernest B. Dade
Mrs. James B. Jameson

This year's tour will take place on Wednesday, October 15, from 1:30 - 5:00 p. m. "Tourists" who visit each house are sure to have an interesting and informative afternoon.

Epiphany Church
Rummage Sale

A gigantic rummage sale, featuring three separate departments, is being planned by women of the parish of the Epiphany for October 2, in the Parish Hall of the church.

In addition to the regular rummage that will be offered for sale under the direction of Mrs. Anthony Nelson and her committee, there will be the exclusive French
Shop and the Children's French Shop. The former is under the management of Mrs. Richard Kiley and the Children's French Shop is being supervised by Mrs. Laurence Fessenden.

Mrs. Stephen Nichols, Ways and Means Chairman for the Church Service League, is general chairman of the project.

Mrs. Kiley has pointed out that the type of garments that will be available in the French Shop are those that have been worn once or twice but are too nice to throw away, almost new clothes. In addition, there will be gloves, scarves, bags, jewelry and evening clothes for young ladies and adults. The Children's French Shop will feature the same quality merchandise for children.

Everyone is welcome at the sale on October 2 and Church Service League members cordially invite their many friends throughout the town to attend.

Junior High Associates to Entertain Newcomers

To welcome parents new to the Winchester school system, the executive board of the Winchester Junior High Associates is planning a coffee for mothers of seventh and eighth grade students. Mrs. Thomas R. P. Gibb, Jr., president of this year's board, has announced that these mothers have been asked to a coffee hour at 9:30 a.m., on Thursday morning, October 2, in the lounge of the Junior High School building.

Mr. Raymond Dickman, the principal, and Mr. George Snyder, faculty representative to the associates, will join the board in this special greeting to newcomers. Plans for the affair are being arranged by Mrs. Ernest D. Sackett, membership chairman.

The annual Junior High Open House, to which all parents of Junior High students are not only invited, but urged to attend, is scheduled for Wednesday evening, October 22.

W. V. N. A.

The September meeting of the W.V.N.A. was held on September 12 at the Red Cross headquarters. At 9:45, following a roll call, Mrs. Rowland V. Patrick, president, welcomed back the members of the board after the summer and gave an special welcome to Mrs. James Russell, honorary member of the W.V.N.A. Mrs. Patrick expressed special thanks to Mrs. Cusack of the Winchester Chapter, American Red Cross, for offering the use of a room for the meeting.

The secretary's report of the June meeting was read and accepted as corrected. The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Daniel McLaughlin and was filed.

Mrs. Harry Mueller's report for the personnel committee was read by Mrs. Charles Hart. A letter of resignation by Miss Rita Plummer R.N., was read, in which she explained that she will attend Boston College on a Public Health fellowship. Approval was given to the appointments of Mrs. Beth Bemis Ervett, R.N., as a regular staff member, and Mrs. Sue Scott, R.N., as a part-time staff member to work at the junior high school and high school.

Mrs. William Spaulding, assistant treasurer, then presented a proposed budget for 1959 which was accepted and offered for approval to the budget committee of the Winchester Community Fund and then to the United Community Services for final approval.

A report for the education committee was given by Mrs. Rolf Eliassen. She said that work on the manual for members had been done during the summer and is nearing completion. The October meeting will be held at the Lincoln School on October 10, at 9:45. The educational part of the meeting will be a film about tuberculosis entitled "Are You Positive?"

Mrs. Walfred Wiklund, executive director, then gave her nursing report for June, July and August. In spite of a staff shortage, it was a productive summer.

There have been 500 more home calls made than at this time last year. With the permission of the Winchester Board of Health, immunization clinics for children will be increased from two monthly to one weekly as long as the number of patients continues at the present level. Appointments are being made for nurse-teacher conferences in each school, so that pertinent information regarding any serious health problems of the children may be shared by nurses, principals and teachers in order to better understand each child as a whole. Thanks was given to all those members who have given their time in order to keep the autoclaving schedule going during the summer. Mrs. Wiklund also expressed thanks to Mrs. Lee J. Aubrey and to the following members who have aided in transportation of patients to clinics during the past few months: Mrs. John W. First of Lecture Series

Second Church to Present

Edward Rowe Snow

The Second Congregational Church will present the first of a series of three "adventurer" programs on Friday, October 17, at 8 p.m. in the George Washington School auditorium. These programs are for young and old alike, and each will feature a well-known New England personality.

The first "adventurer" in this series will be Edward Rowe Snow, author, lecturer and historian, whose numerous books on light-houses, storms, shipwrecks, pirates, and mysteries are familiar to many of us.

Mr. Snow is known for his annual custom of dropping packages of Christmas cheer to the remote and lonely lighthouse keepers along our shores which deed has earned him the just title of the "Flying Santa Claus."

He has the uncanny faculty of being at the scene of a marine disaster almost as soon as it happens by whatever means of transportation may be available. He is pilot, helicopter, motor launch, or canoe, and his on-the-spot movies are well worth seeing.

Travelling with him will be part of his fantastic museum of pirate relics, including items belonging to such well-known pirates as Lolo, Jean La Fitte, and the infamous Blackbeard; also money chests, doubloons, pieces of eight, and many other spine-tingling oddities out of the past.

Add this all together and you have an evening long to remember. After the lecture refreshments will be served and at that time you will be able to meet Mr. Snow.

Mystic Mothers Met Thursday

The first business meeting of the Mystic Mothers' Chapter of the Winchester Community Association was held on Thursday afternoon, September 23, at 2:15 p.m. Mrs. Edgar Emery, president, reported on the activities of the Chapter since the last meeting in May.

Following Mr. Forte's excellent talk, an informal reception was held for teachers and mothers. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Warren P. Eldridge and her committee.

Miss Stephanie S. Stone has resumed her professional training in physical therapy at Bouve-Boston School which is affiliated with Tufts University, Medford. Miss Stone, a member of the sophomore class at Bouve, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett P. Stone of 10 Warren street.

Basic Training Course

A basic training course for leaders and assistants will be started at the Girl Scout Cabin on Tuesday, September 30, at 9:30 a.m. This course, recommended for troop leaders who have not taken it before, will also welcome any person not connected with a troop at present but desiring to be trained for future Girl Scout troop program.

Neighborhood 4 Meeting

Neighborhood 4 will meet for the first time this fall at the Cabin on Thursday, October 2, at 9:30 a.m. All Junior and Senior High troop leaders, assistants and their troop committee members are urged to attend.

Regional Conference

Any registered Girl Scout adult who wishes to attend the Regional Conference at the Hotel Statler on November 12, 13, 14, and who has not already registered should telephone the Girl Scout Office immediately. These sessions are particularly helpful to leaders, members and committee members. It is a wonderful experience to meet women and girls from all parts of New England who are dedicated to the cause of Girl Scouting.

Camping Weekend

A multiple troop camping weekend was recently held at Camp Helen Storrow in Plymouth. Under the supervision of the Camp and Program Committee, seven qualified Junior and Senior High troops with their leaders enjoyed camping at one of the Massachusetts State camp sites. The senior girls from Troop 10 served as Program Aides and helped the other troops with program and outdoor cooking. Lashing, using a compass, developing a primitive camp site, playing wide games, participating in a ceremonial campfire and cooking their meals in units occupied the girls during their stay. Girls participating came from Troops 5, 6, 7, 10, 13, 40 and 46. They had as their guest, a Swedish Girl Guide, Anita Alvheden, who is living in Winchester as an exchange student.

In all, 67 girls and 15 adults participated in this All-Winchester camping week end.

J. H. Winn Ball Game Trip

Three buses filled with approximately one hundred J. H. Winn employees and their guests rolled out of the Winn parking lot at 6:30 last Friday night, September 19, and started on the company-sponsored trip to the Boston Red Sox - Washington Senators' baseball game at Fenway Park.

After attempts at singing "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" which lacked harmony and amid the din of everyone's talking at once, the buses arrived at Fenway Park and deposited the enthusiastic group at the back gate where everyone scattered, only to be reunited at Section 18 during the game.

Throughout the game one could surmise what was happening on the field by listening to the "Ah's" of excitement and the "Oh's" of disappointment from Section 18. After the 2-0 victory for the Sox had been secured and the game was over, the group again boarded the buses, this time for the return trip to Winchester, arriving back in the Winn driveway at approximately 11:30 p.m.

Through their enthusiasm and interest, the employees expressed their gratitude to the company for this trip to Fenway Park, the second of the season.

Washington Mothers Met

The opening meeting of the George Washington School Mothers' Association took place on Tuesday, September 23, in the school auditorium. During the social hour the mothers and teachers had an opportunity to become acquainted while enjoying the delightful home-made refreshments ably served by Mrs. Carleton Clogston and the social committee. Miss Leonor Rich and Mrs. Lawrence Lunt poured.

The association president, Mrs. Leo Belliveau opened the meeting and introduced the first speaker, Dr. Harry Gilson, superintendent of schools. He reminded us that the objective of the school system is to see that every child receives the best education possible according to his ability, talents and interests.

Dr. Gilson informed us of some new techniques in our school system, including the introduction of homework in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, and the increased emphasis on the training of the gifted child. Our own principal, Miss Rich, headed a teachers' committee this summer, whose duty it was to re-evaluate the course of social studies in grades 1-12 used here in Winchester.

In conclusion Dr. Gilson asserted that we are in a transitional era in education and our purpose as parents and teachers is to rise to the challenge and see that education meets the needs of our changing modern world.

Mrs. Belliveau next introduced the members of the board. After a brief treasurer's report by Mrs. John Wiley, our president turned the meeting over to Miss Rich who introduced our teaching staff.

Miss Rich showed us some charts to demonstrate the use of the Stannine method of testing children's mental ability and capacity. This test has been used in various grades throughout the Winchester schools.

Miss Rich assured us that although we have new teaching supplements such as television classes, nothing can replace the importance of the human relationship between pupil and teacher. Children must learn to live in our competitive world and it is up to the parents and teachers to show them that only by surmounting the most difficult problems do we achieve the greatest satisfaction.

After Miss Rich had finished speaking, Mrs. Belliveau called our interesting meeting to a close.

Senator Kennedy will also make ten nominations for the class entering the Merchant Marine Academy in 1959. Homefronters Tag Day September 27

Here it is fall again, tangy air, and the first football game of Winchester High coming up Saturday, September 27—and with it Tag Day for the Winchester Homefronters. All religious, cultural, educational, health and civic groups are meeting to carry out programs that help make Winchester the fine community that it is.

And so the Winchester Homefronters as usual are thinking and planning the Christmas boxes that are sent each year to the men and women from our community who are serving in the Armed Services, here in our country and in far places all over the world.

Someone has said—"Why do you do this, it is not necessary; could you not use the money for charity or other purposes?" Indeed it is not necessary, it is done in the spirit of Christmas to remember the boys and girls who grew up here in our town and do not have a Christmas as we do, at home! And to our knowledge Winchester is the only community that does it at all.

We have fun doing it, we try to contact all parents and friends to keep the latest addresses. At meetings we hear about what the various servicemen and women are doing and take pride in their accomplishments. In many cases they are doing dull, routine work in unglamorous places. But the point is we want them to know that we, in their hometown, are thinking of them at Christmas time.

So the first football game day has always been "Homefronters Tag Day" in Winchester, this time Saturday, September 27. (And we wish the team the best of luck that day and for the whole season!) Besides the board members and friends of the Homefronters who will be collecting with boxes downtown there will be a collection at the game. The high school girls doing this have always willingly helped. Also there will be boxes placed in stores downtown this week.

Mrs. Gordon Sidebotham is Executive Chairman of the Homefronters and Mrs. Franklin Simpson and Mrs. Mortimer French, co-chairman for Tag Day. All board members are on the committee. If you are asked to help that day or to give we feel sure you will want to be a part of this "Merry Christmas from Winchester" project.

Everyday and special occasion greeting cards await your selection at the Star Office, 3 Church street.

RAYMOND S. JENKINS, JR.

Raymond S. Jenkins, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond S. Jenkins of 176 Highland avenue, completed six weeks of active duty at Quantico, Va., September 6. He is a student at Tufts University as a member of the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps, and is preparing for a commission in the U. S. Marine Corps upon graduation from college.

Former Resident Wins A. F. Honor

Wendy Wood Curtis, formerly of 14 Herrick street and 154 Highland avenue, was named Family Service Volunteer for the month of August at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Florida.

Mrs. Curtis was awarded a letter of commendation from Colonel Paul W. Tibbets, Commander of the Sixth Air Division at MacDill A. F. B. Family Service is a Strategic Air Command Organization composed of volunteers, who are the wives of Officers, Non-Commissioned Officers, and Airmen at each Base. Their duties are to assist Military dependents in solving problems arising from transfers and helping the members of the families while the Military member is away from home.

Wendy, who has two children, Lewis Gregory, three and one-half years, and Donna Lynn, one year, has voluntarily given 381 hours of her time in the past 15 months to Family Service work. She is Chairman of the Publicity Committee and serves on the Emergency Standby Committee.

Wendy is the wife of I/Lt. Lewis G. Curtis of Winchester, who is an Armament Systems Officer with the 305th Bomb Wing at MacDill Air Force Base.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that Colonel Paul Tibbets was the pilot of the plane which dropped the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima.

New Headquarters and Center for Mental Health

The Mystic Valley Mental Health Association takes pleasure in announcing the acquisition of its new headquarters building at 19 Muzzey street in Lexington. These headquarters will serve the dual function of being the main offices of the Association and the working quarters of the Association's first inter-community service, the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center, scheduled to open later this fall.

Active steps are being taken to secure an executive director for the Mystic Valley Association, someone who will supervise its activities and stimulate and coordinate those of its member associations, the local groups in Winchester, Arlington, Bedford, Woburn, and Lexington.

The Mental Health Center, a prime objective of the Association since its inception over two years ago, is planned to provide diagnostic study and treatment for children with emotional problems, as well as consultation to schools and other community agencies in the five towns. It will be sponsored jointly by the Mystic Valley Association and the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, with the State Department paying the salary of its anticipated staff of four, and the Association carrying the operating expenses. The budget of the Association is met through its affiliation with the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health, which raises its money as a participant in the United Fund. Announcement of staff appointments for the Center will be made shortly.

The immediate concern of members of the associations in Winchester and the other four towns is the furnishing and refurbishing of the new headquarters. The attractive green and white house has seven rooms, is centrally located, and very near to public transportation. It should adequately fit the needs of the young but vital mental health movement in this area, but it requires the assistance of volunteer workers and gifts of furniture from all interested persons to prepare it for constructive use. Particularly needed is office equipment, including desks, chairs, typewriters, and filing cabinets. Mrs. Roger C. Hadley of Forest street has accepted the responsibility for Winchester of furnishing a room, each town having been assigned a room to decorate. She will be glad to hear from anyone with contributions and suggestions at her number, Winchester 6-0946.

Winchester was represented on the Housing Committee which found and procured the headquarters by A. Bernard Vespucci of Nathaniel road, who served with Mrs. John Morrill of Lexington, Reverend Arthur Foye of Bedford, Mr. Robert Bayliss of Woburn, and Mr. George Faulkner, director of the Arlington Boys' Club.

"I am heartened by your note telling me of the support to be given to the National Day of Prayer to be observed on October first. Not only am I delighted that the Boy Scouts themselves will participate but I know that they will carry back to their homes an interest in this significant, and I hope from now on yearly, event."

Dr. Schuck wrote to the local council that he "was much moved by the thought of an entire nation on a given day, and in accordance with forms and tenets of our respective religions, praying to God for the moral and spiritual strengthening of our nation, for peace among all people, and for freedom for mankind."

He urged that, where possible, "leaders and Scouts join with others in any meeting or attend services that may be arranged of people of the same faith to participate with them in prayer, in accordance with the tenets of their religion and in cooperation with their respective religious leaders; or that at unit meetings held during the week in which October 1 occurs, where boys are of like faith, prayers be made, again in accordance with faith of the members of the unit."

Dr. Schuck also suggested that during the week Scouts be encouraged to attend the church of their faith and engage in prayer.

Telephone Topics

Odds and ends this week. Everyone is as busy as beavers meeting the various dates that crop up from time to time.

We are still in the process of changing instruments to dial, our efforts now being concentrated in Woburn. Those of you in Winchester that have not had your telephone changed as yet because of various reasons, could get in touch with the local Business Office and arrangements will be made to make the necessary changes.

Inside the Central Office, everything is being tied together slowly but surely. Outside work is progressing satisfactorily and in connection with outside work, we recently heard of a new piece of equipment that will do much to improve service in inclement weather. A machine fairly new to the Telephone business is now being installed in the new Woburn-Winchester Central Office.

The machine is known as an Air-Dryer and does remarkable things. Dampness and moisture always play havoc with telephone cables. The Air-Dryer is a machine that dries the atmospheric air to approximately 2% moisture. The dry air is then pumped into the local telephone cable at 7 lbs. pressure. The constant air pressure within the cable reduces to an absolute minimum the amount of moisture that can enter a cable. If the cable is cracked in any place the escaping air prevents any water leakage and to a great degree, prevents out of order reports. Another feature of the Air-Dryer is the reduction of noise or lines following a rainstorm. At present, dampness and moisture could possibly put a line out of order or cause considerable noise on the line. The Air-Dryer, however, reduces these two problems to an absolute minimum of trouble.

In connection with cabling work, we have just uncovered some fairly remarkable figures. In connection with the Woburn-Winchester conversion, we have installed 92,754 feet of new cable, 18,000 feet of this cable is installed underground in new tile duct. Perhaps you saw some of this duct work being done on Main street. If you figured out the individual footage of wire contained in this new cable it would amount to 220 million feet of new telephone wire in Woburn and Winchester. All of this new wire is of course added to the many millions of feet of wire now in existence.

All of this new cabling work will give Winchester and Woburn customers new and better toll facilities, in many cases increased transmission, that is you will be able to hear and hear better plus increased talking facilities to many points throughout Metropolitan Boston.

We have just touched on the highlights of our outside work. Many other small items are being done to tie the whole thing together. Hope to see you again next week when we will have more news regarding the dial conversion.

Drunken Driving Laws Revised

On June 18 of this year the Legislature revised the portion of the General Law pertaining to drunken driving to include the right of examination for persons who are picked up for such offenses.

Chapter 263 has been amended to read: "A person held in custody at a police station or other place of detention, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, shall have the right, at his request and at his expense, to be examined immediately by a physician selected by him. The police official in charge of such station or place of detention shall inform him of said right immediately upon being booked and shall afford him a reasonable opportunity to exercise it."

The newly amended law went into effect September 18.

Miss Mary and Miss Catherine Spaulding of La Jolla Calif., have been in town visiting their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Spaulding of Main st. The proprietor of former Mary Spaulding's Bookshop, now the Spaulding Bookshop, and her sister have many friends in Winchester who will hope to see them during their stay in town.

Mental Retardation

The little boy's name is Jimmy, and the first thing you notice about him is how quiet he is. As he sits beside his mother at Children's Medical Center, it seems that he is almost too good.

He doesn't scamper to the window or look at the magazine rack or demand a drink of water in the usual fashion of three-year-olds. He just sits there, not even seeming to wait for anyone or anything. This quietness was one of the first clues his parents had that something was not quite right with their child. And although the Retardation Unit at Children's has given a name to this something, they find it hard to accept the fact that Jimmy is one of the 140,000 mentally retarded children in Massachusetts.

The parents of roughly three per cent of our nation's children have to face this fact: their children's intelligence is below what is considered normal. And as these children grow older, they will lag farther and farther behind their contemporaries.

In Jimmy's case, the retardation is caused by brain damage. The trouble is deep-seated and cannot be corrected. It probably occurred a few minutes before he was born, or at the moment of his birth.

Accidents such as Jimmy suffered are among the more than seventy known or suspected causes of retardation. Heredity plays only a small part in bringing about this handicap, most mental retardation being caused by a mishap before, during, or after birth.

In cases of this sort, parents of a retarded child need not fear that their other children will suffer from a similar handicap.

There are a number of ways of classifying the degree of mental retardation, but the terms most used at the present are those signifying the general treatment which the child needs—trainable, educable, or custodial.

Jimmy, his parents have been told, falls into the first group. Although he will never be able to benefit from academic school subjects, he can, with great patience, be taught to care for his own physical needs, to perform simple household chores, to travel short distances by himself. The trainable retarded child usually has an I. Q. between 30 and 50. That is, Jimmy will have one-third to one-half the intelligence of a "normal" child.

The smallest group is the custodial, who need constant hour-by-hour care throughout their lives. Mentally they never progress beyond babyhood, so severely affected are their brains. They account for only one-tenth of one percent of our population.

The largest number of the mentally retarded fall into the educable group, with an I. Q. of approximately 50 to 75. Most of them will, as adults, be able to become wholly or partially self-sufficient if they receive the proper treatment and training while they are children.

Jimmy has an older brother and sister, neither of whom has any physical handicap. His brother, a senior in high school, is an honor student and the president of his class. His sister is in the fourth grade. By the time she is an upper classman, Jimmy's handicap will have become obvious to everyone in the small town where his family lives. What, his parents wonder, will be the effect on their little girl?

In the past decade, public opinion has changed greatly in regard to the mentally retarded, largely through the efforts of the parents of these children. But acceptance of the mentally retarded child is far from complete.

Already Jimmy has sensed that his mental handicap is not his only problem. At the age of three, he knows that there are yards where he is not welcome, that there are children whose cruelty will turn against a little boy because he cannot find the words to defend himself.

not find the words to defend himself.

Fear and ignorance have been the historical combination working against the retarded. Throughout the centuries, they have been burned as demons, ridiculed as court jesters, shut away from a hostile society.

There are mentally retarded children in our community. How are we accepting them?

Winchester is a part of the district served by the East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children, which is one of the thirty local chapters of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children.

The special care needed by the retarded at every age level is not wholly available but in recent years a start has been made.

The local association now supports two pre-school clinics, an adolescent study group, a summer day camp, and a boy scout troop. In the pre-school clinics, working with the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, nursery class instruction as well as professional diagnostic and counseling service to the parents of retarded children is provided. The next objective is the establishment of a sheltered workshop and training center for older retarded teenagers and adults.

These activities are an indication that there is a break in the shadows which have separated the mentally retarded from their more fortunate brothers and sisters throughout the centuries.

The Eastern Massachusetts Association for Retarded Children Fund Drive runs from September 15 to November 30. We will have news for all Winchesterites soon.

Living with Your Heart

("Living With Your Heart" is a weekly public service of the Massachusetts Heart Association.)

One of the major problems facing medical science is that of "rejection"—the inability of the transplanted organ to continue living in the new "host."

Relatively recent advances have made possible successful transplants of kidneys from one identical twin to another. But for the most part the problem still constitutes a blank wall.

When this roadblock is passed, doctors want to be ready to take advantage of the whole new spectrum of lifesaving possibilities offered, by having "organ banks," just as we already have blood and bone banks.

This is the goal toward which a Heart Fund study, now under way at Boston City Hospital under the direction of Dr. Stanley Jacob, is directed: ultimately to be able to freeze organs such as the heart and kidney for eventual transplants.

In this project, human cells have been frozen to within one degree of the most incredible temperature of minus 459 degrees Fahrenheit—absolute zero—and have been restored after long periods of hibernation to normal life.

Using a special technique developed in collaboration with Massachusetts Institute of Technology Dr. Jacob, working in City Hospital's Sears Surgical Laboratory, has frozen both normal and malignant cells to one degree above absolute zero, thawed them and restored them to ordinary function.

It is not yet possible to freeze a heart or kidney below minus four degrees centigrade. Somewhere between four and ten degrees the organ sustains damage of a nature thus far unexplained, and never works again.

Cells and tumors may be successfully "dried," using glycerol, at the temperature above. But a major problem in freezing an organ the size of a heart is the cracking which occurs during the process.

It happens much as ice forms in a rain barrel. Initially, a sheet of ice forms around the sides and, since water expands on freezing, pressure built up by water within the rim of ice will make the barrel crack. The MIT technique—a long step forward—enables researchers to freeze organs at extremely low temperatures without cracking.

However, even with the "cracking" problem solved, the cells are permanently disabled. The glycerol perfusion technique which works well on tumors and individual cells does not protect inner cells in a complicated organ.

This, in a nutshell, is the story of most research; much done—much yet to be done.

United World Federalists

A very pleasant first meeting of the season of the Winchester Chapter of the United World Federalists was held on Thursday evening, September 18, at the home of Mrs. George Reed, 8 Ridgely rd. This meeting was called to formulate plans for the winter activities and to discuss policies of the organization in the future. Mrs. Barbara Moulding was unanimously elected chairman of the group for the ensuing year.

Plans for holding a study group with five sessions, one in late October and one in November, were discussed with real enthusiasm because the members of the Winchester Chapter are of the opinion that active participation in the study of subjects relating to the principles of the U. W. F. movement creates greater understanding and more interest in the momentous problems and decisions before the nations of the world and the United Nations today.

An open meeting with a speaker was planned as a winter meeting and the annual meeting will come in May or June.

Disney's 'The Light in the Forest'

Thrilling romance and high adventure are spotlighted in Walt Disney's dramatic live-action Technicolor film, "The Light in the Forest," now playing at Winchester Theatre.

The story, set in the turbulent 18th century, bristles with action and excitement. The heated differences between the white settlers and the Indians break out into actual warfare.

A stellar cast of talented performers has been assembled by Walt Disney. Among the list of important players are Wendell Corey, Jessica Tandy, Joseph Calleia, John McIntire and Rafael Campos.

"The Light in the Forest" is directed by Herschel Daugherty. Lawrence E. Witkin wrote the screen adaptation of the novel by Conrad Richter. The film is a Buena Vista release.

Mrs. S. Kennedy Tully, who will teach the children's class for the Winchester Art Association, came to teach it almost by accident. Her original appearance with the class, some seven years ago, was to assist the teacher, who needed help with the large number of children. Her primary function at that time was discipline, not teaching. When the teacher was away, Mrs. Kennedy took her place, and is now entering upon her sixth year as teacher of the children's class.

Mrs. Tully has worked with children for a number of years, and for three years taught arts and crafts at a Girl Scout camp. In addition, she has herself studied privately for several years with Boston artists, and now teaches tray painting to adults.

The plans for the class include an exploration of many mediums of expression, at least one outdoor (weather willing) painting and sketching session, and a conducted tour of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. This is the first season that such a tour has been planned.

The children's classes begin on Thursday, October 2, at the Junior High School art room, at 3:30. For further information, telephone Mrs. S. Kennedy Tully, Winchester 6-1785.

Republicans Hold Chowder Parties

Last Thursday, September 18, Winchester's Republicans joined their fellow Republicans in a statewide drive for funds by holding numerous chowder parties throughout the town. Despite the damp weather, an enthusiastic group attended joint parties given by Mrs. Paul LaMarche and Mrs. Albert Thompson, Mrs. Walter Winship and Mrs. Caroline Joslin, and individual parties given by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Speers, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vanner, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Whitman, and Mrs. Pearl J. Larson.

After consuming a large quantity of chowder (New England style) and accompanying dishes, television sets were turned on in all of the homes to watch the large Chowder Party and rally being held at the Stoneham home of the gubernatorial candidate, Charles Gibbons. The rally was a loud and colorful start to the Republican 1958 Campaign.

Simmons Club Starts New Season

The Arlington-Winchester Simmons Club opened the new season with a very successful covered dish supper held on Tuesday evening, September 16, at the First Congregational Church.

Miss Helen Forsythe, the new president, presided over the business meeting which followed and then turned the rest of the program over to Mrs. Richard Lee of Arlington, the vice-president, who conducted an hilarious Chinese Auction. The program was under the general chairmanship of Mrs. K. Foster Cleaves, assisted by Mrs. Paul Lamson, Hospitality Chairman for Winchester.

Winchester members present included: Mrs. H. K. Archibald, Mrs. E. T. Blanch, Mrs. K. Foster Cleaves, Mrs. Richard Downes, Mrs. Alexander Fay, Helen Forsythe, Hilda Hope, Mrs. Paul Lamson, Constance Lane, Mrs. Malcolm Masters, Mrs. Robert Nyere, Lydia Osborne, Mrs. Edwin Palmer, Mary Regan, Mrs. Cedric Robinson, Elizabeth Russell, Mrs. Will Skerry, Mrs. Rony Snyder, Ursula Walz, Leslie Wetterlow, and Ellen Wood.

Community School Association

The Executive Board of the Community School Association held its first meeting at the home of the Secretary, Mrs. Joseph J. Zrodowski, on Wednesday, September 17.

The meeting was brought to order by the President, Mrs. Robert M. Smith. Many interesting topics were discussed.

It has been brought to the attention of the Association that there are questions in the minds of the Winchester parents concerning the "Ability-Achievement Charts" which were issued for the first time this past June. During the coming year, talks given by members of the School Department to clarify this system of rating, may be arranged by Program Chairmen in the various school organizations.

The Assemblies, under the direction of the Curry School of Dancing, are again being sponsored. Because of the increasingly larger numbers registering each year, it has become necessary for Mr. Curry to engage more instructors; therefore, the subscription rates have been increased this fall.

Mrs. Herbert T. Wadsworth, Theatre Chairman, announces that the annual play for elementary school children will be, "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves." It will be presented by the Rockefeller Players on Oct. 24 at 3:30 p. m. in the High School Auditorium. Tickets, as usual, will be on sale at a specified time at each school, after the next meeting will be held in October.

Tufts Orchestra Invites Local Musicians

The Tufts University Orchestra of the Tufts music department, under the direction of its new conductor, Daniel Abbott, is planning to increase its membership for the 1958-59 season by inviting musicians from neighboring communities to join.

A special invitation is extended to all players of instruments, while string players, especially violinists, will be particularly welcome as orchestra members.

Rehearsals are held every Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the fine, modern auditorium and music hall at the Cohen Art Center on Talbot Avenue on the campus.

A favorite extracurricular activity of many Tufts students, the orchestra, for a number of years, has included in its membership students, faculty members and a number of musicians of the community, who enjoy the opportunity of rehearsing and playing in concerts under trained leadership.

Mr. Abbott has had extensive experience in choral and instrumental work at Brown University where he did graduate work, and for two summers studied under Pierre Monteux at the Hancock, Maine, school for conductors.

Information about joining the Tufts University orchestra may be obtained by telephoning PRospect 6-2100.

Winchester Boat Club Party a Success

The Shipwreck Party and Dance held on Saturday, September 20, under the joint auspices of the Entertainment Committee and the Motorboat Division, was a great success and brought out a number of interesting and original costumes.

Shortly after 8:00 p. m. the lower lounge was well filled with young people dancing to recorded music and by 9:00 p. m. the adult dance was underway in the upstairs hall.

At 10:00 p. m. an intermission was called during which the various costumes were judged by the following committee: Mrs. Everett D. Littlefield, Mrs. Katherine McLaughlin, and Mr. Paul H. Lamson. Refreshments were served by "Bill" and Mary Broder.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Best Men's Costume, Mr. John McLaughlin; Best Lady's Costume, Mrs. Prescott D. Farris; Best Boy's Costume, "Mike" Stroll, and Best Girl's Costume, Debby Harrison. Miss Judy Towle was the lucky winner of the door prize. After the brief respite dancing was resumed and continued until 11:30 p. m.

The success of this affair, which was very much enjoyed by all who attended, was due to the great amount of work done by the following committee in planning the party, decorating the downstairs lounge and upstairs hall, etc.: Mr. and Mrs. Harrison P. Elwell, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott D. Farris, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm N. Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Lane, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Harrington, Jr., Vincent Scali and Dennis Golden.

The Club's newly acquired Stereophonic Tape Recorder supplemented by Mr. Lane's record player, provided the music for the adults dance while "Mike" Graziano's record player put out the "rock and roll" for the young folks.

With the Sailors
While both the Snipe Fleet and the Turnabout Fleet have completed their three regular series of point score races, sailing Saturday and Sunday, is being continued. The Snipes are sailing a series of races which will count for the Alden Sherman Trophy and the "Bob" Hall Trophy, and the Turnabouts are sailing their Frost bite series.

On Saturday, September 20, "Dick" Cook, sailing T. Legere's boat, came in first with "Daw" Blamire a very close second and Clarence Borggaard, third.

Sunday "Ken" Cook led the Fleet, followed by "Daw" Blamire and Tommy Legere in that order.

Unfortunately the writer does not have at hand the complete results of the Turnabout races of last week-end. However, we are advised that Hall won one of the two Saturday races and the single Sunday race, while Heard took the other Saturday race.

The Fortnightly

The Fortnightly of Winchester is looking forward to the opening meeting of the year 1958-59. This is on October 6. The new place of meeting is to be the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. We hope all will note this change and not go to the wrong place. We look forward to very interesting programs.

Busy women have met to lay the plans for the year under Mrs. Harold E. Borquist, president.

A conference in Education is to be held at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, on Saturday, October 4. Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, will be the principal speaker. This will be a thought provoking session starting after luncheon at 1:15 p. m.

On Thursday, October 9 from one to five preparations will be in the making for the Rummage Sale on October 10. This big sale will start at 10 a. m. at Crawford Memorial. There is more information in the yearbook.

All members are urged to keep these dates in mind.

"The Story of Blood" a pamphlet printed by Red Cross is one of the factors of interest among the gaily wrapped packages in the pretty basket carried by Mrs. Fitts. To know the whole story of "Welcome Wagon" drop by the Red Cross Chapter House and see it for yourself.

"One-stop banking is so convenient!"

More and more families are saving time by taking care of all their financial matters at one place — our bank. For example, the lady of the house stops at one window to deposit her husband's salary check in their joint checking account and to cash a check for the week's household expenses. At another window, she makes a deposit in her savings account; and, a few steps away, she pays the monthly instalment on a personal loan. Then she goes to a safe deposit box and stores away the U. S. Savings Bond her husband received under the payroll deduction plan. 5 financial transactions have been taken care of under one roof; all with a minimum of time and effort.

There are dozens of ways our bank can help you with your money matters, any one of which is your passport to all the others. We most cordially invite you to do all your banking business with us.

Window Cut Out of Vacant House

While checking on a vacant house at 59 Oxford street, last Friday, Sgt. John Elliott and Officer George MacMillan found that the window on the east end of the house, on the back, had apparently been cut by a glass cutter.

The window was still locked on the inside, the screen was still in place, and there were no signs of force being used. The police checked the house and everything seemed to be in order.

Connecticut Boy Found in Winchester

Sgt. John Dolan located a Connecticut boy sleeping in his father's Buick sedan on Hutchinson rd. near Ridge st. a week ago Tuesday morning. Sgt. Dolan brought the boy to the police station and dispatched a message over the telephone to the police in his home town asking that the boy's parents be notified.

The boy was from Darien, Conn., and told police he had left home Saturday and after driving to Boston had stayed in the area since then. The teletype reply requested he lead police to keep the boy until his parents arrived.

Later on the parents called asking that the boy be allowed to drive himself home. Since the police had to charge placed against the boy and he had enough gas and money, he was allowed to return to Connecticut.

COL. W. BRUCE PIRNIE U.S.A.F.

To Tell Washington Dads of 'China's Death'

The Annual Meeting of the George Washington School Dads' Club will be held on Monday, September 29, at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. An outstanding speaker has been secured for this occasion, Colonel W. Bruce Pirnie, U.S.A.F. retired. His topic will be "The Inside Story of China's Death."

Colonel Pirnie saw wartime overseas service on important special supply assignments under General Brehon Somervell with ground forces, and the Air Transport Command, from Army Service Forces Headquarters in Central Africa, French Equatorial Africa, the Belgian Congo, East Africa, Italian Somaliland, India, Burma and China.

Ranking as a Major General in the Chinese Army, he was Deputy Commanding General of the Second Area Command, Chinese Army, and Chief Liaison Officer of Supply in his area between the Chinese Army and the U. S. Army as Colonel AUSA, Colonel Pirnie, personally driving a jeep, accompanied an Aviation Supply Squadron with a 66-truck convoy of ammunition from India over the Leda-Burma Roads to Kunming, China, in the Burma Campaign of 1945.

He served General Chang Fah-Kwei's 2nd Supreme Army Group of six Chinese Armies, including three American trained and equipped, the New First, 8th and 54th, in sweeping the Japanese from Nanking, Luichow, Luichow Peninsula and on to Canton. At Canton Colonel Pirnie served as Economic Advisor for reconstruction on the staff of General Chang Fah-Kwei. Subsequently he was appointed Senior Economic Advisor to the Governors of Kwangsi and Kwangtung Provinces.

General Albert C. Wedemeyer awarded Colonel Pirnie the Bronze Star Medal for contributing materially to the development and maintenance of supply of the Chinese Army in combat "under extremely difficult conditions."

"The Prince Regent of Belgium decorated him with the Cross of Officer of The Royal Order of The Lion for his exceptional services in the Belgian Congo during the critical days of 1942."

As negotiating agent for reconstruction for the Provincial Governments of Kwangtung, Kwangsi, Hupeh and Hunan, China, he has in this capacity completed exhaustive studies on Chinese economy for reconstruction of war torn China, now in complete form in United States Congressional Records.

Dads of the Washington School—Don't miss this very interesting speaker.

Automobile Rates Up

The local motorists have not had the boost assessed those in many other places, but Winchester's automobile insurance rates are going to be higher in 1959 than they were in 1958. The average raise in rate for compulsory insurance is 3.2 per cent, with a strong possibility that the insurance companies will seek court sanction of an even higher figure.

Winchester's rates were raised 50c in two of the three classes, and $1 in the third. Classes 1 and 3 and those getting the 50c jump, class 2, the 1st advance.

Class 1 is for cars individually owned, with no operator under 25 and no business use, but with operators under 25. Class 3 includes all other private passenger cars, including those owned by business firms.

Class 2 is broken down to include class 2A for cars with operators under 25 having driver-training certificates, and class 2B for cars with owner or operator under 25 who is married with legal custody of one or more children.

Winchester's Class 1 rate was $44 in 1958. In 1959 it will be $44.50. The 57 rate for Class 2 was $68, and will advance to $69 in 1959. The Class 3 rate last year was $56. This year it will be $56.50, and the rate for cars in Classes 2A and 2B will also be $56.50.
